EXPERIMENTS ON LIVE STOCK AT THE LANCASHIRE COUNTY COUNCIL FARM, HUTTON

By J. J. GREEN, B.Sc.,
Secretary of Agriculture.

DURING the past five years a large number of experiments on the feeding and management of cows and pigs have been carried out at the Lancashire County Council Farm, Hutton. The object of these trials was to investigate problems of practical importance to Lancashire farmers, and although it is not possible in the space of an article of this kind to discuss the results fully, or to give complete details of these trials, a brief discussion of the more important conclusions may be of interest to readers of this Journal.

The industrial interests of Lancashire are so predominant that they tend to overshadow the importance of its dairy farming, and it is not generally realised that out of the total number of cows in England, more than one-seventeenth are kept in Lancashire, and that with the exception of Yorkshire, there are more cows in Lancashire than in any other county. In view, therefore, of the importance of the dairying industry in the county, problems of cow-keeping have received considerable attention.

Whatever a farmer may be producing—whether it be milk, beef or store stock—the cost of the food consumed will form a very large proportion of the total cost of production. For profitable production, therefore, a thorough knowledge of correct feeding is essential, and for this reason experiments have been carried out on the feeding of dairy cows.

A cow requires a certain amount of food merely to maintain her in normal condition, neither gaining nor losing weight. A ration supplying just the nutrients required for this purpose is known as a "Maintenance Ration." If the cow is carrying a calf, being fed for beef, improving in condition for her next lactation, or producing milk, then she requires in addition what is known as a "Production Ration." The maintenance ration usually consists of home-grown and bulky foods, such as hay, straw, and roots, whereas the production ration is made up generally of cake and meal, more commonly known as "provender."

The quantity of nutrients which it is necessary to feed for a given quantity of milk has been carefully investigated during recent years, and as a result certain feeding standards have been adopted. Many farmers in Lancashire feed much heavier rations of provender than necessary according to these standards, and an experiment was carried out at Hutton to compare the effects of moderate and heavy feeding of provender.

Ten cows, carefully selected after preliminary testing, were divided into two groups as similar as possible in every respect. Both groups received the same maintenance ration, consisting of roots and hay. The amount of provender fed as the production part of the ration differed in the two lots.

The provender consisted of:—

Palm Kernel Cake.....	2 parts.
Decorticated Ground Nut Cake	1 part.
Maize Meal	2 parts.

About 3lb. of this mixture supplies the nutrients necessary for the production of one gallon of milk, and one lot of cows was fed on this ration. That is to say, each cow, in addition to her maintenance ration of hay and roots, was given 3lb. of the mixed provender for every gallon of milk yielded, e.g., a three gallon cow received 9lb., and so on. The other lot received 50 per cent., or one half, more provender, that is 4½lb. for each gallon of milk yielded, so that a three gallon cow received 13½lb.

The experiment was continued over 12 weeks, and the feeding was reversed at the end of six weeks; the influence of the heavier feeding was determined on (a) the milk yield; (b) the fat content of the milk; and (c) the live weight of the cows.

The results showed that the heavier feeding had had little effect either on the yield or composition of the milk, or on the live weight of the cows. On the heavier ration the cows produced 1,079 gallons, and on the standard ration 1,037 gallons; an increase of only 42 gallons over the 12 weeks, or 1lb. per day per cow. The effect on the fat content and live weight increase was negligible. As the cost of the extra food for 12 weeks was just over £9, it will be seen that the extra expenditure was not justified during the period of the trials. These results confirm the experience of progressive and successful cow keepers that so far as the yield of milk is concerned it is not profitable to feed a production ration in excess of the standard.

When a cow is at pasture it is more difficult to determine its requirements for "production," as the quality of the grass varies considerably. Speaking generally, the grass in May and June is of good quality, and supplies not only the nutrients necessary for maintenance, but also for the production of a certain quantity of milk. As the season advances, however, the grass deteriorates in quality, so that during August, September, and October, whilst the grass supplies the necessary bulk and provides for "maintenance," a cow giving milk, or being fed for beef, or being got into condition for her next note or lactation period, must, in addition, have a certain amount of cake and meal to provide for production.

This fact was well brought out in experiments conducted during the summers of 1921 and 1922. These trials were carried out on similar lines to those already described. Ten cows were divided into two lots as similar as possible in all respects. One lot was fed at first on grass only, but later this was supplemented by concentrates considered sufficient to maintain the cows in a healthy, thriving condition, and in accordance with the milk yield of the individual cows. The other group received a larger allowance of artificial food throughout the season.

The feeding during the summer of 1921 was as follows :—

	Moderate Feeding.	Heavy Feeding.
2nd June–13th July	.. Grass only Grass and 2lb. cake per gallon.
14th July–7th Sept.	.. Grass and 2lb. cake per gallon	.. Grass and 3½lb. cake per gallon.
8th Sept.–26th Oct.	.. Grass and 2lb. cake per gallon	.. Grass and 4lb. cake per gallon.

In the 21 weeks the group receiving the heavy ration gave 33 gallons more milk per cow for an additional expenditure of £3 10s. per cow on concentrates. The extra feeding made practically no difference in the live weight of the cows.

The experiment was repeated in 1922. The cows were heavier milkers than in the previous year's trials, averaging over four gallons per cow at the commencement of the test in May, and three gallons throughout the 20 weeks of the experiment.

The results were very similar to those obtained in 1921. The extra food cost £2 8s. per cow, and had apparently no influence on the milk yield. The group receiving the higher ration, however, made a greater increase in live weight during the trials.

These results suggest that when cows are at grass, although it is desirable to supply them with a moderate amount of concentrates when the grass is of poor quality, it would be more profitable, instead of trying to force the milk yield by heavier feeding, to spend the money on improving the grass land. It has been shown that £3 10s. spent on extra feeding stuffs gave a very small return. Supposing, however, that a cow needs 1½ acres of grazing, the expenditure of even £2 to £3 on basic slag or lime would improve the stock carrying capacity of the land, and give a more certain return than if spent on concentrates.

The standard adopted in feeding the herd of about 80 cows kept at Hutton is to give a production ration that will supply for each gallon of milk :—2.5lb. Starch Equivalent and .6lb. Protein.

The actual rations fed vary in accordance with the price of feeding stuffs and the foods available, but the following are some of the production rations used during recent years:—

Maize Meal	3 parts	} Fed at the rate of 3½lbs. per gallon.
Decorticated Cotton Cake	2 parts
Palm Kernel Cake.....	2 parts
Sharps	1 part	} Fed at the rate of 3½lbs. per gallon.
Maize Meal	1 part
Palm Kernel Cake.....	1 part
Semi-Decorticated Earth Nut Cake.....	1 part
Maize Gluten Feed	2 parts	} Fed at the rate of 3½lbs. per gallon.
Decorticated Cotton Cake	2 parts
Maize Meal	3 parts

The proportions are by weight and not by measure.

The following ration has been used without roots for maintenance and the first gallon:—

Hay (good)	20lb.	} Part of the hay is chaffed and mixed with the Malt Culms and Treacle.
Malt Culms.....	2lb.
Treacle	1lb.
Maize Meal	2lb.
Palm Kernel Cake.....	1lb.

When compounding rations for dairy cows at grass it may be assumed that good grass land in Lancashire will provide sufficient food material for maintenance and three gallons of milk during May, June, and early July. The deterioration in the quality of the grass during July, however, makes it necessary to supply increasing quantities of concentrates, until by the end of August the grass is sufficient for little more than maintenance, and it is desirable to supply a full ration of concentrates for every gallon of milk after the first.

It has also been found desirable to feed a small amount, say 2 to 3lbs. per day, of a "binding" concentrated food, such as Undecorticated Cotton Cake, to all milk cows at grass during the early summer, irrespective of their milk yield, to counteract the laxative effect of the succulent young grass.

Although the rations are generally fed in accordance with the milk yield, this rule is not rigidly followed. Cows being fed for the butcher receive extra food, and an in-calf cow may receive a 1 to 2 gallon production ration in order that she may get into condition for her next note.

PIG FEEDING.

A large number of trials have been carried out at Hutton on the feeding of pigs. The main results have been very fully dealt with in a report published by the Lancashire County Council, but it may be of interest to refer here to some of these trials from a somewhat different point of view.

The pig is the most efficient meat producing machine on the farm. From a given quantity of dry matter it will produce more meat than any other farm animal. Under average conditions about $3\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of dry matter will produce 1 lb. live weight increase in the pig, whereas the sheep requires about 8 lb. and the ox 10 lb. of dry matter to produce the same increase. The pig, however, unlike the sheep and ox, is not able to deal with coarse fodder, but must have its food in an easily digestible form.

The amount of meal necessary to produce 1 lb. live weight increase is the most convenient measure of the suitability of a ration and of the efficiency of the pig as a meat producer. Other conditions besides the nature of the ration have their influence on the quantity of meal required to produce 1 lb. of pig. Perhaps the most important is the age of the pig. This is well illustrated in the figures obtained from the records at Hutton during the past few years and set out in the table given below. In this table 12 lb. of whey has been calculated as being equal to 1 lb. of meal, and the cost of the meal and "meal equivalent" has been taken at $1\frac{1}{4}$ d. per lb., and calculated to the nearest farthing:—

Weight of pig. scores.	Live Weight increase per day. lbs.	Meal required for 1 lb. increase. lbs.	Cost of food to produce 1 lb. increase. d.	Return per lb. at 9d. per lb. live weight. d.
2—4	.8	3.9	5	4
4—6	1.0	4.3	$5\frac{1}{2}$	$3\frac{3}{4}$
6—8	1.2	4.4	$5\frac{1}{2}$	$3\frac{3}{4}$
8—10	1.7	4.7	6	3
10—12	1.8	4.8	6	3
12—14	1.8	5.1	$6\frac{1}{2}$	$2\frac{3}{4}$
16—17	1.5	6.4	8	1

It will be seen that the young pig of 2—4 scores, i.e., $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 months' old, makes the best use of its food. As the pig gets older there is a gradual increase in the amount of food required to produce 1 lb. of pig, until at 16—17 scores 64 per cent. more meal is required than in the case of the 2—4 scores pig.

In considering what is the most profitable stage in the life of the pig, account must also be taken of the increase per day. In the table the live weight increase has been valued at 15/- per score, or 9d. per lb. In the case of the 2—4 score pig the return per lb. of pig produced is 4d., but as only .8 of a lb. is produced per day the return per day is only $3\frac{1}{4}$ d. At 8—10 scores the return per lb. of pig is less, being only 3d., but as the pig eats more food and makes a larger increase, the return per day is greater, being 5d. When the pig weighs above 10 score, however, the bacon curer gives a lower price per score. Taking this into consideration, together with the better return for food consumed by younger pigs, it is evident that it is not usually profitable to continue to feed pigs beyond about 10 score dead weight, i.e., about 13 score live weight.

LAMENESS IN PIGS.—One of the most serious troubles of the pig keeper is the prevalence of lameness. The pigs are affected in varying degrees, from slight stiffness to pronounced lameness, with distortion of the limbs, and possibly inability to stand on their legs at all. For this condition there are many causes, such as wet, cold floors, insufficient exercise, and lack of sunshine, but it has been found in connection with various trials carried out at Hutton that the main cause of lameness there has been the lack of mineral matter or ash in the food of the pigs.

Attention has already been called to the rapid growth made by pigs. Part of this growth consists of the bony framework, and to meet the needs of the pigs in this respect lime and phosphate must be supplied in the food. Now the easily digested foods usually fed to growing pigs kept indoors are deficient in ash constituents, particularly lime, and unless special care is taken to supply lime in some form or other, lameness is likely to occur. Maize meal, which is one of the meals most commonly fed to pigs, is especially deficient in ash constituents. Of the foods at the disposal of the pig keeper, fish meal is the richest in ash. In one ton of fish meal there are about 5 cwts. of ash, whereas in one ton of maize there are only 30lb., and in barley meal 60lb. Fish meal is also rich in albuminoids or protein, whereas the cereal meals and potatoes usually fed do not contain sufficient of this constituent to supply the needs of growing pigs. There are two reasons, therefore, for including fish meal in a ration for pigs: (1) to supply ash; and (2) to supply protein. It follows that if lameness in the pigs is due to lack of lime in the food it will be prevented by the use of fish meal; and experiments to determine its value for this purpose have been carried out at Hutton.

In 1920, 12 pigs, 14 weeks old and weighing just under three scores, were divided into two lots of six pigs each, as equal as possible in all respects. One group was fed on a mixture of equal parts of sharps and maize meal, with 1—1½ gallons of whey per day. The other group received exactly the same ration except that one-fourth part of the maize was replaced by fish meal, so that the fish meal constituted one-eighth of the total meal ration. The pigs were housed in roomy pens, and were allowed a run in the yard daily, but received no grass or other green food.

It was soon evident that the pigs not receiving fish meal were not doing so well as those with fish meal. They were sluggish in their movements, and were reluctant to rise for their food, whereas the pigs receiving fish meal were active and lively. After the experiment had continued for 12 weeks one of the "no fish meal" pigs became lame, and as it was ultimately unable to move to the trough to take its food, had to be killed. After about another month two other pigs in the pen became very lame, and also had to be killed. The remaining three pigs were very stiff, and it seemed likely that at any time they would reach that acute stage of lameness which had necessitated the slaughter of the other three pigs. Amongst the six pigs which had had fish meal there was no lameness whatever. It was decided, therefore, to give the three stiff pigs a little fish meal, and after a few weeks the stiffness disappeared, and they developed into good bacon pigs of 10—12 score weight.

The evidence provided by this experiment seems quite clear. Six pigs receiving a little fish meal in their ration remained perfectly healthy, showing no signs of sluggishness or lameness, six other pigs of the same age and weight kept under exactly similar conditions and fed on the same ration, except that the fish meal was omitted, all became lame, three of them so badly that they had to be slaughtered. Further, the three slightly lame pigs completely recovered when fish meal was included in their diet.

These results were so interesting and important that it was decided to repeat the experiment. Twelve pigs were again divided into two groups; this time the pigs were younger, and when the trials began their average weight was 40lb. At the commencement of the experiment the ration given to the "no fish meal" group consisted mainly of thirds and whey with a little maize meal; later the proportion of maize was increased and palm kernel cake meal introduced, and the average ration was:—

Thirds	3 parts.
Palm Kernel Cake.....	3 parts.
Maize.....	4 parts.
Whey per pig per day	1—1½ gallons.

The other group received the same mixture except that fish meal was substituted for one part of the maize, so that it constituted one-tenth of the meal mixture.

For about three months both lots of pigs did quite well, and as a matter of fact those without fish meal did slightly better as regards increase in weight than the "fish meal" pigs. At the end of this period, however, several pigs in the "no fish meal" group showed signs of lameness, and after another month two of these became so bad that it was decided to remove them for special treatment. The remaining four pigs in this group, although slightly stiff, continued to thrive fairly well, and after about another month's feeding were sold before the lameness reached the acute stage. The two lame pigs that had been removed from this pen were given fish meal, and gradually recovered. Again, none of the pigs receiving fish meal showed the slightest sign of lameness throughout the experiment, and were ultimately sold at 14½ scores live weight.

It will be seen that this experiment fully confirmed the results obtained in the previous trials, namely, that the use of a moderate quantity of fish meal prevented lameness in pigs.

Further confirmation was obtained from the fact that there had been no cases of lameness amongst the large number of pigs fed in the ordinary course at the Farm with a little fish meal in their ration.

Although these trials had established the value of fish meal as a preventive of lameness in pigs, there are certain objections to its use as a pig food. These will be discussed later, but if the value of fish meal as a preventive of lameness is due to its mineral constituents, then it is reasonable to expect that lameness may be prevented by giving other foods rich in mineral constituents, or by providing actual mineral matter with the food. To gain information on this point, a further trial was carried out. Twelve pigs were divided into two groups: Group I receiving a mixture of six parts thirds and four parts maize, and Group II. receiving the same mixture, except that one part of the maize was replaced by fish meal, i.e., one-tenth of the ration consisted of fish meal. In this experiment no whey was given, only water. At the commencement of the experiment the pigs were about $2\frac{1}{2}$ scores live weight. After about 10 weeks two pigs in the group not receiving fish meal became very lame, and in both pens was placed a box of ash mixture, consisting of:—

Ground Limestone	5 parts.
Steamed Bone Flour.....	1 part.
Ground Rock Phosphate	1 part.
Agricultural Salt	3 parts.
Coal Slack	10 parts.

The pigs took readily to this mixture, and the pigs without fish meal ate it ravenously for a time. One of the two lame pigs gradually recovered, but the other one was so bad that it was unable to rise to get either to the trough or to the ash box with the others, and had to be killed. Although there were four pigs in this pen which had not yet become definitely lame, they were very sluggish in their movements, but in this respect they rapidly improved after the introduction of the ash box, and there were no further cases of lameness. The results of these experiments may be thus summarised:—

1. The inclusion of a small quantity of fish meal in the ration has prevented lameness in pigs.
2. Pigs already lame have been cured by giving them a small quantity of fish meal.
3. Allowing pigs to have access to an ash mixture containing lime has prevented lameness.

The experiments just described have indicated the high value of fish meal in preventing lameness in pigs, owing to the fact that it supplies the necessary bone forming material. Apart from this, however, fish meal differs from sharps, barley meal, maize, and other meals used in pig feeding in containing a very high percentage of albuminoids or protein, and when mixed with these cereal meals it helps to balance the ration. Reference has already been made to the importance of making up a balanced ration for milch cows, but it is equally as important that pigs should have a balanced ration, i.e., one containing the right proportion of carbo-hydrates and protein. Barley meal, maize and whey, feeding stuffs commonly given to young pigs, are too poor in protein to provide a balanced ration for growing pigs, and this deficiency can be made good by the addition of protein rich foods, such as pea meal, bean meal, linseed cake meal, meat meal, and fish meal. Of these foods fish meal is by far the richest in protein, so that a smaller quantity is needed to balance the ration.

Unfortunately, very few figures are available from the Hutton experiments that will show the effect of adding fish meal on the live weight increase made by the pigs, because, as has already been pointed out, the pigs receiving no fish meal invariably became lame and had to be given fish meal, so that a comparison of fish meal and no fish meal was no longer possible.

The following brief particulars may be given:—

EXPERIMENT A.—Pigs three months' old, fed for 16 weeks with a ration containing no fish meal, required 4.4lb. of meal to produce 1lb. of increase. The corresponding group receiving fish meal made 1lb. increase from 4lb. of meal.

EXPERIMENT B.—Twelve pigs, similar in every respect, were fed from three months old to ten months old, six on a mixture of thirds and maize without fish meal, and the other six on exactly the same ration, but one part of the maize replaced by fish meal. At the end of the experiment the "no fish meal" pigs averaged 11½ scores, and the group with fish meal averaged 13½ scores, i.e., 2½ scores heavier. The "fish meal" pigs, of course, consumed more food, but made better use of it, requiring 4½lb. of meal to produce 1lb. of pig, whereas the group without fish meal required over 4½lb. of meal to produce 1lb. of pig.

It will be seen, therefore, that there has been a distinct advantage in the use of fish meal. The pigs have made a greater live weight increase, and have done this on a smaller amount of food per lb. of increase than the pigs which received no fish meal.

FISH MEAL AND TAINT IN PORK AND BACON.—We have seen that fish meal has proved to be a valuable feeding stuff for pigs, but many feeders and bacon curers object to its use because it is said it produces a fishy taint in the flesh of the animal to which it is fed. On this point there is much diversity of opinion, and it was thought desirable, therefore, to investigate the matter very carefully, and the experiments which are now described were carried out in conjunction with the Rowett Research Institute.

Five Large Black pigs, from the time of weaning at eight weeks old, received a mixture of sharps, maize, palm kernel cake meal, and fish meal, the fish meal forming one-eighth of the total meal ration. The fish meal used was commercial white fish meal. Until they were eight months old these pigs were running on poor grass land. At eight months old they were taken inside for finishing, being given, in addition to the meal mixture, one and a half gallons of whey each per day. As before, one-eighth of the meal mixture consisted of fish meal. During this period the pigs did exceptionally well, making an increase of 1.6lb. per day during the nine weeks before slaughter. When slaughtered, they weighed about 15 score pounds live weight.

These pigs were used for the purpose of determining the influence of the fish meal on the meat thus :—

One pig was slaughtered having had fish meal up to the day of slaughter. From this time the fish meal was omitted from the ration of the remaining four pigs. One of these pigs was killed at the end of one week, one at the end of the second week, one at the end of the fourth week, and one at the end of the sixth week

Part of the carcase of each pig was consumed as pork, the remainder was cured by the "dry" method, and the bacon was tested within one week of being taken out of salt with the following results :—

Fish Meal fed up to :	Pork.	Bacon.	Lard.
0. Time of slaughter	No taint whatever	Distinctly unpleasant fishy taste and smell	Poor colour dark-yellowish
1. Within one week of slaughter	Do.	Slightly fishy taint	Good colour white.
2. Within two weeks of slaughter	Do.	Fishy taint scarcely perceptible:	Good colour snow white.
4. Within four weeks of slaughter	Do.	Not the slightest taint, mild, agreeable flavour.	Do.
6. Within six weeks of slaughter	Do.	Do.	Do.

Later, when all the samples were available at the same time, they were compared and tested by members of the Staff. No. 0 (fish meal up to the time of slaughter) was distinctly the worst. Both the uncooked and cooked bacon was very dark in colour, and had an unpleasant flavour. This flavour was not, however, described as fishy except by those who had had experience in detecting taint in bacon. With regard to the other samples, opinion varied a little as to the order of merit. The colour of Nos. 2 and 4 (cooked and uncooked) was darker than that of the others, but there was no disagreeable taste or flavour.

It will be seen that all who tested the samples agree that the bacon of the pig receiving fish meal up to the time of slaughter was distinctly inferior to the bacon of the other pigs, and that not the slightest disagreeable flavour could be detected in the bacon from any of the pigs which for four weeks or more had not eaten fish meal. The influence of fish meal on the appearance of the bacon and the colour of the lard was very marked. In no case could any taint be observed in the fresh pork; the taint is evidently brought out by the process of curing.

These results confirm the opinion formed in the ordinary practice of pig feeding at the Farm. Sixty-nine pigs had been fed on a ration containing one-eighth fish meal. With 68 of the pigs the fish meal was discontinued from four to six weeks previous to slaughter, and no complaint was received with regard to the meat, whether sold as pork or bacon. The remaining pig had fish meal up to the time of slaughter, and the bacon had an objectionable, fishy taste.

These results are confirmed by the trials carried out at the Rowett Research Institute, the results of which are given in the Journals of the Scottish Board of Agriculture for April, 1922, and July, 1923. In these tests commercial white fish meal was not used, but white fish meal specially prepared for the purpose of the experiment solely from the heads, bone, and flesh of white fish. This meal was fed to the pigs in the proportion of one in six. Although this is a much higher proportion than in the Hutton trials, neither the bacon curer nor the culinary expert who tested the pork and bacon could detect any special taint or smell that would indicate the pigs had been fed on fish meal. Where, however, fish meal was used containing an admixture of herring meal, very different results were obtained, the bacon tasted distinctly fishy, and the fat was oily and dark in colour.

From these experiments the results of which have been very fully confirmed in experiments carried out by the Pig Breeders' Association in collaboration with well-known bacon curers, it will be seen that fish meal made from white fish may be safely fed in reasonable quantities without danger of tainting the meat. Commercial white fish meal, however, may contain an admixture of herring meal, and, therefore, may cause taint. In the Hutton experiments there was no taint where the fish meal was discontinued one month previous to slaughter.

WET VERSUS DRY FEEDING OF PIGS.—There have been many changes in the management of pigs during the past few years. With the extension of outdoor pig keeping it has become necessary to devise simpler methods of feeding, and instead of making food into slop with water, it has been found much more convenient to feed the food dry and allow the pigs access to water. Trials have been carried out at Hutton to determine whether there are any disadvantages connected with this method of feeding pigs.

Twelve pigs, about six months old, were divided into two similar lots; both lots were given exactly the same meal mixture, which consisted of:—

Sharps	2 parts.
Palm Kernel Cake Meal	2 parts.
Maize Meal	3 parts.
White Fish Meal	1 part.

The fish meal was omitted one month before the pigs were killed.

Lot I had the meals made into slop by steeping in whey; for Lot II the meals were fed dry, and the whey was given after the meals had been eaten. The experiment proper commenced after a preliminary period of about a fortnight, during which Lot II were gradually accustomed to dry food. The experiment continued for 18 weeks, when the pigs were sold fat.

The results are summarised below:—

	Lot I. Slop. lbs.	Lot II. Dry. lbs.
Average weight of live pigs at commencement of experiment	142	140
Average live weight at the end of experiment (18 weeks) ...	352	348
Average increase in live weight	210	208
Average increase in live weight per day	1.62	1.61
Pounds of meal required to produce 1lb. of pig.	4.37	4.49

It will be seen that both lots of pigs made very satisfactory progress, the average gain being from $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{3}{4}$ lb. per day; in this respect there was practically no difference between the two lots. The dry fed pigs consumed slightly more meal.

In the above experiment the pigs were kept indoors, but as the advantages of dry feeding are more apparent with outdoor pigs it was decided to repeat the experiment with pigs kept outdoors. Again 12 pigs were divided into two similar lots, and this time the pigs were younger at the commencement of the experiment, being about three months old. The meal mixture fed during the first four months of the experiment was as follows:—

Thirids	4 parts.
Palm Kernel Cake Meal	2 parts.
Maize Meal	4 parts.
White Fish Meal	1 part.
Whey, per pig, per day	1— $1\frac{1}{2}$ gallons.

The fish meal was then discontinued, and the maize meal was increased until the pigs were sold fat at about nine months old. The dry food was fed from a dry feeder, with the allowance of whey in a separate trough. The wet food was fed three times per day. During the first two months both lots of pigs made good progress, making 1lb. of pig from about $3\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of meal. During the next three months the weather was very cold and wet, and although the pigs continued to increase at the rate of $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ lb. per day they required a rather larger amount of meal to produce this increase. During this period the dry fed pigs did rather better than those with wet food. For the last fortnight, as the weather was so cold and wet, the pigs were brought inside, and there was an immediate reduction in the amount of meal required to produce 1lb. of pig.

The final results may be thus summarised :—

	Average live weight increase per pig. lbs.	Meal and meal equivalent consumed. lbs.	Pounds of meal required to produce 1lb. of pig. lbs.
Lot I. Dry fed	228	1087	4.77
Lot II. Wet fed	184	920	5.0

In this experiment it will be seen that the dry fed pigs did better than those fed with steeped food. They consumed more food, but made better use of it, requiring $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. less meal to produce 1lb. of pig than those fed on steeped food.

Taking the two experiments together it will be seen that indoors the pigs have done rather better on the wet, and outdoors on the dry food, but the differences are not very marked. It would appear from the results of these experiments that pigs are likely to do equally as well on food fed dry as when the food is fed after steeping.

It has been suggested that the method of feeding might have some influence on the proportion of carcase, and the opportunity was taken to test this point, with the following results :—

	Lot I. Slop. lbs.	Lot II. Dry. lbs.
Average fasted live weight of pigs	342	338
Average dead weight	260	259
Average per cent. carcase to live weight	76.2%	76.6%

VALUE OF WHEY IN PIG FEEDING.—In the manufacture of cheese most of the protein and fat is taken out of the milk, but the milk sugar is left in the whey, so that the whey is slightly richer in this constituent than the original whole milk. The whey is mostly used for pig feeding, and in 1923 a trial was carried out with the object of gaining information regarding its value for this purpose. Twelve pigs, about ten weeks old, were divided into two groups of six pigs each. Both lots received the same meal mixture, consisting of thirds and maize; one lot had water only in addition, whereas the other lot received whey at the rate of about $1\frac{1}{2}$ gallons per day. The experiment continued for about seven months. During the first 20 weeks the whey fed pigs did very much better than the others. This is shown below, 12lb. of whey being reckoned as equivalent to 1lb. of meal :—

	Lot I with water. lbs.	Lot II with whey. lbs.
Average weight at commencement of experiment	49	53
Average gain in 20 weeks	76	117
Gain per pig per day55	.84
Pounds of food required to produce 1lb. of pig	5.6	4.54

The whey fed pigs were ready first, and were sold a fortnight before the others. The effect of the whey was most noticeable during the earlier stages of the experiment. The whey fed pigs during this time had a much more thriving appearance, and made 50 per cent. better progress than those receiving water. Later, however, the pigs with water did equally as well as those receiving whey. This lot, of course, required more meal to take the place of the whey.

The whey fed pigs made just over one score more live weight increase than those receiving water. Calculating the whey at 1d. per gallon, these pigs left 6/- per head more profit than those without whey.

The food value of the whey compared with meal may be indicated thus:—

Lot. I. 479lb. of meal was required to produce 100lb. of pig.

Lot. II. 379lb. of meal and 104 gallons of whey were required to produce 100lb. of pig.

Therefore, 104 gallons of whey saved 100lb. (479—379) meal, so that just over one gallon of whey was equal to 1lb. of meal. This gives a rather higher value to the whey than has been found in Danish experiments. It follows that if meal costs 1d. per pound (9s. 4d. per cwt.), then whey is worth about 1d. per gallon.

It is evident, however, from the progress made by the pigs during the first stages of the experiment, that whey has a special value for young pigs.

FEEDING FOR PORK.—The experiments just described have dealt with pigs being fed for bacon at 10—12 score dead weight. At the present time there is in progress at the Farm an experiment with pigs intended for pork at about six score dead weight. The object of the experiment is to compare the effects of weaning at eight weeks and at 12 weeks old, but as the experiment is not finished, complete figures are not yet available; some particulars may, however, be given of the feeding and progress to date of the group of pigs weaned at eight weeks. The pigs under trial are out of a Large Black sow by a Middle White boar.

The young pigs were weaned on January 3rd at eight weeks old when their average weight was 37lb. They were strong, healthy pigs, feeding well from the trough. After weaning the food consisted of the following mixture, parts being by weight:—

Barley Meal	6 parts.
Sharps	4 parts.
Linseed Cake Meal	1 part.
White Fish Meal	1 part.

This was fed with whey during the first month at the rate of 1½lb. meal and ½ gallon whey per day. The amount of meal and whey was gradually increased, and when the pigs were 4½ months old one-half the barley meal was replaced by maize meal and the fish meal was discontinued, so that at five months the following mixture is being given :—

Barley Meal	3 parts.
Maize Meal	3 parts.
Sharps	4 parts.
Linseed Cake Meal	1 part.

Of this mixture the pigs are consuming $3\frac{1}{2}$ lb. per day along with one gallon of whey.

The pigs are now five months old, and average just six scores live weight ; they have increased during the 12 weeks of the experiment from just under two scores to six scores, i.e., four scores and during this period have consumed 203lb. of meal and 55 gallons of whey. Calculating 12lb. of whey as equal to 1lb. of meal, the meal and "meal equivalent" consumed per pig is 248lb., so that 3lb. of meal and "meal equivalent" has produced 1lb. of pig.

It has already been pointed out that the best measure of the suitability of a ration is the amount of meal required to produce 1lb. of pig, and according to this standard the rations given to these pigs have been quite satisfactory. The figures may be put in tabular form, thus :—

Average weight of pigs weaned at 8 weeks old	37lb.
Average weight of pigs at 20 weeks old	120lb.
Average increase in live weight in 12 weeks.....	83lb.
Meal consumed per pig	248lb.
Whey consumed per pig	55 gallons.
Average increase per pig per day	1lb.
Amount of meal and "meal equivalent" required to produce 1lb. of pig.....	3lb.

The pigs are nearly ready for the butcher, but until they are sold it is not possible to state the actual return for the food consumed, but it is evident that they are likely to leave a satisfactory profit. The meal cost just over $1\frac{1}{2}$ d. per lb., so that so far as food is concerned pig has been produced at about 4d. per lb., which would be equivalent to about $5\frac{1}{2}$ d. per lb. of pork.

NOTES ON SHORTHORN HISTORY

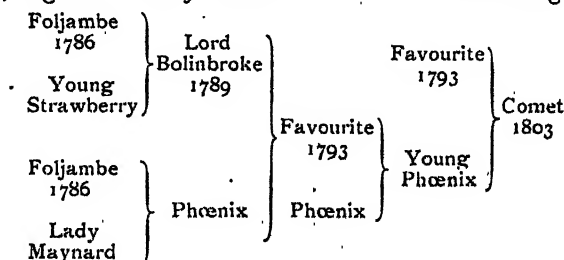

By JOHN WHITTAKER.

IN penning these brief notes on the Shorthorn I have had to rely on such authorities as Sinclair, Carr, Cadwallader Bates, Housman, and Stephens, whilst the writings of Darwin have, of course, been invaluable in connection with my study of the subject of breeding generally.

Although cattle have played a prominent part in world history from primitive times, early records are disappointingly vague on this as on so many other points. It would be gratifying could we know much more than we do as to how the nations of antiquity tilled, sowed and reaped, what crops they cultivated, and by what methods they converted their produce into food and raiment. For centuries cattle were beasts of burden. We learn that Job (whom the best authorities regard as practically contemporary with Abraham) possessed 500 yoke of oxen, which he employed in ploughing and other features of a "very great husbandry." The unrivalled literature of Greece gives little information regarding the practical details of her husbandry. Amongst the ancient Romans, agriculture was highly esteemed and pursued with earnest love and devoted attention. Many passages could be quoted from their writers which convey a vivid notion of their enthusiasm for agriculture, and we are told that their labours in the field "are not interrupted by old age, and seem to be pursuits in which a wise man's life should be spent." "The earth does not rebel against authority; it never gives back but with usury what it receives." Cattle were loosely or promiscuously bred in this country until the 17th century was well advanced, due, no doubt, to the small demand for milk or beef and the difficulty, owing to the prevalence of commons, of securing adequate stores of winter fodder. Darwin asserts that slight differences in the nature of climate, food, &c., and changed habits of life, aided by correlation of growth and the occasional appearance from unknown causes of considerable deviations of structure, have all probably played their parts in producing varieties, but perhaps the greatest factor in the evolution of the several British breeds of stock has been the occasional preservation in each district of individual animals most valued by their owners.

The pioneer of live-stock breeding was Thomas Bakewell, of Dishley, in Leicestershire. Born in 1726 he began his career about 1751, and established his herds of Longhorn cattle, New Leicester sheep (his own production) and pigs; also a breed of draught horses. George Culley, born 1730, author of "Observations on Live Stock" (published in 1785), and a breeder of Shorthorns, was a great admirer of Bakewell, and paid several visits to Dishley. He was also a friend of Charles Colling, of Ketton, and Robert Colling, of Barmpton. At the instigation of Culley, Charles Colling made a prolonged visit to Dishley in 1783. His example was followed by Robert Colling, and the two brothers closely studied the system of breeding carried out by Bakewell. From these visits they returned with the determination to do for the Shorthorn what they conceived Bakewell had done for the Longhorn. The Collings did not possess a sufficient supply of the necessary materials, so they pursued a course similar to that which had been carried out by Bakewell, selecting the best specimens of the Shorthorn race they could procure from others, and having thus obtained the requisite foundation stock, proceeded to apply the system of in-and-in breeding. This system they probably carried even further than Bakewell himself had done. The results were marvellous, and the area of the breed increased rapidly. Wherever they went the stock of the Collings brought in their train quick improvement in the essentials of meat and milk.

As an illustration of the plastic system which the Collings adopted, I give an early instance of in-and-in breeding:—

Alive to the value of advertisement, the Collings made a feature of exhibiting their breeding stock, and a wider public was reached by fattening and exhibiting such animals as Charles Colling's Durham Ox and Robert Colling's White Heifer, both by Favourite. Many of Charles Colling's Shorthorns were excellent milkers, but dairy properties were not the breeder's main objective. The great need for improvement in his day lay rather in the direction of increasing the capacity for economical flesh production. The earlier Shorthorns were often heavy milkers, but lacked in constitution and flesh. Charles Colling soon made a reputation as a bull breeder, and it is stated that as early as 1790 he was letting bulls on hire at from £50 to £100 a season. In 1810 he held a sale of his Shorthorns, at which 29 cows and heifers averaged £140 4s. 7d.; 18 bulls and bull calves, £169 8s.; and the all-round average for the 47 head was £151 8s. Young Duchess (sire Comet, dam by Favourite) made 183 guineas to Thomas Bates, who with this purchase laid the foundations of the great Duchess family. Young Laura made 101 guineas, and the bull Ossian 76 guineas to Lord Lonsdale. The bull Albion, a son of Comet, went to Thomas Booth at 60 guineas. The crowning event of the sale was the disposal of Comet himself for 1,000 guineas.

Robert Colling gave 40 years of his life to the breeding and improvement of Shorthorn cattle, and used extensively the bull Favourite. Taking the Barmpton tribes in comparison with those of Ketton (Charles Colling's), it is questionable whether, excluding the Phoenix family, the weight of beneficial influence did not lie on the side of the former. Mr. Robert Colling's tribes, such as Princess, Wildair, and Red Rose, have stood the test of time. His first sale of Shorthorns was held in 1818, when 61 head averaged £128 14s. 9d., John Booth taking the bull Pilot at 270 guineas.

Prior to 1790, Thomas Booth, who owned the Warlabby and Killerby estates, commenced at the latter place the breeding of Shorthorns from some of the best specimens of the Teeswater line, and then decided to select bulls from Robert and Charles Colling. These bulls had the short legs, long level hind quarters, firm backs, and good twists, to which Mr. Thomas Booth attached so much importance. In 1814 he removed his cattle to Warlabby; his son, John, remained at Killerby, and Richard Booth went to Studley. It was Richard Booth's opinion that four crosses of really first rate bulls of sterling blood, upon a good market cow of the ordinary Shorthorn breed, should suffice for the production of an animal with all the characteristics of the high-cast Shorthorn. The father and the two brothers bred at that time from the same bulls. After 1818 the bull Pilot was introduced and made a great impression on the herds, and stock of their getting went to build up the Towneley, Aylesby Manor, and other herds.

After the death of Thomas Booth in 1835, Richard Booth returned to Warlabby. In 1840 began a long list of showyard honours which continued down to 1865, when T. C. Booth, son of John Booth, succeeded his uncle at Warlabby, and purchased that year, at the Aylesby sale, 12 cows of the Booth tribe for £12,122 5s. The Booth cattle were bred for quick feeding, and bulls were hired out and sold throughout the country. It is said that Ireland owes to the Booths the whole improvement of its cattle up to about 1880:

Thomas Bates, of Kirklevington, was born in 1775, and commenced very early in life the breeding of cattle. For several years he mated the best-bred Highland cows with a Shorthorn bull and made careful notes of food consumed and weight of carcase when killed. Like other breeders of Shorthorns, Bates got together a collection of good cows and mated these to Colling bulls. In 1804 he purchased for 100 guineas, from Charles Colling, Duchess by Daisy Bull (186). This Daisy Duchess produced, in Charles Colling's hands, Duchess by Comet, which Bates bought in 1810 at the latter's sale, in due course producing Duchesses 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th. Bates bred in-and-in with the Duchesses, and a sire which he largely used was Ketton 1st, from Daisy Duchess by Favourite. Largely on account of sterility in the cows, Bates, in 1831, purchased for £50 the bull Belvedere (1706), of R. Colling's Princess tribe, and then told his acquaintances that by the union of the Princess and Duchess blood he would produce Shorthorns such as the world had never seen. Belvedere was the sire of Duchess 34th, and also of her son, Duke of Northumberland (1940). With the latter in 1839, Bates won first prize at the Royal Show at Oxford. He continued breeding Shorthorns until his death in 1849, following upon which his cattle were sold. The tribes then were Duchess, Oxford, Waterloo, Cambridge Rose, Wild Eyes, and Foggathorpe. The 68 head averaged £60 os. 7d. In a few years' time it became a craze to own a Duchess or an Oxford. Unfortunately specimens of these families fell into hands where they were bred to paper and not for utility, and on that account Shorthorns suffered a set-back for a time.

In 1837, Amos Cruikshank of Sittyton, started his life's work as a breeder of Scotch-bred Shorthorns. He had no craze for pedigree, and made no attempt to keep to any particular line of blood. Cows were got from all quarters, Durham, York, Lincoln, &c., and some from Wilkinson of Lenton. Bulls were selected chiefly from the Booth blood. In 1858, the bull Lancaster Comet was got from Lenton, and was sparingly used, but he left Champion of England, which proved the making of the Sittyton herd, of which he had been the distinguished leader for ten successive years, followed by his sons, grandsons, great-grandsons, and g.-g.-grandsons down to 1889, when the famous stock was sold. It is a commonplace of Shorthorn history how in 1889 the Sittyton herd was saved from going abroad, and how one part of it went to Mr. W. Duthie of Collynie and another portion to Mr. J. Deane Willis of Bapton, who in widely separated parts of Great Britain preserved its great traditions.

The Shorthorn of to-day is grouped in two orders, the beef and the Dairy types, and it would be remiss not to mention the names of a few breeders who have discarded fashion and gone in for utility. Mr. Richard Stratton, residing in Wiltshire in 1837, seems to have aimed at Shorthorn breeding on practical lines. To combine good milking qualities with the best of flesh evenly laid on, a frame of moderate size and perfect symmetry was his ambition. This has been persevered in by his sons, and, to-day, Duffryn is a household word in Shorthorn circles. Mr. G. Taylor's herd of Dairy Shorthorns was started in 1878; milk records were kept, large yields shewn, and successes gained in dairy classes. Messrs. Hobbs' Kelmscott herd was established in 1878 with animals from deep-milking dams. Representatives have been successful at the London Dairy, Tring, and other shows, and to-day the herd is one of the largest in the country.

The Government Live Stock Improvement Scheme, under which approved pedigree bulls are available for the use of stock keepers, is having a beneficial effect generally, and where a good sire has been located it has materially assisted in the grading-up of stock. Milk recording is playing its part, and the spring balance soon tells which cows are worth keeping for milk. It is to be hoped, however, that too much reliance is not put on the weight of production and too little on the cow.

Mendel's laws may yet vindicate themselves in stock breeding, and it is believed by many that a new era is opening up for breeders both of animals and plants. It is clear that where one character is found dominant to another, either of the two can be transferred from family to family and from breed to breed, and in this way a new variety be produced. Any of the following are to be found as Mendelian combinations:—high milking and low milking qualities, a high and a low power of producing fat in milk, or fatness and leanness; and, to take only a single case, if high milking and flesh-forming properties are found in Mendelian characters it should be possible to combine the two in one breed of cattle. Meanwhile, let breeders make use of the knowledge they already have at their command!

With both a beef type and a dairy type in the field to-day, it is often asked: "Who will be the next to 'Collingise' the Shorthorn?" The cow that can give a full supply of milk when in profit, and can quickly put on flesh when necessary, is the type needed by the tenant farmer of this country, and the writer is convinced that the Shorthorn is, par excellence, the animal which best fulfils these requirements.

THE COUNTY SHOW AND THE COUNTY TOWN

By T. A. HANNAM.

IT is not fully recognised that Lancashire is almost, if not quite, the leading agricultural county in this country—and, therefore, the world. In cultivated acreage it is among the largest in size, and next to the very big counties. In crop yields, i.e., in agricultural skill, it has led in the main crops of the farm, and is always among the best in potatoes, hay, and wheat. In live stock of quality Lancashire is not excelled in many breeds. The Lancashire dairy cattle are the best in the world. They are the dual-purpose cattle par excellence. In the Shire horse the county has always led the way since the Stud Book began. The Lancashire dray horse set the type and tops the classes at many shows. Nay more, the Shire horse as we know him was founded in Lancashire. He is our horse from Warrington to Kirkby Lonsdale, and is bred equally near Wigan and about deep-pastured Goosnargh.

In other branches of stock we excel in pigs of pedigree, whether Large White or Cumberland. In agricultural machinery the county leads the way, and in all the needs of the farmer, as witness the good old names of firms still flourishing which appear in the ancient catalogues.

But times have changed. The work of the modern agricultural societies, and their help in the development of agriculture—a work no Ministry can do—the shows, lectures, demonstrations, awards, and the like cannot be maintained by the support alone of those directly interested. So, to-day, at Lancaster, there must be an appeal for the full support of all the population and industries to the County Show.

There must be a great prize list; there must be a costly show-yard; there must be all provision for the comfort of the visitors.

The modern agricultural society, and especially the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society, exists only by virtue of the fact that in Lancashire, as in no other county in the world, is the interdependence of farming and of manufacturing so fully recognised.

Nowhere in the world are a manufacturing population from top to bottom so closely allied personally, socially, and sportingly as in Lancashire. The populations are city and country geographically, but they are all one in outlook and in love of the land. There is not a denizen of any congested city or town area who has not a friend in the country. In most cases it is a relative.

The annual shows of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society—as are the numerous other shows—are the outward and visible signs of that inward spiritual grace of country love, and they now depend very largely on the support of the whole of the people, for the countryside cannot “run the show” alone.

That is why the Royal Lancashire Society at Lancaster assembled calls on old Lancaster and great North Lancashire especially to rally to the old flag—the oldest agricultural society flag in England.

National renown and county patriotism will do the rest. Lancashire's best shows have not been in her biggest cities or towns, and North Lancashire held great and good shows of stock 70 years ago or more, if their duration was short.

The Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society asks North Lancashire especially to help it to wave the flag boastfully at the old county town.

With a Prize List round about £4,500, and showyard erection, special attractions, administration, and catering arrangements, the Society is faced with an expenditure pledged to something over £25,000.

Hence the need of a good local fund. Lancaster has always been splendid in its services to the Society, and the facilities of reaching the historic showground are excellent.

The guarantee of a good local subscription and an increase of North Lancashire members will make prospects auspicious.

A munificent example has been set by Lord Ashton, and the Society is deeply indebted to him for that and many other good deeds on the occasion of the last show at Lancaster, and already in connection with this one.

Of course from Lancaster alone there cannot be expected any very very large local subscription, but with the countryside also playing the game, Lancaster and district should raise enough to assure that the show of 1925 will not leave a record inferior to some of the best. Such immense funds as those of Bolton, Oldham, and Preston—over £4,000, £5,000, and £7,000—are not expected, but Lancaster can now—and will—beat Lancaster of 1906, when the local fund was £1,512. That was nearly as much as Liverpool did in 1914, just before the war.

Very special interest must attach to this year's show on July 30th, 31st, August 1st and 3rd, of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society.

The show has not been held at Lancaster since 1906. It has been at Preston four times, and Barrow (1897) once since the Society was reconstructed in 1893, largely guided by the foresight and help of the late Earl of Derby, as the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society.

A RETURN HOME.

Thereby hangs a story. In coming back to Lancaster the County Society is coming home in a sense, for it is partly on the old Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society that the great County Society and Show have been built up. The Royal North Lancashire Society was itself an infusion of new and vigorous blood into a fusion of two older societies, one probably the oldest English agricultural society.

The Society, whose annual county show of four days this year is to be pitched at Lancaster, was really founded 158 years ago, when the "Agricultural Society within the Hundred of Salford in the County of Lancaster" was founded at Crompton's Coffee Tavern, in the Borough of Salford. It is curious to read how the first Manchester Agricultural Show was held in St. Ann's Square in 1767. Shows then were mostly speeches and conferences, with a few premiums and "sweepstakes."

Within four years at a meeting at the same place the Hundred of Derby in this county, and the Hundreds of Macclesfield and Barlow, in the County of Chester, and "gent's," met at the King's Head in Salford, on May 24th, 1771, and drew up rules. The notice calling the meeting was published in the "Liverpool General Advertiser," "by order of Richard Townley, Esq., President; John Wright, Secretary," and the next line read:—"Dinner on the table at Two o'clock."

The Manchester Agricultural Society and the Liverpool Agricultural Society, which had been instituted in 1830, were amalgamated as the Manchester and Liverpool Agricultural Society in 1847, and held their first show at Manchester in 1848, under the Presidency of Lord Stanley, M.P., and the second at Liverpool in 1849, with Lord de Tabley as President.

It was in 1874—51 years ago—that the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society, founded in 1847, and so then 27 years old, joined with the two older societies, and they became the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society. Its first show was in 1874 at Stalybridge, its second at Preston. It visited Lancaster in 1878 when Lord Winmarleigh was President, and with the same president was again at Lancaster in 1888. This show is really then the fourth of the Society at the old town. In 1893 came the reconstruction as the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society, with the first show at Blackpool in 1893, with Viscount Cross as President, and only once in the 32 years has the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society held a Royal "North" Lancashire Show at Lancaster.

When the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society came into being very vigorously there was no Morecambe. It was the little fishing village of Poulton-le-Sands, or Poulton-by-the-Sands. Morecambe is not new. There are old residences around, and it has not been created so much as developed. The show is held on the route to Morecambe, on the same site as last time, as were the North Lancashire shows. There is a wonderful air of permanence about Lancastrian affairs, and so Morecambe must always be attractive. Not many societies can offer visitors who stay a day or two such a seaside home.

The Lancashire Show this year is then at Lancaster by the Sea. Morecambe is but three miles away, and much less from the showground. It is suggestive to note that Morecambe became Morecambe officially, or legally if you like, in 1889, the year after the show there of the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society.

The Society does not boast that it helped to engrave the name of "Merry Morecambe" on the archives of the Local Government Board, but it claims that Morecambe, one of the happiest and pleasantest of seaside resorts, and the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society can help one and the other very much.

Being such a great open show, and with pedigree stock from all over England, a visit to the seaside can be combined with business and pleasure at the show.

SOME ROYAL NORTH RECORDS.

Ere dealing briefly with the three shows, 1878, 1888, and 1906, at Lancaster, there is much of interest in some records of the Royal North Lancashire.

The marvellous thing about these old societies is the comprehensive nature of their programmes, and the relative—only relative—unimportance of the stock classes. Cultivation, produce, servants, husbandry, crops, implements, papers, and discussions, then the stock classes—practical and severe in their arrangement—and always the Shorthorn and the Heavy Horse, the latter not yet attained to Shire-dom. The other horses were under the heading "Road and Field," just as till recently that general description remained in the Altrincham schedule. It should be interpolated here that the Manchester and Liverpool Show was held at Altrincham in 1854, and that at the reconstruction in 1893, Lancashire gave up holding Cheshire shows, and recoiled within her own boundaries only to grow the bigger, the inevitable result of that infusion of virile northern energy. The last show of the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society, outside the county, was in 1890, at Crewe.

To return to North Lancashire folk, to whom the special appeal of their Society is made, the first schedule of the foundation files of the County Society is not available, but there is a green paper-backed Report of the Committee of Management to the General Meeting of the members, held on the 3rd of February, 1849. It was printed at Preston by Henry Oakey, 25 Fishergate. This gives us some information on the second year's self-help of the North Lancashire farmers. Most creditable, indeed, was the support to the local society. In 1847 the amount subscribed was £416, and in 1848 it was £506.

The Society at its start received the balance of the funds of the North Lancashire Agricultural Protection Association of £412.

Evidently Protection as a panacea was dropped by the Northern farmers, and they adopted education and skill, i.e., "Practice with Science," the motto of the Royal Agricultural Society of England, which at that time was only a child of nine years old, born in 1838. The Protection balance was invested in the Three Per Cents. for the Society in the names of "W. J. Garnett and Thos. Birchall, Esqs." Of the original subscribers to the Society were Mr. R. T. Parker, Mr. Jonathan Peel, and Mr. C. R. Jacson. These gentlemen offered premiums for various objects, especially trials of implements and ploughing competitions and for green crops. These were arranged on the suggestion of Lord Stanley, the first President of the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society, made at the first meeting of the Society at Lancaster in 1847. It meant more money, and in the annual report of the Society it was stated that the Committee had circularised the landowners and others interested in agriculture in North Lancashire, asking them to increase their subscriptions in aid especially of the green crop and the farm competitions, so that by "improving the proper culture of tillage lands a more economical and approved means will be provided for the support of an increased and improved breed of stock."

It was ever thus. Some societies—notably the R.A.S.E.—drop these competitions, but they resume them. In practical value they are part of the very best work of any society. The Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society has rarely forgotten that. In connection with the Manchester Show last year prizes were offered for crops of seven kinds on farms of 50 acres and over, and also on farms under 50 acres—14 classes in all.

In 1848 the special annual subscriptions for the encouragement of green crops were given by the following:—The Earl of Derby; Lord Skelmersdale, Lathom House; Lord Stanley; Thomas Clifton, Lytham Hall; Charles Towneley, Towneley; John Wilson Patten, M.P., Bank Hall ; Wm. Garnett, Quernmore Park ; Wm. James Garnett, Bleasdale Tower ; Richard Foot, Read Hall ; James Gurrán, Preston ; Edward Pedder, Clifton Hall ; H. P. Fleetwood, Woodfold Park ; James Sidgreaves, Woodfold Park ; William Talbot Rothwell, Foxholes.

The first ploughing match and trial of implements of the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society was held in Moor Park, Preston, on 20th September, 1847. The stock show took place in the Holme the next day. There was a discussion on the drainage of land on the first day in the Lit. and Phil. Institution, when there was a very numerous assemblage of the "nobility, clergy, gentry, agriculturists, and others from this and the adjoining counties."

The figures of entries in several classes indicate how vigorously the North Lancashire farmers took up the objects of their Society:—Crops, 25 ; ploughing, 21 ; best-managed hedges, 5 ; roots and seeds, 20.

That was splendid for a young society, and when the classification for stock is considered, it will be recognised how good the numbers were, thus:—Cattle, 116 ; horses, 83 ; pigs, 29 ; total, 346. There were nine competitors for general stock classes ; nine for the best dairy and cheese ; and 390 machines and implements.

That collection of machines and implements was larger than had been seen at any show save at the R.A.S.E. But what would our fathers and grandfathers have thought of the 2,500 entries of implements at recent Royal Lancashire Shows !

The arrangement of events is interesting. We could not do it now ; we depend so much on the "gate." There was on the first day the implement, &c., show, and discussion day (at some places prizes were given for essays read), and there were machine and ploughing competitions. On the second day the stock judging, &c., and on that day the Annual Dinner. Doubtless it was a "Three Decker."

At the 1848 dinner of the old North Lancashire, the Earl of Burlington presided over 500 "nobility, &c., &c.," in the New Assembly Room in the Corn Exchange, Preston. He advocated the formation of local farmers' clubs and reading societies.

The list of speakers 77 years ago might be one of yesterday's so far as some surnames go. They were:—Mr. Wilson Patten, M.P., Mr. Greene, M.P., Mr. Talbot Clifton, Mr. Towneley, Mr. Garnett, Mr. Towneley Parker, Mr. Wilson ffFrance, Colonel Rawstorne, Mr. Starkie, and Mr. Grey, of Dilston. The last-named urged the advantages of education among farmers and labourers.

Mr. Geo. Hunt, of Broughton, was secretary, and continued so for many years. The vice-presidents in 1848 were:—Mr. Pudsey Dawson, of Hornby Castle; Mr. T. K. W. France, of Rawcliffe Hall, Garstang; Mr. J. Nowell Harrington, Worden Hall, Leyland; and Mr. Le Gendre N. Starkie, Huntroyde, Burnley. On the Council there were:—Birchall, Assheton Cross, Rawlinson, Fred Garnett, German, Begbie, Fair, Lamb, Newton, Nutter, &c. Great names, too, are those of the Council of Finance:—Jonathan Peel (Chairman), Alex. Bannerman (of Chorley), and Cornelius Bourne (of Stalmine Hall).

It should be noted too that this Society included Accrington, Blackburn, Burnley, Chorley, Lytham and Poulton-le-Fylde, Preston, Rufford and Scarisbrick, and Whalley, as well as the Lancaster district.

Who grew the best crops locally in those days? Well, Robt. Winder, of Laithwaite, Cockerham, won first for beans. In farms under 150 acres, Edward Potter, of Weeton, was first. For a swede turnip crop, Rd. Ball, Rossall Grange, won in the larger farms. The judges had to take into account the acreage grown in proportion to the size of the farm. In other turnips Mr. Alex. Begbie, of Westby, won.

In laying down grass, Mr. Archibald Scott, of Clifton, and Mr. Hy. Fisher, of Kirkham, were first. John Bond, of Preston, got a prize for a steam engine. The money was not big, but the agricultural implement industry was awaking. In the list of winners appear the names Chandler, Clayton, Crosshill, and so on.

Seven classes of Shorthorns were open. Second or third prizes were only given in the two bull classes. In older bulls Mr. Alex. Bannerman, of Chorley, won; in younger, Mr. Jas. Robinson, of Ulverston. Mr. R. Eastwood and Mr. Bannerman each won two further firsts.

The winning premium bulls had to remain in the Northern Division of the County for five months after February 1st, 1849, for service at not exceeding 10s. 6d. Very successful in the tenant farmers' section for cattle of any breed was Benjamin Baxter, of Burnley.

HORSES SEVENTY ODD YEARS AGO.

In horses, it may be noted, the agricultural stallion class was open, and the award had to be made in April at Preston. It was the same in the class for thoroughbred stallions. Each was open to all England. There was no class for Road or Field stallions; and there was no class for Hunters. The best agricultural brood mare was shown by Mr. Wm. Stavert, of Westby, and the best Road or Field brood mare by Mr. Wm. Dewhurst, of Larbreck.

It may be noted that in this 1848 local North Lancashire Show the ram prizes in the open sheep classes were for Leicesters, for Southdowns, and for Black-faced. The Royal Lancashire omits the first two now. The County Show now is confined largely to the local breeds of sheep. In pigs in 1848 at Preston they only recognised Large bred and Small bred.

Some space has been occupied by the beginnings of the North Lancashire, but they are particularly of interest now when really the Royal North Lancashire Society is here at Lancaster again—19 years older—and brings its stock as well as its sheaves in the shape of shekels with it.

Things did not alter much agriculturally by 1856, at least as far as the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society went. The tenth show meeting was at Preston on Wednesday, 27th, and Thursday, 28th August, 1856. Lord Stanley, M.P., was president, and there were 28 vice-presidents. The family names of these are mostly on the list of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society's supporters to-day. It may be noted that on the Council of 38 there are members from Chorley, Wigan, Burnley, and Rawtenstall. The connection with Burnley is interesting. There were three for that district on the Council in 1856, and it may be noted in connection with the possibility that the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society will hold the show at Burnley in 1926! The show was there in 1880.

Anyhow the North Lancashire Society had spread its area widely, for the annual stallion premium awards were made at Blackburn on Easter Wednesday, in 1851.

On Wednesday, August 27th, 1856, the trials of "reaping machines and other field implements" took place in a field near Preston. The next day there was held "the Annual Show Meeting and Exhibition of Stock, Implements, Poultry, Roots, Seeds, &c." The Society had begun to have "frills." Poultry had been added since 1848. The implement trials began at 9 a.m. The show was opened at 5 a.m.! From that hour till 2 p.m. admission was 1/-; from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., 6d. As the great function of dinner was fixed for 4 p.m., with Lord Stanley, M.P., in the chair, it would appear that the showyard was cleared after 3 p.m.

Exhibitors will prick their ears to read that the premiums won were paid on the day of the show meeting, and, therefore, donations and subscriptions were paid in ten days before so that the prizes could be paid on show day. At that meeting 18 silver medals were given for implements and machines. There were seven open classes, with two prizes each for Shorthorns, and nine tenant farmers for "cattle of any breed." One notes in the open stallion classes that the horse-breeding had developed, as the Society offered prizes for stallions:—(i) for waggon or dray purposes; (ii) for agricultural purposes; (iii) for thoroughbred; (iv) for road or field. The word "dray" does not come in again in mare and colt and filly classes, but he was on the way. Where sheep breeds were specified they were Leicester and Southdown and the pigs just Large and Small. We shall see Suffolk sheep this year at Lancaster.

Interesting was the sweepstakes for best farm. The entry was £1 rs. for expenses, &c., and the award a Society's medal. At early shows everywhere sweepstakes and matches were the rule.

The North Lancashire Society began with an ordered prize list, plus sweeps, and it was enclosed. But the first sweeps and matches of stock were not shows in the sense of the 'fifties.

Would a little revival of the stock sweep and the personal matching of stock increase some of the interest in stock sections of our shows to-day?

At least from our ancestors' grandfathers we can learn a good deal in the matter of simplicity and straightforwardness in classification. Alterations each year in the classification of the great breeds of animals are not good.

Whatever the case with open classes they affect adversely county and tenant classes. A show should have a certain stability of schedule, and fewer bewildering special conditions here and there. Breeders cannot alter their systems in a year. And have we not gone a little pedigree mad about some animals? Doubtless the readers of this amateur screed will agree that when the Road and Field horses trotted into the ring at Lancaster in the 'forties and 'fifties there were trappers and saddle horses among them that were as fine animals for show and use, for saddle and shaft as anything that comes into the ring to-day under the name of pedigree Hackneys! There are as good horses—better(?)—not eligible for the H.S.B. as ever were in it. Anyhow the Roadster has no use now, nor is it probable that the agricultural societies alone can keep up the demand for harness steppers.

It was four years after joining up with the Manchester and the Liverpool that the Royal Manchester, Liverpool, and North Lancashire Agricultural Society met at the new recruits' home, Lancaster, in 1878. Lord Winmarleigh was President. The site was Scale Hall; it was the same site in 1888 and 1906, and is to-day.

It may be convenient in this discursive appeal to North Lancashire to "play up" to give a table to show such an appeal is not out of place :—

	Local Fund.	Prizes offered.	Gate.	Result.
1878	£721 ..	£1800 ..	£1615 ..	£158 loss.
1906	1312 ..	3125 ..	2875 ..	85 profit.

In 1878 the President was Lord Winmarleigh, and as in 1888 the Society's area was Lancashire, with fractions of Yorks, Derbyshire, Staffordshire, Shropshire, all Cheshire, with Flintshire and part of Denbighshire, so that there were North-East, South-East, North-West, South-West, and Northern Divisions, the last-named taking the rest of Lancashire not in the 35 mile radius from Warrington, where the annual business meetings were held.

STOCK AT LANCASTER IN 1878.

Premiums were given for farms open to the area, and several only to North Lancashire, also prizes for laying down grass land, permanent and for mowing, and for green crops. Men and women servants were rewarded. The stock prizes were on a basis from which our present prize list has developed. The only full schedule for a breed of cattle was for Shorthorns, and ten of these were open to the United Kingdom, but the first class of bulls was for landlords who gave free use of their bull to tenants. There were two classes for Jerseys, and a class each for Ayrshire cows and heifers, and for Welsh. Ayrshires are in the list again to-day. As now the Shorthorn open classes were more or less repeated for tenant farmers in the area. There was a tenant farmers' section of five classes for cattle for dairy purposes.

The Light Horse classes were open, there being one for Roadsters and another for Thoroughbred Stallions, with brood mare classes for breeding Hunters and Roadsters, some classes for Hunters in saddle, and classes for foals and young horses. It already sounds strangely to-day to read of saddle horse classes for Roadsters, 14.2 to 15.2, and 13.3 to 14.2. There were cobs 13 to 13.3, and ponies under 13 hands, and the ponies had to be ridden by boys under 15 years of age. Harness classes had arrived, and there were four of these. Interesting, too, is it to read of three classes of "Young horses; half-bred," three, two, and one year old, that is to say, Hunters.

The heavy stallions and the carthorse section, also open as now, were to be suitable for getting draught horses, while the mares were for breeding cart horses. The full breed section included four classes (for farming members) of young horses for draught. The Lancaster Town Council gave two Silver Cups.

Sheep were now well classified. Southdowns or Shropshires in six classes; "Pure Leicesters" in six; Border Leicesters, Lincolns or Cotswolds together in six; three of Cheviot or Crag sheep; and three of Black-faced Mountain sheep. The Lancaster Town Council also gave a Silver Cup in the section. Of all these breeds only the last is classified now, but we have Wensleydale, Lonks, Suffolks, and Grey-faced. The pigs were Large White, Small White, Middle White, Berks, and Improved Essex.

The show was held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, September 3rd, 4th, and 5th, and on the first day there was a public luncheon in the showyard, a function which still lingers at some smaller societies' shows, but is no longer a "disturbing" feature at the Royal Lancashire.

The Lancaster deputation which attended the annual meeting of members on November 8th, 1877, at the Lion Hotel, Warrington, the usual headquarters, to invite the Society to visit Lancaster in 1878, included the Mayor, Alderman Blades, Councillor Smith, with Mr. Cranston, Mr. Harrison, and Mr. Woodhouse, of the Lancaster Agricultural Society, and they offered a free site and water supply, and £200. This generous invitation was accepted on the motion of Mr. John White, seconded by Mr. Hy. Neild.

One hopes there is space to give a few 1878 prize-winners. Mr. John Wright, of Stand Farm, Toxteth, won the premium for the best over 150 acres, or two-thirds under rotation. For the best arable farm over 80 and under 150 acres, Mr. Rd. Webster, Old Stone House Farm, Litherland, won. In small farms, Mr. Hy. Williamson, of Orrell, won.

A strong competition in dairy or stock farms, over 150 acres, saw Mr. Jas. Tunstall, St. Michael's, Garstang, first. Mr. Hy. Neild, of the Grange, Worsley, was second.

In the next size farm Mr. S. Sherwen, of Stapleford, won. There were tenants' classes for North Lancashire only, and here are the familiar names:—Mr. Peter Blundell, of Reamhills, Kirkham; Mr. John Gish, Red Bank Farm, Bolton-le-Sands; and Messrs. Thornton, Primrose Hill, Nateby.

There is much distinction about the names of the Shorthorn judges. They were:—G. H. Sanday, W. Ashburner, and the Rev. L. C. Wood. Then looking at the first prize-winners in the open section we read right off at the top of each the Earl of Ellesmere (twice); Thos. Willis, Jun., of Carperby; Wm. Handley (twice); the Marquis of Exeter; Mr. B. St. John Ackers, and Thos. Atkinson, of Unsworth. The last took five prizes in the tenants' district section. T. H. Miller, of Singleton Park, led in Jerseys. Mr. Atkinson and Mr. Wm. Nelson took chief awards in dairy cattle.

The best Thoroughbred Stallion was the Fylde Horse Breeding Improvement Company's (Singleton, Kirkham) "Laughing Stock."

The Roadster was "Charley Merrylegs," shown by Mr. J. F. Crowther, of Mirfield. Mr. G. F. Statter, Park House, Whitefield, won in mares and foals, and Mr. Miller's "Belle" was the best Roadster brood mare. In the heavy and the light-weight classes of Hunters there were special awards, and notice taken of their ability to leap hurdles and water. There were also leaping sweepstakes in these saddle classes. It would be disconcerting to some show Hunters of to-day to have competitions of this kind. At the same time it would make the judging, now very tedious to many thousands, more interesting or at least diverting. Mr. G. Whittle, of Broughton, Preston, and Mr. E. L. Clarke, Acton, Northwich, headed the two classes.

In Roadsters in saddle Mr. Robinson, of Hull, showed, and won. "Gipsy Jack," as we knew him, had several noted animals here the year before. Mr. Windle Askew, of Arnside, after taking a second with the cob "Mabel," by Mr. W. Lucas's (Fazackerley) "Sultan," was first in the harness classes, and won the Gold Medal with "Countess" for the best harness horse. He won the tandem driving contest also.

In the Cart Horse open section we are among familiar names and one or two famous horses. Mr. James Forshaw won first in draught stallions with "What's Wanted," the sire of many famous sires. Four years later, when Shires were Shires, the late Mr. Forshaw won the London Championship with the renowned "Bar None." He judged at the London show in 1900. He died in 1908, and his work lives after him, especially in the Fylde, for ever. Let us not forget that "What's Wanted," the Lancaster and Fylde horse of 1878, was the sire of Mr. A. C. Duncombe's ever-famous "Premier."

The three year old colts had no award. Mr. Forshaw won in two year olds, and Mr. Jas. Jackson, of Stalmine, had the best brood mare, her foal also being the best. Again we are minded of showyard personalities of the past, when we read that Mr. C. W. Brierley, then of Prestwich, took both prizes for pairs in the older draught horse class. It may be noted that farmer breeders of the big dray horse that was to become known very soon as the Shire horse were Messrs. Peter Blundell, of Weeton, John Singleton, of Winmarleigh, Henry Shaw, of Whittingham Hall, Thos. Wilkinson, of Winmarleigh, Robert Thompson, of Mythop Lodge, John Milner, of Treales, and Messrs. Thornton, of Primrose Hill, Garstang. Mr. John Singleton also won with brood mare and two of her offspring.

Southdowns had no chance with the Shropshires. Charles Byrd, of Littywood, Stafford, took all the firsts. In Leicesters, Green & Sons, of Silsden, almost did the same. Lord Ellesmere and Mr. Peter Eden, Cross Lane, Salford, with Mr. Sanders Spencer well up, accounted for most of the white pig classes.

THE NEWER ERA IN 1888.

We get in 1888 a vital ten years nearer to ourselves. Breed societies, and stud, herd and flock books were being established right and left. In 1883 the R.A.S.E. had recognised the Shire breed of horses. The Society had already had a working dairy and butter-making competition; also milking trials at Chester in 1886, a dog show had been added, and so at Lancaster—37 years ago “only”—we were a little more like ourselves to-day, but not so various and varied. And we were just before the days of the County Council.

On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, September 5th, 6th, and 7th, the show was held on the old site, not forgetting the luncheon on the showground at 2 p.m. on the second day. The Chairman of the Local Fund Committee was Mr. C. Blades, the Mayor. The divisions of the Society were now north, south, east, and west, a dozen councillors for each. The northern men were:—Messrs. Thos. Fair, C. R. Jacson, W. F. Brockholes, also vice-presidents of the Society; J. W. Fair, Preston; G. Drewry, Holker; Robt. Catterall, Kirkham; G. Ashburner, Kirkby-in-Furness; P. Blundell, Weeton; J. Tunstall, St. Michael's; G. Barton, Carnforth; James Blundell, Wharles; and T. Wilkinson, Winmarleigh. The secretary now was Mr. Thos. Rigby, of Liverpool.

Farm prizes and green crop awards were still a great feature. In cattle, Shorthorns, as to-day, had the most prominence, and then dairy cattle of the famous Lancashire type, but then there were three classes each for Hereford, Channel Island, Black Welsh and Aberdeen Angus or Galloway. The last classification would “horrify” the Aberdeen men to-day. Roadsters and Hunters were the same as before, and there were three harness classes.

But one notes that three leaping classes had arrived. The classification here reads interestingly to-day, and, perhaps, the classes would not now fill. It is:—

15.2 and upwards, to carry 13st. Prizes, £15; £10; £5.

Under 15.2, to carry 11st. Prizes, £15; £10; £5.

Non-prize winners at the show, under 11st. Prizes, £6; £5; £3.

There was a £5 sweepstake.

And by now the word “Shire” was in the catalogue. After the nine breeding classes of cart horses there were ten tenant farmers' classes, members of the Society or of the Lancaster Society, and the classes are “Limited to Shire-bred Horses.”

And the sheep classes, always variable it would seem at the show, now were Shropshires, Leicesters, Teeswater or Wensleydale, Cragg, Lonks [their first appearance (?)], Herdwicks (ditto), Horned Scotch, and Half-breds from Scotch, Lonks, and Herdwicks. The pigs were Large, Middle, and Small Whites, Berks, and Tam-worths. The produce section had grown, and that for honey, hives, and bees.

At the annual general meeting at Warrington, in December, 1887, the Hon. Alan de Tatton Egerton had presided. There is something familiar about the protest against the excessive railway charges for cattle and horses to and from shows. The Journal devotes much space to accounts of the work on Experimental Stations at Rostherne and Saltney in co-operation with the R.A.S.E.

In the two open Shorthorn classes in 1888, Jos. Thompson, of Elswick, and C. W. Brierley (2 and 3) cleared the board in any aged bulls. In younger, Robt. Thompson, of Inglewood, took first and third and reserve, Mr. Thompson's Exors. being second. In the eight classes in the Society's district the firsts went to Joseph Thompson (twice), Peter Blundell, the Duke of Devonshire, Exors. of M. Thompson (twice), Thos. Atkinson, and George Ashburner, and the names of Ashburner, Cottam, and Kay lead in the dairy cattle list.

The "Light Horses" saw many successes of the Stand Stud Company, of Whitefield. They won in the class for—this time—"Hackney" stallions. They took five other firsts, mostly harness. There was a brood mare class with the queer ideal of being "suitable for breeding horses for carriage or hunting purposes." Mr. R. J. Mann won with "Maid of Mowbray," and she had not, one expects, to have much carriage purposes about her. Mr. Thos. Dixon, Dalton Old Hall, Burton, and Mr. Edward Barton, of Warton Grange, had several prizes in the Hunter section. There was also a farmers' class to breed Hunters or harness horses. The Fylde and North Lancashire was once famous for breeding carriage horses. The winners were:—T. Taylor, Nether Kellet; G. W. Goodison, Coniston; and Wm. Nelson, Tarnwater. In the leaping classes the name of the famous Wm. Dodsworth appears.

It looks as though in the Cart Horse section (open) the first prize of older stallions was won by a Clydesdale, in "Castlereagh," shown by the Marquis of Londonderry. In the three classes for colts Mr. T. Shaw, of Winmarleigh, took two firsts, three seconds, and a third, or six prizes out of nine; one of the firsts going to Mr. Thos. Fenton, of Pilling. In the tenants' Shire-bred classes are the names of Robt. Mason, Cockerham; Richard Bibby, Carleton; Thos. Wilkinson, Winmarleigh; Waring Bros., Preston; W. Knowles, Goosnargh; Geo. Singleton, St. Michael's-on-Wyre; and Thos. Charnock, Hale, Lancs.; and the Exors. of E. Charnock, Fazackerley.

As a show it was good, but, as at Manchester (Belle Vue) the year before, the weather was abominable; hence the loss. As a result the prize schedule was revised and cut down to £1,000 for the next show at Wigan. By the bye the show has never been held at Wigan since.

NINETEEN YEARS AGO.

The show at Lancaster in 1906 saw the Royal Lancashire at its best. The Lancaster welcome was great. Mr. H. L. Storey was President, and there could have been no more appropriate choice as a county man, a sporting man and supporter, and a distinguished Hunter breeder. Amongst others who issued the invitation was the present Mayor (Alderman George Jackson), who is in his second year of office, and who was at that period the president of the Lancaster Agricultural Society. The showyard arranged was the best in the Society's history. This year it will be equal to it. The Society had already begun to build its own showyard and to manage its own catering.

The advance in the stock classification was great. To-day it differs little, but we have the dairy Shorthorn, and the record milk-producing classes too.

By now it has become the rule that there shall be a local show for tenant farmers on the Monday. Several local societies always give up their annual shows to help the County and the Lancaster is "loyal and north."

There is space only to indicate what a distinguished lot of stock the most famous in the land has on view.

The names of the exhibitors and the animals are historic.

To take the Shorthorns, there were :—Mr. F. Miller, Sir Richard Cooper, Mr. R. R. Rothwell, Mr. T. Atkinson, Mr. Geo. Harrison, Mr. John Handley, Lord Calthorpe, Sir Oswald Mosley, Lord Rothschild, Mr. J. H. Maden, the Earl of Sefton, Mr. Victor Cavendish, now the Duke of Devonshire. Have we their equals to-day? In the dairy cattle were the names of Nelson, Raingill, and Stansfield.

And there were good Hunter classes, as witness the names of F. B. Wilkinson, J. H. Stokes, R. B. Tennant, Edward Hodgson—of course, Mr. Storey—and Sir Walter Gilbey, A. Haslewood, W. A. Simpson-Hinchliffe, and Geoff Kenyon. Surely these were the pick of the land.

The cream of the polo ponies of England were sent by Howard Taylor, John Barker, Geo. Norris Midwood.

And it was a great show of Hackneys. The Lancashire Society has always been a generous supporter of the breed, and the light is still kept burning brightly at Carnforth by Mr. Briggs.

But the 1906 show was surely one of the most distinguished. The horses' names will suffice to prove that. Among them were "Dainty Duke," "Boquhan Surprise,"—and Mr. T. B. Sykes was still here with his Fylde beauties—"Administrator," "Copmanthorpe Performer," "Rosadora." How all these take us back to the magnificent days of the Hackney!

What a classic show was that Lancaster Show of 1906 !

Who showed Shires ? The Earl Egerton of Tatton won stallion champion with the wonderful " Tatton Dray King," and Lord Rothschild the mare cup with " Belle Cole." Let the various names talk for the section. They included also Lord Rothschild, Jas. Forshaw & Sons, Mr. Victor Cavendish, Mr. R. N. Sutton Nelthorpe, Messrs. E. & J. Whinnerah, Mr. Jas. Gould, Mr. Lewis Dodd, Mr. H. W. Kearns, Mr. Hy. Mackereth, and Mr. Robt. Whitehead. Shall we ever again look on such a collection of samples from great studs ?

It was the same in the harness classes. As we look back at the Lancaster Show of the Society in 1906, we must marvel at its excellence, and we must hope that the Society and North Lancashire will strive that this year's may equal or excel it.

Publicity, a long pull and a strong pull, are needed.

It is a great open United Kingdom show. It is a great demonstration of what Lancashire can do. It is a great demonstration of what North Lancashire can do.

And North Lancashire must give the lead and let the agricultural world of England know about it !

THE MANCHESTER SHOW OF 1924

By HAROLD HOLDERNESS.

THE people of Manchester and district have always given such a cordial reception to the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society that the invitation to hold the 1924 show in that city was received with enthusiasm, and in the firm belief that the birthplace of this great county organisation would uphold the high traditions of the past. One hundred and fifty-seven years had elapsed since "The Agricultural Society for the Hundred of Salford," which represents the original foundation of the Royal Lancashire of to-day, held their first show in St. Anne's Square, at a time when Manchester might be described as being little more than a rich and populous village, and when farmers had few incentives to excel in the stock-breeding arts. In the early schedules the premiums were chiefly devoted to various phases of arable work, and the fact that in those far-off days the only stock classes provided were those for the best male and the best female calf would indicate that in this part of the world, at any rate, animal husbandry was relatively of small importance. This then must be regarded as one of the pioneer efforts in the direction of stock improvement, and a preliminary to the growth throughout the length and breadth of the land of agricultural shows, which, during the past century have been a national asset and supplementing the work of the great breed improvers, have done much to make these islands famous as the stock farm of the world.

The story of the development of the Society has already been told in an ably written and entertaining article in the R.L.A.S. Journal for 1917, and it would be superfluous here to retrace the pages of history; but the fact should be recalled that since the Society was reconstituted on a purely county basis in 1863, and received its present title, the shows have been staged in this hub of the cotton industry in 1903 and 1908, and each visit marked a forward step, the prize lists being on a much more liberal scale than anything previously attempted, and the citizens creating new records in the matter of local funds. The Society, therefore, were acting in accordance with tradition, when for the 1924 meeting they framed a schedule with prizes to the value of £5,750, considerably in excess of any previous offering, and £1,000 more than the Manchester premium list of 1908. Platt Fields, the venue held 16 years ago, had been converted into recreation grounds, and was no longer available, but in the pleasant city suburb of Withington on 58 acres of land adjoining Mauldeth Road and near the tram route, the Society were able to furnish one of the most compact and attractive exhibitions in its long career. But instead of history repeating itself so far as the Manchester Shows are concerned the meeting involved the serious financial loss of £5,500, due to a combination of circumstances entirely beyond control. The so-called summer of 1924 will live in memory for its many tearful days. Prior to July 31st, when the four days' exhibition opened its doors, there had been a long spell of broken weather, and although the Society had incurred considerable expense in draining the land, the adhesive character of the soil did not permit of free percolation. Following drenching rain on the second day the ground became a quagmire, and with stories of "mud wallowing" and "useless duck-boards" and "depressing conditions" widely broadcasted, no one expected to see a rush of visitors. Although there was only one day on which the weather insurance policy yielded any return there was no period during the Show when the barometer was "set fair," and added to this uncertainty was the ill repute of the ground. Rain and mud, however, were not the only factors contributing to a limited attendance. The Empire Exhibition at Wembley was a magnetic counter-attraction, and the modern facilities for travel that were not in existence 16 years ago accounted for a large holiday exodus from the city and surrounding centres of population. The reduced gate receipts were reflected in every other revenue department of the Show, and amongst others with whom one feels prompted to condole in their unhappy experience are the members of the Catering Committee, who have anxious moments whether in the "rush" periods such as those experienced at the Guild Show, or in the lean times of 1924 when the dining pavilions were by comparison deserted. The income from the grandstand, sale of catalogues, refreshment bars, and other sources that bring grist to the mill, were all substantially less than would have been expected in normal times, and in this way the Society had to face the first deficit in 14 years.

The Show was held under the presidency of Sir Edward Holt, Bart., who fills a large place in the public life of Manchester, and is an Honorary Freeman of the city. Sir Edward was Lord Mayor when the County Show visited Manchester in 1908, and the services he rendered as President on that occasion prompted the Society to confer upon him its jealously guarded honour of Life Vice-Presidency. Sir Edward not only gave most generous financial assistance, but his personal effort and influence were great assets to the Society. The Lord Mayor (Alderman W. T. Jackson) was Chairman, and Sir Arthur Howarth, Bart., Vice-Chairman of the General Local Committee, and the Deputy Lord Mayor (Councillor

W. Cundiff) and Mr. Francis Ellis, of Bury, the Chairman and Vice-Chairman respectively of the Local Executive, devoted themselves with great energy to the duties of their offices. The Society were also deeply indebted to Sir Wm. Needham and Sir Wm. Clare Lees, the Hon. Local Treasurers, and Mr. P. M. Heath (Town Clerk) and Mr. J. Herbert Hall, F.S.I., the Hon. Local Secretaries. The fact should be recorded that this is the third occasion on which Mr. Hall has acted as Local Hon. Secretary on behalf of the County Society. He held a similar office during the "Royal" visit to Manchester in 1916, and having regard also to the prominent part he has taken in the affairs of the Altrincham Society for many years, Mr. Hall has a record of service to leading show organisations that may not be generally known to the rank and file of agriculturists in the county. As Chairman of the Works Committee as well as Chairman of the Council, Mr. Windham E. Hale, C.A., whose guiding hand has been an important factor in the development of the Royal Lancashire, was able to bring to bear the benefit of his knowledge and experience of estate management in adapting the Manchester site, which it was generally admitted has not been excelled for compactness and effective lay-out, and, had the weather been dry, the financial result might have been very different. Residing within a comparatively short distance of the Showground, Mr. R. B. Neilson, J.P., Vice-Chairman of the Council and of the Works Committee, was able to spare the Chairman the necessity of many long journeys. He was a constant visitor to the yard, directing and encouraging those engaged with the constructional work, and keeping in touch with the heads of the corporate departments, who readily gave such assistance as lay in their power. Mr. Neilson's devoted work on this occasion served to remind members of the debt they owed to him for the time, attention, and sacrifices he had made in the interests of the Society during the forty odd years in which he had been a Vice-President, and it may be said that when the Council proposed to confer upon him the Honorary Life Vice-Presidency no resolution of this character was ever received with greater enthusiasm, and the presentation took place at a singularly happy and memorable gathering. This was the first show held under the secretaryship of Mr. R. Chawner, for many years assistant to Mr. Edward Bohane, C.B.E., whose genius for organisation did so much to put the Royal Lancashire in the forefront of county shows and won for him a position of distinction in Ireland as Director of the Royal Dublin Society. Mr. Chawner's work was carried out with the thoroughness that justified the confidence reposed in him on his election, and it was unfortunate that the season in which he had accepted heavy responsibilities should have been so disastrous not only to the Royal Lancashire but to the great majority of agricultural shows, hampered as they were by wretched weather, or foot-and-mouth disease restrictions, and in some cases by both.

Added to effective arrangement of the Yard, permitted by its square conformation, the Royal Lancashire maintained its reputation for the excellence of its Show furnishings, the comfort, solidity and extreme neatness of the quarters provided for stock calling for favourable comment. For the benefit of the rank and file of members, who are not familiar with the administrative work, it may be stated that no other agricultural society in the country undertakes so many duties in connection with show organisation. In addition to all the constructional work that was formerly left to contractors, the Society takes entire charge of the catering, publish their own catalogue, and manage other essential departments which agricultural societies usually let by tender. Few County societies are able to command such handsome support from the towns visited, due not only to the liberality of the public and the enthusiasm of the local officials but to the influence of the leaders and the policy of giving special prizes for competitions within a few miles radius of the Show. This scheme and the nature of the privileges extended to subscribers have undoubtedly helped to stimulate interest and build up the handsome local funds. The prize list of £5,750 for the Manchester Show was larger than that offered by any other County society. The prizes for amateur judges, premiums for herdsmen, for meritorious conduct and care of stock, supper to herdsmen, and Divine service in the Showyard on Sunday are activities peculiar to the Royal Lancashire, and represent a tremendous amount of work to which the bulky catalogue affords no real clue. Mention should also be made of the County Farmers' Classes, the Radius Classes, and the Dog Show, which add great interest to the closing day's proceeding and necessitate the production of a second catalogue. In the Horticultural department, this year, inducements were given to members of local allotment associations to augment the displays and join in competition. The Catering, which is on an unusually generous scale, comprehends a number of social features including service for the County Club. And in all the departments of organisation the Society can pride themselves on the efficiency of their stewarding.

Before proceeding to deal with the stock that came before the judges in the various rings, a general survey of the schedule with some of its new features may be appropriately made. In the Cattle Section all the breeds previously catered for received either additional classes or extra prize money. Blue Albions, which until a few years ago were little known outside Derbyshire, came into the County Showyard for the first time, and another innovation promised was a show of Ayrshires to which the Breed Society had undertaken to give financial backing, but the recurrence of foot-and-mouth disease in several districts of the country prompted caution on the part of Scotsmen, who would have been the largest consignors, and there was, therefore, deferred the promised debut in the Lancashire County Showyard of the cock-horned, shapely-uddered milkers, whose triumphs at the London Dairy Show have brought them into prominence of late. In the Dairy Cattle Section all entries not ear-marked under a recognised registration scheme or entered in a breed society's herd book were again inspected prior to the Show, so as to ensure that the animals sent for competitions were those described on the entry forms. The Lancashire County Milk Recording Society supplemented their Grant in aid of the prizes for recorded Dairy cattle by the offer of a Silver Medal for the best animal exhibited in their section, and the British Friesian Society renewed their offer of a £50 cash prize in the event of a British Friesian scoring the highest points in the Milking Trials.

In view of the increased attention being paid to Hunters, efforts were made to stimulate competition in these classes. Owing to lack of support in past years the Thoroughbred Stallion Class was excluded, but, through the instrumentality of Dr. E. S. Jackson, of Carnforth, and friends, there was an improved classification for young Hunters shown in hand. An additional incentive to competition in this department was a 25gns. Challenge Cup, presented by Mr. T. A. Longworth, of Middleton, one of the Society's light horse stewards, for the best mare or three-year-old likely to breed a Hunter. The Welsh Mountain Ponies, equine gems in miniature, again found a place in the prize list, and Mr. G. J. Lyell, of Liverpool, gave a Challenge Cup for the best mare of the breed. Another generous donation was that of a £50 Challenge Cup by Mr. Walter Briggs, Linden Hall, Borwick, to replace the "Ainscough" trophy of similar value, which he won outright the previous year with Adbolton Kingmaker. In the Children's Riding Classes, which made a charming ring attraction, Lieut.-Col. H. M. Hardcastle, J.P., added a Silver Cup and a hunting crop to the first and second prizes respectively. Among the additional inducements offered in the harness classes was a 25gns. Cup, from Sir A. Lindsay Parkinson, Blackpool, for the best pair. At a Council meeting, early in the year, the list of gifts of nine Challenge Cups was the largest ever announced at one time, and this was supplemented by Alderman Parkinson, J.P., of Bolton, who undertook to provide a £25 trophy to be allocated as the Society thought fit for the 1925 Prize Schedule.

The fact that the Society has long regarded pig breeding as one of the most important branches in the live stock industry was again reflected in the prize sheet, 31 classes being provided. The Berkshire was again catered for, and whilst the Large and Middle Whites and the Large Blacks again stood out as the popular breeds.

the Cumberland lops came forward prominently with six open classes, and, for the first time, two classes for pigs of this type were limited to residents in the County of Lancaster. For the benefit of the Gloucestershire Old Spots men the Exors. of A. R. Pilkington presented a breed championship trophy. An entirely new feature was a class for pen of two bacon pigs, any breed or cross breed, the live-weight of which was not to exceed 250lb., and a class for butchers' lambs introduced a similar experiment in the sheep section. The entries were not all that could have been desired, but supporters of these features considered there were possibilities for development, especially if the competitions were carried to a more definite issue by the introduction of the block test. Another departure of note was the modification of the rule that every exhibit should be the bona fide property of the exhibitor at the time of entry and up to and including the first day of the Show. Hitherto the rigid application of the rule has occasionally excluded stock in cases where a would-be exhibitor has had in prospect a sale by auction between the date of entries closing and the first day of the Show. Where such transactions had taken place it was made permissible, this year, for animals, which had been entered, to compete, provided a certificate of sale, signed by both buyer and seller and countersigned by the auctioneer, was forwarded to the Secretary prior to the opening of the exhibition.

The entries were regarded as highly satisfactory in view of the difficulties of the times. Cattle numbered 436, light horses, 371; heavy horses, 66; pigs, 248; sheep, 80; goats, 85; dairy produce, 248; Lancashire Farmers' exhibits, 91; poultry, pigeons, and eggs, 1,261; dogs, 1,400; and rabbits, 285. With the exception of sheep, goats, and County Farmers' classes, these numbers were well above the average for the three preceding Shows, and in several instances exceeded the Liverpool total of 1923. Poultry and dogs set up new records for post-war exhibitions. The daily features of the Show again included horse-shoeing and shoemaking competitions, demonstrations in the production of clean milk, trussing and cramming of poultry, the manufacture of cream-cheese, butter-making competitions, lectures on bee-keeping and farriery, and concerts by the Besses o' th' Barn Band.

SHIRE HORSES.

Owing to continued depression in agriculture and in the country's business generally some attrition of entries was not unexpected in Shire horses. Several animals of outstanding merit added interest to the contests, and these included Mr. Jas. Gould's London champion stallion, Herontye Buscot, a commanding horse of great weight, stocky expression, and breed character, and notwithstanding his season's activities in the Fylde, under the auspices of the Great Eccleston Shire Horse Society, he looked gayer on parade than when he last appeared in public. Messrs. Jas. Forshaw & Sons followed with a strong candidate in Darley Wild Wave, a four-year-old Harboro Nulli Secundus brown, which has been high in the honours list at other shows, and the previous year stood reserve to his sire for the 50gns. challenge cup here. A wide, thick, solid horse, he stood on immense limbs dressed with stallion feather. Only two stallions were forward in the three-year-old class, and Mr. Jas. Gould again had no difficulty in winning with Moss carr Forest Champion, a compact, courageous, clever-moving bay, combining the Childwick Champion and King of Tandridge bloods. The second, from the Earl of Beauchamp's stud of greys, was Ouse Bridge Hector, an attractive son of the Lancashire-bred Crossmoor Prince Forester, but faulty in hind movement. Messrs. Forshaw walked over in two-year-olds, but well-deserved the red rosette for Carlton Wyresdale, a balanced, masculine, bay son of the Guild Show champion Wyresdale Draughtsman and one that looked like rising to greater heights in the show world, and as a matter of fact he became the junior champion stallion at the 1925 London Shire Show. There was a trio of yearling colts, and a close contest between Messrs. A. H. Clark & Sons' Moulton Harboro, by Harboro Nulli Secundus and Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Victor, a Pendley Footprint bay, of Mr. A. Colclough's breeding, that was fifth in London and third at the "Royal." They were eventually placed in the order named. Messrs. Forshaw's Lincolnshire Friar, to which Colney Friar had imparted his classiness and dressiness of limb, was third, being beaten by heftier colts.

Brood mares were led by Mr. F. S. Freckleton's famous mare Pendley Lady, the elegant daughter of Champion's Goalkeeper, which has a great prize record and has so often been before the public that it would be superfluous to describe her. Messrs. W. & J. Sumner, Fulwood, followed with their Normanby Briar King mare Haseley Briar Rose, which has not always been too generously treated. Mares of her size, scope, and roominess, with the same span of razor-blade bone, and the quality of joints and feet are none too plentiful, and when in form and furnished she is a formidable show type. The only colt foal on view was a well-turned and planted son of Boro King 2nd, out of Mr. T. Waterworth's black Shopnoller Drayman mare, which has done some winning at the local shows. When the fillies entered the ring it was obvious that Mr. W. Stuart, Sowerby Hall, near Garstang, had a clear win, with a bay by Sundridge Nulli Secundus, and it is worthy of record that she represented the third filly reared in the Sowerby Hall stud by the five-year-old mare, Sowerby Mystery, by Nuneham Nonsuch. This was the first appearance of this foal in the ring, and it was generally agreed that in size, symmetry, and general quality, nothing had been seen in the Lancashire shows to equal her. As these notes are written subsequent to her later triumphs it may be of interest to mention that after preserving an unbeaten record at the Fylde shows she was sold for a long price, judged by current values, to Messrs. J. H. Appleby & Sons, of Tixall, in whose hands she was second at Ashbourne, won the coveted filly foal stakes in the great class at Peterborough, and stood third in yearlings at the 1925 Shire Show in London. In her class at the Manchester Show she was followed by Pendley Lady's younger bay by Field Marshal 5th and Haseley Briar Rose's bay filly by Sundridge Nulli Secundus. Yearling fillies had an excellent leader in Mr. S. A. Madeley's Rodway Countess, a brown by Markeaton Reigning King, well planted on a big foot. Another very taking filly followed in Mr. J. C. Jackson's Knottingley Tranquil, a black by Colney Friar, and the third, not so satisfying in colour but one of the weftiest fillies in the group, was Messrs. J. B. Jackson & Sons' Eccleston Coming Fashion by Tandridge Coming King. Only half of the six entries in two-year-olds were forward, and Sir Arthur Nicholson had a good leader in Pendley Selina, a bay of distinguished parts, by Herontye Goalkeeper. She has great size, the classiest of limbs, and clever movement. In the same year she had worn the red rosette in London, was second at the "Royal," and had stood reserve to her stud companion, Leek Pearl, for the medal at the Staffordshire Show. Messrs. Forshaw & Sons were second for a splendidly-topped, buoyant moving grey by March King. There was only a trio of three-year-old fillies, but the contest was most interesting because of their level character, and the fact that Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's Burscough Berenice by Claymore, and Messrs. W. & J. Sumner's Cockerham Princess by Hadlow Prince William, had met on several previous occasions with varying success. The third claimant for the prizes was Mr. J. C. Jackson's Reedness Victor's Queen, a sweet, upstanding bay by Severn Secundus, brimful of quality, but rather lacking the substance of the two Lancashire-bred and owned fillies. After the original placings had been reshuffled Berenice, with her ivory quality of bone, feather like silk, and splendid foundations, finished at the top with Reedness Victor's Queen second, and the very weighty and roomy Cockerham Princess third. Berenice reappeared and won in a group of four barren mares, where Mr. L. Burton, a Derbyshire exhibitor, was second with Goalkeeper's Daughter, a black by Champion's Goalkeeper. Messrs. A. H. Clark & Son's Moulton Fantasy by King's Messenger was third, and Cockerham Princess fourth.

The Championships were speedily disposed of. The Kenworthy 50gns. Cup for the best stallion, won last year by Harboro Nulli Secundus (now deceased), went to Herontye Buscot, with Darley Wild Wave reserve for the second successive year. Pendley Lady repeated her Liverpool success by carrying off the Greenall 50gns. Cup for the female championship, and for reserve position Berenice (unfortunately lost to the Burscough stud a short time after the show) was beaten by the two-year-old filly Pendley Selina. The Special for the best stallion belonging to a resident in the County went to the Exors. of H. Stuart for the thick, solid Mythop King's Choice by King's Choice, which stood reserve in the class for stallions, four years old, and upwards.

The classes for commercial horses were not large, but they contained some notable geldings and provided interesting contests. Two and three-year-old geldings were shown together, and here Mr. Milton Schofield's Royal-winning three-year-old Alkington Champion was defeated by Messrs. G. G. Marsh & Son's gelding, planted on superb limbs and strong open feet, a clever mover and of exceptional promise. A surprise was in store in the older group of geldings. After his London, Royal, and Peterborough championships, most visitors interested in this section of the Show had taken it for granted that Messrs. Marsh's classy-limbed Captain by Lymm Rival would add to previous successes. Mr Edward Davies, of Partington, however, upset calculations by bringing out a little known horse in Felix, a five-year-old Gloucestershire-bred bay by Ansty Forest King, very massive and rather more rugged in his lines than the superbly moulded Captain.

HACKNEYS AND HARNESS CLASSES.

Hackneys on hand were rather more numerous than at one or two of the post war Shows. Three of the four stallions entered were forward, and Mr. Walter Briggs's home-bred Albin King's Heir, a bold-moving and masculine son of Adbolton Kingmaker, showed the way, and made the first claim on the gold challenge cup presented by his owner to replace the trophy won outright by Adbolton Kingmaker. Albin King's Heir has been twice junior champion at the National Hackney Show, and once reserve for supreme honours after a long and hard fight, and these victories, added to the championship at the Leicester "Royal," make a distinguished record for a three-year-old. Mr. Glen's national champion Creake Lady topped the brood mares, and once more was crowned queen of her sex and breed. She is handsome in conformation, short on the leg, combines substance with quality, and moves with ease and grace. Second in the class and runner-up for reserve championship was Mr. H. B. Brandt's Beauty of Carleton, of the type and possessing the free and forceful movement that suggested she would be seen to great advantage in leather. She can also breed a good foal, as evidenced by the fact that her infant, by Capenor King's Minister, beautifully fronted with the flag in the right place, headed the best group of foals seen.

in the county yard since the war. Mr. Greenwood's famous Bert-rano filly, Airedale Carnation, was first in three-year-olds. Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' stylish Angram Lady Rickell, whose previous successes include first and reserve champion at the Royal, was unopposed in two-year-olds, and later qualified for the Hackney Society's medal.

Two of the three classes reserved for the charming Welsh Mountain Ponies were headed by representatives of Mrs. H. D. Greene's far-famed stud, and her seven-year-old mare, Grove Firelight, added to many triumphs by taking supreme championship of the breed.

The strength and quality of the Harness Classes merited larger audiences than those drawn to the ringside. The novice group over 15 hands was led by Mr. W. S. Miller's handsomely-built Matthias chestnut Knight Banneret. The Richmond novice winner, Mr. C. F. Kenyon's Buckley Grand Fashion, was relegated to fourth place in this company. Up to 14 hands in open competition the Olympia decision was upheld, Mr. Miller's Miss Freda going in front of Mr. R. Belcher's Glenavon Gunfire.

Mr. Miller's Stella Vane led the novices up to 15 hands, and the same owner's Knight Errant and Knight Templar formed the winning team. In open harness not exceeding 13 hands Mr. R. Black's Skirbeck Kitty added to many victories, and she was followed by Mr. A. R. Fish's Penwortham Claudius, a beautifully chiselled pony destined for higher honours. Mr. Miller's Charm and Dark Legend, and Mr. A. Maitland's Cestrian Rambler headed their respective classes. In the championship contest Charm triumphed for the third successive year, and made the "Charles Clark" Challenge Cup Mr. Miller's own property. Skirbeck Kitty was reserve, and Cestrian Rambler stood third in this contest. Two classes limited to the County Palatine were headed by Mrs. Henriques' Olive Melbourne and Mr. Akrigg's Angram Victory, and the red rosette in an open consolation class was placed on Mr. J. W. Woodhouse's Arley Botherem.

The children's riding classes gave great pleasure to the audience, who were treated to some clever exhibitions of horsemanship. The classes for mounted police also make a spectacular feature, but owing to wretched weather conditions the ringside was practically deserted when these were judged. In the group for the best turned out horse and man, P.C. Bowen, of the Manchester City Force, received first place with the Olympia winner, the eight year old brown Victor, a horse of splendid manners and conformation. The second was another well-known winner in Margaret, shown by P.S. Glassfield, and one of the well-matched workmanlike quartet of browns from the stables of the Lancashire Constabulary. Last year she beat Victor for the cup on the verdict of a referee.

Manchester also filled the third and fourth positions. Salford were fifth, and Liverpool sixth. Manchester were given the lead in the team group, with the Lancashire County Constabulary second, and Liverpool City third

HUNTERS.

Hunters in hand were only a small collection. Of the three brood mares paraded Messrs. Warre & Unwin's Patricia 4th, a daughter of Sly Patrick, with plenty of substance, and one that looked like breeding weight-carrying stock, was first, Mr. H. L. Storey's Fatima was second, and Mr. G. Dickinson's Per Contra third. The foals from these mares stood in the same order as their dams. Messrs. McMorran Bros. supplied the winning three-year-old in Garden Gate, a 16-1 hands gelding by Kirwangate, a Hunter sire of great repute in Ireland. Size, substance and clever movement were combined in a young horse that was reserve for junior championships in London, and on this occasion took the special as the best young Hunter. After spending a long time in separating the two-year-olds the judges gave first prize and reserve junior championship to Mr. J. Norbury's Sequel in front of Mr. Dickinson's Cark Silver Sun by Silver Grill. Mr. Dickinson's sporty looking filly, Cark Silver Charm, headed a trio of yearlings. Dr. Jackson was second with a chestnut by Rathurde, and Mr. H. L. Storey's Batchelor, a son of Batchelor's Lodge, third. Patricia took the Longworth Cup for the best mare or filly likely to breed a Hunter, and Fatima was reserve. Mr. Dickinson's yearling Cark Silver Charm took the medal as the best filly.

Sir John Leigh's famous Jorrocks, a great stayer and galloper, romped home in the weight-carrying class, and for the second successive year won the Kenyon Challenge Cup as the best "made" Hunter. The reserve was Mr. Stokes's ten-year-old bay Linthouse which beat Mr. Geoff Kenyon's Peep of Day and Sir John Leigh's Moonlight in the group of four-year-olds and upwards capable of carrying not less than 12 stone to hounds.

SHORTHORNS.

Shorthorns of the beef type did not maintain the County standard, foot and mouth disease restrictions contributing to a reduced entry. The female classes were of chief interest. In cows calved in or before 1920, in milk or in calf, Mr. W. Woof's Rosebud, a handsome dual-purpose type of Booth descent, added to previous successes. She later qualified for the "Astley-Bell" Challenge Cup as the best female. Mr. A. R. Fish was second in the class with Bigland's Bud, a rangy, robust roan, built on dairy lines. Mr. W. H. Whinnerah got the red rosette in three-year-olds for Roan Lally 3rd, very attractive and symmetrical, but closely followed by Messrs. J. & J. Kay's Vahan Rosemary 11th, possessing plenty of character and substance. The classes for two-year-old and yearling heifers only brought five animals into the ring, and all came from Messrs. J. & J. Kay's Edenfield herd. The leading two-year-old was Musbury Millicent 2nd, the massive, smooth white which has annexed championships at several shows. Her herd companion, Musbury Dairymaid, built on smaller lines came second. Clipper Lass 2nd, a broad, deep and neat quartered roan was first in yearlings, with Sherwood Whinchat and Edenfield Lady Geneva second and third respectively. The awards in the County Classes generally followed those in the open section, a notable exception being that as Mr. Woof's Rosebud was ineligible, her absence led to the promotion of Mr. Fish's Bigland's Bud.

Only three animals competed in the aged bull class, and the judges' choice was Mr. J. D. Key's (Rugby) Resolute, not too big, but a thick, deep, shortlegged Cruickshank type. The second, more of the dairy mould, but lengthy, deep and level-fleshed was Mr. T. E. Clarke's Leek Rosemary's Heir. Messrs. E. & J. Whinnerah's Warton Clipper Augustine, a well bred, richly coloured roan with a beautiful headpiece, and the County Champion of last year, was first in two-year-olds, beating Messrs. J. & J. Kay's successful show bull Baines Ramsden King, a smart and rich red, good in colour and neat in his lines. Yearling bulls provided keen competition. Mr. Arthur Green's thick, smooth, Denton Star, which made an imposing parade, was followed by Messrs. Whinnerah's Balcairn Gallant, and Messrs. Kay's promising white bull Musbury Radium.

DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

The Dairy Shorthorns were the strong feature of the cattle section, once more reflecting the attention now devoted to the dual-purpose breed. For the second successive year the "Derby" Challenge Cup for the best Shorthorn bull in the show was won by a sire bred on dairy lines. This was the Earl of Bessborough's Bessborough Polonius, which has had the further distinction of being twice Dairy Shorthorn Champion at the Royal, and also heading his class at the 1924 London Dairy Show. Few bulls retain their form so well at seven years' old, and despite his age and great scale he had a gaiety of carriage quite exceptional if not so marked as in the preceding year. Second in the class came Mr. A. Ross Fielding's Carleton Style, a true dairy type, unfortunate in having to meet such a formidable rival as the bull from Kilkenny, and Mr. Clarke's Leek Rosemary's Heir was third. There was a splendid class of cows calved in or before 1920, nearly a score of animals parading. The red rosette went to Mr. A. R. Fish's Rossall Seraphina 6th, which had been calved about a week, was brought out in beautiful bloom, and gave 36lb. of milk in the ring. She thus proved the possession of dairy force to enhance the charm of character and conformation which gave her pride of place on inspection, and enabled her to win the "Leverhulme" Challenge Cup as the best Lancashire-bred exhibit (bull, cow, or heifer) in the Pedigree Dairy Shorthorn Classes. Messrs. W. Bateman & Son's Beaumont Mermaid, a five-year-old red and little white, of their own breeding, was pulled up second on inspection, but her yield in the ring was just a trifle short of the qualifying weight, and she had to give place to Mr. J. G. Peel's robustly-built Golden Ruby, which gave 33lb. 12oz. Messrs. Bateman had another candidate in the class in Beaumont Seraph 3rd, displaying a capacious and shapely udder. She contributed 34lb., and stood third. Mr. J. G. Peel's Watercrock Rose, a seven-year-old roan, gave 36lb., the highest yield in the class, but she failed to get into the money. In the group of cows or heifers calved in or after 1921, Messrs. R. Silcock & Sons' Fylde Princess 29th, a roan with a splendid vessel and brimful of dairy quality, was soon pulled to the top, and retained her position with a yield of 20lb. 2oz. Mr. J. G. Peel's Red Letter Day, with 18lb. 10oz., was second, and the third, Mr. T. E. Clarke's Wild Craggs 2nd outdistanced her competitors in milk flow, yielding 28lb. 11oz. Only two heifers in milk came forward, and as one of these failed to qualify in the milk test Messrs. R. Hall & Son, Morecambe, walked over with one of the well-known Bare Ringlets, a wealthy heifer credited with 18lb. 2oz.

The classes for cows and heifers in calf were more sparsely filled than for those in profit. In four-year-olds and upwards Messrs. Wareing Bros. scored a good win with Wesham Butterfly 5th, a sweet and attractive roan of Mr. J. R. Lawson's breeding. Messrs. W. Bateman & Son's Foggathorpe Lass, a typical dairy cow, was second, and a close third with every indication of making a smart vessel was one of the Thorndale Rosebuds, from Mr. T. E. Clarke's Challan Hall herd. There were only two incalf heifers, but they were not easily separated. Mr. J. G. Peel's Rosebud was eventually placed in front of Messrs. Silcock's dairy-like Fylde Morwenna 34th. The only entry forward in the class for non-pedigree Shorthorns entered or accepted for entry in the register of the Dairy Shorthorn Association was Messrs. Wareing Bros.' Chatham 3rd, a smart, robust type, bred by Mr. John Almond, at whose dispersion she was purchased.

MILK RECORDED CATTLE.

It was gratifying to note an increased entry in the classes for recorded cattle belonging to members of the Lancashire Milk Recording Society. The minimum qualifying yields were 8,000lb. during the Ministry's year ending October 1st, 1923; an average of 6,500 for the two years ending on that date, or 8,000lb. during the last lactation period of 45 weeks. The group of cows in profit was headed for the second successive year by Mr. R. Batty Aigburth, whose recently-calved Grassendale Princess had let down an excellent bag. Mr. W. H. Nelson had a good second in Thursby Barrington 2nd, full of dairy character. Messrs. Wareing Bros.' Chatham 3rd was placed third, and Mr. J. R. Lawson's Salthouse Lily 27th was fourth. The winner of the in-calf class was the big-framed light roan Privet 3rd, which proved a sound investment for Mr. J. R. Lawson when he secured her at Mr. John Almond's sale for she qualified for the "Milburn" Challenge Cup as the best animal in the recorded classes, and did a good deal of winning at the local shows in strong contests and against younger rivals. In the hands of Mr. Almond, her breeder, Privet had made five appearances at the County Show, and had always been in the money. Second in the class was Mr. R. Batty's Blue Belle, which was the champion recorded cow 12 months ago, and a Foggathorpe cow from Beaumont Grange was third. In the heifer class Mr. T. Sumner, Aughton, was first with Doris Telluria Heggle 4th, blending some good blood lines. Mr. Batty was second, and Mr. T. E. Clarke's Wild Craggs 2nd was third. Prizes were offered for heifers under two years old and the progeny of recorded cows. Only two were forward, and Mr. W. H. Nelson's Rosette Princess was preferred to Mr. Arnold Gillett's Blue Albion Bradbourne Beauty 2nd.

OTHER BREEDS.

Red Polls which have received wide advertisement of recent years for their dual-purpose qualities were well represented this year. Seven bulls were entered, and the lead was taken by the Royal Counties Champion, Sir A. E. Bowen's Hatton Fabulist. The second also came from a southern herd, and Lancashire was represented in the third place by Mr. D. Oswald's (Halsall) Colworth Orchid, a six year old red. Cows also made a very level group, and Mr. W. R. Glazebrook, Jun., Willaston, Birkenhead, scored with a typical young cow in Ferrymoor Linnet, credited with a first-calf yield of 1,400 gallons, and in her second month giving on some days yields approaching seven gallons. Sir A. E. Bowen was second, and Mr. Oswald again came third with Halsall Royal Dairylass, bred in the Halsall herd when Mr. C. L. Blundell had possession. In two year old heifers Mr. Oswald's home-bred Halsall Lady Maude 2nd beat a representative from Lord Egerton's Knutsford herd. Sir A. E. Bowen's Colworth Lady Vanity, which has had decorations on previous occasions, was the winning yearling.

The Blue Albions attracted a good deal of attention on this their first appearance in the Royal Lancashire showyard. Nineteen entries were spread over four classes. Lieut.-Col. W. E. Harrison, who has taken an active part in the movement to popularise the breed, got the red rosette in the senior bull class with the three-year-old Bank Champion, which stood second at the Royal and the Great Yorkshire. Mr. Arnold Gillett, of Chorley, who was second in the junior class to Mr. P. Dobson, of Market Drayton, took chief honours in both the cow and heifer groups. In the former case he had first and third places with Bradbourne Gentle and Ridgwood Dairymaid, and secured the two top cards in heifers with Bradbourne Beauty 2nd and Bradbourne Vivian 2nd, both of which were in the honours list at the Leicester "Royal."

On paper British Friesians promised to make the best show of this breed seen at the Royal Lancashire, but foot-and-mouth disease restrictions accounted for the absence of fully one-third of the entries. In bulls over two years old Mr. D. Moseley's Clockhouse King A. Bryn P.I. had a smart follower in Mr. J. Dowd's (Stretford) Hamels Daphny's Bertus. It is of interest to note that this bull of great scale, substance and constitution, is a son of the 3,000 gallon cow Dunninald Daphne. There were only two entries in the junior class, and here Mr. T. L. Parke's Winnal Sultan from Withnell Fold, was placed in front of Mr. G. B. Radcliffe's Tarvin Janke's Mazeppa, a bull that has since occupied more exalted places in the shows. The cows made a big parade, and gave a difficult task to the judge. Mr. L. W. Gilbert's Petygards Countess, a "Royal" and Dairy Show winner, came to the top, and she shook off all opposition for the female championship, it being difficult to resist her breed type and quality and great bag. Mr. Moseley's well-known Northdean Bonnie Annie won in three year old heifers against Mr. Dowd's Wychnor Lornus 2nd, which was a reversal of the Knutsford placings. Mr. Radcliffe's Tarvin Mignonette stood at the head of a line of eight yearlings. She scored her fifth successive win, and was later placed reserve for the championship. In this excellent company Mr. Moseley's Buglawton Beatrice P.I. was second, and Mr. E. Hollingworth, C.B.E., was third with a very attractive home-bred heifer in Moor-dale Mina P.I.

For reasons already stated the Ayrshires did not put in an appearance. In the Jersey classes some of the aristocrats of the breed were on view; and chief honours went to Mrs. Evelyn's famous 11-year-old cow Dahlia 4th, the holder of a number of championships. She is a beautiful type, fitted with a wonderful udder, and her records reveal great dairy force, for she has given 1,000 gallons in each of the last three years, and at the time of the show was giving 53lb. daily. Second in her class was a Kent exhibit, and Mr. W. G. M. Townley's Bernadette, a cow fitted with a capital vessel, was third. Mrs. Evelyn's Wotton Queen of Clubs was the winner in three-year-old or two-year-old heifers, and Mrs. Cater's Bentworth Rosea came out in the yearlings and added to her collection of red rosettes. The outstanding bull was the well-developed three-year-old Cupid from Mrs. Cater's herd at Alton, Hants.

DAIRY CATTLE.

The dairy cattle classes, a popular second day feature for stock-keepers, were again keenly contested, and several championship winners at Lancashire and Yorkshire district exhibitions were concentrated here. In the open group of any weight cows in milk Mr. Jas. Wild, Jun., Over Peover, got the coveted place for Queenie, which had three firsts and championship at Knutsford. A handsome type she had let down a beautifully balanced vessel to complete the picture of dairy form. Messrs. R. Hall & Son were a close second with Morecambe Dainty Bell, which, in the absence of Queenie, came to the top in the corresponding County class. Messrs. J. Barlow & Son, Haslingden, won the County class for lightweights in milk with a blue cow which had been winning at earlier shows, and she was followed by Mr. G. W. Isherwood's pedigree Dairy Shorthorn Challan Coquette, and Messrs. Waring Bros.' Chatham 3rd. In a trio of heifers in milk Messrs. R. Silcock & Sons' Fylde Princess 29th confirmed her victory of the previous day. The in-calf cows made an imposing parade. Mr. Greenwood Crabtree's Todmorden winner, a wealthy well-spread roan, was first selected, and a herd companion followed. Mr. John Ford, of Sandbach, supplied the third, and Mr. N. Hardman's Brindle champion, which was fourth, was lifted to premier place in the corresponding County competition, with Mr. T. Procter second, and Mr. A. Gillett's winning cow in the Blue Albion classes third.

MILKING TRIALS.

The British Friesian Society had repeated their offer of a £50 cash prize in the event of a cow of the black and white breed topping the score in the milking trials. Last year this handsome cheque was claimed by Messrs. Neame's Macknade Mesgone, which was again entered, but was among several other cattle of her type that were absentees, owing probably to foot-and-mouth disease restrictions. The honour of winning belonged to the Dairy Shorthorn, Mr. J. G. Peel's Watercrock Rose leading her class and scoring over all other breeds. Although calved since April 29th she gave 66lb. 3oz. of milk with 3.44 per cent. of fat, and scored 85.24 points. In dairy cows not eligible for the previous class Mr. F. N. Gilbert's Friesian, Wychnor Christabel 2nd, won with a total score of 84.90, so that she only missed the £50 prize by a fraction. She calved on July 3rd, gave 70lb. 3oz. of milk with an average fat percentage of 3.68. The next three places were filled by Friesians. The fifth was a Red Poll; the sixth a Jersey with a good yield but a comparatively low butter fat percentage; and the seventh was a Shorthorn with the low output of 35lb., but a butter fat percentage of 5.35, the richest of all the breeds.

PIGS.

The pig section was notable for its strength, there being few absentees out of the record entry of 232. In the class for sow with litter, where several breeds were represented, Mr. W. Hallas's Middle White Hazel Daisy continued her successful career. Large Whites filled the next two places. The second came from Sir Gilbert Greenall's Walton Hall herd, which provided the champion Large White boar in Boxted Turk, a second prize-winner at the Royal and champion at York. Barfield Banner, a yearling in the same ownership, was reserve. The female championship was also secured for the Walton Hall herd with Newhall Duchess 2nd, which had a similar distinction at York.

Full classes indicated the growing popularity of the Middle Whites. The best of the boars was Mr. N. B. Woollaston's 18 months' old Shenstone Deliverance. Mr. John Thompson, of Golborne, received the Gold Medal for females with Golborne Countess 2nd, an April 1923 sow of his own breeding by Histon Rover 20th. Second to her in a class of 19 entries was her litter sister, Golborne Countess. Mr. Frank Townsend, Allerton, Leeds, took the chief cards in the Berkshire classes. His entries included the boars which won distinction at the Royal, but the Leicester placings were now reversed, Highfield Royal Pygmalion 3rd going second to Highfield British Pygmalion. His winning sow was Highfield Marina 2nd, the Great Yorkshire and Royal Counties champion. These pigs are of the Princess Royal family. Mr. H. A. Brown's Grendon Don Juan was the champion Large Black boar, and the corresponding honours in females went to Mr. Harry Atherton Brown's Glendon Sunray 3rd.

Gloucester Old Spots have been seen in larger numbers here, and in the two small classes chief honours were secured by the Exors. of A. R. Pilkington, St. Helens, and Mr. T. Lawrenson, Pilling. The section for Cumberlands showed remarkable development this year. Mr. J. S. Jordan, of Bowston, Kendal, brought out the Carlisle winner, Bowston Financier, to take the Silver Challenge Cup for the best boar. He also supplied the reserve for the honour in Bowston Senator, and the best female in Janet 2nd, which was the Liverpool champion the previous year.

In connection with the new class for two bacon pigs the feeling was expressed in some quarters that this competition should be carried further than the judging of the animals on the hoof. Trap-nesting and milk recording are the real tests of the commercial values of poultry and dairy stock, and it is argued that to determine the ideal bacon pig in the way that the Danes have done, the competition to be of educational value should be carried through from the show field to the factory.

SHEEP AND GOATS.

Wensleydales and Lonks were the only breeds represented in the sheep section, and although Kerry Hills and Grey-faces had been catered for the classes drew blank. Several of the best flocks contributed to the Wensleydale classes. Mr. John Dargue led the two shear or over ram class with Carperby Blue Prince, the champion at the breed show. Other successful exhibitors were Messrs. J. A. Willis, Carperby, W. T. Milner, Slyne, and R. H. Milner, Borwick. Mr. W. T. Milner beat Mr. Willis in the competition for the special for the best pen of ram lambs, but the order was reversed in the case of gimmer lambs.

The majority of the Lonks had met at earlier shows. In rams, two shear or over, the Royal decision was reversed, Mr. E. Smith's entry now being beaten by one shown by Mr. T. Brayshaw. One of Mr. Smith's first prize-winning shearling ewes took the Porritt Cup, offered for the first time, as the best exhibit in the section. Mr. A. Taylor, Lumb-in-Rosendale, received the Challenge Cup for the best ram lamb. A class for butcher's lambs, as in the case of that for bacon pigs, was an innovation. The only supporter, however, was Mr. G. W. Isherwood, of Entwistle, who got first with Southdowns, second for Suffolks, and third for Wensleydale crosses.

In the goat section, which suffered attrition owing to foot and mouth disease restrictions, the highest awards were secured by representatives of distant herds.

POULTRY.

The show of poultry was in keeping with the Royal Lancashire reputation. A notable feature was the large entry of Waterfowl, in which Indian Runners, both fawn and white, were prominent. The championship of the exhibition section was won by a duck which had previously carried off many honours for Mr. R. Alty, Euxton. In the exhibition poultry the best classes were those for Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Sussex, and Leghorns. A fine barred Plymouth Rock cockerel, penned by Dr. E. S. Jackson, of Carnforth, was placed reserve for the championship. The utility poultry were judged for the first time in accordance with the new show standard defined by the Lancashire Federation of Utility Poultry Societies. Mr. R. Rodwell, of Nelson, secured the championship with a White Wyandotte pullet.

IMPLEMENTS AND MACHINERY.

The shedding devoted to implements and machinery covered an area equal to that occupied at the Guild Show. Under the head of single new implements ten entries were made for the Society's Silver Medal, and without recapitulating the judges' report, mention might be made of the grass rejuvenator on which the adjudicators bestowed their favours. This machine, entered by Messrs. Ransomes, Sims & Jefferies, Ltd., is fitted with a swivel wheel and a series of cutters, which pass through a slotted shoe, and can be adjusted to allow for variation in the depth required. A knife mounted on each cutter bar follows the cutter, bursts the opening made, and thus separates and aerates the grass roots. The judges expressed the opinion that this instrument would be most useful for renovating old grass land on which a thick mat has accumulated. Amongst other entries in this class was a cultivator with a new self-clearing action. In this device the tines are carried on two bars, one at the front and the other at the back, connected by a crank and arm. Instead of being lifted vertically the tines are turned practically upside down to clear them of rubbish. There are no chains or other moving parts, and a single catch operated by the driver enables the tines to be lifted, remain raised, or brought into action as desired without stopping the horses or tractor, whichever motive power may be employed. In the class for collection of agricultural implements manufactured by the exhibitor, Messrs. Harrison, McGregor & Co., Leigh, were unopposed, but well merited the Gold Medal. Messrs. Baxendale & Co., Manchester, as usual, staged a wonderful range of exhibits, catering for all branches of the farm, in the class for collection of agricultural implements submitted by an agent. On this stand, but not entered for competition, was the Jarman potato digger, which was singled out for an award of merit at the Royal Show. With this machine the soil is not lifted but scattered by means of steel tines attached to a revolving table, and in this way the tubers, it is claimed, are left bare. Adjustments could be made according to the width of the drills and the slope of the ground. The Ford Motor Company were awarded a Silver Medal for the general excellence of their stand. There were three collections of utensils required in a milk producer's and distributor's dairy, and suitable for the production of "Grade A" milk. The Gold Medal was given to the Dairy Outfit Co., Ltd., and an extra award in the form of a Silver Medal was received by the Dairy Supply Co., Ltd. The seamless cans and sieving and bottling arrangements commanded special attention in these equipments. The winning collection of utility poultry houses and appliances, staged by Messrs. A. Neaverson & Sons, included devices which from the hygienic and labour-saving points of view strongly appealed to the judges.

COUNTY COUNCIL STAND.

The activities of the education authorities in the interests of the stock and arable farmer, the poultry keeper and the horticulturist, were well illustrated at the County Council stand in charge of Mr. J. J. Green, B.Sc., the Secretary of Agriculture.

Lancashire can claim to have done pioneer work in promoting technical instruction in agriculture, and is still in the forefront of the counties in its services to all who live by the land and the exceptional facilities afforded for the training of farmers' sons and daughters. During recent years a great deal of attention has been paid to the improvement of grass land, and samples of turves from experimental plots in different parts of the county showed in a striking way the effects of lime and phosphates in the improvement of poor herbage. Under Mr. Green's direction experiments in the feeding of live stock carried out at the Hutton Farm have yielded results worthy of the attention of every farmer. These emphasise the importance of balanced rations for dairy cows on the grounds of economy as well as effective nutrition, and in the feeding of pigs strongly support the view that minerals form a much more important part of the ration than has hitherto been supposed. On the subject of animal nutrition the pamphlets issued by the County Agricultural Department are worthy of close study. The Advisory Department of Agricultural Botany and Entomology of the Manchester University had a very complete and interesting exhibit, illustrating the fungoid and insect pests injurious to farm crops.

In the dairy section specimens were shown indicating the important points in cheesemaking, and a new feature was the exhibit of common cheese mites, represented by living specimens and by enlarged drawings. At the working dairy, pupils from the Dairy School showed how small cheese can be made with simple utensils, and the school also provided the demonstrators for the object lessons in clean milk production arranged by the Corporation of Manchester. In a county unequalled for its enterprise in poultry keeping the poultry department naturally attracted a large section of visitors who profited by the lectures and demonstrations in trussing and cramming.

The development of the horticultural and nature study work necessitated the provision this year of a separate and larger pavilion for the accommodation of the exhibits. The prominence given to horticulture and the extent to which school gardening and nature study are pursued in connection with the elementary schools of the county, must have been a revelation to many visitors from distant parts of the country where the name of Lancashire brings to the minds of those who have not traversed its rural areas visions of populous manufacturing centres with forests of chimney stacks and rivers of smoke.

HORTICULTURAL SECTION.

As an important auxiliary of the show the horticultural section was never more attractive. Those who found delight in this fairyland had occasion to regret that thousands more should have allowed weather conditions to prevent them sharing their pleasures.

As a spectacular feature the show was worth a long journey to see, and new varieties of blooms from the leading raisers provided objects of fascinating interest for the connoisseur. Messrs. Cypher & Sons, Cheltenham, took premier honours in a superb collection of plants. Messrs. Bees, Ltd., of Chester, had a similar distinction in roses as well as in the herbaceous class. Considering the unfavourable summer sweet peas made a good show in both the competitive and the nursery classes. The collections of vegetables represented a very practical if less ornamental side of the exhibition. An attractive feature this year, also embraced within the great marquee, was a sunken garden with central lake.

HORSE SHOEING COMPETITIONS.

The horse shoeing competitions were again exceedingly popular, and served the dual purpose of raising the standard of efficiency in an important craft, and providing a strong auxiliary attraction for the general public. It was largely due to the overtures and enterprise of Mr. George Hardman, of Preston, that these contests were introduced, and each year he has collected the money to defray the expenses incurred, other than the money prizes which are given by the Society; has secured the necessary equipment and found donors willing to put up special prizes. It was at his suggestion that there was added to the schedule this year an inter-district competition, in which teams representing Yorkshire, Lancashire, North Stafford, and South Wales entered. A Silver Shield, costing £24, was provided, and 22 medals were offered. Yorkshire beat Lancashire by only 1½ points, and North Staffordshire was only another point behind. The South Wales team had the misfortune to lose a representative; otherwise, judging by the work of the two competitors available, they would also have put up an excellent fight. This inter-district competition created keen but friendly rivalry, and Roger Wilson, one of the Lancashire representatives, insisted upon the Yorkshire captain wearing a white rose whilst he sported a red one during the progress of the tournament. He had searched in vain for a leek, so the Welshmen were without a national emblem. At the conclusion of the inter-district competition on Saturday night there was a farewell ceremonial, the competitors gathering round the anvils and singing "Auld Lang Syne." The craftsmanship reached a high order, and the surgical work has never been excelled. For the third successive year a South Wales representative took the Dale Silver Cup for the best light horse shoeing competition, and D. E. Tuke, Long Preston, by winning the Hothersall Cup once more for the best heavy horse shoeing, claimed the trophy for his own. He and Roger Wilson, of Clitheroe, also secured coveted distinctions; each being awarded the medal of the Worshipful Company of Farriers for the best dressed feet. The hope was expressed that at the Lancaster Show the usefulness of the competitions would be further increased by the introduction of classes for novices and apprentices. Each day during the show Prof. Jones Anstey, one of the foremost authorities on farriery in the country, gave demonstrations and lectures on this important art.

LANCASHIRE FARMERS' DAY.

On Monday the county farmers and the local radius classes came up for adjudication. The Dog Show, a popular fourth day feature, attracted the record post-war entry of 1,400. The entry of nearly 300 rabbits was considered very satisfactory for an initial venture, and the number of counter attractions. With one or two exceptions the Shire classes were thinly supported, and most of the animals on view were familiar to frequenters of the local shows. For the last five shows the Exors. of H. Stuart, Mythop, have held the John Halsall Cup for the best Shire mare three years old and upwards belonging to a Lancashire farmer, and at Preston and at Liverpool they were represented by the massive Norbury Menestrel mare Tilton Musical, which now came forward for the third time. She, however, failed to register a triple win of this trophy, being beaten by Messrs. J. B. Jackson & Sons' (Little Ecclestone) Lunesdale Kingmaker black Bonny Fashion, which has not the inches of Tilton Musical, but is wide, roomy, and on a short leg, and her free and forceful leverage helped her to win the judge's favour. The Smith-Carington Challenge Cup for the junior championship was awarded for the second successive year to Mr. J. Pendlebury's Horwich Choice 2nd, a good-looking two-year-old brown daughter of Abbott's Royal Blood, and full of Shire character. Several animals which competed in the open section on Thursday, but were not entered in the county farmers' classes, were entitled to come into the ring for the Gold Medal for the best mare or filly bred by or in the possession of a resident or occupier of agricultural land in the County Palatine. Messrs. W. & J. Sumner, of Fulwood, won with the six year old Normanby Briar King mare Haseley Briar Rose, previously referred to in these notes. Messrs. Jackson's Bonny Fashion was next selected, and in putting Messrs. Sumner's Cockerham Princess in front of Messrs. Ainscough's Burscough Berenice for third place, the judge reversed the decision in the open class on Thursday, and also at Darwen and Rufford. The Hulbert Cup for the best gelding in the show was awarded to Mr. E. Davies's Anstey Forest King bay Felix. The district classes for cart horses were only sparsely filled. The Shire Horse Society offered medals for the three best groups of Shire type, and these were awarded to Mr. A. Allen, Stalybridge, the Irkdale Bleachworks, and the Manchester Corporation.

There was an excellent show of cattle, several new comers swelling the ranks of the choice representatives of county herds seen in the open classes. The Renshaw Cup for the best non-pedigree dairy cow or heifer shown by a Lancashire farmer was secured by Mr. T. Procter, Chipping, with a roan that was at the head of a strong line of in-calf dairy cows. The reserve for this honour was Mr. Nathan Hardman's winning cow in milk, where she beat several animals which had stood in front of her on Friday. Messrs. J. & J. Kay, Edenfield, triumphed in the two year old heifer class with the well-known white heifer Musbury Millicent 2nd, a daughter of Collynie Conquest. She took the Halsall Cup, and her herd companion Clipper Lass 2nd, which was first in yearlings, was reserve for the trophy.

In the championship contest for buttermakers the work was so level in merit that there was only a difference of five points between the first and the sixth competitor. The Gold Challenge Cup and the first three prizes went out of Lancashire to dairymaids who have been successful in other parts of the country, and whose wide experience in this form of competitive work was shown in the make-up and quality of the finished article. The winner, Miss Emily Parry, of Mitchell, Ledbury, was placed third in the open class on Friday. The second, Miss E. M. Mortimer, of Box, Stroud, won Friday's competition, and was third at this show last year. Miss Edith James, Llancayo, Usk, Monmouth, who was fourth in the championship contest at Liverpool, was third, and close behind her came a Lancashire County Dairy School student in Miss Ethel Lunt, who qualified for the 25 guineas Challenge Cup awarded to the resident in the county gaining the highest points in the competition. During the same show she had secured a second in open and a third in county contests. The next two places were also filled by Lancashire competitors, Miss M. S. Fowler, of the Hutton Farm taking reserve honours, and Miss N. Rowcroft, Whittingham, the very highly commended ticket.

Owing to the development of the fur industry certain breeds of rabbits have become more than a fancy, and on these grounds the Society responded to the overtures of the Manchester and District Rabbit Club, of which Mr. A. E. Lancashire is chairman, and agreed to find a place in the schedule for this type of small live-stock. Chinchillas, Beverens, and Angoras, the three utility breeds were strongly represented. In an annexe to the rabbit pavilion was staged an exhibition of articles of apparel made from the pelts of the Chinchilla and Beveren, and the wool of the Angora. Among them was the original design from which was drafted the handsome coat presented to the Duchess of York by members of the Chinchilla Rabbit Club. In a variety of ways the commercial possibilities of rabbit fur production were well illustrated.

In Memoriam

THE LATE SIR HENRY WORSLEY-TAYLOR, BART., K.C.

(Died 27th June, 1924).

For nearly thirty years Sir Henry Worsley-Taylor filled the position of a Vice-President of the Society. Although never taking an active part in the direction of its affairs, he, on several occasions, rendered very special service by bringing his distinguished legal abilities to bear upon important questions which confronted the Council. To the Lancashire public he was chiefly known as Chairman of Preston Quarter Sessions from 1890 to 1917, and Member of Parliament for the Blackpool Division from 1900 to 1905. Of the charm of his personality and private life illuminating insight is given in a letter contributed to the London "Times," about the date of his death, the writer of which paid affectionate tribute to Sir Henry's fine qualities as an English gentleman. "His love of the country and of all beautiful things was an essential part of his rich nature. . . . All through his life he studied and admired whatever was best in the work of man—poetry, drama, speeches, pictures, china. He took the greatest interest in the welfare of the Church, and especially displayed his loving care in the treatment of Whalley Church in 1909, in connection with which he took a leading part in one of the most successful restorations of an ancient Church in England. He retained to the end the brilliant faculties which had enabled him to accomplish so much during his long life, and has left a place in East Lancashire and the West Riding of Yorkshire which will not readily be filled."

THE LATE ALDERMAN ELIJAH KEIGHLEY, J.P.

(Died 29th December, 1924).

The Burnley Show of 1913 will always be linked up in the Society's records with two names—those of Sir John Thursby, Bart., its President on that historic occasion, and Alderman Elijah Keighley, Mayor of the Borough for that year. Much of the wonderful success of "Burnley, 1913" was attributable to the happy collaboration of these two leaders and the enthusiasm which jointly and severally they inspired in the locality. At the close of the Show they were again found linked together as recipients of the Hon. Life Vice-Presidentship, which the Society's sense of obligation prompted it to confer upon them.

The obituary pages of the 1921 Journal voiced the Society's deep regret at losing the first-named of the two colleagues, and now it is unfortunately necessary to record the passing of Alderman Keighley on December 29th last. The late Alderman did not allow his association with the Society to terminate with his Mayoral year, but renewed it in person at each succeeding Annual Exhibition whenever such did not coincide with his travels abroad. It was a matter he had very warmly at heart that the County Show should again come to Burnley in the near future, and, in fact, only a month or two before his death he took a very active part in a preliminary conference from which eventually ensued the invitation shortly to be laid before the Members for their 1926 Show. At this Conference he revived the happiest memories of the 1913 event, and expressed great optimism regarding prospects for the success of another visit if arranged for next year. It is to be deplored that Alderman Keighley should not have been spared to witness the culmination of his hopes in this direction, and the Society will certainly miss his helpful and encouraging presence when the occasion in due course comes round.

THE LATE VISCOUNT LEVERHULME.

(Died 7th May, 1925.)

With so comprehensive an outlook on all matters concerned with the development of the Empire's resources, it was inevitable that the late Lord Leverhulme should not be oblivious to the claims of English Agriculture and Stock Breeding. True it is that his name did not figure in lists of Showyard honours, nor was he one of the leaders of commerce who turn for relaxation from business cares to crops and country pursuits. It was on Art Galleries and monuments of kindred type that he indulged his love of building and endowing rather than upon Agricultural Research Institutes or Colleges. But the ramifications of vast business interests brought him into close touch with many aspects of Agricultural Industry, and he was ever ready to recognise, and generously to respond to, the obligations which his position imposed in regard to agricultural organizations. For many years he was President of the Wirral and Birkenhead Agricultural Society, and substantially aided that Society to acquire its Bebington Showyard. Royal Lancashire Members will specially bear him in mind as their President on the occasion of the Society's first Show after the War, held in his native town of Bolton. On that occasion, although pursued by business engagements right into the Showground, he left none of his presidential duties unfulfilled, even to attending the Herdsmen's Supper and delighting the men with his skill as a teller of good stories. A permanent memento of his year of office exists in the Breeders' Trophy for Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns, which at its close he presented to the Society.

DATES FOR THE LANCASTER SHOW.—It was reported that, after very careful consideration of the question from many points of view, including those of Exhibitors, the Railway Company, the townspeople of Lancaster and Morecambe, and the effect upon "gate" and Show Finance, the Finance Committee recommended that the dates for the Lancaster Show be the Society's usual ones, viz.: Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday (Bank Holiday), July 30th, 31st, August 1st, and 3rd.

The Railway Company's Traffic Superintendent wrote, pointing out the great difficulty of dealing with the return of the live stock if the Show closed on the Saturday evening, when railway facilities were overtaxed with pre-Bank Holiday traffic.

After a statement by the Mayor of Morecambe the Council unanimously decided to adopt the Finance Committee's recommendation.

SOUVENIR OF THE LANCASTER SHOW.—The Finance Committee, after carefully considering the application of a Liverpool firm of advertising publishers for permission to issue an official Souvenir of the Lancaster Show, recommended that the request be not entertained, on the grounds that it would prejudice the Sale of the Society's Show Catalogue and its Advertisement Receipts, and that the benefit to the Society would be practically nil. The Committee's decision was unanimously confirmed.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC FOR THE 1925 SHOW.—It being necessary to take early measures to secure a suitable Band for the Lancaster Show, the Finance Committee had that morning considered seven Tenders from leading Military and Non-Military Bands, and recommended the engagement of the Creswell Colliery Institute Band, conditional on there being a minimum of 25 performers and conductor, inclusive, for the four days of the Show. ELECTION OF NEW MEMBERS.—One Vice-President (Sir Gerald Strickland, M.P. for the Lancaster Division), and five Annual Members were duly proposed and elected.

PROPOSAL TO CONFER THE HON. VICE-PRESIDENT LIFE MEMBERSHIP UPON MR. R. B. NEILSON, J.P.—Mr. Alex. Foster, J.P., begged leave to draw attention to the eminent services which Mr. R. B. Neilson (Vice-Chairman of Council) had rendered to the Society. The Royal Lancashire, he said, had been extremely fortunate in the selection of Chairmen and Vice-Chairmen, and the present occupants of those positions, if he might say so in their presence, were second to none in the long history of the Society. (Hear, hear.) Two years ago Mr. Silcock had the pleasure of referring to the work of Mr. Windham Hale, the Chairman, and it now gave him (the speaker) equal pleasure to direct attention to that accomplished by their Vice-Chairman. He hesitated to say when Mr. Neilson was appointed a member of the Society lest he should divulge information that ought to be treated confidentially—(laughter)—but he could tell them he was elected a Vice-President in 1883, and had served in that position for 41 years. He was a Steward in the Light Horse Section in 1892, and for the last 22 years had been Senior Steward of that department. He was appointed Vice-Chairman of the Showyard and Prize List Committee in 1913, and had since succeeded to the Chairmanship, and in addition to his office as Vice-Chairman of the Council he occupied other important positions.

Mr. Neilson had not confined his activities to the Royal Lancashire. He was a member of the Council of the Cheshire Agricultural Society, and represented Cheshire on the Royal Agricultural Society of England. He was and had been for many years a member of the Hackney Horse Society, and had either judged or been a Steward at many important shows, including Olympia, Doncaster, and the Royal Dublin. He was Senior Steward of the great May Horse Parade at Liverpool, and was Vice-Chairman of the Agricultural Sub-Committee and the Farm Sub-Committee of the Lancashire County Council. That record, he thought, must be unique for any one man in the country, and indicated how worthy Mr. Neilson was of the highest honour it was in the power of the Society to confer. (Applause.)

Mr. Neilson had an ancestry that counted for something in agriculture in this part of the county, and gave him some claim to be elected to what he (Mr. Foster) had described on a previous occasion as the House of Lords of the Society, because one of his forebears, Mr. Robert Neilson, in the first half of last century, was Chairman of the Manchester and Liverpool Society, which was eventually merged into the Royal Lancashire of to-day. The Society had been very jealous in the past in regard to the bestowal of the Life Vice-Presidency. As one who had received that honour, he (the speaker) was inclined to think that whilst the Society had been generous to those who in some way had helped them financially, they had not been altogether too generous in regard to those men who had been standing the heat and burden, not only of the day, but of the years. (Applause.) In this connection the Society began the good work two years ago by conferring that well-deserved honour on their Chairman, Mr. Hale, and they now had the opportunity of conferring a similar distinction on their Vice-Chairman. These gentlemen had done everything possible for the best interests of the Society, and had not spared themselves, their leisure, or their money in doing so. He had the greatest pleasure in moving:—

“That the Honorary Vice-President Life-Membership of the Society be conferred upon Mr. R. B. Neilson, J.P., Vice-Chairman of the Council, in recognition of the eminent services which he has rendered to the Society, and as a token of the high esteem with which he is regarded by his colleagues.”

Mr. T. B. Silcock, in seconding, desired to add his testimony to the fact that the honour they proposed to bestow was one of which the Society had been extremely jealous, and very rightly so. He hoped they would never allow it to become cheap, because if they did they could say that the influence of the Society as one of the great factors in the agricultural world was on the wane. In the belief that they were bestowing honour where it was richly deserved it gave him great pleasure to second the resolution. He did not think many of them had any conception of the amount of work that Mr. Neilson had undertaken, and the duties could not have been performed more ably. From the time the show-ground began to be fitted up in Manchester Mr. Neilson had been in attendance twice and frequently three times a week. There was no doubt that in connection with next year's show at Lancaster a great deal of work would again fall on Mr. Neilson, and they could have no more worthy representative to assist their Chairman to interview the various authorities whose aid was needed in promoting the success of their show.

Mr. Francis Ellis, F.S.I., said that, as one of the oldest members of the Society and an old friend of Mr. Neilson's, he desired to associate himself with the resolution. No one knew more than he what Mr. Neilson had done, especially during the past year. They were deeply indebted, and he was sure that in the future they would owe a great deal more to him for his services.

Alderman Parkinson, J.P. (Bolton), said he was sure every member of the Council desired to support the proposition. (Hear, hear.) There was no necessity to attempt to paint the lily, and it was sufficient to say it was their unanimous opinion that no one was more deserving than Mr. Neilson of the honour they proposed to confer.

Mr. Geo. Mather, J.P. (Warrington), expressed surprise that it had not occurred to members of the Council to bestow this honour upon Mr. Neilson at an earlier period, having regard to the great benefit the Society had derived from his services. If it had not been for Mr. Neilson the Society would not have been in the position it was to-day. They could not expect anyone to have done more than he had done.

The resolution was carried with acclamation.

Mr. Neilson, who had an enthusiastic reception on rising to reply, said he found it difficult to express in suitable words how very much he appreciated the honour they proposed to confer. They all knew he liked to be brief and to the point, and if he did not make a long speech they must not take it he failed to value sufficiently the honour they were paying him and the very kind things they had said about the part he had been privileged to take in the work of the Society. He appreciated it all very highly indeed. There was no public distinction from the possession of which he could derive more gratification than that of the Hon. Life Vice-President membership, and he thanked them very sincerely. It had always been a labour of love to do all he could for the Society, and his greatest wish, as he knew it was theirs also, was to continue to carry on with ever-increasing vigour the objects for which it was established. (Loud applause.)

It was unanimously resolved that the resolution be embodied in a suitable address, and that the arrangements for its presentation be left in the hands of Messrs. Alex. Foster, T. B. Silcock, and Francis Ellis.

VILLAGE INDUSTRIES SECTION.—In connection with this section at the forthcoming Lancaster Show, the Secretary reported that Sir Jas. W. Paton (a Vice-President of the Society), had very kindly provided the prizes, viz., £7 for the Boys' and Girls' Classes, and that Mr. Alfred Peck, Wigan, had also very kindly promised the sum of £8 to augment what the Society had decided to offer in the Open Classes. In addition, Mr. Peck had also offered to defray the cost of a number of the Society's Silver Medals for merit displayed by the Working Craftsmen who would demonstrate their handicrafts at the Show.

It was resolved that the best thanks of the Society be accorded to these gentlemen for their kind offers.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF COUNCIL

The retiring Members of the Council were re-elected without a contest, viz. :—Northern Division.—Messrs. John Blundell, Gerald Garnett, Richard Hall, and Thomas Stuart. Eastern Division.—Messrs. E. G. Howsin, Myles N. Kenyon, John Taylor, and John Winder. Western Division.—Messrs. T. Eaton Jones, W. F. Neilson, John Whittaker, and J. M. Woods.

COUNCIL'S REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.

Mr. Windham E. Hale, Chairman of the Council, in moving the adoption of the Council's Report and Balance Sheet, which showed a loss of £5,500 on the Manchester Show, said this was the first time for many years they had had to record a loss on the year's working.

The deficit arose through circumstances over which the Council had no control. It was chiefly due to the very small attendance on the one hand and to certain items of expenditure on the other. The drop in receipts from admissions, grand stand, &c., as compared with the previous year, amounted to £4,600, and the diminished attendance naturally affected every other part of the Show, amongst other things accounting for the loss of £779 incurred on the catering department.

It was difficult to see how that loss could be reduced unless the attendance came up to the required standard, or how economies could be effected in any other direction.

In fitting up the show ground they spent about £1,000 more than in 1923, owing to the weather conditions and to the fact that they had to undertake the drainage of the ground, which alone involved an outlay of between £500 and £600. That would not be necessary on their next site at Lancaster.

conception of the amount of work that Mr. Neilson had undertaken, and the duties could not have been performed more ably. From the time the show-ground began to be fitted up in Manchester Mr. Neilson had been in attendance twice and frequently three times a week. There was no doubt that in connection with next year's show at Lancaster a great deal of work would again fall on Mr. Neilson, and they could have no more worthy representative to assist their Chairman to interview the various authorities whose aid was needed in promoting the success of their show.

It had always been a labour of love to do all he could for the Society, and his greatest wish, as he knew it was theirs also, was to continue to carry on with ever-increasing vigour the objects for which it was established. (Loud applause.)

It was unanimously resolved that the resolution be embodied in a suitable address, and that the arrangements for its presentation be left in the hands of Messrs. Alex. Foster, T. B. Silcock, and Francis Ellis.

VILLAGE INDUSTRIES SECTION.—In connection with this section at the forthcoming Lancaster Show, the Secretary reported that Sir Jas. W. Paton (a Vice-President of the Society), had very kindly provided the prizes, viz., £7 for the Boys' and Girls' Classes, and that Mr. Alfred Peck, Wigan, had also very kindly promised the sum of £8 to augment what the Society had decided to offer in the Open Classes. In addition, Mr. Peck had also offered to defray the cost of a number of the Society's Silver Medals for merit displayed by the Working Craftsmen who would demonstrate their handicrafts at the Show.

It was resolved that the best thanks of the Society be accorded to these gentlemen for their kind offers.

This concluded the business.

COUNCIL'S REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.

Mr. Windham E. Hale, Chairman of the Council, in moving the adoption of the Council's Report and Balance Sheet, which showed a loss of £5,500 on the Manchester Show, said this was the first time for many years they had had to record a loss on the year's working.

The deficit arose through circumstances over which the Council had no control. It was chiefly due to the very small attendance on the one hand and to certain items of expenditure on the other. The drop in receipts from admissions, grand stand, &c., as compared with the previous year, amounted to £4,800, and the diminished attendance naturally affected every other part of the Show, amongst other things accounting for the loss of £779 incurred on the catering department.

It was difficult to see how that loss could be reduced unless the attendance came up to the required standard; or how economies could be effected in any other direction.

In fitting up the show ground they spent about £1,000 more than in 1923, owing to the weather conditions and to the fact that they had to undertake the drainage of the ground, which alone involved an outlay of between £800 and £800. That would not be necessary on their next site at Lancaster.

At Lancaster, however, they were faced with the fact that, although the Council saw very little prospect of being able to reduce the expenditure on fitting up the show ground, they were likely to experience another drop in the attendance, as the surrounding districts were not nearly so populous as in some other parts of the County. Even if they secured an attendance equal to Manchester, there was the very serious possibility of the Society having to meet another deficit in the balance sheet next year. If that position had to be faced, the only way they could do so was by increasing their membership, which was not nearly so large as it ought to be in view of the importance of the Society, which, he ventured to say, was the second in England. The agricultural population of the County did not support the Society as they ought to do; in fact, the greater proportion of the members were not directly interested in agriculture. It was due to the City of Manchester to say that on no occasion had the Society received more cordial support than it did last year.

Continuing, Mr. Hale said the Lancaster show ground would be the same as that occupied by the Society on a previous visit, and was adapted in every way for a successful show. From what he had seen of the people of Lancaster and Morecambe he had every confidence that no effort would be spared to ensure the success of their visit.

Mr. John Whittaker, in seconding, said that though the balance sheet was not very good they could congratulate themselves on having had an excellent show, and of having fulfilled their mandate as an educational institution. It would not always be raining, and they could look forward to brighter days.

The Report was adopted.

DATES FOR THE LANCASTER SHOW.

Mr. W. H. Edge moved that the dates for next year's Show be Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday (Bank Holiday), July 30th, 31st, August 1st, and 3rd. Mr. Edward Cook seconded the resolution, which was carried.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

Alderman Hall moved the election as President for the Year of Lieut.-Col. Lord Richard Cavendish, C.B., C.M.G., whose family had had a distinguished association with agriculture for many generations. Those who had the Society's welfare at heart were delighted that his lordship had consented to accept the office. He (the speaker) knew many who had served under Lord Richard in the 5th King's Own during the war, and they spoke of him as a great and gallant officer who was beloved by his men.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. E. F. Peat, and carried with acclamation.

In a letter consenting to act as President, Lord Richard Cavendish said he would do everything he possibly could, but he was afraid it might be rather less than had been done by previous Presidents.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE RETIRING PRESIDENT (SIR EDWARD HOLT, Bart.).

Mr. Hale, proposing a vote of thanks to the retiring President, said that Sir Edward Holt had come forward to help the Society on earlier visits to Manchester. On the last occasion they elected him an Honorary Vice-President for the very active part he took in helping to promote success. This year no President could have done more than Sir Edward had done to further the interests of the Society. He hoped that when they next visited Manchester they would still find Sir Edward Holt there to take the same kindly interest in their Show as he had done this year. Lady Holt had taken a keen interest, and to her also they owed a debt of gratitude. On Saturday night during the Show Sir Edward presented the prizes to the herdsman who had upheld the honour of their class. He hoped their Presidents would always come amongst them on those occasions, because he was sure it did a great deal to add to the good feeling existing between the servants of the exhibitors and the Council, and proved that the Society took a friendly interest not only from the Show point of view but also from the social point of view, in those who attended their exhibitions.

Colonel Hardcastle, in seconding, said if it had not been for the President's wholehearted support the result of the Manchester Show would have been much worse than it was. He supposed they would have to write down 1924 as one of the blackest years for agricultural shows. That morning he had received the returns from the Royal Agricultural Society, which showed that they had lost £6,000 at Leicester.

The resolution was carried.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE MANCHESTER LOCAL COMMITTEE AND HON. OFFICIALS.

Mr. Alex Foster, J.P., proposed that the best thanks of the Society be accorded to the Manchester Local Committee and the Local Honorary Officials. The arrangements they made were most excellent, and, as the Chairman of the Council had already stated, they left no stone unturned to make the visit of the Society a success, and but for the adverse weather the Show would probably have been one of the most successful in its history. It was sometimes invidious to mention individuals, but the services of some of the Local Officials were so outstanding that he might refer to one or two of them. The Lord Mayor of Manchester (Ald. Jackson), who was Chairman of the General Committee, very willingly lent the prestige of his office to the Society on all occasions, and at some personal inconvenience he officially visited the Show on several days. They were greatly indebted to Councillor Cundiff, the Deputy Lord Mayor, who, as Chairman of the Local Committee, took untiring interest in the arrangements which contributed so much to the smooth running of the Show. In Mr. Francis Ellis they had a most able and energetic Vice-Chairman, who devoted a great amount of time and attention to the work of the Committee. To Sir Christopher Needham, who, with Sir Clare Lees, acted as local Treasurer, a great deal of credit was due for raising the sum of £4,500, which was a very generous contribution when they took into account the state of trade in Manchester at that time. Special mention should also be made of the Town Clerk of Manchester, who placed himself at the disposal of the Local Committee, and many facilities the Society enjoyed were due to his interest and efforts. Mr. J. Herbert Hall, who was associated with the Town Clerk in the joint office of Local Hon. Secretary, gave them the benefit of his wide experience. This was the third occasion Mr. Hall had acted in a similar capacity on the Society's visits to Manchester, and he hoped that he would be ready to accept nomination the next time the show was staged in the city.

Alderman Parkinson (Bolton) seconded the resolution, which was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICIALS.

Mr. John Hammill, Auditor; Mr. Alfred Smetham, Consulting Analytical Chemist; Mr. J. Stewart Remington, Consulting Botanist; and Mr. T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S., Hon. Consulting Veterinary Surgeon, were unanimously re-elected.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The duties of fixing the approximate sum to be offered in prizes, and the revision of rules and prize list, were deputed to the Prize List Committee.

Mr. T. Masheter (Blackpool) mentioned that at the Manchester Show prizes were given for pigs most suitable for bacon, and for fat lambs most suitable for the butcher and the consumer. As one interested in agriculture and the meat trade, he would like the Society to go further and offer prizes for the best fat animal. He realised that this was a breeder's show, but so was the Smithfield Show, at which the carcass competitions, introduced some years ago in the interests of the consumer as well as the members of the meat trade, had become a most important feature. As many good cattle were fed in the Lune Valley, he thought that a competition of this character might be appropriately introduced at the next show at Lancaster.

The Chairman promised that the suggestions should be placed before the Showyard and Prize List Committee.

Votes of thanks to the County Council for the use of the hall and to Mr. Neilson for his services in the chair concluded the business.

TO THE ANNUAL MEETING OF MEMBERS, 1924.

(1.) Few Agricultural Societies can look back upon the Show Season of 1924 with unalloyed satisfaction, and your Council regret that the Royal Lancashire Society cannot rank amongst the exceptions. They have, for the first time in 14 years, to report a financial loss on the year's operations, due to the unfortunate weather conditions which attended the Manchester Show, the counter attractions of the Empire Exhibition at Wembley, and the prevailing depression in trade. These all combined to mar what promised in every other respect to be a most successful Exhibition. Their adverse influences were evident not only on the Gate and Grand Stand receipts, but in the subsidiary departments of the Show—the Catering, Catalogue, Garage, Parcels Office, &c., which normally contribute to the Show revenue, and whose falling-off at Manchester increases therefore the comparative deficit.

(2.) To deal in the first place, however, with the brighter aspects of the Show, your Council wish to express their grateful appreciation of the warm welcome extended to the Society, on this, as on former visits to Manchester, by its Corporation and prominent citizens. A splendid lead was given by Sir Edward Holt, the Society's President for the year, whose support to the Local Fund and Local Prize List was most generous. Sir Edward took an active part in all the deliberations of the Local Executive Committee, and at the Show itself fulfilled all the presidential duties—graciously seconded by Lady Holt—in a manner which calls for the Society's most appreciative thanks.

(3.) The Lord Mayor of Manchester (Alderman W. T. Jackson) was Chairman of the Local General Committee, with Sir Arthur A. Haworth, Bart., as Vice-Chairman. At the head of the Local Executive Committee Councillor William Cundiff, the Deputy Lord Mayor, was most indefatigable in his efforts to promote the success of the local arrangements, similar zeal being displayed by Mr. Francis Ellis (Vice-Chairman), Sir Christopher Needham and Sir William Clare Lees (Honorary Treasurers), and the Joint Honorary Secretaries—Mr. P. M. Heath (Town Clerk), and Mr. J. Herbert Hall (who acted in this capacity for the third occasion in connection with the Society's visits to Manchester.) Of the enthusiasm displayed by these gentlemen it is impossible to speak too highly, and the Society's best thanks are due to them and the Local Executive Committee. An office in the Town Hall was opened as the Committee's Headquarters, from which was organised the raising of a fund to assist towards the expenses of the Show. After defraying compensation charges for use of Show Site, and local printing, advertising, etc., expenses, the balance of this fund amounting to £3935 was handed over to the Society.

(4.) Your Council also desire to place on record their obligation for much valuable help rendered by the Chairmen and executive heads of Corporation departments concerned with the Show preparations, notably the Water, Gas, Electricity, Tramways, Parks and Gardens, Cleansing, and City Surveyor's Departments.

(5.) The site at Mauldeth Road, Withington, would have been—given fine weather—an ideal one for the purposes of the Show. It was very level and of good conformation, naturally adapting itself to the grouping of exhibits in appropriate sections all within easy distance of the centre of the Yard. In addition a large amount of draining and eradication of fences had, at a considerable cost, been undertaken by the Society, with results which impressed everyone who visited the field up to a week before the opening day. Unfortunately, the ground had in its stiff clay subsoil a defect which would in the event of bad weather outweigh all its advantages, and it was the fate of the Show that such was to be experienced. The bringing on of exhibits had to be accomplished under great difficulties, and although brief spells of better weather gave rise to hopes both prior to and during the Show period that the recovery of the ground to a dry condition might be possible, these were time after time frustrated. Singularly, it was only on one of the Show days (viz., Friday, August 1st) that rain actually fell during the 12 hour periods covered by Wet Weather Insurance.

(6.) Entries in the Live Stock and Implement Sections were very satisfactory, a record being marked by the collective figures for the Pig Classes, whilst the total in the Light Horse Section has only once been exceeded, viz., at Manchester in 1903. The deplorable spread of Foot and Mouth Disease undoubtedly prevented the numbers in the Cattle, Pig, Sheep, and Goat Sections from being still better, and the precautionary measures which had to be taken in this connection on the arrival of stock at the ground entailed much extra work on the Society's Veterinary Officials.

(7.) Special contributions to the Prize List this year have been exceptionally generous, and represent in total value the largest amount previously shown in one year.

The Society's grateful thanks should be accorded to the following donors:—

The President, Sir Edward Holt, Bart., C.B.E. (Prizes for Herdsmen and Grooms, also £50 in Local Prizes); Mr. Walter Briggs (£50 Challenge Cup for Hackney Stallions); Mr. T. A. Longworth (£30 Challenge Trophy for Hunters); Sir Lindsay Parkinson, J.P. (25gns. Challenge Cup for Harness Pairs); Messrs. Elkington & Co., Ltd. (renewal of their 25gns. Challenge Cup for Lancashire Cheese); The Members of the Lancashire Veterinary Medical Association, per Mr. T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S. (25gns. Challenge Trophy for the Inter-District Shoeing Competition); Mr. John Taylor, Oldham (£15 Class Prizes for Lancashire Farmers' Brood Mares); Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.C.S. (£10 10s. towards Prizes for Lancashire Cheese); Mrs. G. H. Pilkington (£5 for Jersey Cattle); Mrs. Edward Mucklow, Lt.-Col. H. M. Hardcastle, J.P., T.D., Mr. Francis Ellis, F.S.I., and Sir Gilbert Greenall, Bart., C.V.O. (Prizes for Children's Riding Pony Classes); His Grace the Duke of Westminster (£9 for Berkshire Pigs); Mr. F. Calvert Butler (Special Prizes for Wensleydale Lambs); Dr. E. S. Jackson, M.B.E. and Mr. H. A. Turner. (Prizes for Young Hunters); the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society, and numerous Breed Associations. In addition, new Challenge Cups are being generously provided by Mr. Alderman Robert Parkinson, J.P., Bolton, Mr. W. S. Miller, Glasgow, and Mr. T. A. Longworth, Middleton, which will have their places in next year's Prize Schedule.

(8.) The thanks of the Society are also due to Messrs. Kendal, Milne (Harrods) Ltd., Manchester, for decorating and furnishing with such excellence the President's Pavilion; and to the Manchester Corporation Parks and Gardens Committee for floral and foliage decorations on the Show Yard.

(9.) The Show was officially visited on the opening day by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Manchester and the Mayor and Mayoress of Salford. Accompanying them were the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of London and their two Sheriffs.

(10.) On Sunday, August 3rd, in accordance with the usual custom, Divine Service was conducted in the Show Yard. The late Dean of Manchester (Dr. McCormick) had undertaken to be the preacher, but was prevented at the last moment by illness the fatal termination of which your Council deeply regret. The breach thus caused was very kindly filled at the shortest notice by the Rev. G. W. Skeet, of St. Ann's, Manchester, and by permission of the Chief Constable of Manchester the City Police Band accompanied the singing. Heavy rain unfortunately interfered with the attendance of the public. The collection taken on behalf of the Manchester Royal Infirmary amounted to £12 12s.

(11.) The Lancashire County Council Agricultural Sub-Committee again marked their great interest in the educational side of the Show by providing cream, &c., for the butter-making competitions and poultry for the trussing competitions; also by granting £25 towards the expenses of the Working Dairy.

(12.) Losses by the decease of prominent supporters have unfortunately been more than usually heavy during the year. Amongst these, the greatest blow was sustained by the death, in January, of Mr. W. Fitzherbert-Brockholes, C.B.E., closely followed by Sir Frank Hollins, Bart., Mr. G. Norris Midwood, and Mr. W. O. Smethurst, particulars of whose services were given in the Annual Journal. The Council have since had to deplore the loss, in Sir Henry Worsley Taylor, Bart., K.C., of a highly-esteemed Vice-President, who always took a useful interest in the Society. Other notable losses have been:—Mr. W. S. Airey, C.C., Mr. Norris Bretherton, J.P., Mr. D. W. Collyer, Mr. William Bradley, J.P., Mr. John Hulbert, Mr. James Kenyon, J.P., Mr. Matthew Kirkham, J.P., Mr. J. W. Makant, J.P., Alderman W. E. Ord, J.P., Dr. J. Patchett, and Alderman Wm. Hy. Woods, J.P. It is very necessary that steps should be taken to repair the inroads made in the membership roll by the foregoing and other losses, and your Council appeal for the endeavours of members to induce their friends to support the Society.

(13.) The new Members elected during the year comprise 2 Life Vice-Presidents, 10 Annual Vice-Presidents, 10 Life Members, and 165 Annual Members. The Membership Roll, after undergoing careful scrutiny, stands at 2656.

(14.) In accordance with a unanimous resolution passed by a special meeting of members held on the Manchester Show Ground, the Society's 1925 Show will be held at Lancaster. The invitation for this was extended in very cordial terms by the Mayor of Lancaster (Alderman George Jackson), whose acceptance of office for a second year is a source of gratification to your Council, Alderman Richard Hall, whom it is an equal pleasure to regard as Mayor of Morecambe for the coming year, Mr. J. T. Sanderson, President of the Lancaster Agricultural Society, and others. Arrangements have already been made for the use of the same site as on the last occasion, viz., Scale Hall, Lancaster, an admirable and most convenient piece of land for the purpose.

Nineteen years intervene between the previous and the forthcoming visits to the County town, and your Council feel assured that the Society will receive the most enthusiastic of welcomes from the whole of the northern portion of its district.

Samples of Linseed or other Feeding Cakes should be obtained by breaking a piece from the middle portion of three of the cakes.

When an estimate of the value of any sample submitted for analysis is required, it is desirable to state the selling price, together with all the conditions of sale.

For the analysis of water intended for drinking purposes half a gallon is required, sent in a perfectly clean bottle. The bottle should be rinsed out several times with the water previous to filling and sealing.

In taking a sample of soil, a box about 9 inches square and 18 inches in depth must be obtained. In a part of the field from which the sample is to be taken the soil is dug so that a portion which will exactly fill the box is left standing, and by inverting the box over it, the soil may be transferred intact.

These privileges are applicable only when the Analyses are for bona-fide agricultural purposes, and are required by Members of the Society for their own use and guidance in respect of farms or lands in their own occupation.

The Analyses are given on the understanding that they are required for the individual and sole benefit of the Member applying for them, and must not be used for other persons, or for commercial purposes.

The election of the President for the year, Council, and all other officers except the Secretary, shall be by a majority of votes at the Annual General Meeting of Members, to be held at Preston, not later than December 10th. Nominations of Members to supply the vacancies annually occurring, must be made according to the form printed in the Society's Journal, and sent to the Secretary before the 25th September, or any other date fixed by the Council or Annual Meeting. Each Nomination Form must be signed by a Member, but no person shall be entitled to propose more than one candidate, and only for the Division in which he himself resides. No candidate shall be eligible for election as a Member of Council, unless he has been a Member of the Society for at least two years. A list of the Nominations, with the proposers, must be printed on the notice convening the Annual Meeting. Should there be an insufficient number of nominations, the election shall rest entirely with the Annual Meeting. Candidates for any of the offices must retire from the room during the election. Vacancies occurring in the Council during the year, or amongst the officers, may be filled by the Council. Any Member of Council who, during his term of office, shall become bankrupt, or incapacitated to act, or express in writing his wish to resign, or shall absent himself from three consecutive meetings of the Council without furnishing a satisfactory explanation of his absence, shall be considered to have vacated his membership of the Council.

APPOINTMENT OF SECRETARY.

10. The Secretary shall be appointed by the Council whenever a vacancy shall arise. The office of Secretary shall be determinable by three months' notice given in writing by the Chairman of the Council, on behalf of the Council, at any time. The Secretary shall give three months' notice in writing to the Chairman of the Council, to terminate at the Annual Meeting in any year. The Secretary shall give such security, receive such salary, and fulfil such duties as the Council shall from time to time arrange.

BUSINESS OF THE ANNUAL MEETING

11. At the Annual Meeting the Council shall present a report of the last year's proceedings; the meeting shall then fix the date on which the next Show shall take place; fix the approximate sum to be offered in prizes; revise the Rules and Prize List, or depute the revision and settlement of the Prize List to a Committee; and transact any other business.

MEMBERS IN ARREARS, &c.

12. Members whose subscriptions are unpaid shall not be entitled to make nominations, in accordance with Rule 9, or to vote at General Meetings, and no Member shall be entitled to vote at the same Meeting at which he is elected, or at any adjournment thereof.

COUNCIL AND COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

13. The Council shall meet in the months of February, April, July, November, and December, and at such other times as the Chairman and Secretary shall consider necessary. Two of the Meetings shall take place at Preston. It shall annually appoint its own Chairman and Vice-Chairman at its first meeting after the Annual Meeting of Members, and shall at the same meeting appoint Sub-Committees from its own body, for the more efficient conduct of the details of the Society's business. These Committees shall arrange their several meetings so as to be held on regular and stated days, and shall appoint their own Chairman, and a record of the proceedings shall be kept by the Secretary and regularly presented to the Council for confirmation. Seven shall form a quorum at a Council Meeting, three at a Committee Meeting, and twenty at a General Meeting of Members. In case of equality of votes on any occasion at a Council, Committee, or General Meeting, the Chairman presiding shall have a casting vote. Not less than seven days' notice shall be given of all Council and General Meetings. Before any Member of the Council shall move a resolution, having for its object the rescinding or varying of any previous decision of the Council, it shall be necessary for him to give fourteen days' notice of his intention to the Secretary, in order that such notice may appear on the notice convening the meeting.

SPECIAL MEETING.

14. A Special Meeting of the Council may be called at any time, on request in writing being made to the Secretary by any five of its Members, and a General Meeting of Members may be also called at any time on request in writing to the Secretary by any ten Members, provided a deposit of £5 in the one case and £10 in the other case be made with the Secretary, for and towards defraying the expenses of such Meeting, in case the object of it be not approved by the Meeting. Any balance that may remain after paying the expenses of such Meeting shall be returned to the parties from whom the deposit was received.

SHOW-YARD REGULATIONS.

15. The Show-yard regulations and rules shall be annually drawn up or revised by the Show-yard and Prize List Committee, previously to the issuing of the Prize List.

APPOINTMENT OF JUDGES.

16. The Council, at their Meeting in November, shall appoint the Judges of Farms, Crops, Live Stock, Agricultural Produce, Implements, and miscellaneous Articles, for the approaching Show. Previous to the Meeting the Judges' Selection Committee shall meet and prepare a List of Names of gentlemen of acknowledged experience and ability in order to assist the Council in the selection of Judges. The names of the Judges who have accepted office shall be published in all issues of the prize schedule.

APPOINTMENT OF STEWARDS.

17. The Council, at their Meeting in December, shall appoint the Senior Stewards for the ensuing Show.

THE DECISION OF JUDGES.

18. The decision of the Judges will in all cases be final, except where fraud, misrepresentation, or breach of the Rules is discovered; and any exhibitor who shall be disqualified for fraud, misrepresentation, or breach of the Rules is liable to forfeit the prizes or cups awarded to him at that Show or Meeting.

PROTESTS.

NOT APPEALING TO DOG SECTION.

19. All objections to be in writing and lodged with the Secretary by not later than 12 o'clock noon on the day after which the award affected has been made, or by not later than 2 p.m. on the last day of the Show in the event of the award being made on that day, and the objector must at the same time lodge a sum of £2 in the hands of the Secretary, which deposit shall be forfeited if the Council consider the objection to be frivolous, but if the Protest be sustained, the Prize awarded to the Exhibitor shall be forfeited, and be dealt with as the Council may determine, and the deposit returned to the objector.

RULES OF OTHER ASSOCIATIONS.

20.—The Show-yard Committee shall be empowered to adopt, in connection with any section at the Society's Annual Show, any Association or Club Rules if thought advisable.

RE HEIGHT OF ANIMALS.

21.—When a protest is lodged against an exhibit with reference to height, the Secretary shall have power to instruct one of the Society's Veterinary Surgeons to measure the animal. In the event of the Secretary being unable to find one of the Society's Veterinary Surgeons, he shall thereupon call in a qualified Veterinary Surgeon to measure the animal on behalf of the Society, and the decision of either shall be final. The animal to be measured with or without shoes, as shown before the Judges, and if the shoes have been removed, feet pared, or in any way altered or tampered with after leaving the Judging Ring, the exhibitor shall forfeit such prize or prizes that may have been awarded.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN JUDGES.

22. In case of a difference of opinion between Judges respecting the award of any prize in the Show-yard, or in the event of the Judge or Judges being unable to decide between any two animals, the Senior Steward of the Section shall be empowered to appoint an Umpire (not being a Member of the Council), whose decision shall be final. In the event of any Judge leaving before the judging of the Class of Stock in which he is engaged is completed, the appointment of his deputy shall be made in the same way.

RESERVATION OF PRIZES, &c.

23. The Society reserves to itself the power to withhold any prize or portion of a prize where the Judges report there is not sufficient merit, although there may be three or more competitors; but in cases of real merit, although there may be but one claimant, the prize shall be given. No animal that has been exhibited as Fat Stock at any Show shall compete for any of the Prizes offered by the Society.

FORFEITURE OF PRIZES, &c.

24. Any person to whom a prize has been adjudged, and who, as shall subsequently appear, has obtained it through imposition, shall forfeit such prize and any other prizes gained at the same time, shall be excluded from making any claim or entry in future, and, if a Member, shall be expelled from the Society. And any person who has been expelled from any Agricultural Society, in consequence of having attempted to gain a prize by giving a false certificate or by fraud, or who has been expelled from any Breed Society for fraudulent practice, shall not be eligible to compete for any of the Prizes offered by this Society, or for Membership, and if a Member, shall be liable to be expelled, on a resolution passed by a majority of the Council.

AUDITOR, &c.

25. The Auditor shall from time to time, examine, the Secretary's Accounts, and certify the Balance Sheet, and an abstract thereof shall be printed and issued to the Members not less than seven days before the Annual General Meeting, with the notice convening such meeting.

NEW RULES OR ALTERATIONS.

26. Any Member wishing to make new rules, or to propose alterations, must give notice in writing to the Secretary on or before September 25th, and notice of such additions or alterations shall be printed and circulated with the notice of Meeting, and be brought up there for discussion and decision in the usual way. Subjects of a party or political character shall not be allowed on any occasion.

BREEDING FOR MILK

By Professor JAMES WILSON.

IT is difficult to say when the English farmer began to breed for milk and almost as difficult to say when he discovered that cows' yields varied and, in the discovery, found an incentive to breed for milk. He knew, in Anglo-Norman times, that the cow gave more milk on some pastures than on others; but, as his chief object was to breed bullocks for the plough, and his stock were starved, in winter, till turnips became common in the middle of the eighteenth century, it is more than likely he never imagined his cows might give very different yields. Indeed, it is possible that cows in England did not vary much in yield till after the Dutch importations, which began in the seventeenth century. Early in that century, travellers and soldiers discovered that the Low Country farmers were better than the English and had better and larger cattle; and some enterprising Englishmen began to introduce Low Country crops (among them the turnip), and systems of farming, and to import Low Country cattle. The imported cattle were landed on the east coast and multiplied most in Lincoln, York, and Durham. Eventually some of their descendants were carried to most parts of Britain and crossed with the native cattle. Shorthorns and Ayrshires are more directly, other British breeds less directly, descended from these Low Country cattle.

One of the first to tell us that the Low Country cattle were good milkers is Mortimer, who, in his "Whole Body of Husbandry," published in 1716, says "the best sort of Cows for the Pail, only that they are tender and need very good keeping, are the long-legged short-horn'd Cow of the Dutch breed, which is to be found in some places of Lincolnshire, but most used in Kent." Thirty years later, in his "Modern Husbandman," published in 1744, Ellis says "of all the cows in England, I think none comes up to the Holderness breed, for their wide bags, short horns, and large bodies, which render them (whether black or red) the most profitable beasts for the dairyman, grazier, and butcher. Some of them have yielded two and three gallons at a meal. . . . When this breed is mixed with some of our best English, I have known them to give a great deal of milk." Thus, before they were known by their present name, the Shorthorns were known to be good milkers and to leave good milkers, when crossed with other breeds.

Many of the cows belonging to the earlier Shorthorn breeders were good milkers, but the Collings, and others of their time, were more impressed by a large beef than by a large milk yield. Charles Colling parted with Hubback because he was "discouraged by public opinion running rather on size than quality." A herd of good milking cows might have local fame, but a herd which sent the best bullocks to Darlington market had something more. Bates, who was a quarter of a century younger than the Collings, was perhaps the first to suggest that Shorthorn breeders should not lose sight of milk yield. In 1778, when he was a very young boy, his father had bought a calf "from a cow belonging to Mr. Dixon, of Ingoe, which gave forty quarts of milk a day. This cow's dam, the only one kept by its owner at Stamfordham, had given the prodigious quantity of twenty-four quarts twice a day. The calf purchased by George Bates was eventually fed off at seventeen years of age, and made a very fat and handsome carcase. Her descendants were good feeders and quick grazers when put dry, though none of them gave as much milk as she did. They were not great consumers of hay, and turnips were then never given to milch cows." Yet, though he talked about milk, it could scarcely be said that Bates bred for milk, but, rather, that some of the things for which he bred were believed to be linked up with milk. He was a keen exhibitor, and his stock had to go before judges who judged animals by their external appearance; he believed he could make the Shorthorn put on more beef with less food; and he was strongly biased towards the descendants of animals having certain external characteristics. The original Hubback "was one of the most remarkably quick feeders ever known. He retained his soft and downy coat long into the summer; his handling was superior to that of any bull of his day." His dam was a good milker. One of Bates's own bulls, called Second Hubback, descended several times over from the original Hubback, was believed by Bates to be "the best bull he had ever had, and destined to be quite a regenerator of the Shorthorns. The stock got by him were all alike in shape, colour, hair, and handling, as well as in countenance, a point which never deceives a good judge of cattle. All the cows got by him were good milkers." With good countenances, good shapes, soft hair, and good handling, cattle could scarcely help being good milkers as well as quick feeders.

Towards the end of his career, Bates maintained that "in general . . . during thirty-five years of breeding, he had effected an improvement in Shorthorns whereby with a third less consumption they gained a third more weight, and that while their milking qualities were unimpaired, the milk yielded a third more butter." It would be very difficult to defend the first and the last of Bates's claims, and, though, were the third defended, the second could be more than defended, a cautious advocate would be chary of undertaking the defence of the second. Bates had no doubt, however, and, whether they were swayed by his earnestness and reputation or believed in the external signs in which he believed, later breeders assumed that Bates Shorthorns were good milkers and would leave good milkers, but did not put their assumption to the test of the scales or the measure.

In the last quarter of the nineteenth century, especially after the Dairy Farmers' Association had held a few of their annual shows, dairy farmers here and there began to weigh or measure the cows' yields, and found that the capacity to give a large yield was not confined to cows of one line of descent or even of one breed; that there were high-yielding and low-yielding cows in most families and most breeds; and that there were as good milkers among non-pedigreed and cross-bred cows as among the longest-pedigreed pure breds. Some breeds and sections of breeds might contain a greater number of high-yielding cows, some breeds and sections a greater proportion of low-yielding cows, and the average might be higher in some breeds than in others, but, in all breeds in which the scales or the measure had been used, the milk yields varied enormously. Early in this period, the separator, which had just been invented, and the creameries, which had been established, led many farmers, especially in Scandinavia, to look more closely to the milk and butter yields of their individual cows; and it was revealed to them also that there were good and bad milkers in most breeds and families, and that the differences between the best and the worst were enormous.

As the milk measuring habit increased and records accumulated, it became obvious that the cow's yield is not constant, but varies with a number of disturbing causes, of which the more important are age, food, time of calving, length of lactation, time between calvings, shelter, and, of course, health. The eight-year-old cow may give twice as much milk as the two-year-old; the cow which gives 800 gallons, in one man's hands, may give 1,200 or 1,400, in another's; the cow calving in winter may give 200 gallons more than an equally good cow calving in summer, and a shortness of minerals, though it might scarcely affect the indifferent cow, might cause the high-yielding to collapse. Thus, if yields are to be compared, as they must be, if the manner of their inheritance is to be considered, we must either discover what allowances must be made for the effects of disturbing causes or catch the yield—i.e., measure and record it—at a time when few or none of these disturbing causes are operating.

If cows are in good health and reasonably well fed, their yields rise to a maximum, within a week or two of calving, which is not affected by any other known cause than age. After the maximum is passed, the yield declines more or less quickly and ends sooner or later, according as it is affected by the other disturbing causes. For a cow on average food the yield at the maximum is a useful approximate measure of the total yield during a normal lactation period. Multiplied by 200, it gives the yield for the lactation, if the cow calve in winter; by 180, if the cow calve in summer.

The maximum yield may be found by plotting on squared paper the daily yields for a week or two at the flush and running a curve through the average of the plottings. The top of the curve is the maximum. If it cannot be found in this way, it may be found by averaging the three highest yields made on the same day in three successive weeks. If, for example, the yields on the same day of six successive weeks be 20, 35, 39, 41, 42 and 38, the maximum is $\frac{39+40+41}{3}$, that is, 40lb.

The diagram on page 12 shows how the yield rises with the cow's age. It is constructed from work done at home and in the United States, but relies chiefly on the records published during the past twenty years by the Ayrshire Milk Records Association. The lower part of the line in the diagram is dotted to show that, because the data from cows under three years old are comparatively fewer than from older cows, this part of the line is less reliable than the rest.

With this diagram, we can reduce the yields of cows at any age up to eight years to what they should have been, or should be, at any age up to eight. If the yields of a number of cows be reduced to what they should be at some standard age, the cows can be compared with each other as to milking capacity. If, for example, a cow's maximum yield at four years old is 40lb., her maximum yield at three years old is found by multiplying 40lb. by 56 (the point in the curve perpendicularly above 3 years) and dividing by 76 (the point in the curve above 4 years). The result is 29.5. If another cow, at six years old give 50lbs. of milk at the maximum, her maximum, at three years old is also 29.5lb., and the two cows are of equal milking capacity.

The following diagram is plotted from the yields of 128 Short-horn cows belonging to three different herds. The yields are reduced to what they would have been had every cow been exactly three years old. The average yield of all the cows is 27.3lbs., and it will be noticed by the diagram that the bulk of the yields are not far from the average, while very few lie near the extremes of 10lb. and 50lb. This is what usually happens in an assemblage of data from animals of many different capacities. It will also be noticed that there are three distinct peaks in the diagram and suggestions of two others on either side of the three. And, since they represent grades of yield and are separated from each other by three or four pounds, the peaks suggest that there are, at least, ten or twelve different grades of yield among cows of the kind from which the 128 are drawn: that there are at least ten or twelve grades of yield among Shorthorn cows. They may be pure-breeding in the characters that make up their external appearance, size and weight, but they are not pure-breeding in milk yield. Nor is this to be wondered at, for they are the descendants of many crosses: of crossings farther back than the valley of the Tees, farther back than the Low Countries, farther back than Schleswig-Holstein and Denmark, whence many cattle were brought to the Low Countries to fill up the gaps made by the rinderpest in the sixteenth century: and, as yet, they have not been made pure-breeding in milk yield.

It is now clear that, if any set of animals is to be made pure-breeding for the production of milk, butter, beef, or any other product, it will be made so by some method based upon Mendel's experiments. Mendel's experiments were made with plants, but we can make the deductions derivable from them clearer to cattle breeders by describing what would happen if his experiments were made with cattle.

If black cattle are crossed with red, their crosses are all black. The black colour overcomes the red and is called dominant, the red retires and is called recessive. But, if the crosses are mated with each other, the red colour reappears again on every fourth calf. That is, there are three blacks to one red, and, if these are bred from, only one of the three blacks breeds true—the other two are crosses again—but every red breeds true. To account for these phenomena, Mendel advanced the theory that, though they carry only the black colour, the crosses carry the causes—or factors, as they are usually called—to produce both colours, and CARRY THESE FACTORS IN EQUAL NUMBERS. If B stands for the black factor and r for the red, Mendel's theory might be indicated thus:—

Factors carried by the

_____ B
_____ r

Factors carried by the

Having equal chances of getting the black or the red factor from each of its parents, the crosses' progeny must get from both parents together either B and B, or B and r, or r and B, or r and r; and the first must be black and pure-breeding, the second and third black but not pure-breeding, the fourth red and pure-breeding.

If black, polled cattle are crossed with red, horned cattle, their crosses are black and polled. Like the black character to the red, the polled character is dominant to the horned. But, if the crosses are mated with each other, their progeny are not of two kinds but of four, namely, black and polled, black and horned, red and polled, and red and horned, in the proportion 9 of the first kind, to 3 of the next, to 3 of the next, to 1 of the fourth; and further, while all of the fourth kind and one in three of the second and third kinds breed true, only one in nine of the first kind breed true.

If cattle which are black, polled and coloured on the face are mated with cattle which are red, horned and white faced, their crosses are all black, polled and white faced, but, when the crosses are mated with each other, their progeny are of eight different kinds, in proportion 27 : 9 : 9 : 9 : 3 : 3 : 3 : 1, and only 1 in 27 of the largest group, 1 in 9 of the next largest, and so on, breeds true.

If we consider more particularly what would happen if a breeder crossed Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford cattle and wished to raise a new breed in which some of the characters of both breeds were combined, we may perhaps see more clearly the problem of making a breed of cattle breed true for milk. The Aberdeen-Angus and the Hereford differ in four distinct pairs of characters. They differ in other less noticeable characters, but these may be neglected. The Aberdeen-Angus is BLACK, POLLED, coloured on the face, and SOLID COLOURED on the body; the Hereford is red, horned, WHITE-FACED, and flecked. The dominant characters are printed in capitals, the recessives in ordinary type. When the breeds are crossed, their crosses are BLACK, POLLED, WHITE-FACED, and SOLID COLOURED on the body, but when the crosses are mated with each other, their progeny consist of 16 different kinds, each in definite proportions to each and all the others, and, of each kind, certain proportions breed true, as follows :

				Proportionate Numbers	Breeding True
1.	BLACK	POLLED	WHITE FACE	SOLID	81 1 in 81
2.	BLACK	POLLED	WHITE FACE	flecked	27 1 in 27
3.	BLACK	POLLED	black face	SOLID	27 1 in 27
4.	BLACK	horned	WHITE FACE	SOLID	27 1 in 27
5.	red	POLLED	WHITE FACE	SOLID	27 1 in 27
6.	BLACK	POLLED	black face	flecked	9 1 in 9
7.	BLACK	horned	black face	SOLID	9 1 in 9
8.	red	horned	WHITE FACE	SOLID	9 1 in 9
9.	red	POLLED	WHITE FACE	flecked	9 1 in 9
10.	BLACK	horned	WHITE FACE	flecked	9 1 in 9
11.	red	POLLED	red face	SOLID	9 1 in 9
12.	BLACK	horned	black face	flecked	3 1 in 3
13.	red	POLLED	red face	flecked	3 1 in 3
14.	red	horned	WHITE FACE	flecked	3 1 in 3
15.	red	horned	red face	SOLID	3 1 in 3
16.	red	horned	red face	flecked	1 1 in 3

If the breeder wished his new breed to be the 16th kind, carrying the four recessives, he would have to breed about 500 calves—more or less, but, on the average 512—before he found a male and female of the kind he desired. Then, however, his difficulties would cease, for all found would breed true.

If he wished his new breed to be any of the kinds from 12 to 15, he would have three males and three females of the kind he wanted, when he had bred about 512 calves; but only one of each sex would breed true.

If he wished his new breed to be of the first kind, carrying the four dominant characters, he would have 81 males and 81 females of the kind he wanted when he had bred about 500 calves, but only one of the 81 of either sex would breed true. The breeder's difficulties are just beginning, and his task of making his new breed true is to be tedious and costly. He could adopt one of three or four different plans.

FIRST.—The old plan of persistently casting out all the young that are not of the desired kind and breeding from the remainder. His stock would gradually, but very slowly, breed truer and truer; but they might not all breed true in all four characters for a century or two; and then he could not be certain whether they were breeding true or not.

SECOND.—The old plan might be improved upon by casting out not only the young that were not of the desired kind, but also those of both sexes that bred them. The breeder's stock would breed true much sooner, but again, he would not know when they were doing so.

THIRD.—The breeder could test his young stock to discover those that bred true, by mating them with stock carrying the recessives of the desired characters. His selected black, polled, white faced and solid coloured males could be mated each with eight or ten red, horned, red faced and flecked heifers till one were found that left all his calves carrying the four desired dominant characters. In all probability this would take a long time, unless the breeder had a very large number of animals. He would be lucky if he found a true-breeding male among the first fifty. But this method would be very expensive and slow with females, for each would have to be mated at least six or seven times with recessive sires before any of them could be assumed to be true-breeding, and then the tested animals might be nearly past breeding. This method, however, might be the quickest in the long run, for so soon as a true-breeding sire and dam were discovered, their descendants would breed true.

FOURTH.—The breeder might combine plan two with a portion of plan three. He could begin to test spare young sires so soon as his first crosses were old enough, and continue multiplying his stock carrying the desired characters, according to plan two. If he found no pure-breeding sire among his first crosses' progeny, he would have a greater chance of finding one in the next generation, still greater in the next again. Fewer would have to be tested till one were found; and, when one had been found and used, the difficulty of identifying true-breeding stock among his descendants would be greatly diminished. If a true-breeding sire were used, more than half the stock are true-breeding in one pair of characters at the second cross, in two at the third, in three at the third, and in four at the fourth.

But the milk breeder has more, and more serious, difficulties to overcome. He does not know the highest possible yield, nor how many factors are concerned in its production. He does not know whether the high-yielding factors are dominants or recessives. He may search long and carefully before he finds a cow giving the highest possible yield, but, search as he will, he will not find a bull which can be proved to be of equal capacity. He cannot cross two breeds or two sections of one breed, as we have crossed the Aberdeen-Angus and the Hereford, and know that they carry between them the factors he desires—the factors to produce maximum yield; and that some or any of their progeny will be capable of producing maximum yield. He has only impure and unknown materials to work with.

The diagram on page 18 indicates that there are ten or twelve grades of milk yield. According to Mendel's work there must be more, some of them possibly alike in quantity, but produced by different factors. If there are ten or twelve, there must be not less than sixteen, and four pairs of factors concerned in their production. According to the diagram, the highest yield of a three-year-old cow is 50lb., the lowest 10. There may be both higher and lower yields. It will help us to understand the problem if we assume that the highest yield is about 50, the lowest 10; that there are sixteen grades (some possibly alike) separated from each other by three or four pounds; that there are four pairs of factors; that the high factors are dominants, the low factors recessives; and that the four dominants and their recessives produce respectively 20 and 4, 15 and 3, 10 and 2, and 5 and 1lb. Then, if pure-breeding cows carrying the four dominants and yielding 50lb. of milk, were mated with bulls carrying the four recessives, their daughters would yield 50lb., but both daughters and sons would carry the factors for 50 and 10, and their progeny would consist of sixteen different kinds, just as sixteen different kinds were produced by the Angus and Hereford crosses, as follows :—

When the second crosses have been produced, the breeder's next task would be to discover which of the cows yielded 50lb., and put away the rest. But with which bull are the selected cows to be mated? Since the second cross bulls carry no indications of milk and their milk breeding capacity cannot be identified till their daughters give milk, and, since the first cross bulls are, at least, hybrids, carrying equal numbers of each pair of dominant and recessive factors, the breeder would probably carry on with first cross bulls, till a pure-breeding high grade bull had been identified, by mating him with low yielding cows and identifying him through his daughters. It might be many years before such a bull were identified, and the cost of having him identified might be very great; but, till he were identified, the breeder could not be said to have made progress in his task.

The milk breeder of to-day is, in some degree, like our imaginary breeder, excepting that he has much greater difficulty in finding cows of the highest grade; but has a much higher chance of finding a bull, if not of the very highest, at least of one of the higher grades. But, like the imaginary breeder, he cannot reach the ideal position in a day. Since there are so few 50lb. three-year-old cows, and he must have cows, he cannot put away all that give less than 50lb. Depending upon the number that give more, his standard of elimination may have to be less than 30, 25, 20, or even 15lb. at three years old. Nor can he afford to have his bulls tested by putting them to eight or ten of the lowest grade of cow and waiting till their daughters are in milk. He can afford, however, to have bulls tested in his own herd or observe them being tested in others. The test will not be complete till the bull is four or five years old and his daughters are in milk. When a bull has been found with no daughter giving less than 30 or 35lb. of milk a day at three years old, his owner will be in possession of the best milk breeding bull in the country, and breeders will be in possession of a nucleus from which 50lb. pure-breeding stock can be raised. The breeders' next task is to keep that bull alive till is no longer fit for use, put him to the best cows they can find, and keep on testing his sons through their daughters' yields. So soon as one is found with no daughter giving less than 40lb. a day at three years old another step has been taken towards the final goal.

In the past we have bred from what we took to be indications of milk, from pedigree, and from the performance of the dam; neither way with much success. Let us now see what can be done by breeding from the performances of both dam and sire.

About twenty years ago a Danish breeder began to use what he called butter bulls; that is, bulls whose daughters' milk contained more butter fat than their dams'. The dams' milk with which the first butter bull was mated contained on the average, 3.4 per cent. of fat, the daughters' 3.89, the dams' milk with which the second butter bull was mated 3.80, their daughters' 4.21. The milk of the best butter cow in the herd, when the first butter bull entered it contained about 3.8 per cent of butter fat, the milk of one of the third bull's daughters contained 5.2 per cent.

When will some agricultural society give a prize worth competing for to a bull sent into the ring with four or five of his daughters in milk?

DRAINING AND VALUATION

A Paper read before the Garstang Agricultural Discussion Society

By JOHN WHITTAKER.

DRAINING.

IT used to be said that if land could be drained at £8 per statute acre it was a sound investment, but with tiles for an acre (with carting) costing £12—apart from the cost of cutting the drains—draining to-day is not an economical proposition.

Owing to the moist climate of Great Britain draining is undoubtedly the preliminary operation in the improvement of the soil. To drain land is to rid it of its superfluous moisture. The rivers of a country, with their tributaries, are the natural provision for removing the rain water which either flows directly from its surface, or which, after percolating through porous strata to an indefinite depth, is again discharged at the surface by springs. The latter may thus be regarded as the outlets of a natural underground drainage.

The work of the drainer consists in improving the natural outfalls by deepening, straightening, or embanking rivers, and by supplementing these where necessary by artificial canals and ditches; and in freeing the soil and subsoil from stagnant water, by means of artificial and underground channels. The first of these operations is the more needful, for until it be accomplished there are extensive tracts of land, and that usually of the most valuable kind, to which the secondary process either cannot be applied at all, or only with the most partial and inefficient results.

Very many of our rivers and streams flow with a sluggish course through valleys of flat alluvial soil which, as the coast is approached, expand into extensive plains but little elevated above the level of the sea. Here the course of the river is obstructed by shifting shoals and sandbanks. The consequence is that immense tracts of valuable land are at all times in a water-logged condition, and on every recurrence of a flood are laid entirely under water.

Several large drainage schemes have been adopted in Lancashire, viz., in the Crossens, Croston, Alt, and Overton districts. The one at Crossens, I believe, is mainly private, but for the others a rate is levied in a small area. Here, again, the cost is almost prohibitive, and work moves slowly. We may hope to see a much larger area roped in, and according to a recent statement in the House of Lords, Lord Bledisloe has some idea of propounding a more comprehensive scheme, for there is not a district in the kingdom in which work of this kind is not absolutely necessary before extensive tracts of valuable land can be rendered available for profitable cultivation by means of underground drainage. Some gentlemen in the county with whom I have spoken are of opinion that borough or urban councils should also be made contributory authorities, as they are turning into rivers a tremendous volume of water and treated sewage that has been diverted from other channels.

When a clean outfall of sufficient depth has been secured, the way is open for the application of underground drainage, which may take the form of tiles, brushwood, small stones, or ashes. Before beginning the actual work of draining, the land to be dealt with should be carefully surveyed, and a definite system decided upon. The main drain should, as far as attainable, occupy the lowest part of the field, having its outfall at the lowest point. When uncertainty exists as to the proper outfall, this should not be determined by the eye only. As every outfall is a source of danger, being liable to be blocked by weeds, mud, or the interference of rats and other vermin, the number of outfalls cannot be too far reduced, and if the whole of the water can be discharged by one outlet so much the better.

The question of depth has probably given rise to more controversy than any other point in connection with drainage. A minimum of four feet was formerly rigorously enforced in all cases. About the middle of last century the Government advanced money on loan to the landowners for the purpose of draining. It was stipulated that 2-inch pipes should be placed 4ft. to 4½ft. deep, and that the drains should be 30ft. apart. The depth and the distance apart was too great, with the natural result that the land was imperfectly dried, and it was found necessary to spend almost as much in making new drains between the originals. The width of the intervals between the minor drains, like the depth, must be settled by a careful consideration of the information which has been gained by a study of the test holes, and, as in the case of depth, the distances apart should be according to the nature of the soil and the causes of wetness. It is probable that more failures have arisen from too wide intervals being adopted in order to lessen the cost. Within certain limits the distance to which a drain will dry the land on each side effectively will depend upon the texture of the soil and the depth at which the pipes are laid. The more porous the soil the greater will be the area affected, and the more impervious the soil the less the area dried. There is a rule with regard to this which may be taken as a guide under ordinary conditions, namely, that in porous soils a drain will dry an extent on each side of it equal to from five to six times its depth ; in medium soils from three to four times its depth ; and in clay, from two to three times its depth. Thus 4-foot drains might be cut 40ft. to 60ft. apart in the first case, 24ft. to 32ft. in the second, and 16ft. to 24ft. in the third.

Sufficient fall must be secured for the main to enable it to discharge rapidly the accumulated water of the minor drains. In undrained land the direction which the minor drains ought to take leaves little room for doubt, unless the land be very level. The only position in which they can be relied upon to work properly is in the direction of the greatest slope. Instances may occasionally be seen of drains running obliquely across a declivity, and these may carry water some distance, but whenever they pass through a porous layer of soil the water escapes from them and oozes out of the surface further down the slope. The line of the greatest fall is the only line in which a drain is relatively lower than the land on either side of it. It is only by availing ourselves of the laws of gravity that we can remove the water by drainage.

There are exceptions to the above rule on land that was formerly drained with flag drains, horseshoe drains, or tile drains, where land has subsided on the coal measures, and hundreds of acres have been brought round again by cutting drains at an angle of 45 degrees to the existing drains at a distance apart of 16 yards, 24 yards, or 32 yards, and so making the old drains prove operative. History of draining goes back a long way, firstly as ditches or sluices, followed by what are known as turf or sod drains, stone drains, horseshoe drains, and, finally, the cylindrical pipe. Opinions differ even to-day as to the size of the tile, and in South-West Lancashire 4in. tiles are used for mains and 3in. tiles for wing drains.

The number of tiles per acre is as follows :—

Drains 6 yards apart.....2420 per acre.

Drains 7 yards apart.....2074 per acre.

Drains 8 yards apart.....1815 per acre.

Taking the average as about 2000 tiles per acre, and threepence per yard for cutting, plus carting, the cost to-day works out at over £20 per acre, which is not an economical proposition.

The initial construction of drains is not everything ; both natural and artificial watercourses must be properly maintained, and hundreds of acres of land to-day are suffering from wetness through water courses, ditches, and drain mouths becoming silted up.

An old system on some farms in South-West Lancashire is to put nine inches of ashes on the tile drains. I could never quite see the necessity of the expense of this operation, when tiles are laid. In land properly drained, oxidisation will take place. Every drop of rain that falls ought to percolate at once to the level of the bottom of the tiles, and then find its way to the tile. It is always assumed water enters the tile from the bottom. Another old Lancashire custom is to put what is called an air shaft at each corner of the field, but whether these are any use I cannot say, as my experience has been to find them buried. As an experiment—or having the old idea lurking in my mind—I have put in the ventilators when draining football grounds.

Mole draining in stiff clay land is a cheap method, and has a life of eight to ten years. The Journal of the Ministry of Agriculture for November, 1925, recorded that: "During the past autumn and winter a number of County Councils made arrangements for demonstrations of methods of mole draining. These were highly successful, and roused a good deal of interest among farmers and landowners, many of whom were not previously aware that mole ploughs had been devised and could easily be drawn by a good agricultural tractor. There was every indication, therefore, that arrears in field draining should be made good, and although in a very large number of cases where drainage was required the cost of tile drains was prohibitive, farmers had an alternative method to hand which was at once cheap and effective. The process of mole draining by direct haulage was described in the Ministry's Journal for July, 1925," I am not sure if mole draining comes under the heading of draining as regards tenant right, but that is a matter for consideration, and will be dealt with.

On the 10th March, 1926, the Lancashire County Council arranged for demonstrations on the County Council Farm at Hutton with the Revolt and Mole drainers. A very wet field was selected, but the weather was not favourable, and the tractor did a lot of damage. The Revolt machine might lessen the labour bill in draining on arable land by first taking out about 18 inches. At this depth I think a man could work to take out another spit, making a good drain $2\frac{1}{2}$ ft. deep. As regards the Mole drainer, it can relieve a lot of water from wet clay land, where there is a natural fall, but in undulating land it is useless, unless an unlimited number of cross drains is put in.

On land adapted for the Mole drainer, one main with 3in. or 4in. tiles, with one outlet at $2\frac{1}{2}$ ft. to 3ft. deep, should be cut at the lowest end of the field. A proper connection should be made with the main, and two or three tiles $2\frac{1}{2}$ in. or 3in. bore should be fixed in a rising position to connect each mole opening and the main drain. I should imagine that mole draining would be much more effective on grass than on arable land.

With regard to the drain excavator, this machine may lessen the labour bill in draining on arable land by first taking out about 18in. of soil. At that depth I think a good man could work to take out another spit, making a drain $2\frac{1}{2}$ ft. deep.

We hear of large draining schemes in the Fens of Lincolnshire and in Norfolk. Most of us are in some way or other conversant with Chat Moss, formerly known as that "black, barren swamp between Liverpool and Manchester." In an old book, describing these experiments, written by a Mr. John Wilson, it is stated that the principal part of this moss is in the parish of Barton, and Sir Thomas de Trafford appears to have obtained at the latter end of the eighteenth century an Act of Parliament to grant a ninety-nine years' lease of 2500 acres to a Mr. Wakefield, who about the year 1805 disposed of his interest in it to the late Mr. Wm. Roscoe, of literary celebrity. The latter spent a large sum in a fruitless endeavour to improve it, failing in which the lease was sold in 1821 to other parties. Mr. J. A. Brown, of Woolden Hall, bought 1300 acres, and the late Mr. Baines, M.P. for Leeds, purchased the remaining 1200 acres. The most extensive and successful efforts at improving the Moss were made on a part of these 1200 acres. Mr. Baines, besides occupying the part operated upon by Mr. Roscoe, improved a considerable breadth himself, and let several portions to other parties, who made good progress in improving small portions. Upon the whole, however, the most extensive operations were carried out by a Company, to whom Mr. Baines, in 1828, granted a lease of 505 acres for 68 years (the remainder of the original term), at a nominal rental for the first year, increasing gradually until at the end of five years the rent attained its maximum of £165 per annum for the 550 acres. This Company, which was formed at the time the Liverpool and Manchester Railway was in process of being made on the property, consisted, amongst others, of some practical farmers, and originated with Wm. Reed, who for the first three years was the Manager, and resided on the farm which they called Barton Moss Farm. The first operation, that of draining, was effected by opening side drains at intervals of fifty yards, into which were laid covered ones six yards apart, at right angles with, and emptying into the open side drains. The moss being in a semi-fluid state, it was necessary to proceed slowly with draining, taking out only one graft or depth at a time, allowing it to remain a week or a month, according to the state of the weather, before taking the second and third graft. This admitted of the sides becoming consolidated, and of the other grafts being taken without the moss closing in. The open drains were made 3ft. wide, and 3ft. 6in. deep, and the covered drains 16in. wide, 3ft. deep, the last graft of the latter being only about 6in. wide at the top, tapering to 4in. at the bottom, and being taken out of the middle of the cut left a shoulder on each side. The sod or graft first taken out had by this time become tough and dry, and was placed with the heath side downwards in the shoulder, thus leaving the narrow spit at the bottom open for a depth of about 14in. The drains first put in required to be renewed in a few years in consequence of the Moss becoming consolidated and so reduced in height that the plough, as well as the horses' feet, broke through the roof.

Leaving draining for a moment I will give some practical hints from Mr. Wilson's work on reclaiming after draining. At first sixty to one hundred cubic yards of marl were put on an acre. Mr. John Bell, Resident Bailiff, made many valuable experiments relative to the improvements of raw moss, one of which resulted in a discovery likely to be of considerable importance, which is, that a mixture of lime and salt applied a while before seeding, with the addition of a good dressing of guano, in the proportion of four tons of lime and five cwts. of salt per acre, qualified it to produce a crop of potatoes or oats equal to that after the application of sixty yards of marl per acre. It is essential the mixture should be spread while it is hot.

Draining is the first thing to be done in the improvement of land. Most of the land in Lancashire, if stripped of its drains, would be little better than prairie land. Our system of ownership and tenure may be peculiar in the country, but it has served us very well. Circumstances bring changes, and the change appears to be for an occupier-ownership of farms, which will eventually necessitate the Government advancing money for draining at a cheap rate of interest spread over a fair number of years.

VALUATION AND TENANT RIGHT.

Far greater study than is at present devoted to it ought to be given to the subject of Tenant Right. So far as I know there is not a single tenant farmer in Lancashire on the panel of Tenant Right valuers appointed by the Ministry of Agriculture, and they suffer in consequence, especially when a valuer is called in who is not acquainted with the custom of the district, and when a great deal depends upon custom in the absence of a tenancy agreement. A few historical facts may be useful in approaching this very wide subject.

The extent of land in Great Britain occupied by its owners for agricultural purposes bears a small proportion to the whole area. The yeoman class is still numerous in several parts of England, but not in Lancashire. Farms of all sizes are usually to be found in any district, and most important it is that this should be the case; but the extent of farms is chiefly determined by the amount of hired labour employed upon them. The majority of the farms of England are held by yearly tenancy, which can be terminated by either of the contracting parties giving to the other twelve months' notice. This precarious tenure has been attended by far fewer changes than many outside the industry would suppose, owing to the highly honourable conduct for which English proprietors as a class have long been noted. On all the large estates it is quite common to find families occupying farms of which their ancestry for generations or even centuries have been tenants. The mutual esteem and confidence usually subsisting between landowners and tenants is undoubtedly much to the credit of both. It does, however, seem strange that a majority of the farmers of Great Britain should be satisfied with so insecure a tenure, and still more strange that they should be yearly tenants from choice. It is nevertheless true that a considerable portion of the tenantry of England are even less disposed to accept long leases of, or to purchase, their holdings than their landlords are to meet them in this respect.

The amount of capital that is required in order that the business of farming may be conducted advantageously is largely determined by the nature of the soil, etc., of each farm, the system of management appropriate to it, the price of stock and labour, and the times at which its rents are payable. In the case of land of fair quality, on which the alternate husbandry is pursued, and when the rents are payable as the produce is realised, £12 per acre may be regarded as an amount of capital which will enable a tenant to prosecute his business with advantage and comfort.

But the mere possession of capital does not qualify a man for being a farmer, nor is there any virtue in a lease to insure his success. For there must be added probity, knowledge of his business, and diligence in prosecuting it. To our farmers' sons in Lancashire, a common school instruction will, of course, form the groundwork of a farmer's education, but to this should be added, if possible, the curriculum of the County Education Committee at the Harris Institute and the farm at Hutton for two or three years. After undergoing the benefits of such a course of training, young men would be in circumstances to derive real pleasure and advantage from their work on the farms. Experiments are made on an ever-widening scale, and upon well-concerted plans; their results are so recorded and published that they at once become available to all.

Valuation forms a part of the daily work of some men, and is a sort of common ground upon which they meet on equal footing. The art of valuing differs in several respects from that of other duties with which it is often allied. The valuer's duty is to advise his client as to the worth of property, whether for the purposes of sale, purchase, or mortgage, and it follows that his is a great responsibility. The most essential trait in the character of a valuer is the ability to observe and compare with accuracy. Some men have a natural gift in this respect, but others can only become skilful by long and continuous practice. The value of land, for instance, varies to a greater extent and more suddenly than can often be understood at first sight, and the same may be said of crops generally, but a little patient enquiry will generally disclose sufficient reason for the wide differences in value.

It is quite impossible to frame any fixed set of rules capable of application to the computation of the worth of any given property, or crops, under all circumstances. Certain principles do apply, and in some measure regulate the method of calculation. The ability to do this can only be gained by experience in the art of comparison; consequently it is very often found that valuers lacking that careful study and insight which is so essential in appraising under varying conditions place too much reliance on precedent and make grave mistakes.

The question of valuation for rent will soon force itself on the attention of the valuer, with such factors to take into account as light land, heavy, cold, wet land, absence of water in some of the fields, and the homestead, distance from markets, poor type of house and outbuildings, inferior fences, injury by game, and indifferent roads, as against good sound land, well-watered, well-sheltered for cattle, and up-to-date house and buildings which all call for consideration.

It is seldom that a valuer is called upon to assess for the letting value of a farm without having some precedent to which he can refer for confirmation of his own figures. It is always interesting to know the rent the farm has carried in the past, and how the tenant has succeeded.

In valuing a farm the first duty should generally be to form an opinion of its worth from its appearance, and then look up its history.

The rent of a farm is supposed to be the balance which is left between income and expenditure after allowing for tenant's profits. The landlord's share is the return that he receives for the capital invested by him in the farm. The amount of this return depends upon what is left after the tenant has received out of the surplus of income over expenditure an adequate remuneration for his capital and skill, but it must be assumed that the farm is managed in a fairly skilful and economical manner.

Farm valuations include live and dead stock, tillages, crops, manures, fixtures, unexhausted improvements, etc., etc., and are usually made for the following purposes: (A) Annual balance sheets; (B) Claims between outgoing and incoming tenants. They may be divided into two classes, viz., those which include the live stock and implements on the farm, and those which do not comprise them, but which are confined to tillages, crops, manures, etc., and are commonly known as "tenant right valuations." It is sufficient to state here that the Agricultural Holdings Acts give a right to compensation, to be fixed in cases of dispute by arbitration, under certain conditions and cases, in respect of certain specified improvements which are divided into three classes. (1) Improvements to which notice to landlord is required; (2) in respect of which consent of landlord is required; (3) in respect of which neither consent of nor notice to landlord is required. It may here be pointed out that in all cases of compensation to an outgoing tenant the landlord is the person who at law is liable, apart from contract, to pay the compensation due. On many of the large estates in Lancashire where there are no tenancy agreements, it is usual for the outgoing and incoming tenants to agree to an amount of compensation between themselves, and in practice this is found to work very satisfactorily without friction or expense.

It is well to remember that a year's notice to quit a farm must be given before the date recognised in the district, usually February 2nd in Lancashire. Notice must be given in writing of intention to claim compensation for disturbance not less than one month before termination of tenancy. A landlord must give written notice before the termination of the tenancy of his intention to claim compensation under the Agricultural Holdings Act for deterioration of the holding. Particulars must be submitted by the tenant to the landlord (and vice versa) within two months from the expiration of the tenancy of any claim which he proposes to make.

With regard to fixtures, the tenant must give one month's notice of intention to remove any building, fixed machinery, or other tenant's fixture, and the landlord can elect to purchase during the currency of the notice. In the event of failure to agree on price, the matter must be referred to an arbitrator. A lot of friction and expense could be saved if valuers would go on the line of what is fair, as between outgoing and incoming tenants.

All agriculturists should possess copies of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923, the compensation scale for Lancashire and Cheshire, and Voelcker and Hall's tables showing the value of feeding stuffs and manures.

The cost of tillage operations has been upset by the war, and to-day £1 per day is usually taken as the cost of a man and pair of horses, and all ploughing, harrowing, scarifying, drilling, roller-ing, etc., should be taken on that basis, having regard to the area covered by each operation in a day.

In valuing hay it is usual to ascertain the cubic contents of a rick; secondly, to estimate the weight per cubic yard. Several circumstances cause variation in the weight of ricks, but in the ascertainment of weight, after measurement, it is all a question of density. Light hay will weigh from 1cwt. to $1\frac{1}{4}$ cwt. to the cubic yard; moderately solid, $1\frac{1}{2}$ cwt.; and solid up to 2cwt. to the cubic yard. It is safe to allow £1 per ton for cutting and marketing.

Straw in stack may be taken at 98lb. to the cubic yard. The scale mentioned gives the unexhausted manurial value of hay and straw.

Wheat per acre will produce an average of 30cwt. of straw and 32 bushels of grain, and an average standing crop is worth £8 to £9 per acre.

Oats per acre will produce an average of 25cwt. to 30cwt. of straw, 40 to 50 bushels of grain, and an average standing crop is worth £7 to £8 per acre.

In wheat, weight of grain 63lb. per bushel; 24 to 27 cubic feet of unthreshed wheat in stack to one bushel of grain. In oats, weight of grain 42lb. per bushel; one bushel of grain to every 20 to 23 cubic feet unthreshed in stack. Potatoes, 5 to 8 tons per acre; weight in heaps 8½cwt. to the cubic yard.

An easy way to form an estimate of the weight per acre of potatoes and roots when growing, is to lift and weigh one drill 5½ yards long, usually there are seven drills in 5½ yards across, and this equals one pole. Every two pounds in 5½ yards' length of drill equals one ton to the acre.

Farmyard manure made on the farm itself is an item for which compensation in general is only payable under the custom of the country, or under an agreement; but where cattle have been fed on corn, cake, or other feeding stuff not produced on the holding, or on corn produced and consumed on the holding, or where any purchased dung has been applied to the land, compensation for the value so added becomes due under the Agricultural Holdings Act.

Farmyard dung is usually transferred in four ways. The outgoer may be entitled to (1) the labour only expended upon it; or (2) the value of the dung itself, and of the labour—if no crop has been taken since its application to the land, or (3) the value of the manure on the premises; or (4) the value of dung applied during the previous year from which one crop has been taken. Where the dung itself is valued it is usual to calculate its worth by the cubic yard of 27ft., and the average weight usually works out at 12cwt. to 15cwt. to the cubic yard; heavy cow dung up to 20cwt. If an outgoing tenant elects to claim on his feeding stuffs account, the claim must be based on his vouchers and not on manure made.

Wheat is an away-going crop, sown during the last year of tenancy, after a root crop, or fallow. The custom in the greater part of Lancashire is for outgoing tenants to take half the crop after roots, and two-thirds after fallow, and the rule as to cutting and stocking varies a good deal.

It is not usual for the outgoing tenant to claim for manure after roots if wheat is sown by him for an away-going crop.

If grass seeds are proved to have been sown in proper order in last year of tenancy the outgoer is entitled to payment on the account for seeds supplied plus cost of sowing and harrowing (usually about 5s. per acre).

Having indicated the tenant's right, it is only fair to say that the landlord has the right to sue for dilapidation under the Agricultural Holdings Act, and can claim in respect of any waste wrongfully committed or permitted by the tenant, or in respect of breach of contract, or otherwise in respect of the holding, i.e., for rent, injury to the land, cross-cropping, neglect of fences, drains, water courses, roads, tenants' repairs to buildings—having regard to fair wear and tear—and selling off of hay, straw, roots, and dung; and having regard to custom or agreement, these all must come under arbitration if claimed for.

RECORD OF HOLDING.

It is very desirable for tenants to have a record of their holdings on entry, and Section 32 of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923, provides for this. It is also essential for farmers to keep proper accounts.

BURNLEY—PAST AND PRESENT

THE SOCIETY'S 1926 SHOW

By T. A. HANNAM, Manchester.

WHEN we think of this year's show, to be held at Burnley, we irresistibly recall to mind what Burnley did in 1913. The record then set up is still unbeaten. Will Burnley in 1926 beat 1913?

It is a big task as these figures will show. Burnley then joined the list of shows with entries of stock of over 1,000, which hitherto had only been the case with Liverpool and Manchester. Another distinction then was that Burnley joined the select few who had raised a local subscription list of over £2,000. At the Preston Guild Show of 1902 the fund was £1,984. In 1903, Manchester raised £2,458. Bolton in 1907, £2,252; Manchester, 1908, £2,474; and not again till 1913 did it exceed £2,000, viz., £2,146. The local fund did not beat that again till Bolton in 1920 with £4,632, when an era of great figures began—Oldham, £5,505; Preston (Guild), £7,565; Liverpool, £3,783; Manchester, £3,938.

It is strange that Burnley never had the show before 1913. The third show of the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society was held at Burnley in 1850. That society was amalgamated with the Manchester and Liverpool in 1874. Burnley waited nigh forty years for the show. Then the total "gate" numbered 148,833, including the greatest one-day attendance (including ticket-holders) of 62,028 on the Saturday, which is not beaten yet.

Somehow or other up to 1913—from 1874—the idea seemed to have prevailed that Burnley folk had no interest in agriculture! That can be said of no town, least of all of Burnley people, who love sport and its parent agriculture. But Burnley was one of the most prominent districts of the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society. It provided Presidents, Vice-Presidents, many of the Council yearly, and many successful exhibitors. Situated in a romantic district, and the "key" town of what are almost mountain "passes," the town is quite ancient in origin. The markets and fairs of Burnley rank amongst the most ancient in the County of Lancaster—they were sanctioned by a Charter granted by Edward I to Henry De Lacy, Earl of Lincoln in either 1293 or 1294. Before 1806, when its population was only about 8,000, it was yet an important "town," and centre of the wool trade (see below). The packhorse then was its train, tram, and car, and Burnley folk owe something to those sturdy animals which must have been of the Fell Pony type. The little wool town grew quickly with the invention of machinery. It worked and often rioted on occasion, and did everything thoroughly and with a will. King Cotton dethroned wool by 1824, and in 1848 the railway came. Then the population was only 24,000. Between 1871 and 1891 it rose by 47,000 to 87,000. To-day the population is about 110,000.

But it was absurd to speak of the town as having no interest in agriculture. Before 1800 a famous ballad singer of the district sang in the street (one ?) "The Burnley Haymakers." It was the popular song.

In the more modern development of this now great Lancashire town there are three names around which its history is written. They are those of Hargreaves, Thursby, and Towneley of Towneley. The Rev. John Hargreaves, of Bank Hall, who died in 1812, left two sons. One was Colonel John Hargreaves, who married Miss Ormerod, of Ormerod House, one of whose daughters married the Rev. W. Thursby, and another daughter who married the young soldier son of Lord Abinger, who became General Sir Jas. Yorke Scarlett, K.C.B., of Balaclava fame—and a loyal and generous Burnley citizen. Sir J. H. Thursby was the son of the Rev. William, and his son was the late Sir John O. S. Thursby. What the Thursbys have done for Burnley and given to it cannot be told in a short space.

TOWNELEY BUTTERFLIES.

To speak of Burnley as uninterested in agriculture is more absurd when the name of Towneley is mentioned. Mr. Charles Towneley was a great supporter of the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society, and a President, and the name Towneley is for ever agriculturally famous, because of the wonderful herd of Shorthorns which provided the leaders of the showyards for over a decade of the mid-century.

Everybody has heard of the "Butterfly" race. From a cow Butterfly, bought for the herd by Mr. Eastwood, the agent, sprang the wonderful generations of Butterflies. They are still well remembered.

Mr. James Crook, of Hapton, Burnley, writes in this connection:—"If memory serves me right the Royal North Lancashire Show was held at Burnley in 1868, in Bankhall Meadow, opposite Bank Hall, where General Scarlett lived. At the time I was at the show, and can recollect which Shire stallions won: Hatter's Champion, 1st; Cook's Plough Boy, 2nd; England's Glory, 3rd; Shortlegs, 4th."

"I recollect the 'Butterfly' days at Towneley Park in 1878 or 1879, at which show I cannot tell, but I know I saw the best Yearling Shorthorn Bull I ever have seen there, shown by John Handley, of Milnthorpe, and called Self Esteem, he won Champion."

The Towneley Butterflies were in their glory in 1864, and kept up their brilliant record for some years after the sale of that year. The animals were "correct," but they had to be useful and dual-purpose. The cow Butterfly purchased won first prize at the Royal at Lewes in 1852. She was dam of Master Butterfly, the first prize aged bull at the Royal at Chelmsford in 1856, and dam also of Royal Butterfly, first prize aged bull at the Royal at Canterbury in 1860. Their sire was Frederick, bred at Towneley, and said not to have been a very good-looking bull, but he proved a prolific sire of the best of stock. Mr. Charles Towneley bred these and other stock for the pleasure of seeing fine animals about him, and also out of his innate public spiritedness—a family characteristic. He owed much of his magnificent success to Mr. Eastwood, his agent, a gentleman bred to the law, but a lover of stock. Mr. Eastwood kept afterwards his own herd, dispersed it, and resumed again. With Butterflies he attained great success, as did all who had them. But both gentlemen owed the moiety of the success of the Towneley herd to Joseph Culshaw who brought up—and out—the animals. I cannot speak of all the sales. The first great dispersal was in 1864, when 76 cows, heifers, and heifer calves averaged £124, and ten bulls £178. 13s. Colonel Towneley died in November, 1877. Mr. Richard Eastwood was a remarkable judge of what to buy. At the 1864 Sale, Mr. E. L. Betts, of Kent, gave 500 guineas for Royal Butterfly's Duchess. Mr. Eastwood gave 350 guineas for Barmpton Butterfly, and also 300 guineas for Double Butterfly, and 590 guineas for another of the line. On that occasion the Bull Royal Butterfly was entered at a reserve of 1,300 guineas, but not sold. In those early Shorthorn days the Earl of Burlington founded the Holker herd, which in 1878 was to astonish Lancashire and the world with its thousands each for Royal Duchesses and Oxfords, and Lancashire's pre-eminent cattle to-day owe much to those pioneers.

BURNLEY SHOW IN 1850.

I have before me the "poster" sheet of the premiums, etc., at the Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society, at Burnley, in 1850, with the rules and regulations for its government in the year 1850. It was held on Wednesday and Thursday, September 11th and 12th. The Patron was Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen. The President was Chas. Towneley, Esq. The Vice-Presidents were: The Right Hon. Lord de Tabley, Tabley House, Knutsford; Sir Henry Bold Hoghton, Hoghton Tower; the Hon. Col. Scarlett, Bank Hall, Burnley; Jas. Heywood, Esq., J.P., Acresfield Manor; Sir Jas. Kay-Shuttleworth, Bart., Gawthorpe Hall, Burnley; Geo. Marton, Esq., Capernwray Hall, Lancaster. The names of the Council—elected yearly—show how “agricultural” was Burnley seventy-six years ago. They are as follow:—W. J. Garnett, Bleasdale Tower, Garstang (Chairman); Messrs. Birchall, Ribbleson Hall, Preston; A. R. Boulton, Harrock Hall, Standish; W. Assheton Cross, Red Scar, Preston; Jas. Dugdale, Ivy Bank, Burnley; J. P. Lord, Standish Hall, Wigan; Jas. Sidgreaves, Preston; and Messrs. Bannerman, Chorley; Baxter, Marsden Hall, Burnley; Burnett, Hutton; B. Chaffer, Burnley; Eastwood, Swinshaw House, Burnley; Fair, Warton Lodge, Lytham; Fisher, Fox Lane Ends, Kirkham; Robinson Greenwood, Crow Wood House, Burnley; Holden, Towneley, Burnley; Logan, Barton Cottage, Preston; Morrell, Clough House, Leyland; W. Roberts, Thorney Holme, Burnley; H. Waddington, Stockbridge House, Padiham; W. Waddington, Burnley; and Ward, Royle, Burnley.

The Secretary was George Hunt, the Grange, Broughton, and Chapel Walks, Preston.

So whatever may have been said about Burnley and no agricultural interest, the town and district were represented most strongly on the vigorous North Lancashire Society, for they had a dozen or more on the Council in 1850, and several stallion parades and shows ere 1874.

The 1850 “show meeting” was more than an exhibition. On the first day, beginning at 9 a.m., there was a trial of implements in Towneley Park. At 3 p.m. members and others met in the Court House for a discussion “On the economy of preparing and applying Farmyard Manures, especially in a Liquid Form.” On the second day was the annual show meeting and exhibition of stock, agricultural implements, and machinery, roots, seeds, etc., etc. The admission from 6 a.m. (!) to noon was 1s., and from noon to 3 p.m., 6d. After then stock must be taken away. Then came what was always a serious and heavy function, and an intrinsic part of the Victorian show and meeting, namely, the Annual Dinner!

This was held in the Goods Warehouse of the East Lancashire Railway Company, and the tickets were only 3s., “including malt liquours and waiters.” Beef and beer were cheap then! Mr. Chas. Towneley, the President, was in the chair, and there were of course some three-decker speeches, and some useful reports about the Society’s work.

As the Society was formed in 1847, it would only be a “three-year-old colt” when it first paraded at Burnley, but it announced on the poster and Prize List of the 1850 Show that in the Spring of 1851 there would be a ploughing match near Burnley, and also a show of stallions at Blackburn, on Easter Wednesday, 1851.

These parades were also held in turn at Burnley, and it was a condition that winning horses at the annual show had to fulfil in the following spring.

Our grandfathers were intensely practical. They did not deal in ornaments or curiosities. They did not favour classes for zoological curiosities. The Royal Lancashire may have got very near it at times, but has kept clear. It is the Stock, the Crop, the Produce, and the Methods and Materials that are most profitable in Lancashire that must be the prime considerations. Alone without gewgaws they will draw gates. But a three or four days show needs expensive fittings for the pedigree stock, and seventy-five years ago there could be no anticipation of what an immense variety exhibition the Royal North Lancashire was to become in order to draw the necessary scores of thousands of the general public.

POINTS FROM AN OLD PRIZE LIST.

The 1850 Prize List was headed: "List of Sweepstakes." That was the old form of competition since early in the century, and I suppose "with something added."

But the circle of readers whom this Journal reaches will be more concerned with the classification. Seventy-six years ago, as to-day, Shorthorns headed the Lancashire Show's catalogue. Burnley was just later to become imperishably associated with the history of the Shorthorn and the Towneley Butterflies to be known the world over. In Towneley Park at the 1850 Show there were ten classes or "sweeps" for Shorthorns. Very useful sweeps too, and nobody feared either Acts of William III or George IV. Lancashire remains a sporting county, and at Burnley they have always loved "a bit of a flutter." Mostly the entry was a guinea. There were classes for bulls over a year, and for bull calves; and five for cows and heifers. There was also a class for fat cows, and two for pairs of steers. Half a guinea was the fee here. It is significant, too, that it was already necessary for part of one instruction to the judges to be "not to take into consideration the present value to the butcher of Animals exhibited, but to decide according to their relative merits for the purpose of breeding and milking, and in no case to award a Premium to overfed animals." The italics are not mine, but are in the original "regulations."

The first of the eight classes in the Crossbred Cattle Section reads curiously to-day. It ran: "Cow, cross-bred, between Short Horn Bull and West Highland Cow, or any other cross with the Short Horn, and in calf or milk." Why the West Highland selection? Was the idea that the general purpose stock for the Burnley hills should best be a combination of the shaggy, hardy duns, reds, and brindles with the wealthier fleshed and free milking Shorthorn? There is no trace of West Highland blood in the Lancashire farmers' dual-purpose Shorthorn type stock to-day. It would be interesting to know more of this West Highland matter. I do not know that they have ever been classed in the Lancashire prize lists, or even that the old Lancashire Longhorn ever has, but I do regret—sentimentally—that the Royal Agricultural Society of England has for several years ceased to provide any classes for them.

There were none of the Stud Books of these days in 1850. There were seven classes for Agricultural Purposes. These were for brood mares, and the rest colt or filly classes, with one for pairs. I note that the day after the show there was a sale of horses, the official auctioneers being Messrs. Lucas. In the annual sale regulations the entry only of "superior" horses is requested, and only three-year-olds and over—"with a desire, however, to accommodate all parties. Two-year-olds will be admitted, but their insertion in the Sale cannot be encouraged unless they are of a very superior description, possessing size, substance, and action." This time the italics are mine! A slow "agricultural horse"—I mean a Shire—is no use to-day in the dray. He is up against too much steel and rubber and "spirit," and a man and horse who go sleep-walking round a ring do more harm than good. Our predecessors were prescient. They told the judges of Agricultural Horses "in addition to symmetry, to pay particular attention to strength and activity."

We did not then call all other horses Hunters, Hackneys, or Hacks. The only breed—and it was not classified at this show—known then was the Thoroughbred. The Light horses at Burnley, as at the three previous shows, and at many subsequent ones, were under the head "for Road or Field." They are, I fear, off "the Road" for ever. The lookout for the Hunter is better, but if "gunners" are ever wanted any more I do not see how the Roadster, the Yorkshire Roadster, can be allowed to die out. He gets the best light draught horses in the world, and while we have him I don't see why we should boost any foreign breed at all.

LANCASHIRE SHEEP CLASSES.

There has been a good deal of chopping and changing in our sheep classification. Lancashire is not a sheep county, but there is one breed of peculiar interest associated with it, the Lonk. At Burnley we are in the Lonk country, the high moorlands of the Lancashire—Yorkshire spurs of the Pennines. Sir John Thursby has written inimitably about the Lonk. A Lonk two-shear ram is a fine animal, and worth paying to see, but when he wants to go anywhere it is better not to be in his way. Anyhow he was not known by his name of to-day in the Burnley list of 1850. There was a big sheep section, and its breeds seem to point to the fact that the sheep was a much more important factor in Lancashire agriculture seventy-five years ago than to-day. Then there were six classes for Leicesters, six for South Downs, and three for Black or Grey-faced.

I deal with 1913 and 1926 elsewhere on these questions of classification. Very interesting indeed are the changes in the sheep and the pig section. In the latter we are going, unless we put the brake on, to have as many "varieties" as there are of toy dogs. They simplified matters in the old days, and the six classes at Burnley in 1850 were all for pigs of any breed. I note there were wool classes, and they again were for the three breeds named. Burnley, of course, was a wool town once predominantly.

Otherwise the visit of the North Lancashire Society was also a great time, for on the show day the Burnley Floral and Horticultural Society held their show in the Agricultural Showyard. To-day the Royal Lancashire always holds a Flower Show, with classes on the grand scale. It is always a magnificent and well devised exhibition, with great collections that can only be seen at a very few other shows. In a sense may we not say Burnley did it first? How Burnley would have stared to read of £75 offered in one class for a 300 square feet group of miscellaneous plants; £35 for a collection of sweet peas; £47 in one class for cut roses; and £75 in a class for a collection of hardy perennials!

THE THURSBY FAMILY.

To go back to the Thursbys. It is very proper and it is a great delight to the Society, to Burnley, and indeed to the county, that Sir Geo. Thursby is the President this year. He is the half-brother of the late Sir John O. S. Thursby, a sportsman and a gentleman. He is Master of the New Forest Buckhounds. He succeeded to the estates and baronetcy on the death of Sir John. It should appeal to the Burnley people that Sir George once very nearly rode the winner of the Derby. The late Sir John was not infrequently stopped in the street by a humble Burnley "sport," and asked for a "tip." Much of the wonderful success of 1913 was due to Sir John—his personality and his collar work.

The Society mourns him as the county and the country does. He was one of those who did things well. He was scholar, author, sportsman, agriculturist, and a business magnate. Sir John headed the Burnley deputation to the Society at Preston in 1912. Again in those difficult years—1918 and 1919—he was President, and it was his duty to propose the late Lord Leverhulme as President for the Bolton year. At the same meeting the late Mr. Fitzherbert-

Brockholes moved the vote of thanks to Sir John at the conclusion of his two years of Presidency, and said the Society had "no more true and thorough supporter." There were no shows during that Presidency, but the Society showed much activity and work for the agriculture of the County. Farmers' crops, orchards, and allotments were encouraged by prizes in twenty-four districts of the County, and Burnley's was not the least extensive.

It was at the annual meeting in November 1912, that Sir John, on the motion of the late Mr. Geo. Singleton, seconded by the late Mr. E. Mucklow, was elected President, and he and the late Lady Thursby were described rightly as keen agriculturists. Their wonderful devotion to the success of the show was manifested at the show itself. Each was busy, cheery, helpful, untiring everywhere. And they and those mentioned above are gone! Lady Thursby died in 1915, not long after the celebration of their silver wedding. Sir John died in December, 1920. He had managed also to be President of the Worsthorne (land of the Lonks, of whom he was the historian) and Cliviger Societies, and a member of the Council of the R.A.S.E. for Lancashire. He was a keen agriculturist, as indeed was Lady Thursby. At his last sale of Dairy Shorthorns thirty-three averaged over £170. Sir John was a member of the Jockey Club, and Steward; took over the Blink Bonny Stud of the late Miles I'Anson; owned John O'Gaunt by Isinglass—la Flèche; gave 3,000 guineas for "Don't," a Sledmere yearling, at Doncaster—a success at the stud, but not on the course; had 40,000 guineas offered him for his stud by the German Government, but refused it. There are few such men in any county at any time. There are none in any other country but ours, and lucky Lancashire has a good proportion of the total number.

This may seem a digression from the subject of the R.L.A.S. and Burnley, but the show of 1913 and this year's prospects cannot be separated from his memory and his family. When the Society were invited to Burnley by Sir John and the deputation, a site of 55 acres at Reedley, on the Colne Road, was offered, and it was accepted. To-day the showyard is on the same ground. Alderman Keighley was Mayor, and Mr. Peregrine Thomas, Town Clerk. I do not think any town and district ever had such a hard-working and enthusiastic Committee. At once several local societies abandoned their shows and helped. Eventually a ten mile radius show was added to the ordinary shows of the great R.L.A.S. fair. Mr. W. H. Hartley gave £25 towards prizes for farms in the Burnley Union of between £30 and £150 rentals. There was a great entry, which was judged by Mr. R. B. Neilson (the present Vice-Chairman of the Society), and the late Mr. W. S. Airey, of Whalley. Sir John took great interest in the contest, and when he presented the prizes seemed to know personally each winner and commended competitor, each holding, and its advantages and handicaps.

"IN CHARGE OF THE WATER."

The Mayor in 1913 was the late Elijah Keighley—again I have to write "the late." Alderman Keighley, then Chairman of the Water and other committees, was as breezy and lively as Burnley itself. There was no rain during the show. It was said that it was because Alderman Keighley was "in charge of the water!" The Alderman made a great point of giving Mr. Bohane, the then Secretary, a forecast of the weather. It was wonderfully accurate. Afterwards he revealed the source of his inspiration. He held that the miners down in the pits could forecast with great certainty what the weather was going to be for the next forty-eight hours. Alderman Keighley therefore "tipped" one of the night shiftmen to "knock him up" in the following way:—The miner leaving in the early morning had to throw up at the Alderman's bedroom window a handful of pebbles as a signal if the weather of the next two days was likely to be fair. He had the daily pleasure in hearing the rattle of the pebbles, and he then posed at the committee meetings as a true weather prophet. He was right each day.

Elsewhere I have given what the show consisted of seventy-five years ago. To-day will not differ very much from 1913. But there are instances of new enterprise with careful adjustment to the times.

FAMOUS STOCK OF 1913.

Not one of the greatest shows of stock in 1913, it was of the very highest class. In Shorthorns we had the best from the famous herds of C. J. Tong, J. H. Maden, R. Cornelius, Deane Willis, W. M. Cazalet, Lord Rothschild—who won first and second for dairy cows in the Coates' class, in which section the Earl of Derby also was prominent. Here, too, Mr. J. H. Maden had tremendous success, including the Championship with "Ratcliffe Canning." Lady Thursby had several tickets. Such a record of herds represented cannot often be achieved by any society. The non-pedigree dairy cattle saw J. W. Astley prominent with the best dairy cow in the show, the runner-up being the famous Cheshire breeder S. S. Raingill. Lady Thursby took several prizes. In style and class 1913 cattle can hardly be excelled. The cattle were the best the nation could produce.

The breeding classes of Hunters were small. Mr. W. H. Shiers' famous "Beechnut II" headed the brood mares, with "Stormy Petrel II" second for Mrs. H. D. Greene. These were two of the best Hunter brood mares in England. Mr. H. L. Storey showed and won in two-year-olds with "Broadwood II." The saddle classes were well filled, and Mr. Simpson Hinchliffe took all three.

firsts with the renowned "Broadwood," and a novice named "Chatterer," that won twice. Mr. H. L. Storey took two seconds.

Already Hackneys had begun to fall off in numbers, but the Society still gave a full breed section. It only secured an average entry of about six. Again Burnley had on view the most famous in the land. The late Sir Walter Gilbey won the Stallion Championship with "Antonius," then in his magnificent prime at six years' old. "Angram Fashion" was reserve to him. The Female Championship was taken by the very famous unbeaten mare "Beckingham Lady Grace," then seven years' old, and owned by Mr. Hy. Gilding. Mr. John Makeague was a successful exhibitor in the section.

With the splendid classification for Shires I thought at the time there should have been a bigger entry than seventy-seven. I hope the Society will reach the century this year. It is very essential that Shire men should advertise by showing their horses just now. The names of the chief winners in 1913 will indicate again the high class of horse Burnley was privileged to see. It is not easy to come from a distance and win in the open Shire classes at the Lancashire Show. There are so many good local animals. The champion stallion was "Gaer Conqueror," eight years' old, owned by Messrs. Grandage, Alderley, Cheshire, and Manchester merchants. He was a hundredweight or two over the ton. Reserve to him was "Eaton Nonsuch," a magnificent younger animal nearly as heavy and a better horse to some minds. "Gaer Conqueror" was a London champion. The female champion was "Sussex Pride," owned by Messrs. Whitley of Paignton, and one of the best mares in England at the time. Messrs. Forshaw's "Woodperry Locket" was reserve to her. It would be impossible to write of any first-class show of Shires without mentioning the name of Forshaw! Their "Carlton What's Wanted" was third to the two stallions mentioned, and then they headed the fine class of three-year-olds with "Tandridge Coming King," who stood before a lot of good ones. They also won in two-year-olds with "Warrior Carlton," while at the head of the yearlings came "Champion's Comrade," shown by J. C. Jackson, and one of the most distinguished youngsters of his day.

In harness there were names that are still familiar—"Mel Valley's Fame," "First Edition," among ponies, and "Millbourne Princess," "Park Carnation," "Gaythorn," "King of the Air," and "Angram Gay Spark." What a galaxy!

In the live stock of the farm the Royal Lancashire Show is one of the most famous in the land, for the classes are open, and coming after the "Royal" and the Yorkshire, the visitor is sure to see some of the most famous animals in the country. The members, and Lancashire farmers, indeed the smallest local fanciers, are fully catered for, and so are all the industries of the farm as well as of the village. The Poultry Show is practical and perfectly managed. The Dog Show is quite one of the best one-day shows in the country, with excellent management and good prizes. The dairy and produce exhibits are a day's study.

SOME CHANGES.

What makes the show exceptional in the country is the large amount of money awarded. In the horse classes it is almost lavish. I am sure owners do not fully appreciate the fact as they should. Now that we are really getting away from the war the fact should be made more apparent by increased entries at this year's show at Burnley.

It seems a long time since 1913. The war came the next year, and we have "never been right since." We have had a decade cut out of our lives—ten years lost, and in which we did not really live. It seems twenty-five years since the Burnley Show of 1913. Yet we who knew it, and hope to be at this one, will not notice much apparent change in the order of things and the appearance of the show. The main classes remain on the same lines as do the ring arrangements. We shall miss the familiar faces of too many stalwarts of the Society and the ring. Many famous studs, herds, and flocks are gone for ever. Farming and agriculture have got a move on. There is more hustle and more petrol in them, but the maintenance of the quality of our farm stock still occupies the most efficient of our farmers, and stock remains the sheet anchor of farming. Only by Royal Lancashire Shows, and societies, and the like can these things be maintained. Through the shows the interest of the populations of great towns is annexed, and they are at least led to contribute something to help the paramount industry of the country.

I have said we shall not notice much apparent difference between the show of 1913 and the coming one. But Pedigree Dairy Cattle have come ahead. In 1913 the only pure breed catered for besides Shorthorns was the Jersey. They were comprised with the milking competitions in thirty-one cattle classes in all. Now there are over fifty classes, and at Burnley we shall see, as well as Shorthorn Dairy Cattle, Red Polls, Blue Albions, British Friesians, Jerseys, and besides "Dairy Cattle of any breed," a class for "Recorded" cows. Red Polls have appeared spasmodically at the shows, I think, and they are dairy and beef stock, but do not excel over dairy Shorthorns. In their own land they may. The Blue Albions, a Bakewell district "discovery" of half a dozen years ago, are very useful general-purpose stock. The tremendous onslaught of the British Friesian pail-fillers has made them now a conspicuous feature of the Lancashire Show. We knew them not in the prize schedule of 1913. The Jersey remains, an aristocrat of the bovine race, but the Kerry has gone from the Lancashire schedule, though distinctly a small holder's animal.

Pigs are always a great show in variety and super-excellence at the Royal Lancashire. The most famous and the largest herds of some breeds have flourished in the county. In 1913 the breeds shown included classes of Large Whites, Middle Whites, Lincolnshire Curly-coated, Berkshires, and Tamworths—five breeds. This year there are no Lincolns, Berks., or Tamworths. Large and Middle White with the Cumberland lop ears suffice, and they have full breed classifications. These are proved the best pigs for our county, and farmers will see what the best, and consequently the most economic of their kind, are like—and buy them!

I have referred to sheep classification in the old days. It has altered much in the past thirty years. No longer do we classify the great Oxford or Hants Downs, the medium but useful and high quality Shropshires, or those beautiful, compact, little South-downs. They always strike me as the Aberdeen Angus of sheep! None of these breeds did so well in Lancashire as the Shropshires, and of the latter the Holker flock was famous in "Mr. Victor's" time. They seem to have gone out in the North, and have been supplanted by the Suffolk sheep. The latter are in favour as being proved to be a very successful cross for the production of earlier lambs. But the Suffolk was not in the Prize List of 1913. The only breeds then were Wensleydale, Lonk, and Black-faced. This year, at Burnley, are classed Wensleydale, Lonk, Suffolk, and Grey-faced. It is a judicious selection.

HORSE CLASSES AND PRIZES.

I come now to the most important stock from the public and display point of view. The classification for Shires is full. Nowhere but at "The Hall" is there a greater number of breeding classes of the best horse on earth. We see here what we do not at the "Royal"—stallions four years' old and over—the Great Horse in his prime. The prize list is most generous, and has not varied much. Seeing what the Society gives we ought always to have an "England" show here.

The Hackney classes this year are fewer than in 1913, but they are slightly on the move up. The Society does, and has done all it can. I am glad that the H.H.S. have recognised this now, and we shall have breed classes almost as of yore. The Society has had good support from the Hunter owners and breeders. The latter have appreciated the good money offered and the advantage of a Royal Lancashire rosette.

That devoted supporter of the Society, member of the Council, and the Senior Light Horse Steward, Mr. R. B. Neilson, made an appeal in March to breeders and owners to support the Light Horse classes this year at Burnley. It would be a peculiarly appropriate tribute to the President and to the memory of the late Sir John Thursby if there was a bumper entry of light horses. Every endeavour has been made to increase the Hackney breeding classes again. Let us hope a change has arrived, and in the case of Hunters the prospects are better and exhibitors are pluckier. There are four saddle classes with prizes in two of £20, £15, £10, and £5. Welsh Ponies are catered for in three classes. There were none in 1913, nor were there, as this year, Children's Riding and Jumping Classes. This year there are three—one for boys, one for girls, one mixed, and a new Special Prize in the shape of a Silver Cup is offered. Burnley, 1926, should thus be a really sporting show.

The Driving Classes are spread over the four days, and exhibitors may come for their particular day. The first prizes are £12 in nearly each case. For Leapers the first prizes are £25 and £20, with second prizes of £15, while on the Championship Day, the Monday, the prizes are £25, £20, £10, £6, and £5. If there is not splendid competition throughout the Light Horse Section the Council can do no more—save let owners know about it, and they have done that!

In its other departments the story of the excellent Prize List is the same. Moreover the "Show's" advanced with the times. There is enterprise in each when the Schedules—a long work—are examined. To take an instance, there will be in connection with the Poultry Show a display, really a museum, such as has not been staged anywhere before. On the suggestion of the Senior Poultry Steward (Mr. W. G. M. Townley) there is to be an Egg Show, comprising as nearly as possible the eggs of every breed of poultry, including Waterfowls. Mr. Townley has organised and will arrange it. There will be six typical eggs of each breed. The Poultry Clubs were circularized in March, and there was an immediate response, so that within a fortnight there were responses on behalf of over thirty societies. It will be a most complete collection.

Perhaps not a big thing in size itself, but it shows that the sense of "live" stewardship pervades the Council and each Steward, and that there is no need to "wake up" Lancashire agriculturists, least of all when their show is being held in an historic centre of the vigour of the old Royal North Lancashire Agricultural Society. The Local Committee are the heirs of the "Burnley agriculturists" of 1850, and several of them were members of the never-excelled Local Committee of 1913. May the luck of '13 be equalled by that of '26!

THE LANCASTER SHOW OF 1925

By HAROLD HOLDERNESS.

WHEN the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society accepted the invitation to hold their 1925 Show at Lancaster, it was not in the belief they would receive compensation for the heavy loss sustained at Manchester, but in fulfilment of their educational mission and desire to serve the interests of the agriculturists of North Lancashire. Outside Lancaster and Morecambe there were no large centres of population to draw upon as in the industrial areas of the county, but with the excellent facilities for transport that did not exist when the show was last staged within sight of John o' Gaunt's castle, and given ideal weather conditions that would encourage road travel and draw holiday crowds from the seaside, the most sanguine supporters had ventured to hope it might be possible to balance the accounts. Unfortunately the exhibition again fell on evil days. A long spell of brilliant weather came to an end a week before the gates were opened, and the Royal Lancashire of 1925 had concluded before settled conditions were restored. There was a capital attendance of visitors from the countryside extending into the neighbouring counties of Yorkshire and Westmorland, but the townsfolk, without whose support shows of this magnitude could not exist, were lacking, and as loss of gate receipts is also reflected in other sources of revenue, notably from the grandstands and catering departments, the receipts fell short of the expenditure by £2,500. This is a large sum to be added to the Manchester deficit of £5,500, but it is not so formidable as the Members of the Council had been prepared for after the slow movement of the turnstiles and the sparsely-filled dining rooms and stands on three out of the four days.

As compared with a year ago it had been possible to effect substantial economies in the preparation of the show ground, otherwise a much heavier call would have been made on the reserve fund. Agricultural Societies do not carry on their operations for profit, but it is certain they cannot continue to live on their losses, and after the disasters of the past two years the present would appear to be an appropriate opportunity to urge Lancashire farmers to consider the claims of their premier show organisation upon their support. Of the very class the work is intended to benefit, a mere fraction is found on the membership roll. There is a duty upon all interested in agriculture, and especially upon those directly engaged in it, to contribute their quota to this great undertaking. If the appeal for support, based on moral grounds, does not touch a responsive chord, then attention may be directed to the privileges of membership described in a paragraph in the Annual Report, from which frequenters of the shows will see that a guinea annual subscription is an excellent investment. That document gets into few hands outside the membership circle, but those anxious for the welfare of the Society can render service in spreading the information and bringing forward more candidates for membership.

If the show was not a financial success that was certainly not due to any fault on the part of the organisers; on the contrary it was splendidly staged, and in its stock features maintained high traditions, surpassing in the cattle department the memorable display on the occasion of the previous visit to Lancaster in 1906, and in the number of entries beating all records in the Society's long history. This was, perhaps, only to be expected in the heart of a country abounding in choice herds of pedigree and non-pedigree Dairy Shorthorns, and with plenty of owners ambitious for showing honours. Whilst the red, white, and roan, particularly with dairy tendencies, has been developed in the nineteen years that have elapsed since Lancaster was last visited, other breeds have come into the arena. Jerseys, of course, have had a place in the schedule for many years, but British Friesians, Blue Albions, Red Polls, and milk recorded cattle, all of which now have a separate classification, were probably not thought of when the 1906 schedule was framed. Ayrshires, which have come into prominence of late by reason of their marked successes at the last three London Dairy Shows, were also expected to appear in the Royal Lancashire yard, but unfortunately these classes had to be abandoned owing to insufficient entries.

As the dairy breeds have been progressing horses have suffered from the competition of mechanical traction and modern methods of road-making, so that the studs of to-day bear no comparison with those of two decades ago. The Hackney was the first and the worst hit by the motor car, and one wonders at the present rate of breeding where even the show ring performers are to come from within the next few years, the breeding classes having become so attenuated that on the present occasion stallions, brood mares, and young stock did not muster more than fourteen in five classes. In the harness section, however, there was a notable show, and several of the most celebrated horses in the country were in competition. The Hunter breeding classes were better filled than those for the high steppers. Man's inventive genius has not yet devised a substitute for the horse for a cross-country ride to hounds, although changed times and heavy financial burdens have curtailed the sport of kings in some hunting counties.

Entries in the pig section showed a considerable decline compared with the previous year, contributory causes being the deletion from the schedule of Gloucestershire Old Spots and Berkshires. The former, which came into prominence during the boom period of the war, have lost a good deal of the popularity they possessed, at any rate in this part of the country, Berkshires have never been extensively bred in Lancashire, and were only thinly supported on their inclusion at recent shows.

In sheep the numbers were a little larger than in the previous year, and in a country possessing several noted flocks it was natural to find predominant the blue-faced Wensleydale, which is much in demand as a crossing sheep. Lonks had the next strongest entry, but the black-faced and grey-faced varieties were disappointing.

The poultry exhibition was up to the usual standard, although the figures in the comparative table do not suggest it, the disparity being explained by the fact that last year, at Manchester, a local society held their exhibition in conjunction with the County Show, and thus temporarily swelled the totals.

Visiting the threshold of a district where farms and cottage homes are widely scattered, and agencies are at work encouraging arts and crafts to provide profitable employment for leisure hours, it was appropriate that the Society should reintroduce the Village Industries section for the first time since 1915. On the competitive and demonstrative sides there was plenty to instruct and fascinate the urban as well as the rural visitor, and like the floral pavilion this section has become an important auxiliary feature of the show.

It was at Lancaster in 1906 the Royal Lancashire first took upon themselves the onerous duties of catering for the multitude in the dining pavilions as well as in the bars. Mr. Windham Hale, the present Chairman of the Council, the late Mr. Philip Park, and the late Mr. Jas. Kay, took a prominent part in launching this great enterprise, and without previous experience to guide them, spent anxious days. In the years that have elapsed a great deal has been done to perfect the organisation of this important service, and the Catering Committee deserve a word of commendation for the way their tasks are performed.

Since 1874, when the Royal North Lancashire and the Manchester and Liverpool Agricultural Societies joined forces, members of the House of Cavendish have lent their influence and support to the County Society. To the great pleasure of the Council those ties were strengthened and revived when Lieut.-Col. Lord Richard Cavendish, C.B., C.M.G., who has rendered notable service to his country and his county, accepted the presidency, thus following the example of his brother, the present Duke of Devonshire, who held that office when the show visited Barrow-in-Furness in 1897. The way Lord Richard fulfilled his duties was keenly appreciated, and it was recognised that some of the meetings he attended involved long journeys and considerable personal sacrifice. Lord Ashton, who it may not be generally known was a former member of the Society's Council, was unable to take an active part in connection with this visit to the county town, but with characteristic munificence His Lordship headed the local subscription list with a cheque for £500, and contributed a further sum of £100 for distribution in the local horse classes and in prizes for herdsman and grooms for meritorious conduct. The Society have marked their appreciation of His Lordship's generosity by electing him as a Permanent President. Concerning the Chairman of the Council, Mr. Windham E. Hale, C.A., and the Vice-Chairman, Mr. R. B. Neilson, J.P., it is not necessary to repeat here what has been said on previous occasions as to their devotion to the work of these important offices, but it may be recalled that during the year the Honorary Life Vice-Presidency was conferred on Mr. Neilson at a memorable gathering in Liverpool. Mr. Hale was similarly honoured following the Preston Guild Show.

One important change in personnel during the year was the election of Mr. Alex. Foster, J.P., to the chairmanship of the Finance Committee. Mr. Foster's initiative, enterprise, and ability have been eloquently expressed in connection with the affairs of the Preston Royal Infirmary, of the Board of Management of which he is chairman, and his knowledge of finance gained in a wide business experience has been brought to bear with great advantage to the Society.

A word of praise must be given to the local auxiliaries for their work in stimulating enthusiasm. This was the first time in the Society's long history that each of two contiguous towns set up a Local Committee, working independently to further the same object. At Lancaster, the Mayor (Alderman G. Jackson), who was chairman of the Local Executive on the occasion of the last visit, again played a worthy part as head of the General Committee, and was admirably supported by Mr. J. T. Travis-Clegg, D.L., C.A., Chairman, and Captain John Sanderson, Vice-Chairman of the local Executive, Mr. J. T. Sanderson and Mr. A. C. Haines, Joint Hon. Treasurers, and Mr. G. F. Hallam as Secretary. At Morecambe a prominent member of the Society's Council in the Mayor (Alderman Richard Hall), acted as Chairman of the General Committee, and on his part nothing was left undone that would contribute to success. Councillor J. C. Wilson, who, like the Mayor, is widely known in dairy stock circles, presided over the Executive meetings, with Councillor Akroyd as Vice-Chairman; Mr. T. Atkinson, J.P., Hon. Local Treasurer; and Mr. J. Entwistle, M.B.E. (Town Clerk of Morecambe), and Mr. A. Bates (Clerk to the Heysham Urban Council), as Joint Local Secretaries.

For the fourth occasion the show was staged on Scale Hall Farm, adjoining the new main road between Lancaster and Morecambe. About forty acres were occupied, and the site was ideal from its convenient and pleasant situation, and the nature of the ground which had a close-knit, firm turf and free natural drainage, so that on the wettest days pedestrians suffered no serious inconvenience. The yard was admirably planned, and the compact arrangement won the general encomiums of visitors.

SHORTHORNS.

The presence of representatives of the Royal Herd at Windsor invested the section for beef Shorthorns with considerable interest, and the Society greatly appreciated the support His Majesty the King had extended. Several animals with dairying ancestry came into competition with those of Cruickshank type, and, as a matter of fact the Derby Cup for the best Shorthorn bull bred by the exhibitor was claimed for the third successive year and won outright by a dairy sire in the Earl of Bessborough's Bessborough Polonius, one of the most remarkable animals of his breed that has been in the showyards for many years, possessing enormous substance, and remarkable activity and evenness of fleshings, considering his eight years and his lengthy show career.

The first of the female classes to enter the ring brought out the winner of the "Astley-Bell" Challenge Cup for the best Shorthorn cow or heifer in the show in Mr. W. Woof's (Burton-in-Westmorland) Rosebud, a seven-year-old daughter of Smiling Yet, and a splendid representative of an old Booth family, combining robustness and wealth of flesh with milk-producing qualities. She was the female champion here the previous year, and has had many other honours. Messrs. E. & J. Whinnerah (Warton) filled the second and third places in the class with Roan Lally 3rd and Thorn Nonpareil 3rd. The former, which won the open heifer class at this show last year, was a very attractive light roan on rather lesser lines, and more dairified in conformation. The third, bred by Mr. John Gill, at Stainton, was by Collynie Lavender King, the same sire as Mr. Arthur Green's Denton Betty, which the previous year was champion here, and had the rare distinction for a yearling heifer of winning supreme honours of her sex at the "Royal." The Warton Hall pair stood first and second in the County class, where they were followed by Mr. C. J. Tong's Shard Circes 10th, showing signs of dairy force, but older than those above her. Roan Lally 3rd also qualified for top position in the class for cows in calf or milk, bred by the exhibitor and the property of a member of the Society.

The open class for heifers calved in 1922 brought out a well-known winner in Messrs. J. & J. Kay's symmetrical, stately, white Musbury Millicent 2nd by Collynie Conquest, and after defeating opponents from Malton and Kirkby Stephen also came to the top of the County class, where her only challenger was Mr. W. H. Dixon's Fragrance, from Ellel. The King's representative, Windsor Carnation, was an outstanding winner in a strong group of 1923 heifers, where Messrs. J. & J. Kay were second with the smaller, but very pretty and gay, Edenfield Lady Geneva. She had a good follower in Mr. J. Thompson's (Greenhalgh) Mistress Mysie 2nd, another of the dual-purpose Booth type, which had been in evidence at the local shows. The Geneva and Mysie heifers stood first and second in the corresponding County class. His Majesty the King again triumphed in yearling heifers with Windsor Luxury 2nd, a rich red that eclipsed her competitors in scale and covering. Messrs. J. & J. Kay's successful show heifer Maude 39th was second, and Messrs. Whinnerah's Nonpareil 37th was third. The last pair occupied the leading positions in the County class.

Of the six senior bulls entered only three were forward, and Messrs. Whinnerah's lengthy, level, well-ribbed and richly coloured dark roan Dictator by Royal Gauntlet, and bred by Mr. A. T. Buttar, was placed in front of another massive, stylish sire, and a winner of several championships at the local shows, in Mr. J. Thompson's Fairhurst Winsons 3rd, bred by Mr. Jas. Ainscough in the Fairhurst Hall herd, Parbold. The leader was subsequently awarded the "Makant" Cup for the best bull born in the year prior to the show, and bred by the exhibitor who is a resident in the County and a member of the Society. The third bull in the class, which came from Staffs., was Mr. A. Ross Fielding's massive Carleton Style, which has achieved success as a herd leader. Seven years old, he was much the senior of the two bulls in front of him. The first pair retained their respective positions in the County class, and the third was the deep, level-fleshed roan Master Clipper belonging to Mr. Jas. Cornall, of Cockerham.

Messrs. J. & N. N. Lee, of Arncliffe, Skipton-in-Craven, led the two-year-olds with the splendidly bred roan Millhills Clipper King by Cupbearer of Collynie, and the second from Mr. C. W. L. Penrhyn-Hornby's herd at Dalton Hall, Burton-in-Westmorland, was another of the same family in Clipper Boy, bred by the late Mr. John Handley. Messrs. Kay's well-known white Millicent bull, Musbury Radium, which has scored heavily in the Northern shows, had to accept third position, but he came to the top in the County class, where two smart dairy bulls were second and third in Mr. J. Counce's Penwortham Clever William, and Mr. G. W. Isherwood's Longhills Lord Rufus, with noted progenitors in Combebank Foundation Stone 6th and Babraham Lord Price respectively. A fine collection of yearling bulls was headed by Mr. Arthur Green's Collynie Goldfinder, an aristocrat in appearance, and bred in the purple. Mr. C. Dobson, Low Sizergh, followed with Sizergh Stamp, a red and white on smaller lines. Another Collynie bred bull in Collynie Regalia took the third rosette for Messrs. R. Lancaster & Sons, Carleton. The last-named came to the top in the County class, with Messrs. Whinnerah's Butterfly Director second, and Mr. Jas. Ainscough's General Gibbs third.

PEDIGREE DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

The show of Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns was one of the best the Society has ever furnished, and in striking contrast with the display on the occasion of the last visit to Scale Hall, great developments having taken place in this department of stockbreeding within the last two decades. Unfortunately, heavy rain fell whilst judging was in progress, and at long intervals the ringside was deserted. The open class for bulls calved previous to 1924 brought out Bessborough Polonius, to which reference has already been made in the introductory notes on the Shorthorns, and it only remains to be stated that in addition to his triple win over beef and dairy types at the Royal Lancashire, he has twice been dairy champion at the "Royal." Next to him in the class came Mr. Caunce's (Rufford) youthful, but well-grown, level, deep and mellow-handling Penwortham Clever William of the Cowslip family, bred by Mr. A. R. Fish at Holme Mead, Hutton, who was also the exhibitor of the third bull Grendon Watercress, a wide, deep, robust roan, with noted relations, and descending from the Cressida tribe, out of a Lord Nottingham cow. Twelve of the eighteen entries in bulls calved in 1924 were forward, and in a keen contest the chief rosette was awarded to Mr. R. D. Holt's (Windermere) Hugill Bootlegger, a sappy, attractive son of Crusader, near the ground. Mrs. Carleton Cowper's Habermain Marquis, from Penrith, was second, and the third was Mr. Jas. Ainscough's (Parbold) General Gibbs, a neat and balanced roan by Waterloo Warrior, out of a Hawkrigg Pride dam.

The female classes were well filled, and reached a remarkably high standard of quality. Nearly a score of animals paraded, and several which stood well up after the preliminary inspection failed to give the qualifying yields, and had to pass out of the honours list. The first three cows the judge drew to the top in the class for animals calved in or before 1921, succeeded in retaining their positions after the milk had been placed on the scales. Leading honours went to Mr. T. Sumner's Moor Hall herd, Aughton, Ormskirk, for Doris Telluria Heggles 4th, a very sweet, dark roan daughter of President, youthful and attractive, and full of dairy character. Her yield was 36lb. 7oz. Mr. R. H. Milner, Borwick, followed with the deep-middled Knowsley Clairvoyant 4th, fitted with a capital vessel. Her contribution was 33lb. 2oz. A descendant of the celebrated Darlington Cranford in Thurnham Darlington Cranford by Loobagh Lord Foggathorpe took third place for Mr. J. J. Charnley, Glasson Dock. A roan with neat frame and udder, she is built on pailfilling lines, and had the highest yield of the leading trio, the spring balance registering 38lb. 9oz.

In cows or heifers calved in or after 1922, Mr. J. G. Peel scored with a strong candidate of his own breeding in Over Peover Magic, whose sire and dam bore the Grendon prefix. She was gay in appearance, possessed a remarkable bag for a heifer, and gave 24lb. 12oz. A still younger heifer credited with 22lb. 8oz., stood second in Mr. G. P. Golden's (Leire, Rugby) Lady Clovelly, a refined red roan daughter of Lord Leicester 9th. Mr. J. H. Robinson, Kendal, was third with Rosamund Queen, another descendant of Lord Nottingham on the dam's side, and dairified in appearance. She qualified with a milk output of 18lb. In heifers in milk, calved in or after 1923, Mr. Golden's Lady Clovelly, which was second in the preceding class, was entitled to compete here, and she claimed the red rosette. The second and third cards went to Mr. H. H. Owtram, Newland Hall, Ellet, for Newland Rose 25th and Newland Wallflower 7th, both representing several generations of his own breeding.

Cows in calf, calved before 1921, did not make a numerically strong class, but those parading were not too easy to separate. Mr. J. G. Peel had another well-merited success with Golden Ruby, a handsome roan by Golden Star out of the Lord Nottingham cow Watercrock Ruby, and bred by Mr. J. Moffat. Mrs. Fitz-Hugh's Kelmscott Lady Nottingham 2nd, also with promise of a rare bag, followed, and the third from Cark-in-Cartmel was Mr. J. B. Smalley's Lunesdale Primrose 3rd, younger and not yet developed like the two above her, but a true dairy type. One of the strongest classes in the section was that for heifers in calf, calved in or after 1922, and the honour of leading here went to Mr. J. B. Smalley for a symmetrical and classy roan in Leam Blossom 2nd by Leam Royal Gwynne, out of Blossoms Gift by Diamond Gift. Mrs. Fitz-Hugh's Plas Power Hopeful, a white by Knowsley Dolphin, was second, and the third was Mr. Jas. Ainscough's Fairhurst Princess Proctor 2nd, a dark roan by Aske Wizard, which after being successfully used with the Fairhurst Hall Shorthorns has passed into Messrs. Silcock's herd.

The "Leverhulme" Cup for the best Lancashire-bred exhibit, male or female, in the Pedigree Dairy Shorthorn classes was awarded Mr. Caunce's bull, Penwortham Clever William, and the reserve was the Exors. of W. Bateman's Beaumont Seraph 3rd. In addition to making the "Derby" Cup his own property, the Earl of Bessborough's Bessborough Polonius also took Mr. Edmund Berry's 10 guineas Champion Cup for the best Shorthorn bull in the show. Reserve honours went to Messrs. J. & N. N. Lee's Mill-hills Clipper King.

RECORDED CATTLE.

There was an increased entry in the four classes for recorded cattle belonging to members of the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society. Competition was keen in the group for cows in milk, and eventually preference was given to Mr. Nathan Hardman's (Barton) Buttercup 2nd, a roan combining scale with neatness of form and dairy qualities. Messrs. R. Fisher & Sons' Cabus, came second with the wealthy Friesian Blackmore Flirt 2nd, a robust type with a big vessel. Messrs. W. Holgate & Sons' roan, Braithwaite, was third, and Mr. G. W. Isherwood's Challan Coquet stood fourth. The in-calf class though not quite so strong numerically contained some fine animals. Mr. R. Batty's Grassendale Rosebud was first, and she had two strong rivals to follow in Mr. T. Procter's (Chipping) and Mr. Nathan Hardman's entries. In heifers in-calf or milk Mr. Isherwood's Reamhills Privet beat Messrs. R. Silcock & Sons' Fylde Princess 29th, and representatives of Messrs. Holgate's herd filled the third and fourth places. A Blue Albion in Adderley Cowslip from Mr. A. Gillett's herd at Chorley, headed the group of heifers under two years' old the progeny of recorded cows, earmarked under the Ministry's scheme or registered with a recognised breed society. Mr. A. Norman Dugdale followed with the promising Friesian Thurston Karel Hiske P.I., and the third was Mr. Jas. Tunstall's Dairy Shorthorn Faircliff Lady Winsonia. Mr. Hardman's Buttercup 2nd was adjudged to be the best animal in the recorded classes, and the owner thus made his first claim upon Dr. Milburn's 20 guineas Challenge Cup. Mr. Isherwood's Reamhills Privet was reserve.

The support given to the class for Non-Pedigree Dairy Shorthorns entered or accepted for entry in the register of the Dairy Shorthorn Association was disappointing. Only three were entered; one failed to put in an appearance, and another missed qualifying with her morning yield. Mr. J. H. Robinson's Rosaline, a roan with an excellent vessel gave 35lb. of milk, and took the Shorthorn Society's first prize of £10.

BRITISH FRIESIANS.

The strength and quality of the British Friesian section once more emphasised the growing popularity of these deep-milking black and whites. In senior bulls Messrs. Gilbert & Woodfield Weston-on-Trent, showed the way with the massive Seaton Roland, the Great Yorkshire and the Three Counties show winner. Mr. John Horridge, of Llanfair, was second with Llanfair Paul P.I., a bull of his own breeding and not half the age of the winner, and Mr. H. H. Llewellyn, who has gone to Greenhead, near Milnthorpe, where the late Mr. John Handley bred some famous Shorthorns, came third with a very promising son of Saltcote Johan in Home-stall Dornoch. Mr. E. Hollingworth, C.B.E., whose choice herd at Dobcross was conspicuously successful at the "Royal," supplied the winner in the class for bulls calved in 1924 with Hache Buringa P.I., the reserve champion at the Chester R.A.S.E. Show beating Mr. G. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Meibloem's Beatty P.I. The nineteen animals that paraded in the class for cows in milk included several that had been prominent in the honours lists. The Yorkshire exhibitor, Mr. Bertram Parkinson, of Arthington, received the red rosette, and subsequently the crowning honours of the section for Beccles Gloria, a handsome 9 year-old cow, fitted with a great vessel and having a 1,750 gallon record to her credit in her previous note. "Handsome is as handsome does," and the fact may be placed on record here that she eventually eclipsed all breeds in the milking trials. Second in the class was Captain John Christie's Terling Breeze 8th, and the third from Buglawton, Cheshire, was the Exors. of David Moseley's well-known Northdean Bonnie Annie, much younger than the two cows in front of her.

Of cows in calf there were only two forward, and here Mr. Holt-Thomas's Beccles Peggotty got the verdict over Mr. Hollingworth's Hache Tult P.I. These exhibitors were again the only rivals in the class for heifers in milk, and were placed in the same order, Mr. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Meibloem going in front of Mr. Hollingworth's Hache Will o' the Wisp, a daughter of the Royal champion Clockhouse King Akrim. At the Chester R.A.S.E. show she was second in the class that was headed by the champion Friesian female. Captain Christie's Glyndebourne Breeze topped a good line of two-year-old heifers, thus repeating her Great Yorkshire success, and was followed by Mr. W. H. R. Gilbert's Haydon Stella. First in a smart lot of yearlings came Mr. Hollingworth's home-bred Moordale Pauletta, which was champion at the Great Yorkshire and was first at the "Royal," where she qualified for the Oaks stakes. Mr. G. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Princess May 2nd stood next in the class, and the third was Mr. B. Parkinson's Creskeld Hazeline 2nd, also bred by the exhibitor. The 50 guineas Challenge Cup for the best female (presented by Mr. John Horridge, of Bury and Llanfair) was carried off by Mr. Parkinson's Beccles Gloria, and the runner-up, also bred by Mr. F. W. D. Robinson, and by the same sire, Beccles (imp.) Lodewijk, was Mr. Holt-Thomas's winning in-calf cow.

JERSEYS, RED POLLS, AND BLUE ALBIONS.

Channel Islands cattle were not so numerous as they have been seen at the Royal Lancashire, and one or two well-known Southern breeders were absentees this year. Mr. Sol. Wiggans, of Garstang, had a notable success in the bull class with Minnies Sybil Oxford (imp.), a three-year-old of excellent conformation and masculine character. The second and third, both of which came from Mr. I. B. Wilson's herd at Grange-over-Sands, were Bentworth Majestic and Sunray's Cowslip. In a small class of cows Mrs. Evelyn, of Dorking, a remarkably successful exhibitor, showed Wotton Pink May, a nine-year-old cow of her own breeding. She resisted the opposition of Mr. Sol. Wiggans' Sybils Oxford Bess (imp.), and once more enabled her owner to hold the "Blythwood" Perpetual Challenge Bowl, which she won in 1922 and 1924 with Dahlia 4th, and in 1915 with Lady May. Mrs. Evelyn's Wotton May Moon also won in heifers, with Mr. I. B. Wilson's Xenia second, and Mr. Sol. Wiggans' Oxford Merry Lassie 4th, and Volunteer's Gonda (imp.) filling the next two places. Mrs. Evelyn's Wotton Cloud Bank was unopposed in yearling heifers.

There was a fairly good representation of Red Polls. Seven bulls were entered, and the judge hesitated some time before he placed Lt.-Col. C. Brooks' Kinmount Clinker from Annan in front of Lord Wavertree's Ashmoor Jocund. The third from Willaston, near Birkenhead, was Boulge Admiral, belonging to Mr. W. R. Glazebrook, Junr. One of the minor cards in this class was given to Mr. A. Lees Holland, of Lowick House, near Ulverston, for Bruno. Lord Wavertree headed the cow class with Neeton Enid 2nd, which stood fourth in a big group at the "Royal," and was third with Easton Lady Vanity, the pair being separated by Halsall Lucy, the property of Mr. David Oswald, of Halsall, near Ormskirk, who has taken over the herd that was established some years ago by Major Cuthbert Blundell. Mr. Glazebrook's handsomely-modelled Lydiate Fairy was the winning two-year-old. Lord Wavertree's Sudbourne Kismet was second, and Lt.-Col. Brook's Kinmount Sweet Chestnut 2nd third. The last-named exhibitor walked over in yearlings with Kinmount Ruby 4th.

There were four entries in each of the four classes for Blue Albions, and all were sent from three herds. Lt.-Col. W. E. Harrison, Burton-on-Trent, took the lead with the "Royal" winner Bank Champion, which has also other honours to his credit. Mr. P. Dobson, Market Drayton, was second with Elton Monarch, and the third, very symmetrical but handicapped in age, was Bradbourne Guardsman, from Mr. Arnold Gillett's Ridgwood herd, near Chorley, which also supplied the first and second prize-winners in the class for cows or heifers calved in or before 1922, in Bradbourne Gentle and Bradbourne Hiawatha. In two-year-old heifers Lt.-Col. Harrison's Poplars Sweetheart came to the top, followed by Mr. Gillett's Adderley Cowslip and Bradbourne Maizie 2nd, the two latter placings being a reversal of the "Royal" decision. In yearling heifers Mr. P. Dobson's Adderley Bright Eyes, bred by Mr. W. H. Holdcroft, who is well-known in the Shire world, received the chief decoration, and Lt.-Col. Harrison's Barton Sweetheart, and Mr. A. Gillett's Ridgewood Ruth by Bradbourne Monarch, followed in the order named.

DAIRY STOCK, ANY BREED OR CROSS-BREED.

The expectations of a memorable show of dairy cattle, any breed or cross-breed, were fully realised, and the ring pictures which these classes made on the second day of the exhibition will live in memory until the Royal Lancashire pays its return visit to the County town. Quite a number of animals which had done well at local exhibitions were brought into competition, only to find stronger rivals. Mr. J. Charnley, Glasson Dock, had a "dark horse" for the any weight in-milk class, winning with a new-comer to the shows in a sweet roan, full of dairy quality and equipped with a splendid udder that had marked forward development. To win in such company was eloquent testimony to her merits. Mr. A. Ross Fielding, the Staffordshire exhibitor, found second place with Pansy, a good framed roan in rare bloom. Mr. T. Procter's Dairy Maid, which had put down a capacious vessel was third. Mr. E. B. Royden, Birkenhead, was fourth with Penrith Beauty, which has a Penrith championship to her credit, and Mr. N. Hardman's Buttercup 2nd, the cup-winning recorded cow was reserve. Twenty-one in-calf cows were entered, and the parade was quite as imposing as in the preceding class. Mr. John Ford, of Sandbach, sent forward his "Royal" winner Phyllis, a beautifully modelled light roan, sweet in outlook. Mr. T. Procter's Blue Bell, full of dairy quality, was second; one of a pair entered by Mr. Greenwood Crabtree, Burley-in-Wharfedale, was third, and Mr. J. H. Robinson's Watercrock Rose stood fourth.

The remaining classes were limited to the County Palatine. Light-weight in-milk cows were headed by Mr. Jas. Prescott, Unsworth, with a light roan moulded like a pailfiller. Mr. H. Sharrock (Mawdesley) followed with the Rufford champion Sunflower, carrying a capital bag, but just short of show bloom, and the third and fourth places were occupied by Mr. Nathan Hardman's roan, and Mr. Jas. Ainscough's (Parbold) Greenleaf 78th. In the in-calf any weight class Mr. Procter's Blue Bell came to the top, with Mr. Hardman's Ada second. Mr. G. W. Isherwood's Lady May third, and Mr. T. Procter's Sally fourth. Over 11cwt. in milk Mr. Charnley's roan again came in to repeat her success in the corresponding open class, and in the absence of Mr. Ross Fielding's Pansy, Mr. Procter's Dairymaid was lifted to second place; Mr. Hardman's Buttercup 2nd was third, and Mr. M. Whitfield's (Liverpool) Fairfield Pride was fourth. The 10 guineas Champion Cup presented by Mr. Edward Bohane, C.B.E., for the best Non-Pedigree Dairy Cow or Heifer went to Cheshire for Mr. Ford's Phyllis, and Mr. Procter's Blue Bell, which stood second in the same class, was reserve.

SHIRE HORSES.

Several celebrities were brought into competition in the Shire classes which provided some interesting contests. Sir Arthur Nicholson's massive mare Leek Pearl, a consistent winner since a foal, and the Preston Guild Show Champion, was again crowned Queen of her sex, and Mr. T. M. Watson, Blackpool, beat some strong opposition for reserve position with Sundorne Violet, a second prize winner in London, for which he gave a long price at the London Shire Show in the spring. For the Stallion Cup, Mr. Jas. Gould's London champion Herontye Buscot was placed in front of Mrs. Stanton's Sundridge Nulli Secundus.

In yearling fillies, Messrs. A. H. Clark & Son, of Spalding, had a good leader in Moulton Emerald, a brown by Harboro Nulli Secundus. Messrs. Wareing Bros., of Peel, followed with Whinney Prim, another brown by Primley Inventor, and the third, by Snelston Tribesman, was sent by Messrs. L. Lewis & Sons, Warton. Mr. T. Stuart (Lytham) triumphed in two-year-olds with the lofty big-limbed White Meadow Memory, a March King bay that stood fourth in London. Messrs. J. B. Jackson & Sons' Eccleston Coming Fashion, a daughter of Tandridge Coming King out of their well-known black mare Bonny Fashion was placed second. Next came Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's big-boned growthy chestnut by Burscough Premier.

There were only a couple of three-year-olds on parade, and here, Mr. J. Charnley's (Glasson Dock) Hadlow Prince William bay, built on generous lines, was unfortunate in having to meet so formidable a rival in Sir Arthur Nicholson's Pendley Selina, whose show honours, the same year, included the Junior Championship in London and Reserve Championship at the Royal. Eight brood mares were entered, and all were forward. Sir Arthur Nicholson's dark brown Leek Pearl, a four-year-old daughter of Champion's Goalkeeper of impressive proportions and full of character, again asserted her supremacy. For second place there was keen rivalry between Mr. W. Newhouse's forceful, buoyant-moving Ancliffe Winnie by Warrior Carlton and Messrs. W. & J. Sumner's spacious, classy-limbed brown Haseley Briar Rose, which has county championship honours to her credit. The order in which these mares were originally pulled up was eventually reversed and Ancliffe Winnie was given the honour of standing next to Leek Pearl. Mr. J. Moffat's Pendley Vanity, which stood fourth in her class, produced the winning colt foal, a son of the London champion Cowage Clansman. The second colt was by Herontye Buscot, out of Haseley Briar Rose, and the third was a Tarnacre Rosewood bay, shown by Mr. W. Stuart, Brook Vale, Sowerby. In filly foals there was a keen tussle between Mr. Harry Jackson's (Hambleton) bay by Tibberton Leader and Leek Pearl's daughter by Pendley Leader, and they finally stood in the order named.

Barren mares made an unusually meritorious group and included Mr. T. M. Watson's recent purchases in London and Peterborough in Sundorne Violet, a four-year-old brown by Sundorne Jovial Duke and Peel Peach, another brown of similar age and bred in the Fylde. In other hands these mares stood first and fourth at the spring show at Islington. The judges did not hesitate to give the crowning honours to Sundorne Violet, a lofty, roomy, commanding mare on splendid limbs and strong foundations and clever in locomotion. As already indicated, she was placed reserve to Leek Pearl for the championship. Second in the class came Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Queen, a seven-year-old bay, bred in the purple, for she is the product of Champion's Clansman and Roycroft Forest Queen, both of which gained the highest honours of the breed in the same year for the Leek Stud. Leek Queen has also "Royal" and other championships to her credit, but at Lancaster she had to meet a matron of greater scope, weight, and muscular endowment. Messrs. A. H. Clark & Son's Moulton Messenger's Princess, a massive, powerful matron, was third, and another famous mare, now in the hands of Messrs. A. Hall & Sons, of Towton, near Tadcaster, was fourth. This was the eight-year-old Champion's Goalkeeper bay Pendley Lady, which had a distinguished show career in Mr. F. S. Freckleton's possession, and at the two preceding Royal Lancashire exhibitions held the Greenall Challenge Cup for the best mare or filly. Two yearling entire colts were shown, and both commanded attention. Mr. Rt. Stuart sent from Kirkland a balanced, well-planted brown in Kirkland Mimic by Horning Mimic from a King Cole 7th mare, and very classy in bone and feather. The second was Mrs. Stanton's well-grown and lashy bay, Harboro's Heir by Harboro' Nulli Secundus. Messrs. A. H. Clark & Son had a good winner in two-year-olds in the wide, deep and balanced Moulton Harboro' by Harboro' Nulli Secundus. Mr. Stuart had another Kirkland stud representative in the second place in Seedsman, a brown by Hadlow Prince William out of the Wyresdale Draughtsman mare Hawton Ashleaf and bred by Messrs. W. & J. Sumner, at Fulwood. Possessing the right stamp of foundations on which to build, this colt held out great promise, and it may here be interposed that he has lived up to expectations, for, at the London Shire Show this (1926) year, he got third place in his class and was eventually sold by auction to Mrs. Stanton for 1,050 guineas. Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's thick, compact Burscough Dray King by Burscough Premier was third, and Mr. John Blundell, Scotforth, got the reserve ticket for Burrow Magnet, a weighty home-bred bay by Sundridge Nulli Secundus.

Mr. W. H. Neale's Coleshill Dagger by Marden Dagnam was first in a quartet of three-year-old stallions. Messrs. H. Whittingham & Sons, Winmarleigh, were second with Throstle Ironclad by Burscough Ironclad; Messrs. J. & H. G. Mackereth's Tribesman, a bay by Snelston Tribesman was third, and Messrs. Ainscough's Monks Green Friar bay by Burscough Royal Friar was reserve.

In the senior class where the entries also numbered four, the meeting of Mr. Jas. Gould's Herontye Buscot and Mrs. Stanton's Sundridge Nulli Secundus was anticipated with considerable interest. Both horses were shown very fit, but Messrs. Forshaw & Cumber apparently had no hesitation in placing the Lymm stud representative in front of Mrs. Stanton's horse, and, eventually, Herontye Buscot carried off the Kenworthy Cup for the second successive year. Third in the class came Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Clansman, an attractive classily limbed black by Champion's Clansman on finer lines than the two equine giants placed above him. Messrs. Whinnerah's Tempe Rex, a seven-year-old brown by Snowdon Menestrel was reserve. The gold medal for the best stallion or entire colt bred by or in the possession of a resident occupier of agricultural land in the County Palatine, went to Mr. R. Stuart's Seedsman, and the same owner's winning yearling was the runner-up.

The two classes for geldings were not very well supported. There was just a trio of three-year-olds in which Messrs. G. G. Marsh & Son led off with their London Champion, the beautifully-limbed March King grey Uncle Ben, and also filled the second place with Speke Grey by the same sire. Mr. W. T. Roberts' lofty Haywood Prince was third. It is an interesting coincidence that all three horses were greys, and were by March King. Mr. Milton Schofield was first in the senior group with Alkrington Champion, a grandly-topped bay by Bradgate Champion, and defeated Messrs. Marsh's black Speke Darkie, which since winning the Peterborough Championship had lost some of his middle and feather. Messrs. Garlick, Burrell & Edwards, Liverpool, were third with Empire, a well-knit, forceful-moving bay, and Mr. W. T. Roberts' Haywood Pride, a younger horse by Ash Childwick, was reserve.

Uncle Ben beat Alkrington Champion for the Hulbert Cup and the Gold Medal for the best gelding.

HACKNEYS AND HUNTERS.

Five classes for Hackneys mustered 14 entries; yet this was a rather better display than at the Chester "Royal." Mr. Walter Briggs' Albin King's Heir, bred by the exhibitor within a few miles of the showground, was the first of three stallions on view, and he subsequently made a second claim upon the 50 guinea Challenge Cup, presented by his owner to replace the trophy Mr. Briggs had won outright with Adbolton Kingmaker, the sire of King's Heir. The second and reserve champion was Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' dashing showyard veteran Angram Majesty.

Mr. J. W. Featherby was third with Overton Sensation by Bertrano, the reserve junior champion at the National Hackney Show at Doncaster, where Albin King's Heir had supreme honours. In two-year-olds, Messrs. H. E. Stubbins & Sons, Melbourne, York, walked over with Hall Garth Beauty by Angram Majesty, and in three-year-olds the great Yorkshire verdict was upset, Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' Angram Lady Rickell now going in front of Mr. R. J. Simpson's Lady of the Rose. Sir Lees Knowles' celebrated Slashing Dorothy, the National champion on four occasions, was followed in brood mares by Mr. Walter Briggs' Creake Lady, which was crowned queen of her breed at Doncaster the previous year. These were the placings in the contest for Sir Lees Knowles' Cup for the best mare or filly won in 1924 by Creake Lady, then in the hands of Mr. Enoch Glen. Mr. T. Hignett's (West Derby) Angram Empress was placed third in mares, and the foals stood in the same order as their dams. Slashing Dorothy's daughter was by Bertrano, so that she is the product of parents each of which have been National champions on four occasions.

The Children's riding classes were well filled, and, as usual, made fascinating ring features. Chief honours went to Ralph Kenyon Crompton, Bury; Joan Bickley, Montford Bridge, Salop; and Andrew Massarella, Bentley, Doncaster, the last-named, who was unplaced in the riding classes, excelling in the jumping contest.

Ten pretty Welsh Mountain ponies were spread over three classes, and the best of these came from Mrs. H. D. Greene's noted stud at Craven Arms, Salop, which supplied the winner for the third successive year of the George Lyell Challenge Trophy for the best mare, Grove Moonstone, a four-year-old grey by Ch. Shooting Star being the recipient. The reserve was Miss N. Mathieson's (Tattenhall) Dunchurch Venus, a five-year-old by Bledfa Shooting Star.

The breeding classes for Hunters had just double the entries of Hackneys, but the horses were in few hands. Mr. George Dickinson, Cark-in-Cartmel, whose young stock were the produce of Silver Grill, had a good winner in yearlings in Cark Silver Sign. The first of five two-year-olds was Dr. Jackson's (Carnforth) Chitty, a clever-moving chestnut filly by Rathurde. Mr. H. L. Storey, an old and generous friend of the Society and President on the occasion of the last visit of the Royal Lancashire to the county town, sent from his stud, which was removed to Wiltshire several years ago, a gelding by Bachelor's Lodge to take second place. The red rosette in the three-year-olds went to Dr. Jackson's Hot Stuff, a gelding of Rathurde's get, on excellent limbs. Out of eight brood mares, Messrs. Warre & Unwin's (Tewkesbury) aged but well-preserved Cavallini by Long Tom was placed in front of Mr. G. Dickinson's Cark Bridget and took Mr. T. A. Longworth's Challenge Cup as the best female. Cark Bridget also stood reserve for the trophy, and took the Gold Medal. Mr. Dickinson's Cark Silver Mascot, a son of Cark Bridget, had no difficulty in heading a class of eight foals. The special for the best young Hunter went to Dr. Jackson's Hot Stuff, and the reserve, Cark Silver Sign also qualified for the medal as the best young Hunter filly up to three years' old by a Thoroughbred horse or registered Hunter sire.

The riding classes were unusually thin for the Royal Lancashire, and this could only be accounted for by several shows clashing in the hunting countries. In hack Hunters up to 15 hands, Mr. Jack Major's Overleaf beat Mr. H. Grainger's Glory. Mr. Geoff. Kenyon, a consistent supporter of this show, had a good winner in heavyweights in the five-year-old grey Danielli, which was followed by Mr. Dickinson's Cark Marquis. The Kenyon Challenge Cup for the best Hunter in the riding classes went to Mr. R. L. Weaver's six-year-old chestnut gelding, which after heading the group for horses capable of carrying not less than 12 stone to hounds, came out in the novice class, where he met and defeated Danielli.

HARNESS COMPETITIONS.

One of the most notable of the harness classes was that for mares or geldings over 15-2 hands, where two satellites of the harness world were vanquished by a novice. After the preliminary parade, Mr. W. S. Miller's Grand Fashion, the Olympia, Richmond, and Royal champion was first pulled up with Mr. Bertram Mills' Edgware Duke, the Doncaster champion next, and Glenavon Belief, belonging to Mr. H. S. Kenyon, Lytham St. Annes, third. Glenavon Belief had been in the honours list when shown in hand, but was virtually a novice in harness, having been tried in leather only at one or two district exhibitions. However, she made a storming debut in distinguished company, and when Mr. T. J. Evans drew her out from third position to the head of the line there was a demonstration of approval from the ringside. She added exceptional action to handsome conformation. Edgware Duke was second and Grand Fashion third.

In the contest for the Glasgow Challenge Cup for the best mare or gelding over 15 hands, Glenavon Belief again triumphed over Edgware Duke. Mr. W. B. Mills' Edgware Actor, a four-year-old by King's Chamberlain, qualified for Mr. Longworth's Challenge Cup for the best novice, any height. In the open group for mares or geldings up to 14 hands, Mr. Miller's brilliant pony, Billet Doux, was first and Mr. R. Belcher's Glenavon Gunfire second, third prize going to Mr. J. Horrocks' (Preston) Castlemair Casabianca. The novice class, up to 15 hands, was won by Mr. R. Black's Brigadier, which stood reserve for the novice cup. Mr. D. R. Blair's Pocket Hercules and Crack Shot walked over in pairs up to 15 hands, and over that height Mr. Mills had first and second places with Edware Duke and Edware Supreme and Edware Count and Edware Dusky Queen, and third came Mr. Blair's Hilden Fashion and Parade. Billet Doux headed the ponies under 13 hands in front of Mr. J. W. G. Smith's Naughty Fire, and from 14 to 15 hands Mr. Miller's rhythmic-moving Stella Vane beat Brigadier. A duel in the 15 to 15-2 hands group ended in Mr. Miller's Knight Banneret getting the verdict over Mr. Belcher's Dark Legend. Alderman R. Parkinson's Challenge Cup for the best of the mares or geldings up to 15 hands went to Billet Doux with Glenavon Gunfire as runner-up and Brigadier as second reserve.

There were 16 entries from five police forces in the class for the best turned-out mounted Constable. The Manchester City's Olympia winner (P. C. Bowen) added to many honours. Salford's Red King (P.C. Newton) was second, and the third and fourth from Liverpool, were Colonel (Sergt. Fitzpatrick) and Tullaghan (P.C. Irvine).

SHEEP, PIGS, AND GOATS.

Wensleydales were the predominant breed in the sheep section and made an excellent show, as might be expected in a district where many noted flocks are kept. Mr. W. T. Milner, Slyne, took both specials for pairs of gimmer lambs and ram lambs, and in each case his brother, Mr. R. H. Milner, of Borwick, was reserve. Mr. John Dargue's Carperby Blue Prince, a Royal winner with an unbeaten record in the previous season, again won in rams, two shear or over, against strong opposition. Mr. John A. Willis, of Carperby, claimed the three money prizes in a class of eleven shearling rams and a pair from the same flock was at the top in shearling ewes. The Marquis of Bute supplied the winner in a class of a dozen ram lambs, and in the County Palatine competitions the money prizes were shared by Messrs. R. H. Milner, W. T. Milner, and J. B. Smalley, of Cark-in-Cartmel.

Lonks had the next strongest representation, but here there might have been a more numerous entry from the border farms of Lancashire and Yorkshire. The Porritt Cup, for the best exhibit in the Lonk section, went to Mr. T. Brayshaw, Portsmouth, Todmorden, for Hill Top Swell, a four-year-old ram, and Mr. E. Smith, of Cowling, last year's winner, was reserve with his first-prize ram lamb Summerhouse Tit Bit, which was awarded the cup as the best ram lamb belonging to a member of the Lonk Sheepbreeders' Association. The same owner's Summerhouse Model was the runner-up. Mr. A. Taylor, Lumb-in-Rossendale, supplied the winners in both classes for pairs of shearling ewes and ewe lambs.

There were only half a dozen entries in Suffolks, and five out of the six prizes were taken by Mr. A. Preston Jones, Mickleover House, near Derby, the only other exhibitor being Lieut.-Col. C. Brock, of Annan.

Two classes provided for each of the Black-faced Scotch Mountain and Grey-faced breeds were poorly supported. Chief honours went to Messrs. J. Dargue, Burneside, W. Robinson, Halton; T. Croskell, Glasson Dock; and F. Calvert Butler, Carnforth.

Lancashire goat keepers were well represented and beat Yorkshire in the Inter-County Competition for the Challenge Bowl for the best team of three animals. Chief honours went to Mrs. Seward, Quernmore; Miss Annie Turner, Quernmore; Miss Eleanor Wearing, Lancaster; R. F. Hindle, Bromborough; Miss Alexander, Knaresborough; Mrs. Morcom, Bromsgrove; Mrs. C. L. Pickard, Forton; and Mr. Percy Wainwright, Castleford, the last-named leading in four classes and taking the Bronze Medal for the best female with the Toggenburg goatling, Fryston Stella.

Large Whites, as usual, were numerically the strongest section in pigs. The best of the boars was Mr. E. Harding's Bourne King David 29th, and the reserve was Sir Gilbert Greenall's Bourne King David 52nd, both bred by Mr. Edmund Wherry. Sir Gilbert Greenall's Woodrose of Walton was adjudged to be the pick of the females, and a younger son in Mr. R. G. Peel's Moreton Maud 10th was the runner-up. Mr. W. Hallas' Helsby had some strong candidates in Middle Whites, and carried off both the championships with Squire of Morpeth and Hallastone Mona 2nd, and his Morpeth Jewel was also reserve for the gold medal as the best sow.

There were only nine entries in three classes for Large Blacks. Major Ballantyne Dykes, D.S.O., of Aspatria, showed the best boar, and Miss Kay-Mouat, Malvern Wells, the best sow, the reserve in each case being owned by Messrs. R. Dugdale & Sons, Morecambe. In the six classes for Cumberlands, Mr. J. S. Jordan, Bowston, Kendal, supplied all the first prize winners, so that the first and reserve champions of both sexes came from his herd. The cup-winning boar was Bowston Financier, which had a similar distinction in 1924, and Janet 2nd was the champion sow for the third successive year.

POULTRY.

Competition in the Utility Poultry Section is limited to birds of the current year, so that this excellently managed "chicken" show introduces many new exhibits to the public for the first time. By winning the Northern Utility Poultry Society's Cup for the best breeding pen for the third time, Mr. R. H. Aspden, Balladen, Rawtenstall, made the trophy his own property. His successful birds were a level, well-textured pen of Wyandottes. The challenge cup for the best breeding pen for table purposes was won for the second successive year by Lieut.-Col. H. Watts, Crewe; Messrs. Bilsborough & Bland took the Silver Spoon for the best Barred Rock; and the Silver Medal for the best bird in the section was awarded to Mr. W. Hamnett, Blackpool, for a Light Sussex. In point of quality the utility classes were said to be comparable with the Guild Show, which in the view of many breeders was the best display of utility fowls the Society has ever furnished.

There was a comprehensive collection of "fancy" breeds, A Black Minorca, belonging to Mr. W. Whittingham, Cabus, had been selected for the male championship, but as the owner was not a member of the Poultry Club who offered the medal for competition by their members this prize was given to Mr. J. Lewis, Tarporley, for a Black Orpington, Mr. H. Worsley's (Haslingden) Rosecomb bantam standing reserve. The latter was adjudged to be the best bird in the exhibition classes belonging to a member of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society. A White Wyandotte took the female championship for Mr. R. Anthony, Euxton.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

In view of the large number of cheese makers within a few miles' radius of Scale Hall, the increased entry of the Lancashire article was only in accordance with expectations. The challenge cup for the best sample went to Messrs. Bee Bros., Greenfields Farm, Goosnargh, members of a noted family of makers, who won in the class for farms not exceeding 50 acres. Mr. Edward Kirkby, Medlar-with-Wesham, headed a class of 20 entries from farms over 100 acres, and also carried off the Lancaster Cup, won in 1923 and 1924 by Mr. Edward Sudell, of Freckleton, and in the two preceding years by Mr. F. J. Mason, Charity Farm, Elston. Mr. Wm. Shorrocks, Nook Farm, Kirkland, who was first in the group for farms between 50 and 100 acres, was reserve.

Mr. W. H. Hobson, Woodhey Hall, Nantwich, the famous Cheshire cheesemaker, came out on top in both the classes for this produce. In butter, two firsts went to Mrs. R. L. Mildon, a Devonshire exhibitor, and in the two county competitions the winners were Mrs. R. Thistlethwaite, Cherry Tree, and Sarah Ann Machell, Head House, Newton-in-Cartmel.

With a favourable season and a revival of interest in bee-keeping the show of honey was the largest for many years. Mr. Jas. Long, Brow Side, Newton-in-Cartmel, took the Silver Medal as the exhibitor gaining the highest number of points in the County Palatine Classes, and Mr. John Fisher, Thorn Platt, Grimsargh, was the runner-up.

COUNTY COUNCIL STAND.

The County Council Stand again illustrated in a striking way the variety and value of the services rendered to farmers and horticulturists in Lancashire. Mr. J. J. Green, B.Sc., Secretary of Agriculture, has made a practice, each year, of emphasising some special phase of farming, and on this occasion particular attention was paid to animal nutrition. The fact is becoming more and more realised that by suitable rationing not only can a higher milk yield be obtained but the cost of production can be considerably reduced, and a maintenance ration and various typical production rations were indicated. The actual hay roots and provender shown on the stand were more impressive than mere figures. As a sequel to the valued research work in pig feeding at the County Farm at Hutton, suitable rations for this class of stock, at various ages, were exhibited, and opportunity was taken to emphasise the importance of the ash constituent of food not only to pigs but to all classes of farm animals.

A series of turves illustrated the best methods of improving pasture, stressed the importance of lime in conjunction with phosphates where there was a "mat" on the surface of grassland, and pointed to the value of the recently introduced rock phosphates in improving the herbage. The assistance which the Advisory Staff of the Manchester University were able to give to cultivators in the more specialized problems of their industry was well illustrated by the exhibits in agricultural botany and entomology, of which Mr. Holmes Smith and Mr. Kenneth Smith were in charge.

An innovation at the Working Dairy adjoining the County Council stand was an ice-cream making competition, probably the first of its kind to be held in the United Kingdom. In another part of the showground students from the dairy school at Hutton assisted in the clean milk demonstration, and lectures on the methods to be employed to secure milk with a low bacterial count, were given by Mr. W. Hoy, of the National Institute for Research in Dairying, at Reading. A large pavilion was provided for the horticultural exhibits in charge of Mr. A. G. Sowman, the County Horticultural Superintendent. Here specimens were shown and information supplied relative to destructive diseases of fruit and vegetable crops. The nature study exhibits were of fascinating interest and impressed visitors with the value of the work being accomplished in the elementary schools of the county in urban as well as rural areas.

VILLAGE INDUSTRIES.

With a view to giving a stimulus to village industries and spare-time handicrafts this section was reintroduced after a lapse of ten years. Apart from the laudable object it was sought to serve the section proved an asset to the Show as a spectacular attraction. This year, wool weaving was substituted for silk weaving seen at the 1914 and 1915 exhibitions. On one side of the shed, set apart for village industries, demonstrations were given of time-honoured handicrafts that flourished before mass production was known, such as hand-loom weaving (the demonstrator coming from Kendal), the making of birch and heather besoms (Backbarrow, near Ulverston), swill baskets (Backbarrow and Finsthwaite), chairs (Chipping), clog blocks (Wray, near Lancaster), hoops (Backbarrow), and straw rope (Skelmersdale). A cooper from Backbarrow also plied his trade. The competitive exhibits represented close on 600 entries, the majority of which in the juvenile section came from day schools in all parts of the county. Needlework, embroidery, and glove-making reached a high standard, and in new classes for leather work the results fully justified the innovation.

FLORAL DISPLAY.

The great marquee which served the needs of the horticultural section at the Royal Show, at Chester, was no more than adequate for the demands on space made by the patrons of the Royal Lancashire, and the display of blooms and plants maintained the Society's high traditions. The chief award for decorative groups of plants went to Messrs. Jas. Cypher & Sons, of Cheltenham, for an elegantly arranged collection. Mr. W. A. Holmes, Chesterfield, was second, and Mr. T. M. Petch, Great Horton, Bradford, third. In the herbaceous section, which has become a feature of this exhibition, Messrs. Bees & Co., Chester, had the leading position with two Bedale florists in Messrs. Harkness & Sons, and Messrs. G. Gibson & Co., second and third respectively. Messrs. Bees also triumphed in roses, where Mr. T. Robinson, Nottingham, was second. In the collection of sweet peas, arranged to produce the best effect in a space of 20ft. by 5ft., the first prize of £15, provided by the Royal Botanical and Horticultural Society of Manchester and the Northern Counties was carried off by Messrs. R. Bolton & Son, Birkbrook, Halstead, Essex. The second of £12 went to Messrs. Herd Bros., Penrith, and the third of £10 to Mr. T. Wadsworth, Bishop Wilton, near York. In the remaining classes for sweet peas, where the "trade" was excluded from competition, first prizes were awarded Messrs. W. A. Weston, Cononley, near Keighley, T. N. Cross, Lancaster, and T. Huntington, Bay Horse.

In the non-competitive trade exhibits Messrs. Dickson & Sons (Newtownards) received a large Gold Medal for their roses, a Gold Medal for the best exhibit in the show, and two awards of merit for new roses—Dame Edith Helen, a sweetly-scented self-pink, and Lady Margaret Stewart, a shaded metallic red grading to yellow. They also secured a Gold Medal for sweet peas. Gold Medals went to Messrs. Dobbie & Co., Edinburgh, for a group of dahlias, roses, and sweet peas, and to Messrs. Sutton & Sons, Reading, for an attractive display of flowers, mostly annuals. Messrs. Allwood Bros, Haywards Heath, showed a striking group of carnations. Mr. W. Robinson, Forton, had chief awards in the three classes for vegetables.

LANCASHIRE FARMERS' DAY.

The hopes of the optimists that the Society might be able to balance the Show account, although costs are substantially heavier than on the occasion of the last visit in 1906, when there was a profit of £85, were unfortunately not realized. Rain fell almost continuously, and at times very heavily, until Thursday was well advanced. On Friday there were fine weather conditions and the public showed their appreciation. On Saturday morning there was a squall, accompanied by torrential rain, and though conditions improved at noon the uncertain outlook seriously affected the gate. The hope that Monday would bring some compensation was also ill-founded, for the downpour in the morning delayed the start of judging, and save for a brief interval at noon rain did not cease until 7 p.m. Under such circumstances the holiday crowds could not be expected to make the journey and take the risks of a drenching, and the turnstiles did not register more than 14,586, which are small figures compared with the Bank Holiday influx at previous Shows. It was noticed that the countryside was well represented in the daily attendances, and if the weather had been more favourable, there would have been a different story for the financial department to tell.

Some years have elapsed since the fourth day show of Shires and cattle was of such strength and quality. Many animals that had appeared in open competition on Thursday and Friday were again forward, but there was renewed interest in their re-appearance because of new additions to the classes and the fact that in all sections fresh judges were appointed, so that the possibilities of changed positions, due to new arrivals or the reversal of previous decisions, gave a sporting touch to the contests. The district classes were virtually a replica of the Lancaster Agricultural Society's Show, which was suspended this year in consequence of the County Society's visit.

In Shires, a class with great interest for Fylde breeders was that for barren mares, where two former winners of the John Halsall Cup were opposed in Messrs. J. B. Jackson & Sons' Bonny Fashion, an eight-year-old black by Lunesdale Kingmaker, and the Exors. of H. Stuart's Halstead Lady Redlynch by Leek Redlynch. Messrs. Stuart have held this trophy on five occasions, twice with Halstead Lady Redlynch in 1920 and 1921, twice with Tilton Musical in 1922 and 1923, and once with Adlington Flower in 1915. Bonny Fashion, which received the trophy last year, now beat Halstead Lady Redlynch in the class contest after the latter had been first pulled up. Later in the day, however, in the fight for the trophy for the best mare, three years old and upwards, in the hands of a Lancashire farmer, both these mares were vanquished. Mr. T. M. Watson's massive Sundorne Violet, which was reserve to Leek Pearl for the female championship on the first day, was not brought out in any of the County classes on Monday, but she was entitled to come forward for the Cup and had no difficulty in annexing it. Mr. W. Newhouse's Ancliffe Winnie by Warrior Carlton was reserve. Bonny Fashion and Messrs. W. & J. Sumner's Haseley Briar Rose, a former County champion, were placed next in order of merit.

The Smith-Carington Cup for the best filly up to three years old went to Mr. T. Stuart's (Lytham) well-grown, classy limbed two-year-old White Meadow Memory by March King, and Mr. J. Charnley's winning three-year-old by Hadlow Prince William was reserve. In the contest for the supreme County championship Sundorne Violet triumphed, and Mr. Stuart's White Meadow Memory beat Ancliffe Winnie for reserve position. For the Hulbert Cup and Shire Horse Society's Special for the best Shire-bred gelding, Messrs. G. G. Marsh & Son brought in the March King grey Uncle Ben, which had the gelding championship in London and won. Mr. Milton Schofield, who was reserve with Alkington Champion was thus denied the opportunity of making the third and final claim on the trophy.

The cattle classes again brought into the prize lists many animals that had already received mention, and contained a new feature in a class for Government subsidized bulls. The prizes were given by Mr. J. P. T. Jackson, J.P., a pioneer in the work of live stock improvement and one of the founders of the Chorley and District Bull Society, which, if memory serves, inspired the present national system of subsidizing bulls and boars. This new competition attracted seven entries from widely distant parts of the county. The winner was sent by Mr. Simpson, of Bardsea, in the detached part of North Lancashire, where several bulls have been stationed under the Ministry's scheme. Another innovation which provided a rare show-ring picture for lovers of stock was the contest for the £10 prize, offered by Mr. E. G. Hothersall, J.P., for the best pair of Dairy cows or heifers, pedigree or non-pedigree. Fourteen pairs paraded, and in this notable group Mr. J. Charnley was first and Mr. W. H. Nelson reserve. For the second successive year the John Halsall Cup for the best cow or heifer in the Show, went to Messrs. J. & J. Kay's Musbury Millicent 2nd. Mr. J. Charnley's roan cow in-milk, which was reserve, took the Renshaw Challenge Cup for the best non-pedigree female in the Show, the runner-up being Mr. T. Proctor's in-calf roan Midsummer.

In the light horse section Hunters in hand and in saddle were catered for, and the bulk of the prizes went to Dr. Jackson, Carnforth, Messrs. G. Dickinson, Cark-in-Cartmel; W. M. Saunders, Wennington; and E. Johnson, Lancaster. There were two classes for trade turnouts limited to the County. In that for horses over 15 hands, Mr. W. Dean, Samlesbury, scored with the milk turnout he has so often driven to victory in other shows, and under 15 hands Mr. Smith Fielden's The Editor took the lead.

Wensleydales and half-breds were the sheep to which the prizes were devoted. In the former section the chief prize winners were Messrs. R. H. & W. T. Milner and J. Hoggarth & Son, and in both classes of half-breds, Mr. T. Croskell, Glasson Dock, was first, and Mr. W. H. Barber, Carnforth, second. The two pig classes were limited to the Cumberland type, and in both of these the red tickets went to Mr. J. B. Smalley's herd at Birkby Hall, Cark-in-Cartmel.

The dog show was again one of the popular attractions for the concluding day. In the any variety open class, Mrs. Fred Brown's Pomeranian Minegold Goldmine was placed in front of Mr. T. H. Moorby's well-known pointer dog Lune Prince. Mr. F. Calvert Butler's Watteau Roberto won the special for the best wire-haired Fox-terrier, dog or bitch, and two stud companions in Watteau Supper Girl and Princess Vector took the specials for the best wire bitch and the best smooth bitch respectively.

The rabbit section was included for the second year and was well supported by devotees of the fancy as well as the fur and wool-producing types.

MILKING TRIALS.

In view of the breed rivalries and the widespread efforts amongst herd owners of all classes to develop production, interest in the milking trials is intensified year by year. In the group limited to pedigree Dairy Shorthorns, Mr. H. H. Owtram, J.P., Newland Hall, Ellel, scored a notable win, taking the Allerton Cup with Newland Rose 15th, which represents the fourth generation of Newland-bred Shorthorns. Calved on July 20th, she gave a total yield in her two milkings of 59lb. 9oz., with an average butter-fat percentage of 3.33 and scored 72.88 points. The second was Messrs. R. Hall & Son's Rosette Lady, which gave 51lb. 14oz. of milk with an average butter-fat percentage of 3.49 and scored 65.83 points. In the open group, for cattle not eligible to compete with pedigree Shorthorns 17 came forward for the test, and the Friesians triumphed. The winner, Mr. B. Parkinson's (Arthington, Leeds) Beccles Gloria loaded herself with honours, for she had already been awarded the championship of the British Friesian classes on inspection and now qualified for the £50 prize offered by the Breed Society in the event of a Friesian scoring the highest points in the milking trials. Beccles Gloria, which was nearly nine years old, calved on July 21st, gave 63lb. 11oz. of milk, with an average fat percentage of 4.78, and her total score was 82.80. British Friesians also filled the next two places. The second, from Messrs. R. Fisher & Sons' herd at Cabus, was the eight-year-old Blackmore Flirt, which gave 61lb. 12oz., with an average butter-fat percentage of 3.50 and a total score of 75.75

In the quality milking competition for goats, Mrs. Seward's Hareapple Magpie was first, Mrs. Morcom's Cornish Patience second, and Mrs. Seward's Maisie Lass third. These placings were unchanged in the quantity test. Mrs. Morcom took the first three prizes in the milking trials for first kidders.

BUTTER-MAKING CHAMPIONSHIP.

The championship competition of butter-makers is always an important item in Monday's programme. Fifteen dairy-maids took part this year, and the adjudicator, Mr. W. Burkitt, B.Sc., of Bishop Auckland, informed the writer that he could not remember having judged a more even class, and the skill shown reflected great credit on Miss Stubbs, the dairy instructress and staff of the Lancashire County Council Dairy School at Hutton. With one exception, every competitor received 85 per cent. of marks, and in the case of the first three it was found, when the points were counted, each had received 91 per cent. This necessitated rejudging the samples, and there had to be fine discrimination in grain and make-up to decide the final placings. The rival Counties of the Roses shared in the supreme honours, Miss Helen Hoggett, of Leeds, took the Gold Cup to Yorkshire, but there was rejoicing among her fellow pupils at the fact that she was a student at the Lancashire County Council Dairy School. Second prize and reserve for the cup came Mrs. Yates, Bromyard, Hereford, who as Miss Cissie Pantall has competed here on former occasions. This was the fourth time she had been the runner-up for the Cup. Miss Edith James, Ask, Monmouth, who has also competed on four occasions, received third prize as she did a year ago. Another L.C.C. student in Miss Florence M. Laybourne, of Holcombe, Bury, who had two firsts in earlier contests during the show, was placed fourth and became the holder of the Lancaster County Challenge Cup, awarded to a resident in the County, gaining the greatest number of points in the competition. The remainder of the cards went to present or former L.C.C. Dairy School students. Miss M. R. Blacklock, Carlisle, and Miss S. Campbell, Whitehaven, were reserve and v.h.c. respectively; Miss E. Lancaster, Grange Farm, Longton, and Miss P. A. Biddle, Winwick, were each highly commended, and Miss N. Rowcroft, Whittingham, received the commended card.

HORSE SHOEING CONTESTS.

The excellent organisation and the services of Mr. G. Hardman, in the promotion of the horse-shoeing competition have been referred to on previous occasions, and the Lancaster experience endorses all the encomiums previously passed. The work at the temporary forge, with its splendid equipment, never attracted more spectators, and, on Monday afternoon, the pressure was so great that the barriers gave way. The competitions were managed by the Lancashire, Cheshire, and North Staffordshire Education and Demonstration Association, and it is understood that these are the only contests of the kind in which the electrically-blown forges are used. A member of a south country team, who took part in the inter-district class, expressed the opinion that the trials at this Show were the best set out and most efficiently managed of any in the country. The challenge trophy for the inter-district contest was won by Carmarthen, with the Lancashire "A" team second, and the Yorkshire team, last year's winners, third. D. E. Tuke, Tosside, Long Preston, who came out on top in two strong classes, also won the final for the Lancashire championship.

In Memoriam

THE LATE MR. THOMAS SMITH, J.P., C.G.

(Died 20th June, 1925).

On Wednesday, 24th June, 1925, the Parish Church of St. Luke's, Farnworth, was filled to overflow with an assemblage drawn from far and near to pay a tribute to the memory of Mr. Thomas Smith, of Old Brook Hall and formerly of Union Bank, Bold, near Widnes. Mr. Smith in his lifetime was never a man to court publicity, and it was somewhat of a revelation to note the deep regard entertained for him, as evidenced by the representative character of the gathering. Very affecting also was the panegyric delivered by the Vicar of St. Luke's, who, with evident deep feeling, referred to Mr. Smith's characteristics in his public, business, and private life. In each of these three respects he had stood out prominently. To his public duties he devoted an immense amount of time, and was always ready to give of his best and contribute what he could for the general good. He took a great interest in the work of the Prescot Board of Guardians, of which Board he had been a Member for over 20 years, and was honoured in 1914 by being elected Chairman. He also represented Bold Township on the Whiston Rural Council, and was a past Chairman of that Board. He was a Member of the Lancashire County Council, being representative of the Whiston electoral area. He had served on the Lancashire Education Committee, and his standing as an agriculturist gained him a place on the Lancashire Agricultural War Committee. His work during the war included membership of the Whiston Rural Tribunal and representative of the Board of Agriculture on the Widnes Tribunal. In 1917 he was appointed a Justice of the Peace for the County. He was a recognized authority on matters connected with Crops and Stock, and his commonsense and judgment were widely appreciated.

Mr. Smith's closer association with the affairs of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society occurred with his accession to a seat on the Council for the Western Division in December, 1906. In 1920 he was appointed a Steward in the Heavy Horse Section at the Annual Shows, and acted in that capacity at the Manchester Show, 1924. He was in constant request during the latter years of the Great War as one of the Judges of Farms, Crops and Allotments in connection with the important Prize Schemes which the Society instituted at that period for the encouragement of the home production of foodstuffs. The number of farms in different parts of Lancashire which he visited must have run into many hundreds, and the work sometimes took him away from home for days at a time.

Mr. Smith was keenly interested in the affairs of the Prescott Agricultural Society, whose members, in 1922, testified their appreciation of his services by the presentation of a Silver Rose Bowl. The 1925 Annual Show of that Society was held on the Thursday preceding his death. For some time his health had been giving cause for anxiety, and only a few days previously he had undergone an operation in a Liverpool nursing home. At the Show his friends were gratified to receive very encouraging reports of his progress, and it was therefore a severe shock to them to learn on the following Monday that he had had a relapse, and had passed away during the week-end.

The printed word must always prove inadequate to express feelings such as are given rise to by the passing of a man like Mr. Thomas Smith. Far more truly indicative are the unpremeditated references—intended maybe rather to disguise than to reveal depth of inner feeling—which come forth casually on these occasions. Mr. Smith's critical illness and subsequent death called forth many illuminating passages of this kind, and the impression they made one would not willingly allow to be dimmed any more than would one readily lose the recollection of his own kindly words and acts.

THE LATE MR. JOHN TAYLOR.

(Died 16th March, 1926.)

By the death of Mr. John Taylor, of the Britannia Mill, Oldham, the Society has lost a generous friend, ever ready to back up with financial support the deep interest he felt in its aims and objects. He was a typical Lancashire business man to whom Agriculture made a strong appeal, and when, in 1921, the County Exhibition was taken to Oldham he accepted nomination for a vacancy on the Council and was elected just prior to the Show. In 1923 he was appointed a Steward in the Implement and Horse-Shoeing Section, and derived much pleasure from the work of that department. He was a great lover of the horse, and prior to the on-coming of the motor car took great pride in keeping a very smart turnout for regular use. Dalmation dogs were also one of his fancies.

On gaining his seat on the Council he spontaneously offered to provide, annually, the class prizes for Lancashire Farmers'

Shire Brood Mares, and only a month or two previous to his death increased the amount of his donation to assist thereby in maintaining the prize list for Light Horses.

Mr. John Taylor will always be held in grateful remembrance as one who, without the least ostentation, rendered valuable service to the Society and kept its welfare very close to heart.

THE LATE MR. FREDERIC HUNTINGTON.

(Died 4th October, 1925.)

Although not a member of the Society's Council, Mr. Frederic Huntington—who held the position of Staff Steward at the Annual Shows from 1908 to 1923—was so intimately associated with many of its affairs that no apology need be tendered for some record of his services appearing in these pages. It was in 1906, when the County Show visited his native town of Lancaster, that he was first "roped in" by the Society, and it soon became evident that he had valuable personal qualities and business experience to place at its disposal. His knowledge of the timber trade was of material assistance to the Works Committee, and he took great interest in the fitting-up of the Show Ground. The Catering Committee also found in him a very useful and energetic Steward.

When, in 1908, the position of Staff Steward was first created, Mr. Fred Huntington was the person selected by the Council to fill it. In this capacity he was the representative of the Chairman of the Showyard Committee and the Secretary, seeing to the carrying out of Showyard orders which other demands on their time obliged them to delegate. For such a post, calling in a special degree for qualities of discretion and resourcefulness, few could have been better fitted than Mr. Huntington, who soon became one of the most popular figures on the Royal Lancashire Showground.

Ill-health, in the form of lung trouble, unfortunately befell him some six or seven years ago, and he sought recovery in the warmer and sunnier climate of California. He was back in England at the time of the Liverpool Show of 1923, and although his physical strength was then not equal to many of the outside duties of Staff Steward his advice on matters of detail, given from a chair in the Secretarial Offices, was very helpful to the officials, and his habitual good spirits did wonders to relieve the strain of Show work.

Shortly afterwards he went to California, eagerly planning to be on this side again for the Society's 1924 Exhibition at Manchester. This, however, was not to be, nor was he fated to take part a second time in a Lancashire Show, although his death did not occur until two months after the close of the 1925 Show in the county town. Longing to be back in England he returned in September last, but only to die—in Devonshire, on Sunday, 4th October—at the age of 46 years.

THE LATE MR. HARRY WRIGHT.

One of the factors in the upbuilding of the Society's Shows has undoubtedly been the part played in connection with its staff-work by men of the type of the late Mr. Harry Wright—men whose service, though not ranking as purely honorary, sprang from a disinterested enthusiasm and a sheer delight in the duties of their departments.

Mr. Wright's sphere at the Annual Shows was the Finance Steward's Office at the Main Public Entrance. He had his introduction to this in 1902, during the Senior Finance Stewardship of Mr. C. E. Linaker, Senr., and apart from the war years, 1916 to 1919, when no shows were held, he continued to serve up to and including the Manchester Show of 1924. The duties were no sinecure, especially on those great occasions when previous "Gate" records were broken. At such a time the writer has known him to return to lodgings and supper, long after midnight, having just finished assisting in the counting and making up of the gate-money, with hands quite black through handling coin, tired out, yet proud of his department's achievement and the Society's triumph.

He was a great lover and follower of Sport of all kinds, being associated—particularly in his younger days—with the old Runcorn Rugby Club and the Frodsham Cricket Club.

The Society's Finance Committee on learning, with much regret, of his death, put on record in a resolution of sympathy their great appreciation of Mr. Wright's long and honourable record of service rendered to the Society.

COUNCIL'S REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.

Mr. Windham E. Hale, Chairman of the Council, in moving the adoption of the Report and Balance Sheet, said that taking all things into consideration they might congratulate themselves on the fact that the results of the Lancaster Show were more satisfactory than they had expected. (Hear, hear.) Owing to adverse weather there was a falling off in the attendance, but the receipts from admissions, grandstand, horticultural pavilion, garage, etc., were only a few pounds short of last year, which was very gratifying when they contrasted the difference in population in the Lancaster and Manchester areas. Although a great saving had been effected in the cost of fitting up the show, he did not think the yard suffered in any way, and their thanks were due to the Staff for the way the work had been carried out. On the catering department there was a loss, and there was a substantially increased expenditure on the insurance account, due to the higher premiums to be paid for weather insurance. He regretted to say that to meet the deficit on the year's work of £2,796 it would be necessary to sell some of the assets of the Society, but he was hoping they would be able to recoup themselves when they visited Burnley.

The Report referred to the great support Lord Ashton gave to their Show, and that since then his lordship had consented to become one of their Permanent Presidents. (Applause.) Not only on this, but on many other occasions, the Society owed a great deal to Lord Ashton, who was one of three remaining members of the Council of the old Manchester, Liverpool and North Lancashire Agricultural Society. During the year they had also conferred the Honorary Life Vice-Presidency on Mr. Neilson, their Vice-Chairman, to whom the Society owed a debt of gratitude. (Hear, hear.) For over 40 years Mr. Neilson had served on the Council, and no work had been too much trouble for him. It was only right they should show their appreciation in the way they had done, and he (the speaker) desired to take that opportunity of thanking him for the loyal support he had given him, and the great amount of labour he had taken off his shoulders. (Applause)

The revival of the Village Industries Section at Lancaster was attended by such success that the Council proposed to reintroduce this feature at Burnley, and Sir Philip Lane, who took a very active interest in this department at the last show, had consented to act as Senior Steward in the coming year. (Hear, hear.) The Society had very happy recollections of their last visit to Burnley, and if they might judge from the cordiality of the invitation extended to them they need have no hesitation in revisiting the town.

Recalling that the membership stood at 2,748, Mr. Hale said this was very poor for a Society such as theirs, especially when they considered that of holders and occupiers of land there were over 20,000 in this county alone. He regarded it as the duty of all interested in and connected with agriculture to support the Society.

Mr. Neilson, in seconding, said that in the case of those items under control the Balance sheet was very satisfactory. They had a splendid show, and if the weather had been as good as in the preceding week there was no doubt the result would have been very different.

DATES FOR THE BURNLEY SHOW.

Mr. Veevers moved that the dates for the next year's Show be Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday (Bank Holiday), July 29th, 30th, 31st, and August 2nd. From what he knew of the Burnley people he ventured to say that if they could have the same kind of weather as on the last occasion they would surpass the achievements of 1913. Mr. W. H. Edge seconded, and the resolution was carried.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

Mr. E. G. Howsin, J.P., proposed that Sir George J. Thursby, Bart., be elected President for the ensuing year. When they mentioned Burnley, their minds reverted to the memorable Show of 1913, in connection with which there were two outstanding features. The first was the magnificent reception which the people of that town and neighbourhood gave them, and the second was the splendid and energetic President they then had in the person of the late Sir John Thursby. (Hear, hear.) The name of Thursby was a household word in Burnley. The family had been connected with that district for many generations, and although there was not now a member of the family resident there, yet the good they had done in the past would live long after them. He could assure Sir George Thursby that if he accepted the Presidency it would be deeply appreciated by the members of that Society, who would give him their full and loyal support, and it would also be deeply appreciated by the people of Burnley. (Applause.)

Mr. J. Marcus Rea, in seconding, endorsed Mr. Howsin's statement that any member of the Thursby family would be highly appreciated not only by the Society, but by everyone in the Burnley district.

The resolution was then unanimously carried. The Secretary read a letter addressed to Mr. Windham Hale, in which Sir George Thursby said he would consider it a very great honour to have his name put forward for the Presidency. If that proposition met with the approval of the Annual Meeting he would be only too pleased to accept. (Applause).

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE RETIRING PRESIDENT (LIEUT.-COL. LORD RICHARD CAVENDISH, C.B., C.M.G.).

Alderman Travis-Clegg, proposing a vote of thanks to the retiring President, said the performance of duty, no matter how difficult the circumstances, was a tradition of Lord Richard Cavendish's family, and in support of that statement the speaker recalled that Lord Richard left his house at six o'clock that morning in order to attend the meeting over which he was presiding. Lord Richard had more than fulfilled the high expectations which followed his acceptance of the honour. Alluding to the approaching marriage of Miss Cavendish and Lord Balniel, the speaker offered sincere congratulations on the happy event which would unite two of the best known and most popular families in the County of Lancaster. (Applause.)

The resolution was seconded by Alderman Hall, ex-Mayor of Morecambe, and unanimously carried. Lord Richard Cavendish, in reply, said the position had been not only a great honour but a great pleasure. Owing to the admirable organisation of the Society his office had been a sinecure.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE LANCASTER AND MORECAMBE LOCAL COMMITTEE AND HON. OFFICIALS.

Alderman Astley-Bell, in proposing a vote of thanks to the Lancaster and Morecambe Local Committees and the Honorary Officials, said the migratory show system created a wider field of interest, and undoubtedly resulted in an accession of personal interest in the district the show visited. For example, twenty years ago, when the Show was held at Lancaster, Alderman George Jackson became an office holder on the Local Committee, and from that time to the present his interest in the Society had increased year by year until it reached its culminating point in the last Show. In Alderman Hall, the Mayor of Morecambe, the Society had the advantage of the services of one who had been an active member of the Council for many years. In raising local funds these gentlemen were set a difficult task. They had to follow two of the wealthiest cities in the country, and had to send out appeals in a time of trade depression, high cost of living, depreciated incomes, and in face of taxation which many of them regarded as excessive. The results achieved, however, were a striking testimony to the vigour and enthusiasm with which they did their work. Alderman Astley-Bell also made individual mention of the officers of the Local Committees, whose work is acknowledged in the Annual Report.

Alderman Hall, in reply, said it was a matter of great satisfaction to the Local Committee that Lord Ashton keenly interested himself in the Society's visit, and no one was more disappointed than his lordship that owing to events entirely beyond their control they should not have been able to command better results. Morecambe was grateful to the Society. The traffic arrangements were splendid and a tribute to the County Police organisation.

Sir Philip Lane seconded the resolution, which was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICIALS.

Mr. John Hammill, Auditor; Mr. Alfred Smetham, Consulting Analytical Chemist; Mr. J. Stewart Remington, Consulting Botanist; and Mr. T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S., Hon. Consulting Veterinary Surgeon, were unanimously re-elected.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The duties of fixing the approximate sum to be offered in prizes, and the revision of Rules and Prize List, were deputed to the Prize List Committee.

Under the head of any other business, several points were raised by Mr. Richard Harrison, Hoole. He suggested that the names of winners of medals awarded by the Society for young stock at various district shows should be published in the Annual Journal, contending that the breeders of successful stock should have the fullest publicity possible. He also suggested that as an alternative to the present orthodox type of medal, of which he was the possessor of three, it might be issued in the form of a pendant, scarf-pin, or brooch. Concerning Mr. Hale's appeal to the ordinary farmer to support the Society, he asked if the Society was doing all it could to encourage that class of agriculturist. The arable farmers of South-west Lancashire who could not rear stock should be given a chance. Two years ago he suggested that prizes should be given for crops, but that idea did not seem to take on with the Council. He had in his possession a medal won by his father, seventy years ago, when he (the speaker) was ten years old. Since that time he had taken considerable interest in the shows, and had won a considerable number of prizes. Another point he desired to ventilate was the need for the abolition of the "scrub" bull. He also wondered whether representations could be made as to the need for longer continuity in office of the Minister of Agriculture. Agriculture was the most important and the most intricate business in the land, and yet the average tenure of the last ten Ministers was fourteen months.

Mr. Windham Hale, in reply, said they had offered prizes for crops, but the difficulty was to get entries even when they confined competition to the district visited, and it was doubtful whether they would get any better results if they opened the classes to the whole county. The cost of those competitions was a very serious item, and if it had not been for the great help and voluntary services of Members of the Council, who motored the Judges round to the various farms, a further heavy charge would have been made upon the Society's funds. In view of the last two Balance Sheets it was essential to exercise great care in spending money. However, he was sure the Council would again take into consideration Mr. Harrison's suggestions.

Mr. James Hamilton, J.P., said the Lancashire Agricultural Committee was one of the first authorities to suggest concerted action for the abolition of the "scrub" bull. In 1921 they formulated a scheme which met with the approval of the Ministry of Agriculture, but for various reasons it was left in abeyance. However, this subject would come forward at a meeting of the Council of Agriculture on the following Thursday, and the Ministry of Agriculture were hoping they would be able to move in the desired direction in the near future. (Hear, hear.)

Concerning catering, Mr. R. Harrison said that many people who had had to leave home at an early hour needed some refreshment at the Show before 12 o'clock, and he wondered whether some service could not be offered before that hour. The Chairman said he had no doubt the Catering Committee would make note of the suggestion.

A hearty vote of thanks to Lord Richard Cavendish for presiding over that afternoon's business, proposed by Mr. S. H. Renshaw, O.B.E., and seconded by Mr. John Blundell, terminated the meeting.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF THE SOCIETY

TO THE ANNUAL MEETING OF MEMBERS, 1925.

The Council, before presenting to the Annual Meeting of Members their ordinary report on the proceedings of the past year, beg to place on record their profound sorrow at the recent death of Her Majesty Queen Alexandra, and their heartfelt sympathy with His Majesty The King—the Society's Patron—and the Members of the Royal Family. In accord with the rest of their fellow subjects within the Empire, to whom Her Majesty by her tender sympathy and virtuous example had endeared herself, the Council mourn her loss and revere her memory.

In taking the Society's Exhibition so far to the north of the County, no illusions were entertained as to financial prospects. Lancaster's remoteness from big centres of population offered small likelihood of gate-money enabling the Show to pay its way, but there was a hope that under favourable conditions it might be possible to emerge with a comparatively small amount of loss. Unfortunately the long spell of brilliant weather, for which the summer of 1925 was remarkable, broke the Saturday before the Show week. Wet Weather Insurance was qualified for on the first and last Show days, which were completely spoiled; the third day was likewise marred by continual heavy showers (though without sufficient total rainfall to qualify), and only on the second day were the weather conditions at all favourable. The total paying attendance was 2,675 less than last year's meagre total, and 3,811 lower than when the Society previously visited Lancaster in 1906. Receipts at Grand Stand, Horticultural Pavilion and Garage, also Catalogues, Cloak Room and Refreshment Room takings, all showed small improvements upon the 1924 figures, but Front Entrance admissions even at the post-war doubled rates did not produce double the amount taken in 1906. The expenditure side of the Balance Sheet shows that careful attention has been given to fitting-up costs and other Show expenses.

The eminent services rendered by Lord Richard Cavendish, C.B., C.M.G., as President, renewed the close associations which have long existed between the House of Cavendish and the Society. His Lordship's great popularity in North Lancashire was a distinct asset to the Local Committees, both at Lancaster and Morecambe, and the part which he and his family took in the Show-time functions calls for the Society's best thanks.

The Exhibition was again held on the exceptionally well-adapted site at Seale Hall which has now accommodated it on four successive visits to the County Town. For permission to use this land (by agreement with the tenant) the Society is much indebted to its owner, Mr. C. W. L. Penrhyn Hornby.

A unique feature of the local welcome on this occasion was the setting-up of two distinct Local Committees and the opening of two Local Funds, the principal one by the Town and District of Lancaster, and an auxiliary one by Morecambe. The Lancaster General Committee had at its head the Mayor of the Borough (Alderman George Jackson), who gave his hearty support to all the local preparations and took great personal interest throughout the visit. Supporting him in the Vice-Chair was the Mayor of Morecambe (Alderman Richard Hall, J.P.), who combined this office with the Chairmanship of the Morecambe

General Local Committee, the Chairmanship of the Lancaster Agricultural Society and his seat on the Royal Lancashire Society's Council, thus coming into specially close contact with all arrangements. This happy collaboration of the Mayors of the two Boroughs was attended with excellent results to the Society. The principal work of the Lancaster Committee was undertaken by a representative Local Executive, over whose proceedings County Alderman Travis-Clegg, D.L., presided in most zealous manner, with Captain John Sanderson as Vice-Chairman. Joint-Honorary Treasurers of the Lancaster Fund were Mr. J. T. Sanderson and Mr. A. C. Haines; Joint Honorary Secretaries, Mr. G. F. Hallam, Secretary of the Lancaster Agricultural Society, and (during the earlier months of the year) Mr. John Whitehead, the Town Clerk. The amount contributed by the Lancaster Committee was £2,144 11s. 5d.

The Morecambe auxiliary effort was intended to recognise the distinct benefits which would accrue to that seaside resort by the holding of the Show so close upon its borders. Councillor J. C. Wilson was Chairman of this Executive; Mr. Tom Atkinson, J.P., Hon. Local Treasurer; and the Town Clerk of Morecambe (Mr. Joseph Entwistle, M.B.E.) acted as Local Secretary jointly with the Clerk to the Heysham U.D.C. (Mr. Alfred Bates). £403. 3s. 0d. was raised and passed on to the Society.

The Council desire to refer with feelings of special gratitude to the munificent support given by the Right Hon. Lord Ashton to the Society in connection with its Show this year. In addition to a donation of £500 to the Local Fund, his Lordship presented £50 for special prizes in the Horse Section of the Show and another £50 to provide prizes for Herdsmen and Grooms in charge of Stock. A vacancy having occurred on the roll of the Society's Permanent Presidents, your Council have unanimously elected Lord Ashton to the position.

Your Council place on record their appreciation of the valuable help rendered by Committees and Officials of the Lancaster Corporation in connection with various Show facilities, notably the Water, Gas, and Parks Departments; also by Messrs. Waring & Gillow, Ltd., Lancaster, who very kindly furnished and decorated the President's Pavilion on the Showground in most tasteful and effective style.

The Lancashire County Council Agricultural Committee renewed their valuable support to the educational side of the Show by granting £25 towards the expenses of the Working Dairy and providing cream for the butter-making competitions, also poultry for the trussing competitions. The County Council's Agricultural, Horticultural and Nature Study exhibits were again important and greatly-appreciated features.

Special contributions to the Prize List this year again constitute a record, and your Council feel greatly indebted to the long list of donors whose generous support has been applied in specific form to the Prize List. These include the following:—

DONORS OF NEW CHALLENGE CUPS:—Mr. Wm. S. Miller ("Glasgow" £50 Challenge Cup for Harness Horses); Mr. T. A. Longworth (the second "Longworth" Trophy, value 25gns.), and Mr. Alderman Robert Parkinson, J.P. (£25 Challenge Cup for Harness Horses). Donors of Silver Cups (won outright): Mr. Edmund Berry (10gns. Cup for Shorthorns); Mr. Edward Bohane, C.B.E. (10gns. Cup for Dairy Cattle), and Colonel H. M. Hardcastle, J.P., T.D., D.L. (Cup, &c., for Children's Riding Classes).

DONORS OF PRIZE MONEY UNDER GUARANTEE:—Mrs. E. H. Q. Henriques (Harness Ponies); Mr. Arnold Gillett (Blue Albions); Mr. J. B. Smalley (Cumberland Pigs); Dr. Edward S. Jackson, M.B.E. (Hunters); the Cheshire Cheese Federation, and a large number of private guarantors and Breed Clubs in the Dog, Poultry, and Rabbit Sections of the Show.

DONORS OF CASH PRIZES :—Mr. John Taylor, Oldham (£15 Class Prizes for Lancashire Farmers' Brood Mares); Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.C.S. (£10 10s. towards Prizes for Lancashire Cheese); Sir James W. Paton, J.P., and Mr. Alfred Peck (Prizes for the Village Industries Section); Mr. E. G. Hothersall, J.P., F.A.I. (£10 for Pairs of Dairy Cows); Mr. J. P. T. Jackson, J.P. (£10 for Government Subsidised Bulls), Mrs. G. H. Pilkington (£5 for Jersey Cattle); Mrs. Edward Mucklow and Mr. Francis Ellis, F.S.I. (Prizes for Children's Riding Pony Classes); Mr. W. F. Neilson (Prizes in Harness Horse Section); Mr. G. W. Isherwood (Special Prizes for Wensleydale Lambs), Dr. E. S. Jackson, M.B.E. (Prizes for Young Hunters); the Royal Botanical and Horticultural Society of Manchester and Northern Counties, the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society, and numerous Breed Associations.

As an Exhibition the Lancashire Show was undoubtedly a success. The Showground came in for general admiration, the natural advantages of the site having been made the most of, and the porous character of the subsoil ensuring at all times comfortable footway for visitors, despite the heavy rains. Entries of Cattle constituted a record for that section, and the daily ring programmes were well sustained in interest. The revival of the Village Industries Pavilion was much appreciated, and provided one of the outstanding features of the Show.

Divine Service was, as usual, conducted in the Showyard on Sunday, August 2nd. The Vicar of Lancaster (the Rev. J. U. N. Bardsley, M.A.) preached the Sermon, and a collection taken for equal distribution between the Lancaster Royal Infirmary and the Morecambe Cottage Hospital amounted to £28. 1s. 9d.

During the year your Council deemed it fitting to confer the Hon. Vice-Presidentship of the Society upon their Vice-Chairman, Mr. R. B. Neilson, J.P., in recognition of his lengthy period of membership and the invaluable services he has rendered, particularly in connection with the post-war Shows.

The Society has suffered heavily during the year through the removal by death of many whose support has been of special value to it in the past. The late Viscount Leverhulme and Sir Edward Hulton, Bart., were generous patrons of long standing. The late Alderman Elijah Keighley, of Burnley (an Hon. V.P.L. Member), would undoubtedly have been one of the most enthusiastic members of the Local Committee for next year's Show. The death of Mr. Thomas Smith, J.P., of Bold, was deeply felt by all his colleagues on the Council, and he will be missed in many departments of the Society's work. Other losses include Mr. Frederic Huntington (for many years Staff Steward at the Annual Shows), Mr. William Dixon (tenant of Scale Hall Farm), Mr. Walter de H. Birch, F.S.I., Mr. Robert Needham, and Mr. Frank Toulmin.

The new Members elected during the year comprise 11 Vice-Presidents, 10 Life Members, and 171 Annual Members. The Membership Roll, after undergoing careful scrutiny, stands at 2748. The Council desire to take this opportunity of pointing out that the intrinsic value of the Show privileges given to Members exceeds that given by any other Agricultural Society, and on single admission values represents three times the amount of subscription. They are convinced that many non-members who regularly attend the Annual Shows would gladly avail themselves of these generous privileges if prompted to join the Society's Membership.

An invitation to make Burnley the venue for next year's Show was placed before a Special Meeting of Members held in the Lancaster Showyard. A deputation, headed by the Mayor of the Borough (Alderman J. T. Clegg), attended, and assured the Society of a cordial welcome and every possible assistance. With recollections of the memorable events that attended the last visit to Burnley in 1913, the Meeting unanimously accepted the invitation. The site previously occupied has again been placed at the Society's disposal and possession already entered upon.

For the analysis of water intended for drinking purposes half a gallon is required, sent in a perfectly clean bottle. The bottle should be rinsed out several times with the water previous to filling and sealing.

In taking a sample of soil, a box about 9 inches square and 18 inches in depth must be obtained. The Members of a Local Agricultural Society may, at the discretion of the Council, amalgamate with this Society in any year, and have the same privileges as Members of this Society for the year, so far as being eligible to compete for any Prizes on the same terms and conditions, and as regards Tickets of Admission to the Show.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

7. Subscriptions are due from Members on their election, and afterwards on the 2nd February, in each year, and Members are liable to payment unless a written notice of their intention to resign has been sent to the Secretary prior to that date in any year.

THE COUNCIL.

8. The Council shall consist of 36 elected Members—12 from each Division. The Patron, five Presidents, the President for the year, and Vice-Presidents, if owners, residents, or occupiers within the County, are ex-officio members. Twelve Members retire in rotation each year, but are eligible for re-election. The Council has power to arrange and conduct all the proceedings of the Society, to make bye-laws for its guidance, and to hear and decide upon disputes or protests (properly made) against the award of any prize, their decision thereon being final and binding; and to determine all matters not provided for in these rules.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT, COUNCIL, &c.

9. The election of the President for the year, Council, and all other officers except the Secretary, shall be by a majority of votes at the Annual General Meeting of Members, to be held at Preston, not later than December 10th. Nominations of Members to supply the vacancies annually occurring, must be made according to the form printed in the Society's Journal, and sent to the Secretary before the 25th September, or any other date fixed by the Council or Annual Meeting. Each Nomination Form must be signed by a Member, but no person shall be entitled to propose more than one candidate, and only for the Division in which he himself resides. No candidate shall be eligible for election as a Member of Council, unless he has been a Member of the Society for at least two years. A list of the Nominations, with the proposers, must be printed on the notice convening the Annual Meeting. Should there be an insufficient number of nominations, the election shall rest entirely with the Annual Meeting. Candidates for any of the offices must retire from the room during the election. Vacancies occurring in the Council during the year, or amongst the officers, may be filled by the Council. Any Member of Council who, during his term of office, shall become bankrupt, or incapacitated to act, or express in writing his wish to resign, or shall absent himself from three consecutive meetings of the Council without furnishing a satisfactory explanation of his absence, shall be considered to have vacated his membership of the Council.

APPOINTMENT OF SECRETARY.

10. The Secretary shall be appointed by the Council whenever a vacancy shall arise. The office of Secretary shall be determinable by three months' notice given in writing by the Chairman of the Council, on behalf of the Council, at any time. The Secretary shall give three months' notice in writing to the Chairman of the Council, to terminate at the Annual Meeting in any year. The Secretary shall give such security, receive such salary, and fulfil such duties as the Council shall from time to time arrange.

BUSINESS OF THE ANNUAL MEETING

11. At the Annual Meeting the Council shall present a report of the last year's proceedings; the meeting shall then fix the date on which the next Show shall take place; fix the approximate sum to be offered in prizes; revise the Rules and Prize List, or depute the revision and settlement of the Prize List to a Committee; and transact any other business.

MEMBERS IN ARREARS, &c.

12. Members whose subscriptions are unpaid shall not be entitled to make nominations, in accordance with Rule 9, or to vote at General Meetings, and no Member shall be entitled to vote at the same Meeting at which he is elected, or at any adjournment thereof.

COUNCIL AND COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

13. The Council shall meet in the months of February, April, July, November, and December, and at such other times as the Chairman and Secretary shall consider necessary. Two of the Meetings shall take place at Preston. It shall annually appoint its own Chairman and Vice-Chairman at its first meeting after the Annual Meeting of Members, and shall at the same meeting appoint Sub-Committees from its own body, for the more efficient conduct of the details of the Society's business. These Committees shall arrange their several meetings so as to be held on regular and stated days, and shall appoint their own Chairman, and a record of the proceedings shall be kept by the Secretary and regularly presented to the Council for confirmation. Seven shall form a quorum at a Council Meeting, three at a Committee Meeting, and twenty at a General Meeting of Members. In case of equality of votes on any occasion at a Council, Committee, or General Meeting, the Chairman presiding shall have a casting vote. Not less than seven days' notice shall be given of all Council and General Meetings. Before any Member of the Council shall move a resolution, having for its object the rescinding or varying of any previous decision of the Council, it shall be necessary for him to give fourteen days' notice of his intention to the Secretary, in order that such notice may appear on the notice convening the meeting.

SPECIAL MEETING.

14. A Special Meeting of the Council may be called at any time, on request in writing being made to the Secretary by any five of its Members, and a General Meeting of Members may be also called at any time on request in writing to the Secretary by any ten Members, provided a deposit of £5 in the one case and £10 in the other case be made with the Secretary, for and towards defraying the expenses of such Meeting, in case the object of it be not approved by the Meeting. Any balance that may remain after paying the expenses of such Meeting shall be returned to the parties from whom the deposit was received.

SHOW-YARD REGULATIONS.

15. The Show-yard regulations and rules shall be annually drawn up or revised by the Show-yard and Prize List Committee, previously to the issuing of the Prize List.

APPOINTMENT OF JUDGES.

16. The Council, at their Meeting in November, shall appoint the Judges of Farms, Crops, Live Stock, Agricultural Produce, Implements, and miscellaneous Articles, for the approaching Show. Previous to the Meeting the Judges' Selection Committee shall meet and prepare a List of Names of gentlemen of acknowledged experience and ability in order to assist the Council in the selection of Judges. The names of the Judges who have accepted office shall be published in all issues of the prize schedule.

APPOINTMENT OF STEWARDS.

17. The Council, at their Meeting in December, shall appoint the Senior Stewards for the ensuing Show.

THE DECISION OF JUDGES.

18. The decision of the Judges will in all cases be final, except where fraud, misrepresentation, or breach of the Rules is discovered; and any exhibitor who shall be disqualified for fraud, misrepresentation, or breach of the Rules is liable to forfeit the prizes or cups awarded to him at that Show or Meeting.

PROTESTS.

NOT APPLYING TO DOG SECTION.

19. All objections to be in writing and lodged with the Secretary by not later than 12 o'clock noon on the day after which the award affected has been made, or by not later than 2 p.m. on the last day of the Show in the event of the award being made on that day, and the objector must at the same time lodge a sum of £2 in the hands of the Secretary, which deposit shall be forfeited if the Council consider the objection to be frivolous, but if the protest be sustained, the Prize awarded to the Exhibitor shall be forfeited, and be dealt with as the Council may determine, and the deposit returned to the objector.

RULES OF OTHER ASSOCIATIONS.

20.—The Show-yard Committee shall be empowered to adopt, in connection with any section at the Society's Annual Show, any Association or Club Rules if thought advisable.

RE HEIGHT OF ANIMALS.

21.—When a protest is lodged against an exhibit with reference to height, the Secretary shall have power to instruct one of the Society's Veterinary Surgeons to measure the animal. In the event of the Secretary being unable to find one of the Society's Veterinary Surgeons, he shall thereupon call in a qualified Veterinary Surgeon to measure the animal on behalf of the Society, and the decision of either shall be final. The animal to be measured with or without shoes, as shown before the Judges, and if the shoes have been removed, feet pared, or in any way altered or tampered with after leaving the Judging Ring, the exhibitor shall forfeit such prize or prizes that may have been awarded.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN JUDGES.

22. In case of a difference of opinion between Judges respecting the award of any prize in the Show-yard, or in the event of the Judge or Judges being unable to decide between any two animals, the Senior Steward of the Section shall be empowered to appoint an Umpire (not being a Member of the Council), whose decision shall be final. In the event of any Judge leaving before the judging of the Class of Stock in which he is engaged is completed, the appointment of his deputy shall be made in the same way.

RESERVATION OF PRIZES, &c.

23. The Society reserves to itself the power to withhold any prize or portion of a prize where the Judges report there is not sufficient merit, although there may be three or more competitors; but in cases of real merit, although there may be but one claimant, the prize shall be given. No animal that has been exhibited as Fat Stock at any Show shall compete for any of the Prizes offered by the Society.

FORFEITURE OF PRIZES, &c.

24. Any person to whom a prize has been adjudged, and who, as shall subsequently appear, has obtained it through imposition, shall forfeit such prize and any other prizes gained at the same time, shall be excluded from making any claim or entry in future, and, if a Member, shall be expelled from the Society. And any person who has been expelled from any Agricultural Society, in consequence of having attempted to gain a prize by giving a false certificate or by fraud, or who has been expelled from any Breed Society for fraudulent practice, shall not be eligible to compete for any of the Prizes offered by this Society, or for Membership, and if a Member, shall be liable to be expelled, on a resolution passed by a majority of the Council.

AUDITOR, &c.

25. The Auditor shall from time to time, examine, the Secretary's Accounts, and certify the Balance Sheet, and an abstract thereof shall be printed and issued to the Members not less than seven days before the Annual General Meeting, with the notice convening such meeting.

NEW RULES OR ALTERATIONS.

26. Any Member wishing to make new rules, or to propose alterations, must give notice in writing to the Secretary on or before September 25th, and notice of such additions or alterations shall be printed and circulated with the notice of Meeting, and be brought up there for discussion and decision in the usual way. Subjects of a party or political character shall not be allowed on any occasion.

THE SHIRE HORSE

The Society's Consulting Veterinary Surgeon.

So much has been written of recent years upon the Shire Horse that any article on the animal will appear almost superfluous; but in view of present-day keen competition and necessity for keeping down costs, also the great increase in taxation where heavy haulage motors are concerned (amounting in some cases to 100 per cent.), a few words on the best heavy draught horse in the world, namely, the Shire, may not be out of place.

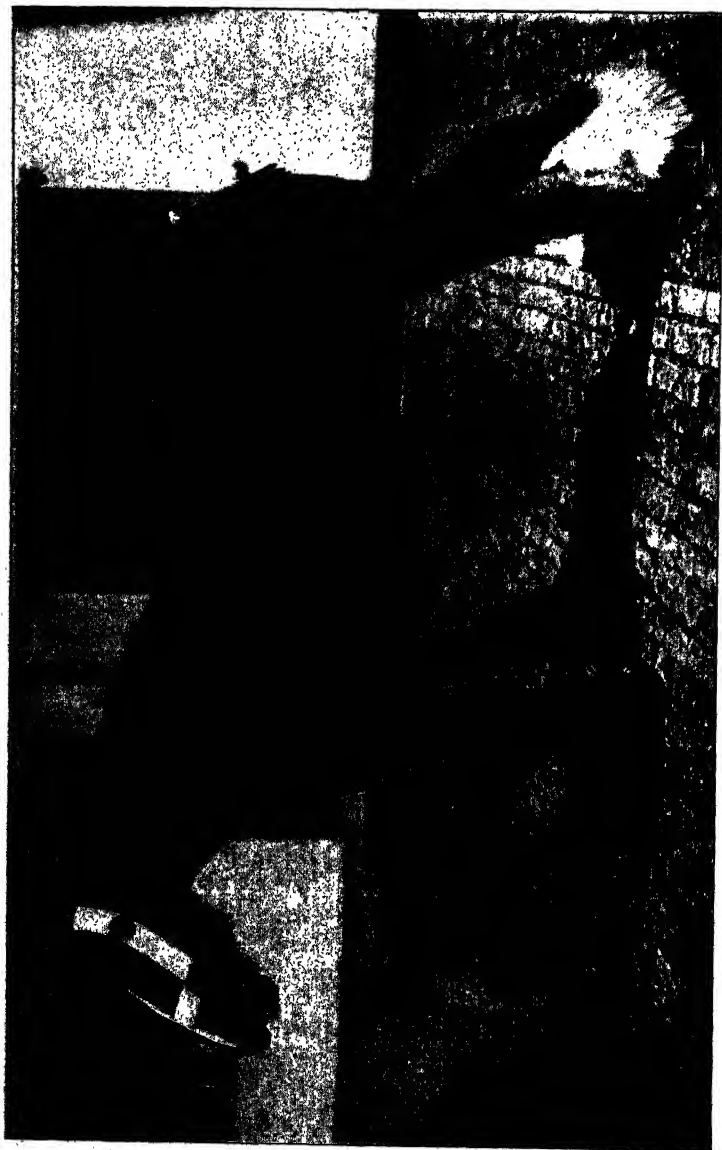

The breed originated in the Old English Cart Horse about the middle of the eighteenth century, the earliest record being of the Packington Blind Horse about the year 1760, as mentioned in the first volume of the Stud Book of the English Cart Horse Society, the title of which has since been changed to that of the Shire Horse Society.

The alteration of the name from the cart horse to the shire is understood to be due to the fact that most of the English heavy cart horses were at that time bred in the shires lying between the rivers Humber and Cam.

Compared with the Old English Cart Horse or Shire Horse, the present day heavy cart horse is undoubtedly a vastly different animal; and the Shire Horse Society, and breeders and owners of studs, are to be highly congratulated on the enormous improvement which has taken place, particularly during the present century.

In the latter part of last century a large number of our Shire animals were prone to be bred on coarser lines than at present; and although conformation in the way of general outline and weight has not altered very greatly, there were many characteristics which have largely been eliminated and have become the exception rather than the rule.

By this one means that flat feet with fleshy heels, round bone carrying coarse hair and subject to grease, hind legs sickle-shaped, and drooping quarters, with short, round hocks, have been replaced by animals full of quality and class, with hard flinty feet, plenty of depth and width of heel, flat bone carrying not too much straight, silky hair, elastic sloping pasterns, well-arched, deep ribs with well-developed loins, long quarters, the tail well set up to the top of the back, and the hind legs rather inclined to the straight than the sickle, with long, flat, wide hocks.

Shire gelding, JOHN BULL, bay, born 1905, died 1924, property of the Health Committee of the Liverpool Corporation, sire Intake Albert, dam Kinoulton Lily; Champion Gelding R.A.S.E. Show, Liverpool, 1910, also three years Liverpool May Parade, and Shire Horse Show, London, 1909.

It is to this type of animal that one looks to keep the breed permanently before the haulage contractor; and, in the opinion of a daily increasing majority, if this is done, the Shire will always maintain his position in the world of traction, and there is little doubt that so far as short-journey haulage goes, he will compare on extremely favourable terms with any other method of haulage existing at the present time.

There is now a feeling abroad that during the next few years, with so many small owners not having continued breeding, there will be great difficulty in supplying the demands of horse owners; but one must hope that the demand will stimulate the supply, and that this extremely profitable side of agriculture will be permanently revived.

Comparisons, although odious, are made daily showing how difficult it is to maintain motor haulage on a satisfactory basis at anything under a straight run of over five miles. On the other hand, any mileage up to and within this radius is very adaptable for any experienced owner of the right class of heavy cart horse.

In many towns, however, sufficient advantage is not taken of the enormous power of the Shire horse, and much loss is entailed through the lack of knowledge of his capabilities.

In the Northern towns he appears to be better understood than in the Midlands and South.

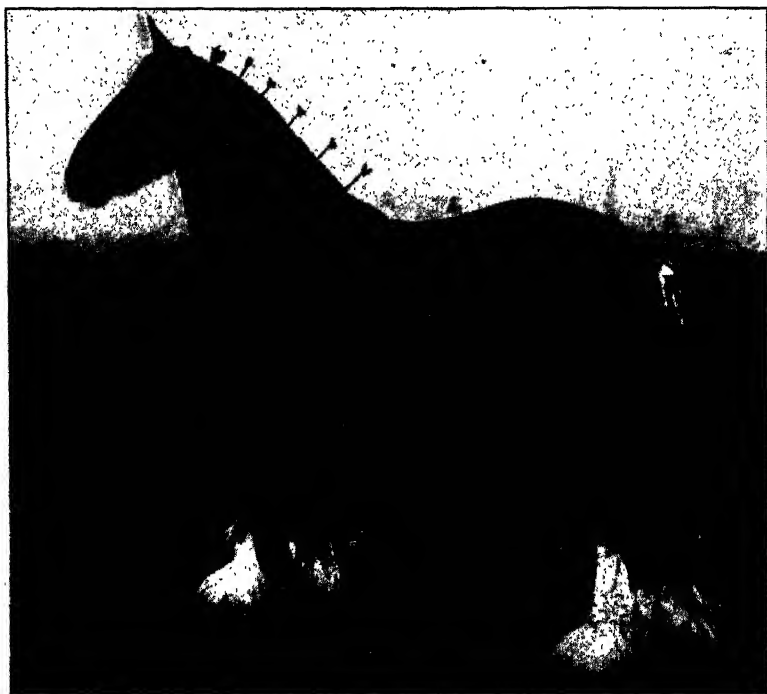

In Liverpool, which tradition has associated with the heaviest class of horse haulage in the world, much might be learned by horse owners regarding the power of the cart horse; and an observer stationed along the dock roads would see weights varying from four to five, and even seven, tons being comfortably drawn by one horse on a lorry weighing from thirty to forty hundred-weights, and loads varying from seven to ten and even more tons on a lorry weighing from two to two-and-a-half tons being comfortably and easily moved by a team of two horses.

For this to be done, however, experience, the best horses and horsemanship, are required.

To the uninitiated, the work as here outlined would appear arduous and excessive, and inexperienced persons and others having no knowledge of horse work, and only being acquainted by hearsay and their own opinion, would acclaim it cruel and harsh treatment.

The condition of the animals, and their life at the work, proclaim otherwise, however, and demonstrate how easily the real cart horse can perform his task.

It must not be imagined that any horse is fit for this job.

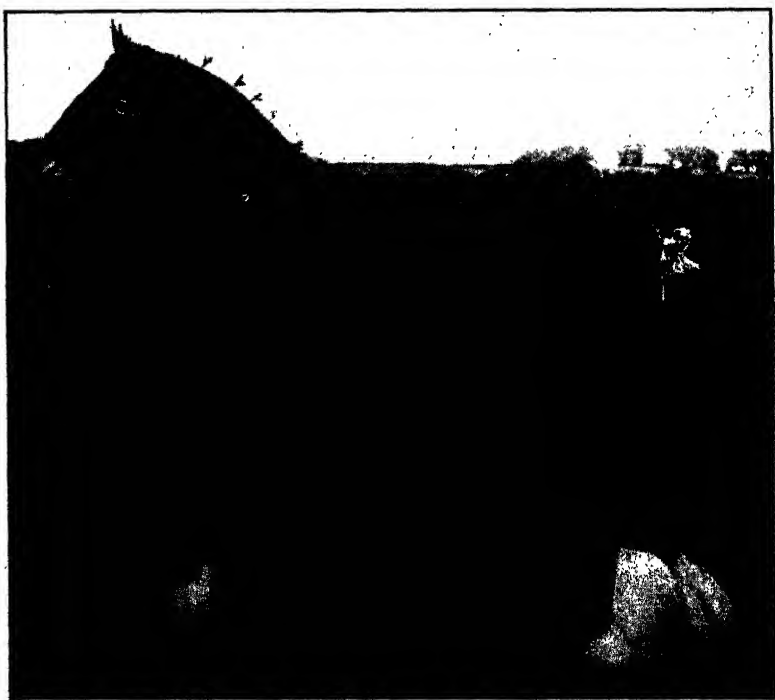

Shire Gelding, BRADFORD GREY KING, property of Mr. E. Patchett.

The animals used are invariably the right type of Shire, which has been broken in as a two-year-old and worked on the farm until between four and five years of age, or, better still, until fully five; then brought into town in hard condition (by which is understood no superfluous flesh), and fed on natural food conducive to growth and maturity.

Such animals, when fed in proportion to the work they perform, thrive, grow all round, and perhaps, after some slight attack of what is known as "town stable fever," maintain a healthy condition for the rest of their working existence, many of the animals averaging eight years' work.

Moreover, these animals should not be confused with the show horse, which may have never had a collar over its head, and whose condition is comparable to that of the fat boy of Pickwick, who, no doubt, would have collapsed in a similar manner if put to work equal to that, say, of a dock labourer.

It would be well to state of what one may call a "pampered" horse that however good in conformation such an animal may be, if he has not been accustomed to work until nearly five years of age, if he has just been got ready for sale and to enable him to draw a practically empty cart or waggon, and fed to become big without condition, in a very short time the owner will have a debilitated, worn-out looking animal, and unless speedy remedial measures are taken a total wreck will result.

In reference to the working capabilities of cart horses, it is pleasing to note that some of the leading Agricultural Societies have instituted classes for working cart horses, notably at the Shire Horse Society's exhibitions, the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Society's shows, the Liverpool, Manchester, and Bootle parades, and others throughout the country.

These classes cannot be too highly recommended, as they show the real condition and capabilities of the true cart horse after having been worked for a period of years.

For maintenance of health, horsemanship generally is required, and the good owner takes care that the driver is a horseman and can drive a cart horse, which is no easy task; that the animal is shod to suit the pavement upon which he works ; and that the stabling and feeding are all that can be desired.

Statistics taken from a large stud show that the average mileage, with all delays taken into consideration, was fourteen miles per day ; but this could be considerably increased, with the elimination of delays, without unduly affecting the well-being of the horses.

Finally, in confirmation of the weights indicated above, it may be remembered that in February, 1924, two Shire geldings at the Shire Horse Society's Show at the Agricultural Hall, Islington, London, pulled, with comparative ease, a load totalling in all eighteen and a half tons on granite setts.

STARTING A POULTRY FARM

CAPITAL NECESSARY, AND PROBABLE RETURNS.

By C. H. DOBBIN

(Lecturer in Poultry-Keeping, Lancashire County Council).

FOR some years poultry-keeping has been the most profitable of the minor branches of agriculture. This fact is fully recognised in Lancashire, where the equable climate, the comparatively small size of the farms, and the proximity of excellent markets, provide conditions unusually favourable for the development of the poultry-keeping industry. Although, as in other Counties, most of the poultry are kept by persons employed mainly in other industries or in other branches of farming, in no other County are there so many specialised poultry farms as in Lancashire. On these farms the farmer's capital and skill is entirely devoted to poultry-keeping, and his whole livelihood depends upon his success as a poultry-keeper.

Enquiries are frequently received from persons contemplating starting poultry-farming as to the amount of capital required and the financial returns to be expected. On this subject very little precise information is available. Vague and general answers to this question are of little value to the prospective poultry-keeper, and the purpose of this article is to set out in detail the approximate cost of the items under which expenditure would probably be incurred and the returns that could reasonably be expected under average conditions.

It is assumed, of course, that the prospective poultry-keeper has already acquired the necessary skill and experience on the farm of a successful poultry-keeper, otherwise the venture cannot be expected to succeed.

It will be well, first, to outline briefly the general lay-out of the holding and indicate the system of management that might be adopted, keeping in mind the necessity of restricting capital outlay to the lowest limits.

It is assumed that the birds are kept solely for commercial egg production.

The number of birds one man could look after and do his own rearing would be about 800 laying hens. He would, probably, not be able to do this and trapnest his pullets, but, as a compromise, he could trapnest his pullets during October, November, December, and January, which is the slack time, and in this way could find out which are the best winter layers and also lay marketable eggs. For the first year, with a view to economising in capital outlay, the birds could be housed in large houses to hold 100 birds each, and as 200 birds could be run to the acre it would be necessary to have half-acre pens for each house, and, in addition, $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres for rearing purposes, making $6\frac{1}{2}$ acres in all.

For the second year four additional houses would be required for the pullets, which would take up another 2 acres, making $8\frac{1}{2}$ acres in all. It will be seen, therefore, that a holding of from 9 to 10 acres would be required, together with a cottage, and with suitable outbuildings which could be used as food store, incubator-room, etc.

A brooder-house is necessary, and it is desirable that this should be heated with hot-water pipes. This method of rearing is suggested as being more economical and entailing much less labour than alternative methods, such as oil lamps with hooovers, or anthracite stoves, as it is only necessary to stoke up night and morning.

The half-acre runs should be made square, if possible, as this entails much less expense on netting and timber.

The poultry-keeper would start by buying eggs. These would be hatched to produce his stock, which would be accommodated in the brooder-house and later in the eight large houses and runs. For the pullets hatched out at the beginning of the second year, after leaving the brooder, accommodation would be provided by the four extra houses referred to above. In the autumn, as the old stock is sold off, four houses would be left empty for the accommodation of the pullets in the spring. Each year the pens would receive a dressing of cob lime at the rate of 2 tons per acre. Cock chickens would be sold as "milk" chickens, and therefore no provision has been made for rearing them to the usual killing age, although, where it can be managed, it will be found more profitable to fatten them.

In the general statement of accounts for the first year is shown the expenditure and receipts and the valuation of the equipment and stock at the end of that year. This shows that £688 16s. is expended on poultry-houses, fencing, and general equipment; £56 on eggs, for hatching; £460 on food, £44 on rent, rates and taxes; £31 17s. 6d. on lime, straw and creosote, and £5 5s. for outside labour for creosoting the houses, so that the expenditure during the first year amounts to £1,285 18s. 6d. The main item in the receipts is £546 17s. 6d. from the sale of eggs. This assumes an average of 70 eggs per bird, making the total number of eggs collected 56,000, of which 52,500 are sold and 3,500 retained for hatching. The only other cash receipt is from the sale of cockerels, £40, making a total of £586 17s. 6d.

It will be seen that the expenditure has exceeded the receipts by £699 1s. In considering the position at the end of the year, it is necessary to take the valuation into account. In the case of the houses and equipment this has been arrived at by allowing 10 per cent. depreciation, so that at the end of the first year they are valued at £619 18s. 5d.; the pullets are valued at £290 12s. 6d.; and it is also necessary to credit the year's accounts with the eggs used for hatching next season's birds, £56.

On the first year's working a profit of £267 9s. 11d. is shown. This, however, is not available profit, but is sunk in the business, and is really represented by the appreciation in stock.

With regard to the second year's accounts, new houses and equipment are required, which, together with the present valuation of those purchased the previous year, amount to £875 8s. 5d. There is also carried over from the previous year, the valuation of the pullets, £290 12s. 6d., and the eggs for hatching, £56. The cost of food, material, labour and rent, rates and taxes during the year, amount to £784 3s. 1d. This year the cash receipts are very considerable, amounting to £97 10s. for hens and chickens, and £96 1 14s. 10d. for eggs. It is also necessary, as in the previous year, to credit the account with the valuation of the poultry-house and equipment, amounting now to £787 17s. 7d.; with the valuation of the stock, £308 12s. 6d.; and the eggs used for hatching, £112.

Deducting the valuation at the beginning of the year and the expenditure during the year, from the cash receipts and the valuation at the end of the second year, there is a profit of £261 10s. 11d. This is actual realised profit. If the four new houses and runs erected this year were provided out of the original capital then this profit would be available for living expenses or for reinvestment.

Should the poultry-keeper decide to extend the scope of his operations by reinvesting the profits, this must be done on a sufficiently large scale to justify the employment of a man. Any extension on a smaller scale would not be profitable, as he could not manage the work himself and yet would not provide full time employment for himself and a man. It is assumed that it is decided to extend operations. An additional 6 acres of land will be required for 10 new poultry-houses and runs, and a corresponding increase in incubators and general equipment. As the realised profits are not sufficient to provide the capital for extension on this scale, it is suggested that arrangements are made to obtain credit to the extent of about £200 for a short period. The interest charged would not be large, and would be more than covered by the interest credited in the other years, which, in no case, has been included in arriving at the results.

The accounts for the third year show an expenditure on new houses and equipment of £734 15s., making the total value of the houses, equipment, etc., £1,522 12s. 7d. The value of the stock carried forward, including extra eggs for hatching, amounts to £420 12s. 6d., and the amount spent on food £1,154. For labour, the comparatively high wage of £3 per week is charged, amounting to £156 per year. The sales are correspondingly increased, amounting to £1,689 2s. 9d. The profit shown on the third year is £384 os. 3d.

The accounts for the fourth year show that no further capital expenditure is incurred, and that there is a profit on the year's working of £359 2s. 4d.

The position at the end of each year is best indicated when the year's statement of accounts is considered along with the Bank Accounts. These show that the farmer started with £1,000 capital, and that during the first year he made a profit of £267 9s. 11d., and had a balance in the Bank of £300 19s. 0d. So far as this year is concerned, he could have worked with much less capital, say £750, but, if so, further capital would require to be raised for the second year. During the second year he makes a profit of £261 10s. 11d., and has a bank balance of £320 10s. 9d. This balance, together with the credit by overdraft at the bank or otherwise, is used to extend operations. The profit during the third year is £384 os. 3d., but this is sunk in equipment, and at the end of that year he owes the bank £168 11s. 3d. During the fourth year, when the business is well established, the profit is £369 2s. 4d., and at the end of the year the position is that although he has written down their cost by £445, his poultry-houses and equipment are valued at £1,233 6s. 7d., and his stock at £599 5s., he has £337 11s. 10d. to his credit at the bank, making a total of £2,170 3s. 5d. or, more than double his original capital.

It will be noted that nothing has been drawn from the business for living expenses, and this, of course, would have to be taken into account by anyone proposing to start poultry-farming. It will be seen, however, from the figures, that should it be decided to continue as a one-man holding, the profits of the second year would be available for this purpose, and in the case of a two-man holding, there would be £300 available for living expenses during the fourth year.

It should be pointed out that during the last two years the business is also providing a good living for the extra person employed on the holding. In many cases this work would be done by one or more members of the farmer's family, so making the £156 per year immediately available.

It will be admitted that the egg average per bird is a very conservative estimate, and if, either by good luck or good management, this average is increased as it could be in a large number of cases, then the financial returns are very substantially increased.

THE COUNTY SHOW OF 1926

ANOTHER MAGNIFICENT WELCOME BY BURNLEY

By HAROLD HOLDERNESS.

THE review of the Burnley Show of 1926 affords a much pleasanter task than those of the two preceding years. At Manchester and at Lancaster, owing to circumstances beyond control, heavy losses were involved, but the Burnley visit, favoured by ideal weather, yielded a surplus of £1,500, and in many respects was reminiscent of the brilliant meeting on the same site in 1913. The result was remarkable when the circumstances under which the two exhibitions were held in this populous East Lancashire centre are contrasted. Thirteen years ago there were no war clouds and the workers were living in an atmosphere of peace and plenty. On the present occasion the staple industry was suffering from depression probably without parallel in its history. Added to dislocation due to the aftermath of the Great War trade was further paralysed by the prolonged Coal Strike, so that when the Royal Lancashire opened their gates there was an enormous army of unemployed.

In these circumstances it would not have surprised many of the Society's supporters had they been told at the close of the Show that it was once more necessary to dip into the reserve fund. It is difficult, however, to gauge the pulse of things in these paradoxical days when we are constantly being told that trade was never so bad nor money so scarce, and yet the time cannot be recalled when so many people indulged in pleasure pursuits. The fact remains that the populace of Burnley and surrounding industrial centres, whatever their resources, determined to express in tangible form appreciation of an exhibition of such scope and manifold attractions, and with holiday weather vouchsafed for the four days, they made the visit a time of festival.

Exclusive of ticket holders, who were very numerous on this occasion, the number of people who paid for admissions during the four days was 100,683, which is the fourth highest aggregate attendance in the Society's long list of shows, and compares with 40,241 at Lancaster the previous year, 43,501 at Manchester in 1924, 79,424 at Liverpool in 1923, 117,086 at Burnley in 1913, and the average of 76,401 for the last five years. The third day attendance in 1913 of 53,270 still holds the record for a single day. On Saturday on this occasion the figures did not equal those of thirteen years ago, but they so nearly approached them as to justify the statement in the Council's Annual Report that "So manifest was the desire to eclipse former records that had industrial conditions been normal there is little doubt Burnley would again, as in 1913, have left all previous turnstile figures behind." Up to 2 p.m. 11,244 persons had paid 2s. for admission. From that hour the Society had agreed, in response to a special request, prompted by the state of trade, to reduce the price to 1s., and the public response showed the wisdom of this policy. In sixty minutes nearly 15,000 persons passed on to the ground, bringing the 3 o'clock total to 25,896. An hour later the figures had risen to 42,738. The pressure then eased, but before the turnstiles ceased clicking they had registered 49,239. The packed grandstands, the solid phalanx stretching from the ringside to the doors of the tradesmen's stands, the good humoured crowds invading every corner of the show field and patronising the spending departments made a cheering spectacle for the officials after two years' dismal weather experience and scanty attendances.

"Old Sol" was again in his best mood on Bank Holiday, when the turnstile figures added 35,472 to the totals of the previous days. If the charges for admission had not been reduced on the last two days it is pretty safe to conjecture there would have been nothing like the same number of people on the ground, but whatever sacrifice may have been made at the gate there was compensation in the increased revenue from the grandstands, the luncheon and tea pavilions and refreshment bars, and the expeditious service reflected credit on those who accept responsibilities for the management of the important Catering Department. In a great organisation such as this it is not possible for all officials to render service that meets the public eye. A great deal of spade work must be done behind the scenes, and to the loyal band whose names are found in the list of stewards, congratulations are extended for their devotion to duty and earnest desire to promote the best interests of the Society.

At this point there may be introduced with advantage some of the figures given by Mr. Alex. Foster, J.P., one of the Society's Honorary Life Members and the energetic Chairman of the Finance Committee, at the November meeting of the Council. The Burnley local fund reached £3,672, or £1,126 more than Lancaster. The admissions totalled £7,564, and season tickets £486, representing increases on the previous year of £2,891 and £397 respectively. The Catering Committee had a net profit of £113 as against a loss of £510 in 1925, and £779 in 1924. The fitting up of the show-ground cost £8,037, a decrease of £557 compared with the previous year, and approximately £4,000 less than at Manchester in 1924. The cost of equipping the yard in 1923 was £11,564; in 1924, £12,116; and in 1925, £8,594. The decrease of £557 under this head, as compared with the previous year, is the more notable, because the Burnley site was ten acres larger than that at Lancaster, and by reason of its conformation involved considerably more work in adapting it for the purposes of the show ; therefore, the saving was substantially greater than the actual figures would suggest. Taking into account the loss of £2,700 at Lancaster and the surplus of £1,500 at Burnley, this really meant the Society were better off to the tune of £4,000 than they were twelve months ago. Mr. Windham Hale, C.A., Chairman of the Council, mentioned that timber and sleepers alone cost £7,413 against £6,220 at Lancaster, where the site was the most perfect of any on which the show had ever been staged, and the labour bill was £5,433, compared with £5,659 at Lancaster.

In the efforts that led up to the excellent financial result of the show one cannot be too generous in acknowledging the services of the Burnley Local Committee splendidly led by the Mayor (Councillor Jas. Sutcliffe), and another popular townsman and untiring worker in Alderman Roger Hargreaves, J.P., the Vice-Chairman. The Town Clerk and the Deputy Town Clerk, Mr. Colin Campbell and Mr. A. W. Forsdike, filled the offices of Local Hon. Secretary and Assistant Hon. Secretary respectively ; Mr. W. D. Flack, J.P., and the Borough Treasurer (Mr. W. A. Walker) were the Joint Hon. Treasurers, and the services these gentlemen so willingly rendered were immensely appreciated by the Society.

The Thursby family, who bear an honoured name in the town and district, have been prominently identified with the earlier visits of the Society to this part of the county, and the interest the late Sir John Thursby, Bart., took in the arrangements for the great show in 1913 will never be forgotten. Though resident in the South of England, Sir George Thursby, who succeeded to the baronetcy on the death of his brother, responded to the invitation to accept the Presidency, and like the true sportsman that he is, obviously determined that on getting into the saddle he should try to ride a winner. Along with Lady Thursby he entered heartily into the various proceedings, and the Council will ever gratefully remember the part he and Lady Thursby played in contributing to the success and the social amenities of the meeting. Mr. Windham E. Hale, C.A., Chairman, and Mr. R. B. Neilson, J.P., Vice-Chairman, were again untiring in their devotion to the duties of their office, and were supported by loyal colleagues in the various departments imbued with the one ideal of upholding the great traditions of Britain's oldest agricultural organisation, which in its service to the science and practice of agriculture has a proud history. It is pleasant to hear from distant visitors, as one frequently does, unsolicited tributes to the splendid staging and arrangements of Lancashire's County Exhibition, and to be told by herdsmen and grooms that it is a pleasure to do duty here, as at no show in the kingdom do they receive such considerate treatment. This is a compliment in which the Stewards will be able to share.

Having indicated the results, let us turn to the features of the Show which met with such a brilliant success. The ground, locally known as "The Prairie," and covering fifty acres, was in the Reedley district, and was practically identical with that occupied in 1913. Alighting from the electric cars at the main entrance one turned from Burnley's forest of chimney stacks, many of which, unfortunately from the bread and butter and dividend-earning point of view, were inactive at that time, and surveyed the yard sloping towards the railway with a picturesque background formed by the heights of Pendle and the Hambleton Hills. Owing to the contour of the field and the intervention of a wooded gully it was not possible to set out the long broad main avenue which characterises the staging of most Royal Lancashire Shows. This fissure was crossed by a sleeper bridge, and a section of it was also turned to account by the landscape gardener. The main judging ring was formed close to the embankment that carries the railway from Burnley to Nelson and Colne. At two other points on the ground it was necessary to erect footbridges to span watercourses. The yard was compact, and within a short distance of the main entrance was the promenade square, flanked by the President's and Council Pavilions, the County Club, Dining Rooms and Tea Gardens and tradesmen's Special Stands, and in the centre of this "lung space" the famous Besses-o'th-Barn Band gave concerts during the show.

To the right of the main entrance cloven-footed stock were accommodated, and running along the extreme northern boundary and leading to the collecting ring was a fine range of shedding for horses other than brood mares and stallions, which were housed in boxes in an island position. On the south side of the field the educational features as distinct from the stock section were concentrated, and this arrangement was much appreciated. Here established in close proximity were the County Council Stand, the pavilions housing the exhibits from the County Horticultural Station and those illustrative of the nature study work in which, it is gratifying to know, so many County Elementary Schools specialise; the Village Industries section for the encouragement of handicrafts and of thrift; and the floral pavilion which is deprived of its gorgeous furnishings at the end of the third day and houses the dogs for the Bank Holiday attractions. The Machinery in motion was staged on the southern boundary, and once more associated with this section after an interval of several years was an exhibition of commercial motor vehicles, this being the first time since the 1914 show at Liverpool that the manufacturers had made a collective display at the Royal Lancashire. The entry received suggested appreciation of the business possibilities of this exhibition.

and here it may be pointed out that in planning the yard the Society endeavour to secure that the large firms who cater for the needs of agriculturists shall have bold positions for their ornate stands. As indicative of the changes a few years have wrought, it may be pointed out that although the motor car had become a serious competitor of the light horse on the occasion of the previous visit to Burnley in 1913, an acre of land was considered adequate for garage accommodation on that occasion, but this year a motor park of between four and five acres was provided.

In cash and trophies the prize list represented the handsome total of £5,500. Exclusive of the Horticultural Section the entries numbered 6,189 as against the previous record of 5,739 at Liverpool in 1914, and the average of 5,184 for the three preceding shows, 4,995 at Lancaster in 1925, and 3,979 at Burnley in 1913. The entry of 494 cattle though smaller than at Lancaster, where the exhibition was held in the heart of a stock-breeding country, was 217 more than at the last Burnley meeting, emphasising the remarkable expansion in dairying as milch stock predominated. Dual-purpose Shorthorns were the outstanding features, although the purely beef types had an excellent representation. British Friesians, Red Polls, and Blue Albions also pointed to the growth of live stock interests, for these breeds were not in the schedule on the Society's previous visit to Burnley. It was interesting to note that in the light horse section the entry of 315 represented a higher figure than thirteen years ago, and for his efforts to maintain the spectacular ring features and secure the attendance of some of the best performers in the harness world the Society are indebted to their Vice-Chairman, Mr. R. B. Neilson, J.P., who as Senior Steward of this department for many years has brought great influence and managerial skill to bear.

Shires, totalling 52, were only four less than in the preceding year when the meeting took place practically in the home of the breed, or 25 less than at Burnley in 1913, when it was claimed by a recorder of that exhibition "That the shaft-filling types were still holding their own against the advance of heavy motor traction." In other sections of which any county society might be proud the entries were :—Pigs 125, Sheep 100, Goats 77, Dairy Produce, etc., 311, Lancashire Farmers and Local Exhibits 269, Poultry, Pigeons and Eggs 1,157, Rabbits and Cavies 679, Village Industries 581, Horse-shoeing 109, Dogs 1,678.

SHIRE HORSES.

Owing to mishaps that had befallen several horses entered, the show of Shires had not the numerical strength that appeared on paper, and was, in fact, one of the smallest seen under the same auspices, but it included several animals of note. It was a singular coincidence that both the 50gns. Challenge Cups for the male and female championships should be lost to the Society on the same day, and that each should be thrice claimed by the same animal. Mr. Jas. Gould's Herontye Buscot took Mr. J. W. Kenworthy's Cup for the best stallion for the third successive year, and Sir Arthur Nicholson's great mare Leek Pearl also made her third claim upon Sir Gilbert Greenall's trophy, which she first lifted as a yearling at the Preston Guild Show of 1922. The reserve in each case was Messrs. A. H. Clark & Sons' three-year-old Moulton Harboro' and Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Queen.

Messrs. J. M. Belcher and T. Ewart commenced their duties as judges with the yearling fillies, and gave the lead to Mr. W. Wiggans, of Hoole, for a daughter of the Carlton Stud horse Welbeck Redlynch. Her only challenger, yet a worthy rival, was Mr. Jas. Stuart's (Sowerby) bay by Moulton Swell 3rd from a Westby Manners mare. Two two-year-old fillies were led by Messrs. A. H. Clark & Sons' Moulton Emerald, a wealthy, weighty, low set filly with the makings of a matron and one that has been high in the honours list elsewhere. Her sire was Harboro' Nulli Secundus, and her dam the rugged and weighty Moulton Messenger's Princess. She was closely followed by Mr. M. Lawson's (Cockerham) home-bred bay Sweetings Rose, a big, upstanding daughter of Breck Menestrel, that was in the money at several earlier shows. The third by Burscough Premier on very fashionable limbs but not yet furnished on her top like the fillies in front was Messrs. H. & R. Ainscough's Burscough Ironcladia, which stood reserve for championship at Ormskirk.

Three three-year-olds brought out Mr. Tom Stuart's (Lytham) White Meadow Memory, the lofty March King bay whose weight and quality of limb and strength of foundations helped her to numerous successes the previous season. The second which came from near Shrewsbury was Mr. H. Hand's Marchamley Fascination, a wide and deep bay by Horning Mimic, and behind her stood Messrs. Ainscough's Burscough Premier Belle, a chestnut of considerable substance by Burscough Premier.

The brood mares on view also totalled three, and they had a distinguished leader in Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Queen, which has had Royal and other championships in her day. This beautifully-balanced eight-year-old was "bred in the purple," being the product of Champion's Clansman and Roycroft Forest Queen, both of which took the supreme championships of their sex for Sir Arthur Nicholson at the London Show of 1917. Two Lancashire mares that have been prominent at county and local exhibitions fought for the blue rosette, and the honour of following Leek Queen was given to Mr. W. Newhouse's (Slyne) Ancliffe Winnie, a six-year-old Warrior Carlton bay, with the frame and carriage indicative of constitution and courage, and a splendid set of enduring limbs. The third, another powerfully built and equally well-known matron, was Messrs. J. B. Jackson & Sons' (Little Eccleston Hall) Bonny Fashion by Lunesdale Kingmaker. She has been a sound investment both as a show mare and a breeder. There were only three foals to parade in the two classes. In colts a strongly built brown by Pendley Footprint, out of Bonny Fashion, beat the son of Ancliffe Winnie by Royal Oak 15th, and in fillies Messrs. A. W. & R. E. Potter walked over with a compact black by Monks Green Combine, out of a Warton Dray King mare.

Barren mares which made a notable group at Lancaster only produced one entry on this occasion, and this proved to be the ultimate female champion of the show in Sir Arthur Nicholson's Leek Pearl, the giant five-year-old brown daughter of Champion's Goalkeeper, which has had a marvellous show career since foalhood. Her stud companion, Leek Queen, was later placed reserve to her for the tricoloured rosette.

The stallion classes were also sparsely filled, but the Shiremen at the ringside were keenly interested in the character and fortunes of the animals brought forward. Of the three yearling colts the first card was given, after a long preliminary parade, to Mr. Jas. Gould's home-bred Lymm Blend, a dark bay by Herontye Buscot, out of the Horning Clansman mare Lymm Graceful. The second was Sir Arthur Nicholson's Woodhouse Nulli Secundus, a son of Harboro' Nulli Secundus, and the third was Mr. R. Cumpsty's Breck Bendigo, a hefty home-bred colt, and the son of his own stud horse Breck Menestrel.

The Carlton and Kirkland Studs had rival candidates in two-year-olds. The judges placed Mr. Rt. Stuart's Kirkland Mimic, a dark brown by Horning Mimic, in front of Messrs. Jas. Forshaw & Sons' Carlton Colney Friar, a wide, well-timbered bay, to which his sire, Colney Friar, had imparted his dressy limbs. The Kirkland horse, however, had exceptional scale for his age, and also made a gay parade. The fact may here be recorded that at the beginning of the current year (1927) Kirkland Mimic was sold for a four-figure cheque, and in the hands of his new owner, Mr. A. W. C. Butler, of Finstall, won the Junior Championship at the London Shire Show in February.

In three-year-olds Messrs. A. H. Clark & Son had first and third places for Moulton Harboro' by Harboro' Nulli Secundus, a well-ribbed and powerfully coupled bay by Harboro' Nulli Secundus, and Moulton Shakespeare. The pair were divided by Mrs. Stanton's Hadlow Prince William brown Seedsman, bred by Messrs. W. & J. Sumner at Fulwood, and grown since a foal by Mr. Rt. Stuart, who sold him under the hammer in London in the spring for 1,050 gns.

Four-year-olds were led by Mr. Jas. Gould's London and Royal Champion Herontye Buscot, the massive and majestic dark brown son of Champion's Goalkeeper, which has proved an impressive sire. He settled down to an excellent show, and for the third occasion established his claim to supreme honours. Second in the class came Mr. A. W. C. Butler's handsome, clever but smaller Carlton Wyresdale, a Wyresdale Draughtsman bay that has had the Junior Cup in London. Mr. W. J. Cumber took back the third ticket to his extensive Berkshire Stud for Bignell Special, a bold and powerfully built four-year-old black by Pendley Record, supported on legs like pillars. When Herontye Buscot was awarded his third successive Lancashire Championship Moulton Harboro' was placed second for the Cup. The Gold Medal for the best stallion bred or owned in Lancashire went to the Snelston Stud for Seedsman, which had a similar distinction the previous year in the hands of Mr. Rt. Stuart, and Messrs. W. & J. Sumner, Fulwood, took the breeder's prize. Kirkland Mimic was placed reserve for the medal.

THE GELDING CLASSES.

The classes for Shire geldings have become interesting features of the shows which cater for the commercial horse. This year the group up to four-years-old unfortunately attracted little competition. Messrs. Mann, Crossman & Paulin, who own a great stud of commercial Shires, received the Red Rosette for the London winner, Frank, and his only rival, but a very strong opponent despite his youth, was Messrs. G. G. Marsh & Son's bay gelding, which had beautiful balance and planting. In the senior group there were nine horses to select from, and here Mr. Milton Schofield added to many previous successes with the well-known five-year-old bay Alkington Champion by Bradgate Champion. Mr. J. W. Warburton's wide, solid shortlegged Caesar by Shavington Caesar was a close challenger in the second place. The Liverpool Corporation were third with Zenith, an upstanding brown by Mill House Prince William, bred at Cockerham, and some good horses were left standing further down the line.

An interesting situation was created on the closing day when several of these geldings met once more, but under a different adjudicator. Whereas on the opening day two judges had been officiating, on Monday there was a reversion to the single-judge system, and for the chief honour in the gelding section Thursday's verdict was upset. Mr. Warburton's Caesar was now placed in front of Alkington Champion, and received the Hulbert Challenge Cup which Mr. Schofield would have made his own property had he been successful on this occasion. There were plenty of ringside critics to endorse the judge's verdict, but some doubts were raised as to the wisdom of asking a single judge to do the work previously entrusted to two judges when on the closing day there is likely to be a repetition of some of the classes in the open section. Admittedly a piquant situation is created when a fresh tribunal is introduced and that course is not challenged; but the principle of leaving to one man a responsibility equally as great as that for which two judges were considered necessary on the opening day is called into question.

HACKNEYS IN HAND.

The Hackney breeding classes again drew a sparse entry. There were no two-year-olds on view, and of the 15 entries in the remaining four classes there was one absentee. It is a matter for keen regret to horse lovers that the competition of the motor and the modern roads, fashioned to carry mechanically-propelled traffic, should have discouraged the breeding of the old-fashioned harness types that carried deep frames on short legs, and traversed long journeys with light hearts. Whatever may be the future of the Hackney as a business accessory—the big utility horse like the draughter is still an economical proposition for short-distance delivery work—the fact remains that the schooled performers in leather are an important asset to the shows in providing spectacular ring attractions, and breeders, especially those who keep substance and enduring qualities in view as well as action, deserve all the encouragement Societies can give them to preserve the continuity of a breed that for generations rendered inestimable service to man.

The Stallion class was limited to horses foaled in or before 1923. The fight for supremacy was between Mrs. Fletcher & Sons' showyard veteran Angram Majesty, and Mr. Walter Briggs' (Borwick) home-bred Albin King's Cadet, a three-year-old son of Adbolton Kingmaker and a junior champion at the National Hackney Show in the Spring, possessing size, substance, and masculine qualities. The judge gave preference to the mature horse, which is wonderfully preserved at 15 years old, and went with his accustomed fire. These placings also decided those for the championship. Mr. J. W. Featherby's Overton Sensation, a four-year-old by Bertrano, was third, and Mr. T. W. Boan's clever-moving Mersey Searchlight was reserve. In three-year-olds, Mr. T. Dodd's King's Courage, a chestnut gelding by Buckley Courage, was placed in front of Mr. J. Scholes' Buckley Rose by Buckley Bandelero.

The brood mares brought out two types of the breed that are, unfortunately, becoming rare. The winner was Sir Lees Knowles' Slashing Dorothy, a 13-year-old daughter of Antonius, with many championships to her credit. Mr. T. M. Stephenson, junr., Huyton, filled the next place with Flash Clara, a Royal Dancelt mare, having a distinguished past. At 20 years old she was fit and fresh enough at Doncaster to beat many younger mares. These placings also decided the female championship. Mr. T. Hignett's Marjory Joan was third, and Mr. F. H. Hampshire's seven-year-old chestnut Caress reserve. Flash Clara's filly by Mersey Searchlight, with capital forehead and good action, beat a younger Bertrano colt out of Slashing Dorothy.

HUNTERS.

There was a more numerous show of Hunters in hand. The winning yearling, shown by Mr. Walter Lofthouse, a Yorkshire exhibitor, was a pretty daughter of Top Covert. Mr. G. Dickinson's Cark Silver Mascot, one of Silver Grill's good progeny that had been in the money at earlier shows, was second. The fortunes of these exhibitors were changed in the next class, the Cark stud scoring with the well-grown Cark Silver Sign over Mr. Lofthouse's Leicester. The third, shown by Mr. E. E. Jackson, Withnell, was a straight-bred filly that looked likely for making a chaser. Mr. Lofthouse's brown colt of considerable merit, by Old Bewick, was first selected in three-year-olds and was later awarded Dr. Jackson's prize as the best young Hunter. The second was Mr. W. M. Saunders' Wennington Hopeful, an upstanding chestnut by Rathurde. The third was a chestnut filly by the same sire from Dr. Jackson's stud.

Messrs. Warre & Unwin, of Tewkesbury, won outright Mr. T. A. Longworth's £30 Cup for the best mare or filly likely to breed a Hunter. It is noteworthy that these exhibitors have secured the trophy for three successive years with different animals of repute, in Patricia 4th, Cavallini, and, on the present occasion, with the long, low, roomy, grey Stainless. The second, Mr. G. Dickinson's 12-year-old brown Ruby 9th, was another good stamp of Hunter matron, and her foal at foot did not belie her appearances. The third, of lighter mould, was Mr. G. Gunter's Mystery, from Weatherby. The first three foals stood in the same order as their dams.

The classes for "made" Hunters have been larger at some preceding shows, but the entries were sufficient to provide sporty contests. Mr. Geoff. Kenyon's Challenge Cup for the best Hunter mare or gelding in the riding classes, was carried off by Mr. Bertram Mills' 11-year-old chestnut gelding Goldfinder 2nd, up to any weight and an excellent galloper. The runner-up was Miss D. Russell Allen's Airship, a nine-year-old son of Gay Lally that was wonderfully good in his gallop and beat Mr. R. L. Weaver's Crimson Rambler in the group for horses capable of carrying not less than 12 stone to hounds. The latter came to the top in the novice class, where Mr. W. E. Greenwood's Grey Dawn, from Bunbury, was second. Mr. Edward Johnson, Lancaster, was also a prominent exhibitor, taking second places in Hack Hunters to Mr. J. Stubbs' Golden Ball, and in heavyweights to Mr. Bertram Mills' Cup winner, and securing the third card in the novice group.

There was an excellent "field" of jumpers for each day of the Show. Mr. J. Taylor's Jimmy came out on top in the championship contest, with Mr. Bertram Mills' Nomination second, and Mr. J. Taylor's Battle Axe and Mr. G. Dickinson's Cark Warrior tying for third place.

MOUNTAIN AND RIDING PONIES.

The seven entries in the three classes for Welsh Mountain ponies came from the studs of Mrs. H. D. Greene, Craven Arms, and Mrs. J. C. Straker, Corbridge-on-Tyne. With Grove Firelight Mrs. Greene secured the George Lyell Challenge Cup for the best Mountain pony mare, and having won this trophy for the fourth successive year made it her own property. She was also the runner-up with Grove Ladybird. Both mares had previously qualified for the cup. Grove Firelight also took the Breed Society's Medal and Certificate as supreme champion of her breed.

The children's riding ponies again made fascinating ring features. The winners were Master Bobby Black, on Steel Dust, and Miss Bickley, on Dainty, in the riding classes, both of whom have been very successful in similar competitions at other shows, and Master Edward Bolton, Bartle, had a well-merited win in the jumping contest. Miss Bickley also took the cup given by Mr. T. Hignett, as the best rider in the group for ponies not exceeding 14-2 hands.

HARNESS CLASSES.

The Royal Lancashire has several features which give it a distinctive place among the County shows, and, among other things, patrons are always assured of seeing some of the best horses in the country in the harness classes. Without entering into detail as to the class awards mention of the horses that figured in the championship contests will suffice to indicate the merit of this section of the exhibition. The Glasgow Challenge Cup, presented by Mr. W. S. Miller for horses over 15 hands, was carried off by Mr. Andrew Maitland's beautiful mare Leicester Princess, with Mr. Bertram Mills' Edgware Duke as her nearest challenger Mr. R. Belcher's Dark Legend was third, and Mr. Black's Perfect Knight fourth. In the contest for Alderman Robt. Parkinson's Challenge Cup, for single mares or geldings not exceeding 15 hands, Mr. W. S. Miller's sparkling pony, Billet Doux, won for the second successive year. Mr. R. Thomson's Haddon Fascination was second, and Mrs. Hartley Batt's Dalwhinnie third. Each of this trio owes paternity to the celebrated Southworth Swell. Haddon Fascination beat Mr. Maitland's Cestrian Lauderdale in the contest for Mr. T. A. Longworth's 25 guinea Challenge Cup for the best novice mare or gelding any height, and the judges third choice was Mr. R. Black's Gallant Knight.

In pairs, under 15 hands, Mrs. Edgar Henriques' splendidly matched and rhythmic movers, Buckley Prima Donna and Buckley Sunrise took the lead, and a team of elegant blacks from Mr. Bertram Mills' stud triumphed among the bigger horses, where Mr. Black's Perfect Knight and Gallant Knight (since exported to America) came second. The novice classes were won by Gallant Knight and Mr. R. Thomson's Fascination, the latter of which was beaten in the open class between 14 and 15 hands by Mr. Miller's Stella Vane. Other horses that came in the honours list and have not already been mentioned, included Mr. Miller's Grand Fashion. Messrs. W. & C. Handforth's Axholme Knight, Mr. R. B. Eddleston's Queen Southworth, Mr. T. Hignett's Sefton Courtier, Mr. Walter Briggs' Albin Queen Mary, Mr. E. Rushton's Angram Victory, and Mrs. Henriques' Fleetwood Fiery.

FINE SHOW OF SHORTHORNS.

The show of Shorthorns was the best brought together at the Royal Lancashire for some years, uniform quality being added to a gratifying entry. The Earl of Derby's new Challenge Cup, for the best bull bred by the exhibitor, was awarded Messrs. J. & N. N. Lee, Arncliffe, Skipton-in-Craven, for White Baron, a son of Mill-hills Clipper King. This attractive bull, however, was beaten in his class by Mr. Arthur Green's Great Yorkshire champion Collynie Goldfinder, a dark roan by Balcairn White Eagle, beautifully modelled, fleshed and coloured, but ineligible for the cup as he was not in the hands of the breeder. The third prize winner in the same group, that for bulls born in 1924, was the late Mr. John Heaton's Startforth Lancer, a roan of the Lavender family by Fairlawne Air Raid. He was bred by the exhibitor at Low Startforth Hall, Barnard Castle, and became runner-up for the Derby Cup. The Makant Cup for the best yearling Shorthorn bull bred by the exhibitor, who must be a member of the Royal Lancashire or the Royal Agricultural Society, went to Messrs. J. & J. Kay, of Edenfield, for Edenfield Joy Boy, a Lady Dorothy roan by Collynie Conquest, which has been prominent at some of the district shows. This success was secured from Mr. W. Lancaster's Cleveleys Accountant, a Rosewood bull, after Mr. John Dargue had been called in as referee. Whilst no fault can be found with the reservations attaching to the award of these cups the need had long been felt for a trophy for the supreme championship, and this was generously provided for by Mr. Edmund Berry. As we shall see later, the highest honours for male Shorthorns were once more awarded to the dairy type.

When the class for heifers calved in 1923 or 1924 entered the ring Mr. J. Tetley Nickels' Nobold Lorraine 3rd, bred by the exhibitor at Shrewsbury, stood out in character and conformation, and ultimately she had no difficulty in adding to her "Royal" championship victory by taking the Astley-Bell Challenge Cup for the best Shorthorn cow or heifer in the show. She was a perfect picture on parade, with deep symmetrical frame, smooth covering of flesh, and sweet expressive head. Her nearest challenger for cup honours was Mr. Heaton's Startforth Augusta 2nd, a wonderfully wealthy roan yearling, daughter of Fairlawne Air Raid. In her class she had beaten Mr. W. Woof's Fragrant Rosebud.

The cow class was headed by Mr. W. Woof's Rosebud, by the successful stock bull Smiling Yet, and descending from an old Booth family. She has great substance and dual purpose qualities, and her successful show record includes the female championship at the Royal Lancashire, last year. She was the granddam of the heifer that was reserve for the cup. Rosebud was followed in this group by Messrs. J. & J. Kay's Musbury Millicent 2nd, a massive white which has secured for the Edenfield herd many spoils of the shows, including several championships. Messrs. Kay had other strong candidates in this section. They were second in the senior bull class to Messrs. Lee's Millhills Clipper King with Musbury Radium by Collynie Conquest, which was also the sire of Musbury Millicent; and second with Edenfield Tulip in two or three-year-old heifers to Mr. Tetley Nickels' Nobold Loraine 3rd, the cup-winning female, and won the County Palatine class for yearling bulls, the only group in this section of the Show, limited to Lancashire, with Edenfield Joy Boy.

PEDIGREE DAIRY SHORTHORNS.

Registered Dairy Shorthorns were again out in force, and it was an interesting fact that this breed furnished the male champion for the fourth successive year, the three previous wins having been recorded by Bessborough Polonius, which was twice Dairy Shorthorn champion at the "Royal." Lord Bessborough's great bull was not on view on this occasion, and in his absence came Mr. Laurence Hignett's Kelmsoott Imperialist 71st, which beat Mr. Arthur Green's Collynie Goldfinder in the contest for Mr. Edmund Berry's Cup. It should be explained, however, that the judges were divided in their views, and it was after considerable deliberation that Mr. Dargue, called in as umpire, gave his vote to the dairy type. The Dairy Shorthorn Society's £10 prize for the best yearling went to Capt. the Hon. E. A. Fitzroy, M.P., for Foxhill Songster, a red that made a very impressive showing debut. A bull of the Telluria family, he is by Foxhill Caryl, a London Dairy Show winner on two occasions, and bears a strong resemblance to his sire. Second to him for this honour and also second in the same class came a Fylde exhibit in Mr. Jas. Tunstall's (Wesham) Fairhurst Sybilant, another very shapely and attractive bull, bred by Mr. Jas. Ainscough at Parbold, and having an excellent heritage, being by Aske Wizard out of the deep-milking Sybil 27th.

The "Leverhulme" Cup for the best Lancashire-bred exhibit in the Pedigree Dairy Shorthorn classes was won by Mr. T. Blackburn's (Out Rawcliffe) Penwortham Clever William, which, in the hands of Mr. Caunce, of Rufford, had a similar distinction the previous year. The breeder, to whom the cup is awarded, was

Mr. A. R. Fish, J.P., and he had a further triumph in that he also supplied a runner-up for the trophy from his Holme Mead herd in Penwortham Red Rose, a six-year-old roan cow by Penwortham Dreadnought out of Combebank Johnby. She later stood reserve for the "Millburn" Cup as the best animal in the recorded classes, being beaten by Mr. T. Stuart's (New Hall, Sowerby) White Rose 3rd, a youthful white by Fylde Baritone, showing marked dairy qualities.

There was keen competition and judging was protracted. In the open class for bulls born previous to 1925, Mr. Hignett's Kelmscott Imperialist, a handsome dual-purpose type, and Mr. Blackburn's Penwortham Clever William, stood out from the bunch, and were left in this order. The latter was by Combebank Foundation Stone 6th, which was used with marked success in the Holme Mead herd. As already recorded in the reference to cup honours, Foxhill Songster, which many regarded as a bull of great promise, was first in yearlings, with Mr. Tunstall's Fairhurst Sybilant as his nearest attendant. In a strong class of cows born before 1922, Mr. L. Hignett's Green Leaf 78th, a robust representative of a well-known Ireby Hall family, took the lead and contributed 37½lb. of milk. Messrs. Allen & Rodgers (Craven Arms) were second with Lady Helen, a wealthy four-year-old roan by Monkhill Drusus, bred by Messrs. Pickup, at Scorton, near Garstang. She gave 27lb. in the ring. Third, with 37½lb., was Mr. W. H. Nelson's Lambrigg Belle 2nd, fitted with splendid bag and teat, and next in order of merit stood Mr. Fish's Penwortham Red Rose, with a 31½lb. yield.

Mr. W. Newhouse, Slyne, led an imposing parade of heifers with Ancliffe Lilac, a home-bred white, which had recently calved and was showing to advantage. Mr. B. W. Cooper, Hurst Green, received second place for the robust Merricks Barrington Duchess by Kirk Boy, and Mr. A. R. Fish's Penwortham Red Lady 3rd by Combebank Foundation Stone 6th, was third. There was little competition in the group for heifers in milk, calved in or after 1924, and here Messrs. R. Silcock & Sons' Fylde Wild Eyes 17th was placed in front of Mr. J. G. Peel's Overpeover Rock Rose.

Two open classes were provided for cows and heifers in calf. In the former, Mr. A. R. Fish's Haining Waterloo 2nd, bred by Messrs. Foster at Allendale, beat Mr. J. Nelson's Rossall Seraphina 9th, and Mr. W. Pearson's Sylvan Maid 3rd. The only heifers forward were Mr. J. G. Peel's Grendon Wilful by Lord Nottingham, and Mr. G. E. Fitzhugh's Ashe Cran by Wild Dairyman.

In the County Palatine classes the red rosettes for bulls were worn by Messrs. J. & J. Kay's Musbury Radium, and W. Lancaster's Cleveleys Accountant. The winning females were Mr. W. H. Nelson's Lambrigg Belle 2nd, W. Newhouse's Ancliffe Lilac, J. & J. Kay's Edenfield Orange Blossom 3rd, and Mr. J. B. Smalley's Birkby Waterloo.

BRITISH FRIESIAN.

The entry and the attendance at the ringside reflected the interest in the British Friesian cattle. The outstanding animal in the bull classes was Hache Buringa P.I., from the noted Moordale herd at Dobcross, of Mr. Edward Hollingworth, C.B.E. Buringa defeated Mr. G. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Meibloem's Beatty in the senior bull class, and this distinguished pair of herd leaders eventually stood in the same order in the contest for Mr. S. H. Renshaw's Challenge Bowl for the best bull. In the younger group, Mr. C. W. H. Glossop's Lund Janke's Beatty had a close challenger in Mr. A. Norman Dugdale's home-bred Dutton King out of the deep-milking cow Kilforge Queenie. Mr. John Horridge, who was third in the previous class with Llanfair Paul, now occupied a similar position with Llanfair Yme.

Mr. Hollingworth's Hache Buringa having stood supreme at the "Royal" and the Great Yorkshire, now claimed his third successive tri-coloured rosette. His herd companion, Moordale Pauletta, was also female champion at the "Royal," and as a memento of the rare occasion on which an exhibitor scores a dual triumph the Breed Society presented Mr. Hollingworth with a miniature model of a Friesian. It was quite expected that the handsome Moordale Pauletta would repeat her Reading performance, and it occasioned general surprise when the "Royal" verdict was upset and Mr. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Barbara was placed in front of the Moordale herd representative for the cup. Barbara was in profit, whilst Pauletta had not then entered the ranks of the dairymaids, and this fact had, no doubt, some influence with the judge.

The winning cow in milk was Mr. Hollingworth's Hache Will o' the Wisp, first at the "Royal" and reserve champion at the Great Yorkshire. Capt. J. Christie's Terling Breeze 8th followed, and the third, having more age over her head than the two in front, was Mr. Bertram Parkinson's Beccles Gloria, which in this yard the previous year was not only the champion of her breed but showed that she combined utility with beauty by beating all the dairy types in the milking trials. The Moordale herd was in the ascendant once more in the class for cows to calve within three months, Hache Teelt, P.I., taking the lead in this case. Capt. Christie's Hedges Alberts Spinkie was second, and Mr. B. Parkinson's Uplands Cynthia third.

The group of heifers in milk, calved in or after 1923, produced the champion female in Mr. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Barbara, and the second was Mr. Hollingworth's Northdean Dieuwke, a daughter of Dell Hollander. In the two-year-old heifers, Mr. Hollingworth's Moordale Pauletta was first, and Mr. Holt-Thomas's Northdean Princess May second, and in yearlings the Northdean herd scored, Mr. Hollingworth being second with Moordale Bouquet 5th by Moordale (imp.) Paul.

OTHER BREEDS.

In the Jersey classes a strong team has been sent to this show for some years by Mrs. Evelyn, of Dorking. Her Wotton herd supplied the winners in the three classes devoted to the breed, and for the fifth occasion since 1915 she secured the "Blythwood" Perpetual Challenge Bowl for the best cow or heifer. The winner on this occasion was Wotton May Moon, a three-year-old heifer, whose dam had a similar distinction last year. Lancashire breeders were represented in the honours list by Messrs. J. Johnson & Sons, Cark-in-Cartmel, Mr. Sol. Wiggans, Garstang, and the former with Matchless, a good type that has been shown elsewhere with success, took the special prize for the best cow or heifer bred by a member of the E.J.C.S., resident in Lancashire. The Society catered for the county breeders of their "golden butter cows" by offering prizes for the best cow or heifer the property of an exhibitor resident in Lancashire, but insufficient entries necessitated the cancellation of the class.

There was a small collection of Red Polls, none of which came from herds nearer than Willaston, Birkenhead, nor were any sent from the home of the breed in East Anglia. The prizes went to Lord Wavertree, Colonel Brook, Annan, and Mr. W. R. Glazebrook, Junr., Willaston, the only exhibitors represented in this section.

In small classes of Blue Albions chief honours went to Lt.-Col. Harrison, Burton-on-Trent, and Mr. Arnold Gillett, who has built up an excellent herd at Ridgewood, Chorley. A challenge cup for the breed championship, offered for the first time by Mr. Arnold Gillett, was claimed by Colonel Harrison's Bramshall Margaret, a spacious cow with a splendid vessel, and the runner-up, and a very strong challenger to the cow, was Mr. Gillett's handsome heifer Ridgwardine May. Bramshall Margaret won her third successive championship at the big shows.

DAIRY CATTLE.

In the dairy cattle classes, judged on the second day of the show, there was, as usual, keen rivalry, and the long lines of coloury stock were worthy of the displays that have helped to give celebrity to the Royal Lancashire. Mr. J. Charnley, Glasson Dock, had two strong candidates in the open class for cows any weight in milk, and the leader was ultimately awarded the 10 guineas Championship Cup, presented by Mr. Edward Bohane, C.B.E., director of the Royal Dublin Society, and formerly secretary of the Royal Lancashire, for the best non-pedigree dairy cow or heifer in the show. The winner was the symmetrical roan Daisy, a splendid example of the dual-purpose Shorthorn, fitted with a beautifully balanced bag. Her nearest challenger for the cup was Mr. John Ford's Phyllis, from Sandbach, another smart, youthful roan that won the open incalf class after a close contest with one of Mr. Timothy Proctor's wealthy roans from Chipping.

THE MILKING TRIALS.

The milking trials were conducted on a different basis this year. In place of one class for pedigree Dairy Shorthorns and another for any other breed, the competition was divided into sections for twice milking and thrice milking in the 24 hours. The five Friesians, entered in the thrice-milking group, were clean-milked at two o'clock on Friday, and at 10 p.m. were lined up for their first test, and the officials had the unusual experience at a Royal Lancashire show of checking the yields on the spring balance by the light of an electric torch. The second milking took place at 6 a.m. on Saturday, and the third at 2 p.m. For the twice-milking test 18 paraded, of which six were Dairy Shorthorns. These cattle were milked out on Friday night and their yields were weighed at 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Saturday.

The trials revealed some surprises for the number of cows, not confined to one breed, that were disqualified through failing to give milk with an average butter-fat percentage of 3 per cent., and in one instance the fat content of the morning milk fell to 2 per cent. This fact once more prompted discussion as to the number of milk producers who may have been innocent victims in prosecutions instituted where samples have fallen below the standard.

In the twice-milking trials the first prize went to Mr. G. Holt-Thomas's British Friesian Colton Sunray, which gave 78lb. 1 oz., and both the morning and evening milk showed a fat percentage of 3.30. She was awarded 93.56 points, and received the British Friesian Cattle Society's £50 prize as top scorer in the trials. Second and winner of the "Allerton" Cup, for the pedigree Dairy Shorthorn making the highest score in the trials, was Mr. J. Nelson's (Reedley, Burnley) Lund Waterloo, an eight-year-old cow bred by Mr. A. E. Penny, at Salwick. She gave 62lb. of milk with an average butter-fat percentage of 3.95, and scored 77.80 points. Another Shorthorn was third in Mr. W. H. Nelson's (Cockerham) Lambrigg Belle 2nd, which produced 54lb. 1 oz., with an average butter-fat percentage of 3.35, and scored 70.56. The fourth, also a Shorthorn, was Messrs. J. & J. Charnley's (Glasson Dock) Thurnham Ringlet 16th, whose yield was 54lb. 4 oz., butter-fat 3.60, and total score 68.65.

In the thrice-milking competition the only animal to qualify was Capt. J. Christie's British Friesian Terling Breeze 8th, which produced 74 lb. 2 oz., with a butter-fat average of 3.26, and she gained 87.16 points. One cow gave 87 lb. 10 oz., but the butter-fat average for the three milkings was only 2.60.

In the milking trials for goats, several Lancashire goat keepers were successful. In the quantity milking competition (three milkings) Miss E. Wearing (Lancaster) was first with Parkfield Hero, which gave yields of 5 lb. 7 oz., 5 lb. 5 oz., and 5 lb. 14 oz., and scored 18.22 points. The second, Mrs. R. K. Morcom's Cornish Humbug, averaged 6 lb., but lost in lactation points compared with the winner, and scored 18.10 points. Mrs. A. M. Seward's (Lancaster) Hareapple Starling was third, with 17.56 points. The awards and points in the quality milking trials were:—First, For the best dual-purpose goat: Mrs. Seward's Hareapple Magpie, 40.67; Second, Mrs. Morcom's Cornish Guinevere, 27.29; Third, Mrs. Morcom's Cornish Magpie, 24.55. In the quality competition for first kidders, Mrs. Seward's Hareapple Starling was first with 28.82 points; L. B. Wilkinson's (Charnock Richard) Fryston Stella second, with 20.53; and Miss Wearing's Parkfield Athena third, with 15.81 points.

SHEEP, PIGS, AND GOATS.

Wensleydales were again predominant among the wearers of the golden hoof. Mr. R. H. Milner, Borwick, was prominent in strong competition, and was awarded Mr. T. E. Clarke's Challenge Cup for the best exhibit among the "blue faces" with the leader of the ram lambs that required exceptional merit of colour, character, and conformation to excel in strong company. Reserve honours went to Mr. J. A. Willis's two shear ram Royal Champion. The same exhibitor was adjudged to have the best pair of ram lambs, and a similar special for gimmer lambs went to Mr. J. B. Smalley, Cark-in-Cartmel, for daughters of Carperby Supreme.

Lonks were not so numerous as one might have expected in the home of the breed. The champion was found in senior rams in Mr. H. O. Mitchell's Prince Bank Swell, whose sire, Hill Top Swell, a four-year-old sheep, was second in his class. Prince Bank Swell it may be recalled was the champion ram lamb in 1924, in the hands of his breeder Mr. A. Taylor, Lumb-in-Rosendale. Reserve for the cup for the best exhibit were Mr. Edward Smith's winning shearling ewes. The challenge cup for the best ram lamb was awarded Mr. T. H. Miller, of Holme, for another son of Hill Top Swell, and the Reserve was Mr. Jas. Taylor's (Wardle) Wardle Pride by Heather King.

Perusal of the catalogues of the County Shows reveal changes in fashion in sheep. Within comparatively few years once popular breeds have passed entirely out of the schedule, and on this occasion the Suffolks, which came into prominence in this part of the country during the war-time boom, and are still used on many farms for crossing, were not seen on the ground, the two classes provided having to be cancelled. In two groups of grey-faced sheep the honours went to Mr. W. H. Barber, Capernwray Hall, Carnforth.

Prizes for pigs were devoted to the three popular breeds—Large and Middle Whites and Cumberlands, the Berkshires, Large Blacks, and Gloucester Spots being eliminated on this occasion owing to insufficient support at recent shows. The Champion Large White boar was Messrs. Morgan & Winterson's Bourne King David 57th, which was reserve champion at the Royal, and the runner-up was Sir Gilbert Greenall's Adlington Boy, a year younger than the medal winner. Mr. Arthur Bellwood's Kirton Lady 21st, from Lincolnshire, was awarded the Female Championship, though the Cheshire exhibitor, Mr. R. G. Peel, had a strong rival in Moreton Muriel 4th, a year younger sow by Caldmore Banner 4th.

Middle Whites came next in strength of entry. Mr. Hallas, of Helsby, was very successful, and in addition to four firsts took the female championship with Hallastone Mona 2nd. Reserve for this honour was a June, 1926, gilt, sent by Mr. R. P. Haynes, who got the Silver Medal for the best boar with Wishaw Don, a two-year-old pig. Mr. Hallas's winning 1925 boar Caldmore Deliverance 6th was reserve.

Six classes were provided for Cumberlands, but the breeders of the lops showed no great enthusiasm, as the classes were sparsely filled. The majority of the prizes went to Mr. J. S. Jordan's well-known Bowston herd at Kendal, which has been dispersed since the Show, and the remainder to Mrs. Carleton Cowper, Penrith, and Mr. J. B. Smalley, Cark-in-Cartmel. The championship prize provided was the challenge cup for the best boar, and this was won for the third successive year by Mr. Jordan's Bowston Financier. Mrs. Carleton Cowper's Stackhouse Monarch, a boar of Mr. J. B. Smalley's breeding, was reserve.

Goats were again well catered for and made an attractive show. Mr. Percy Wainwright's Toggenburg Fryston Salome was singled out for the bronze medal as the best female, and the runner-up was Mrs. R. K. Morcom's black and white Cornish Humbug, which also received the challenge certificate for the best female over two years old that had borne a kid. When dual-purpose qualities were considered this animal stood reserve to Mrs. A. M. Seward's black and white Hareapple Magpie. Miss Annie Turner's Warrenhurst Snowflake, a five-year-old brindle brown, was awarded the challenge cup for the goat under 112lb., receiving the highest number of points in the three milking classes, and for this distinction Mrs. Morcom's Cornish Witch was reserve.

SMALL LIVE STOCK.

Fancy and Utility fowls were well represented in the poultry section, and in the latter department the Prince of Wales was a successful competitor. An interesting innovation, this year, was the "museum" of eggs, introduced on the initiative of the senior steward, Mr. W. G. M. Townley. All the breed societies had been asked for their support, and, as the result of the excellent response, visitors were able to see the types of eggs produced by the diverse varieties of domestic fowls, the collection being most representative.

Since the commercial aspects of rabbit-keeping became recognised there has been a notable expansion in this department of the shows. At Burnley the exhibition was splendidly supported by fanciers, especially in the fur-producing classes, one for Chinchillas producing 41 entries. The exhibits of Angora wool, and of the articles fashioned from rabbit wool and furs, demonstrated the possibilities of the industry. Pigeons and covies also had excellent representations.

The dog show, held on Monday, produced a record entry, and was the best of its kind the Society had staged. For the first time a supreme Champion Cup supplemented the many other specials, and this was awarded to Miss I. Kenyon, of Nelson, for the Pointer bitch Stainton Special Quality, a daughter of the great prize-winning Lune Prince, and bred by Mr. T. Moorby. Mr. H. M. Slack's (Bolton) well-known Cocker Spaniel bitch Dolly Tint was placed next in order of merit. The fashionable Alsations made a notable feature.

COUNTY COUNCIL STAND.

The Lancashire County Council stand, in charge of Mr. J. J. Green, B.Sc., Secretary of Agriculture, was again a centre of great interest. Farming in the Burnley district being mainly devoted to milk production it was appropriate that special attention should be paid to illustrating modern views on the feeding and management of dairy cows and the improvement of grass land. There is growing realisation that by suitable rationing not only can a higher milk yield be obtained but that the cost of production can be considerably reduced, and a maintenance ration and a typical production ration were shown on the stand, the actual quantities being much more impressive than mere figures. Specimen turves were on view from the experimental fields at Hutton and other centres in the County, including those from plots from land in the district, laid down in 1924. These turves emphasised the necessity for preparing the way for phosphates by an application of lime on grass land where a mat of old turf has accumulated on the surface. There was also striking testimony to the efficacy of the recently introduced rock phosphates in improving the herbage of grass land.

The recent embargo on pig products from the Continent having focussed increased attention upon pig-keeping, prominence was given to the facts that have issued from the very valuable experiments that Mr. Green and his staff have carried out at the County Farm for a considerable time, especially the investigations relating to the requirements of pigs and the prevention of lameness.

The Advisory Departments in Agricultural Botany and Entomology of the Manchester University had a comprehensive exhibit, illustrating the fungoid and insect pests injurious to farm and garden crops.

In the dairy section, besides the better-known varieties of cheese made by students at Hutton, there was shown for the first time a new type, which has been called Lancashire Kraft cheese. There is reported to be an increasing demand for this type of rindless produce, which can be obtained in small quantities and used with a minimum amount of waste. An exhibit showing a simple method of detecting dirt in milk emphasised the importance of efficient cloths or preferably cotton wool discs for straining.

Students from the dairy school also assisted at the clean milk demonstrations in an adjoining shed, where the lectures were given by Mr. Hoy, of the National Institute for Research in Dairying. In a district which can claim to have done pioneer work in the development of the utility fowl the demonstrations in cramming, preparation of fowls for market, and the trussing competitions were of great interest to a considerable section of the visitors. A separate pavilion accommodated the exhibits from the County Horticultural Station, and the Nature Study exhibits, which form an immensely pleasing feature of the work of the elementary schools of the County.

BUTTER-MAKING CHAMPIONSHIP.

In the championship competition of butter-makers, on Monday afternoon, 13 of the 14 dairymaids entered took part. The Preston Guild Gold Challenge Cup went to Mrs. Yates, The Venn, Bromyard, Hereford, as the reward for persistent effort. Mrs. Yates, who is perhaps more widely known by her maiden name of Miss Cissie Pantall, has been the runner-up for this trophy on five or six occasions. She has had wide experience of competitions of this character, and her many honours include championships at the Great Yorkshire, Bath and West, and the Three Counties' shows. Second and reserve for the Cup, only one mark behind, came Miss James, of Llanfawr, Usk, Mon., who has also been an aspirant for the trophy on several previous occasions. Miss Gwillim, of Allensmore, Hereford, was third. The fourth, who also took the Lancaster County Challenge Cup, as the resident in Lancashire gaining the highest points in the competition, was Miss Lois. C. Furnell, a student at the L.C.C. Dairy School, at Hutton. She was first in the County competition on Thursday, and second in the open class on Saturday. Reserve honours went to Miss Florence Eckley, of Llydyadyway, Hay, Hereford, who won the open competition on Saturday. Miss D. M. Morrison, L.C.C. Farm, was v.h.c. and reserve for the County Cup. She secured third position in the open class. The three remaining cards went to students from the County Dairy School at Hutton, Miss M. T. Davis receiving a v.h.c. ticket, and Miss F. A. Noblett and Miss M. V. Hughes each qualifying for h.c. honours. Mr. Alec. Todd, the judge, stated that very few points separated the first and last recipients of the cards.

THE FLORAL SECTION.

The floral and horticultural section is now more than an auxiliary feature of the Royal Lancashire; it has become an integral part of the show which is steadily expanding, appealing to the utilitarian as well as to those chiefly concerned with the spectacular wealth of colour provided. The demands on space necessitated the extension of the pavilion 50 ft. beyond the accommodation of the previous year, and for the labour devoted to the organisation of this department for some years the Society are indebted to the stewards, Mr. Gerald Garnett, and Mr. E. G. Howsin, J.P., and the managerial work of Mr. Peter Blair. The first prize of £40, for the best group of miscellaneous plants, went to Messrs. J. Cypher & Son, Cheltenham, and the second and third places, as in the previous year, were filled by Mr. W. A. Holmes, Chesterfield, and Mr. T. M. Patch, Great Horton, near Bradford, each with fine groups that gave the judges some difficulty. Such was the merit of the three displays that although no provision was made for a third prize in the schedule an extra award of £15 was made. It was also in accordance with the judges' recommendation that £30 was granted to Messrs. Blackmore & Langdon, Tiverton-on-Avon, Bath, for their gorgeous collection of Begonias and Messrs. Alex. Dickson & Co., Ltd., Newtownard, County Down, received the special award for the most meritorious non-competitive exhibit in a section which had attracted 18 entries. In strong competitive classes the winners included Messrs. Bees, Ltd., Chester; Herd Bros., Penrith; J. Pilkington, Thornton-le-Fylde; Norman Bell, Stainton, Kendal; Cheadle Royal Mental Hospital; General E. A. le Gendre Starkie, Huntroyde; T. Robinson, Nottingham; and W. Robinson, Forton.

IMPLEMENT SECTION.

The exhibition of implements and machinery was again most comprehensive, and but for the paralysing effects of the prolonged strike would, doubtless, have been considerably larger. Of the single new implements, entered by makers, three received silver medal awards. Messrs. Barford & Perkins' sterilising and washing outfit, described by the judges as "the best labour-saving machine we have ever seen," consisted of a boiler, sterilising chest, bottle rinser, and single washing trough. The washer is driven by steam at 5 lb. pressure, and works the brush at over 1,000 revolutions per minute. Messrs. Miller & Co.'s new milk truck is a compact conveyance, with rubber-tyred wheels and removable side boxes, and has a length of body of 36in., and a height of 34in. It has a carrying capacity for 100 pint bottles, and, if desired, to convey milk in bulk, will accommodate two 10-gallon cans and 36 pint bottles or one 10-gallon kit and 68 pint bottles. A sugar-beet lifting attachment for two-horse ploughs, introduced by Messrs. Ransomes, Sims, & Jefferies, Ltd., also won the approbation of the judges, and one of the silver medals. For collection of agricultural implements, manufactured by the exhibitors, the Gold Medal went to Messrs. Harrison, McGregor & Co., Ltd., Leigh, and similar distinctions were received by Mr. Harry Taylor, Bury, for collections of dairy utensils; and to Mr. J. E. Draper, Blackburn, for collections of utility poultry-houses and appliances.

HORSE-SHOEING COMPETITIONS.

The horse-shoeing competitions again provided a fascinating feature of the Show for thousands of visitors. There were capital entries in the various classes, the record being very nearly approached; the work done in the more important competition was stated never to have been excelled, and the arrangements throughout were perfect. Greatly missed, however, was the presence of Mr. George Hardman, of Preston, the organiser and founder of these competitions in Lancashire, whose absence was due to serious illness. The smithy was stated by competitors to be the best they had worked in at any showground. Mr. John Whittaker, a valued member of the Council, was senior steward of this Department, as well as of Implements. Mr. R. Robertson, F.W.C.F., of Oldham, made a worthy successor to Mr. Hardman, as organising steward, and he had the assistance of Messrs. John Edwards, R.S.S., Manchester; W. Smith, R.S.S., Halifax; R. Baldwin, R.S.S., Preston; H. Barker, R.S.S. Timperley; F. Bowman, F.W.C.F., and H. S. Wallbank, Burnley.

In the first day's contest, in which 50 minutes were allowed to shoe one foot and make an iron shoe with heel for cart horses for agricultural purposes, the competitors included some of the best smiths in the country, and it was a striking performance on the part of Roger Wilson, of Clitheroe, to secure premier honours. John Tomlinson, Leeds; Charles Perkins, Stoke; and D. E. Tuke, of Tosside, secured the other awards in the order named, and followed so closely that a point had to be split to separate the last-named trio.

On the second day one foot had to be shod, and a hind shoe, heel and feather fullered, to be made for carriage horses. Again the quality of the work was so uniform that there was no little trouble in separating the prize winners. In this class, V. Stevens, of Fleet, Hants, scored almost full points, and another

South countryman was runner-up in W. L. Medland, of Reading, Arthur Thomas, Carmarthan, was third, and D. E. Tuke again just managed to get into the prize money.

On Saturday the championships were decided. In the contest for light shoe-making, limited to members of the M.N.F.A., or Workmen's Societies situated in Lancashire, D. E. Tuke added to many wins; C. Perkins, Hendon, Stoke-on-Trent, was a close second, and J. Wilson, of Clitheroe, third; H. Holland, Oldham, and R. Wilson, Clitheroe, took the remaining cards in the class.

The individual champion prize for the highest number of points went to D. E. Tuke, and W. L. Midland was reserve. The distinction of winning the Inter-County Shoeing Competition went to the Carmarthan team, who were followed by the Lancashire "A" and Reading teams. On the same day there was also a class contest for Surgical Shoe-making, and this resulted as follows: First, A. Thomas, Carmarthan; Second, D. E. Tuke; Third, W. L. Medland; and fourth, J. Kettell, Stoke.

The Local contest on the concluding day created great interest, and resulted:—First, Samuel Collinson, Burnley; Second, B. Hollins, Nelson, Third, A. Middlesbrough, Brierfield. A Silver Medal for the best "Novice" in the class went to John Pate, a young Burnley smith.

VILLAGE INDUSTRIES AND WOMEN'S INSTITUTES.

The village industries section was again of fascinating interest. There were demonstrations of several forms of rural crafts, and a large number of entries in the section for ornamental and utilitarian goods, many of which represent leisure hour occupations in country homes. The Society, also apart from other forms of encouragement, gave every facility for the sale of goods. As chief steward, valuable service was rendered in this department by Sir Philip Lane, the Chief Constable of Lancashire, whose death, after a short illness, in April last, came as a great shock to the whole county.

The women's institute movement is firmly planted in Lancashire, and has done much to add to the amenities of rural life. This year the County Federation had a most interesting section at the Show. They had arranged a series of competitions to test the skill of the country women in the multifarious tasks associated with home, farm, and garden, she is called upon to perform. A class that attracted much attention, by reason of its novelty and usefulness, was that for the best dinner parcel for a child at school, and limited to mothers of children attending school. The value of the contents of the basket had not to exceed 9d., the commendable object being to bring to public notice the most nutritious meal within the cost stated. Dr. Cronk, Medical Officer for one of the Manchester areas, who was the adjudicator, gave the first prize to the basket which contained the following:— Cold chicken and brown bread and butter sandwich, 4d. ; lettuce and tomato brown bread sandwich with salad oil dressing, 1½d. ; banana, 1d. ; and milk, 1½d.

LANCASHIRE FARMERS' DAY.

As usual, the Show reopened on Bank Holiday with new features of local as well as general interest. In the cattle section the Halsall Cup for the best cow or heifer was won by Mr. J. Charnley's (Glasson Dock) Daisy, and with the same animal, Mr. Charnley also claimed for the second year, and made his own property the James Edward and Norman Milne Renshaw Challenge Cup for the best non-pedigree dairy cow or heifer, the property of a Lancashire resident dependent on farming. The junior championship for Shires was secured for the second successive year by Mr. T. Stuart's (Lytham) White Meadow Memory, which later beat the senior cup winner, Mr. Newhouse's Ancliffe Winnie, for the supreme county championship. As recorded elsewhere, Mr. J. W. Warburton's Cæsar beat Alkrington Champion for the open gelding championship.

In the district classes for cattle, there were numerous fresh entrants; but most of the leading honours, as will be seen from the prize list elsewhere, went to animals that had figured in earlier contests. The local classes for sheep were limited to Lonks and Gritstones, both of which made meritorious displays. The Dog Show was one of the best in the history of the Society.

In Memoriam

(Died 6th August, 1926).

Not very long had last year's Show been concluded when the sad news was announced that Mr. R. A. Tatton, D.L.—on a portion of whose Burnley Estate the Show ground was situated—had passed away. It is, of course, as President of the Society for the great Preston Guild Show of 1922 that Mr. Tatton will chiefly be remembered, but his generous interest in the Society's welfare was manifested in less prominent ways on many other occasions.

Mr. Tatton inherited in 1906 the Astley and Cuerden Estates, which, together with the estate at Burnley just referred to, formed the Towneley-Parker Estate. He entered largely into the life of the county, and in addition to being a J.P. and D.L., was High Sheriff in 1910. He was a member of the Ribble Fishery Board, and of the Board of Governors of Rossall College. He was also a member of the Hulme Trust and of the Weaver Navigation Board in Cheshire.

Mr. Tatton was the first President of the now defunct Bamber Bridge Agricultural Society, and on the occasion of the first annual show threw open the grounds of Cuerden Hall to the Committee, and gave substantial monetary support.

He was well known in the Chorley district as the donor to the town in 1909 of the Tatton Recreation Ground, and in 1922 he also presented Astley Hall, together with much of the valuable antique furniture it contained and the immediately surrounding grounds, to serve as part of the town's War Memorial.

Mr. Tatton's grandfather—Mr. Robert Towneley-Parker, of Cuerden—was Guild Mayor of Preston for the Guild of 1862, and an earlier representative of the family was also Guild Mayor exactly a century before that, viz., in 1762.

COLONEL W. A. INCE-ANDERTON, J.P.

(Died 29th August, 1926).

In Colonel Ince-Anderton, of Euxton Hall, the Society lost a Vice-President of long standing, who seldom missed its annual Shows. For many years the Andertons have been squires of Euxton, and the late Colonel was one of the most beloved and respected of his line. He was closely identified with the public life of the Chorley district. In 1897 he was appointed a Justice of the Peace, and from 1914 up to the time of his death he was a member of the Chorley Rural District Council and of the Board of Guardians. He was Chairman of the County Standing Joint Committee, and Vice-Chairman of the Chorley Union Assessment Committee.

MR. PERCY J. HIBBERT, D.L., G.C.

(Died 29th September, 1926).

Mr. Percy J. Hibbert, D.L., of Hampsfield, was closely connected by family tradition and personal association with the public life of Lancashire. He was the eldest son of the late Right Hon. Sir J. T. Hibbert, K.C.B., first Chairman of the Lancashire County Council. He himself sat on the County Council as elected representative for Cartmel Division, and was Chairman of Lancaster Quarter Sessions. Mr. Hibbert was ever proud of being a Lancashire man, and to work for the benefit of his County was one of his greatest pleasures. Whenever possible he attended the Society's Annual Meetings, and presided on a recent occasion.

THE RT. HON. LORD EMMOTT, G.C.M.G.

(Died 13th December, 1926).

When, in 1921, the Society took its Annual Show to Oldham, it appointed as President for the year one who by early associations, business ties, and distinguished public services—all closely identified with that town—was fitted in a pre-eminent degree for the position.

Although this was the first occasion on which Lord Emmott came into contact with the Society and its work, he entered with great zeal and ability into the duties of his office, which included the reception and entertainment in the Show Yard of H.R.H. Prince Henry.

Lord Emmott was a well known personality in the Lancashire cotton trade, having been Chairman of Emmotts & Wallshaw, Ltd., the Oldham firm of cotton spinners. Like many other successful Members of Parliament, he began his public life in the Town Council of his native borough. In 1891-2 he held the office of Mayor. For many years he was a Vice-President of the Oldham Chamber of Commerce; he also took a prominent part in the proceedings of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and of the Associated Chamber of Commerce. In Oldham, as was shown by his return always at the head of the poll, his services were well recognised.

He first entered Parliament as the result of a double by-election in 1899, when the two Oldham seats were captured from the Conservatives, the defeated candidates including Mr. Churchill.

In 1911 he was given a peerage on his appointment as Under Secretary for the Colonies. He had been chosen Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, and Deputy-Speaker, in 1906. On the outbreak of war he became First Commissioner of Works, and nine months later was appointed director of the War Trade Department.

ALDERMAN JOHN LEA, J.P.

(Died 26th January, 1927).

The death of Alderman John Lea, J.P., of Liverpool, on the 26th January last, removed from the roll of the surviving Honorary Life Vice-Presidents one whose name had appeared thereon ever since 1905.

The distinction was conferred upon him at the Annual Meeting of that year in recognition of the eminent services he rendered to the Society in connection with its visit to Liverpool during his period of office as Lord Mayor. In acknowledging the honour, Alderman Lea remarked that there were certain days in his official year which most naturally stood out prominently in his mind. One of these was the August Bank Holiday when the Society had a record attendance. From the very first he recognised that in these shows there was a great tendency for good, and that the Society, whilst rendering noble service to agriculture, was conferring benefits on the County and the country at large.

Alderman Lea, who was 76 at the time of his death, had completed forty years of public service. He first entered the Liverpool City Council in 1890, and one of the most important of the municipal positions he filled was that of Chairman of the Arts and Exhibition Sub-Committee, the body responsible for the management of the Walker Art Gallery and its periodic exhibitions.

MR. JOHN TOULMIN, J.P.

(Died 27th January, 1927).

Agriculture in Lancashire, and particularly in the Northern portion, has lost one of its best friends in the person of Mr. John Toulmin, J.P., senior proprietor of "The Preston Guardian."

It was largely through his influence—the outcome of an innate love of farming and stock-breeding—that those agricultural features were developed for which this important journal is so widely known. His support was enthusiastically given to movements for the advancement of stock-breeding and husbandry, and in two particular directions of great interest to Lancashire, viz., cheese-making and poultry farming, he employed the medium of his paper for propaganda efforts which have since borne good fruit.

In 1893 the strong advocacy he gave through the resources of his journal to the proposed reconstitution of the Royal Manchester, Liverpool and North Lancashire Agricultural Society had most opportune and valuable results, and his personal interest in the Society's work never flagged. For twenty years he was a Vice-President and generous helper. His kindly presence will be missed at many shows, apart from the County Exhibition; and a large number of philanthropic efforts will miss the deep personal interest he took in their welfare.

SIR PHILIP LANE, C.B.E., M.V.O.

Chief Constable of Lancashire.

(Died 24th April, 1927).

Lamentably long as is the "In Memoriam" list in this volume, it becomes necessary on the eve of going to press to pay sorrowing tribute to the memory of yet another Vice-President. Only for the past two Annual Shows had Sir Philip Lane become actively connected with its work, but during that short period such was the vigour he infused into his department (the Village Industries) and so imbued did he become with the spirit of enthusiasm for Show service, that it is difficult to express what his untimely death means to the Society. What it means to the county as a whole has been testified to in the gracious message of condolence sent by His Majesty The King, and the utterances of many public leaders, and all who ever came into touch with Sir Philip will affirm that not one word in these tributes was unmerited. He had a wonderful charm of personality, bred of an innate courtesy and good-will. To this was added a rare tactfulness, which proved of the greatest value in the Senior Steward's position he filled. To collaborate with him in the arrangements for his section was the pleasantest of tasks, so anxious was he not to add to the worries of others at busy periods, and so resourceful in dealing with any difficulties that arose.

Such personal service as his is of inestimable value to any voluntary organisation, and the sense of deprivation caused by Sir Philip Lane's unexpected death is a very real one for the Society's Council and Officials. His official record may well stand as an example of how it is possible for firmness and efficiency to be combined with qualities which inspire affectionate loyalty, and by this means to draw forth the results most beneficial to the common weal.

Twenty-eight Cows. Young, serviceable cattle, on very high farm. Dairy arrangements good and clean.

We beg to express our appreciation, as the Judges, of the generosity of the donor of the prizes we have awarded.

In our opinion the prize offer is beneficial not only to the winners and competitors, but also to the general public, as it encourages clean milk, clean shippens, and good cattle.

Our thanks are due to all the competitors for the way in which they received us and showed us round.

Holderness, W. F. Moorhouse, E. Fisher Peat, Alfred Peck, R. G. Radcliffe, Hugh Sharrock, John Sanderson, Matthew Tomlinson, Livsey Tong, M.D., James Wilson, and E. P. Widdowson.

A letter was read from Sir George J. Thursby, Bart. (President), expressing great regret at his inability to be present, and sincere thanks for the unfailing kindness and help extended to himself by the Members. Other letters of apology were sent by Sir James Paton, Messrs. Alex. Foster, J.P., A. E. Jacob, M.P., Robert Parkinson, J.P., A. E. Fair, J.P., C.A., Gerald Garnett, T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S., George Mather, J.P., J. O. Platt, M.R.C.V.S., Edmond Whinnerah, John Whittaker, R. J. M. Wilson, Alfred Smetham (Society's Consulting Analytical Chemist), Walter Atkinson, F.C.A., and C. E. Linaker, Jun., F.A.I.

Alderman H. Astley-Bell, on taking the chair, said he did not claim anything in the way of special agricultural knowledge, but it appeared to him that full advantage was not always taken of the enormous amount of scientific knowledge that was being disseminated from the research stations that were at work in different parts of the country. In the present depression in agriculture the influence of outside competition was a serious factor. Some figures issued by the Board of Agriculture threw a light on the severe form of such competition. Last year the amount of beef and veal imported into Smithfield Market from a foreign source amounted to 83.9%, mutton and lamb 79½%, pork 75%, butter and cheese 47.8%, and eggs no less than 65%. Such competition was not likely to lose its intensity as the years went by, and the question was how the agricultural farming class was going to meet it. To his mind it could only be met effectually by making full use of the knowledge about which he had spoken—the kind of knowledge which resulted from the laborious and efficient work of stations like Rothamsted, Woburn, Reading, Aberystwyth, Leeds, and their own Victoria University of Manchester. Another matter he would like to refer to was co-operation, the principles of which he was convinced would have to be more fully realized by agriculturists.

In referring to the membership of the Society he thought that the present total of 2,845 was insufficient and, indeed, relatively insignificant when they compared it with the vast area, as regarded population and importance, over which its operations spread. It was true the membership was 100 more than last year, but only 35 of an increase compared with 1922. Perhaps, some would say that 1922 was an exceptional year considering that it was Guild year in Preston, during which they achieved records which they could not expect to surpass. The fact remained, that the membership only showed from year to year a slight increase, and he had been wondering whether it was not possible to elicit a sympathy and support from a larger body of men in whose interests they were working. Would it be possible to devote more energy in that direction on the occasion of their Annual Show? He would suggest that they should try the experiment at Bolton, next year, of detailing somebody whose special function it would be to solicit Members by personal canvas, or other means, such service, if necessary, to be paid for. If they were going to wait until Members were inclined to join he was afraid they would not make great progress. Members also might help by asking their friends and acquaintances to join the Society. He was sure the return they would get would more than compensate them for any trouble or expense they might incur. (Hear, hear.)

ELECTION OF MEMBERS OF COUNCIL.

The vacancies on the Council were filled without a contest, the nominations not exceeding the number of seats. In the Northern Division Messrs. Wm. Dagger, J. Marcus Rea, Ernest Threlfall, and W. G. M. Townley (retiring Members) were re-elected. Eastern Division.—Messrs. W. H. Edge, H. M. Hardcastle, Joseph Kershaw, and E. A. Walker (retiring Members) were also re-elected. Western Division.—Messrs. Geo. G. Marsh, Jas. O. Platt, and R. J. M. Wilson retained office, and Major R. A. F. Freeman, Stanford, Roby, took the place of Mr. A. S. Robson, who did not seek re-election.

COUNCIL'S REPORT AND BALANCE SHEET.

Mr. Windham E. Hale (Chairman of the Council), in moving the adoption of the Report and Balance Sheet, said that after two disastrous years it was satisfactory to find that at Burnley they were received with the same spirit of cordiality as in their previous visit, and the local committee did all in their power to make the Show a success. If they took into consideration the fact that Burnley was, perhaps, harder hit than any other town in the county he thought the result achieved was excellent.

They were gratified by the fact that another member of the Thursby family was able to come forward as President, and he thought he did as much credit to the family as did Sir John on the previous occasion. (Hear, hear.) The Society recognised how much they owed to those people who took such an active interest in the welfare of the Show, and when they looked at the names of the Donors of Cups and Special Prizes he thought they had again every reason to congratulate themselves. The Society sustained many heavy losses, year by year, by death, and it was very desirable that others should come forward and carry on the work of those they had lost.

Next year they were going to Bolton, where a satisfactory site had been obtained. The ground was in their possession, the work of erection was already going on, and, given fine weather, they had every prospect of another successful show.

If they took to heart what the Chairman had said about increasing the membership the future prosperity of the Society should be assured. It was a serious time for agricultural societies, and it was the duty of those engaged in the industry to support them. There were 22,000 holdings in their area, and considering there were only between 600 and 700 farmers who were Members, he thought agriculturists were not giving the support to which the Society had a right to expect.

Mr. R. B. Neilson seconded, and the Report and Accounts were accepted.

DATES FOR THE BOLTON SHOW.

Mr. W. G. M. Towley moved that the dates for the next year's Show be Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Monday (Bank Holiday), July 28th, 29th, 30th, and August 1st. Mr. R. G. Radcliffe seconded, and the resolution was carried.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

Mr. E. G. Howsain moved that the Right Hon. Lady Beaumont should be elected President for the ensuing year. He thought that was a unique resolution because he believed it was the first time in the history of the Society they had ever asked a lady to be their President. They must recognise that the women of the country were stepping out into all branches of life, and there was no reason why they should not allow them to take their place in agriculture. (Hear, hear.) In fact, he thought that agriculture owed a great deal to the women for what they did when the men were taken from the land during the war. (Hear, hear.) They also recognised that in many branches of agriculture at the present day women were playing a prominent part, and he thought the thanks of the Society were due to no small extent to those people who supported them as exhibitors. Lady Beaumont was a large land owner in the Bolton district; in fact the site of the Show was on her estate; and he could assure them that if they elected her as President they would find her a lady of charming personality, and, he thought, they on their part could promise to make the position as easy and pleasant for Lady Beaumont as possible. (Hear, hear.)

In seconding, Mr. James Hamilton said he thought the election of a Lady President was a step in the right direction. Referring to what the Chairman had said, he hoped they would do all they could to increase their membership.

The resolution was carried with acclamation.

Mr. Windham Hale said that acting on the expressed wish of the Council he had got into communication with Lady Beaumont, who had expressed her willingness, if elected, to act as their President. (Hear, hear.) She had promised to do all she could to make the Show a success and to be present on at least the first two days of the Show. (Hear, hear.)

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE RETIRING PRESIDENT (SIR GEORGE J. THURSBY, BART.).

Mr. J. Marcus Rea, in moving a vote of thanks to the retiring President, said that the prophecies that were made when Sir George Thursby was elected had all been fulfilled, and the Society would, he thought, look back on his year of office as a red letter year in its history. (Hear, hear.) He thought one particular feature was the Herdsmen's and Grooms' Supper on the Saturday evening. On that occasion Sir George gave an extraordinarily interesting and instructive address, and everybody present was greatly impressed. He believed they would have beaten the old one-day record established at Burnley in 1913, of an attendance of 53,000 people, if conditions in the country had been more favourable.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. Francis Ellis and unanimously carried.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE BURNLEY LOCAL COMMITTEE AND HON. OFFICIALS.

Mr. S. H. Renshaw moved a vote of thanks to the Burnley Local Committee and the Honorary Officials, whose enthusiasm did so much to make the Show a success. The Speaker referred to the increasing difficulty they experienced in finding suitable sites in connection with their Show in the large centres of population owing to the development of housing schemes. He wished other towns would follow the example of Preston and provide them with a Moor Park, which, no matter how the town might develop, was always there for recreation and pleasure, and provided them with an ideal site for their Exhibition. (Hear, hear.) The resolution, which was seconded by Major Gaskell, was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICIALS.

Mr. John Hammill, Auditor; Mr. Alfred Smetham, Consulting Analytical Chemist; and Mr. T. Eaton Jones, F.R.C.V.S., Hon. Consulting Veterinary Surgeon, were unanimously re-elected to their respective offices.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The duties of fixing the approximate sum to be offered in prizes, and the revision of Rules and Prize List, were deputed to the Prize List Committee.

Mr. R. Harrison, making reference to the Prize List, said that in the Cattle and Herd Classes for Farmers the prize money only amounted to £170 as against £566 for Hunters, Harness Horses, and Hackneys, and, he believed, that was the chief reasons why the farmers did not give the Society stronger support in membership. There used to be an agricultural class for horses as distinct from Shires, and he thought it ought to be revived. The horse they were concerned with was the useful, economical horse, which was adapted for the land rather than taking loads round the town. He also suggested that the Committee might take into consideration the time-table of the Show with a view to making it more attractive to the outside visitor. The two features of special interest were the Parades and Jumping, and the latter was usually the last item of the day. He thought that if they could arrange that the Jumping should take place immediately following the Parades it would be better. By having it at the end they had a rush for conveyances to get away immediately after, and, he thought, the Committee would be wise to consider the point.

The Chairman said the Council welcomed suggestions, particularly from the practical men in the industry.

TO THE ANNUAL MEETING OF MEMBERS, 1926.

The Council have pleasure in congratulating Members on the satisfactory character of the Balance Sheet presented to-day. Following as it does upon two adverse seasons, and resembling in this respect the occasion on which the Society previously visited Burnley, the past year's result is particularly encouraging. It is remarkable how many other points of similarity are apparent between the 1926 and the 1913 visits, including the brilliance of the Showtime weather, smooth running of the programme, high pitch of local enthusiasm, and the animated turnstile and ringside scenes on the popular afternoons. So manifest was the general desire to eclipse former records that there is little doubt that, had industrial conditions been normal, Burnley would again, as in 1913, have left all previous turnstile figures behind. As it was, the town (which still, with its 1913 record, heads the list for the greatest single-day paying attendance), also gained this year third highest position on the same list with its Saturday attendance of 49,239, and likewise fourth highest position as regards aggregate admissions with its present-year total of 100,683.

The warmth of the local welcome was further expressed in very tangible form by the sum of £3,672. 18s. 7d. which the Local Committee handed over to the Society as a contribution towards the expenses of the Show. Under the Chairmanship of the Mayor (Councillor James Sutcliffe), with Alderman Roger Hargreaves, J.P., in the Vice-Chair, this Local Executive displayed a very active interest in all the preparations. The Town Clerk (Mr. Colin Campbell) filled the office of Local Hon. Secretary, the Deputy Town Clerk (Mr. A. W. Forsdike) that of Assistant Hon. Secretary, and the Joint Hon. Treasurers of the Local Fund were Mr. W. D. Flack, J.P., and the Borough Treasurer (Mr. W. A. Walker). To all the gentlemen just named the Society's warm thanks are due for the leading parts they took in so gratifying a local achievement.

That close identification of the Thursby family with the Society's visits to Burnley, which in 1913 was such a noteworthy feature, was renewed this year by Sir George and Lady Thursby, who devoted themselves most wholeheartedly to the Presidential functions of the Show. Your Council will always look back with pleasure upon Sir George Thursby's year of office; no one could have evinced a deeper interest in the whole programme of events or have displayed more zeal for the success of the exhibition.

The site occupied was, with slight modifications, the one on Colne Road made use of in 1913, and it again proved—despite its irregularity of contour—well adapted for the disposition of the Show departments. The best thanks of the Society are due to the Burnley Corporation for procuring this land for the purpose, as well as for the many ways in which they assisted your Council to effect necessary improvements and facilities. The Corporation of Nelson also placed the Society under obligation in connection with the water supply to a portion of the Show Ground.

The total of cash prizes awarded (irrespective of Gold and Silver Medals, Plate, and Challenge Cups) was £4,226. The Prize List Committee were materially assisted to maintain this at so high a standard by the generosity of the following donors of special contributions:—

The President (Sir George J. Thursby, Bart.), cash prizes for Herdsmen and Grooms.

DONORS OF CUPS AND PLATE:—The Right Hon. The Earl of Derby, K.G., G.C.B. (renewal of the "Derby" £50 Challenge Cup for Shorthorn Bulls); Mr. S. H. Renshaw, O.B.E. (30gns. Challenge Bowl for British Friesian Bulls); Mr. Arnold Gillett (valuable Challenge Cup for Blue Albion Cattle); and Mr. T. E. Clarke (Challenge Cup for Wensleydale Sheep.)

DONORS OF SILVER CUPS (to be won outright):—Mr. Edmund Berry (Shorthorns); Mr. Edward Bohane, C.B.E. (Dairy Cattle); Colonel H. M. Hardcastle, J.P., T.D., D.L. (Children's Riding Classes); Mr. Theo. Hignett (for Girl Riders); and Sir Amos Nelson, J.P. (Dog Section).

DONORS OF CASH PRIZES:—(For the Light Horse Section): Mr. Fred Cornall, Mr. Francis Ellis, F.S.I., Mr. A. R. Fish, J.P., Colonel H. M. Hardcastle, J.P., Mr. Theo. Hignett, Mr. Edward Hollingworth, C.B.E., Mr. A. E. Jacob, M.P., Dr. E. S. Jackson, M.B.E., Mr. J. W. Kenworthy, J.P., Mr. T. A. Longworth, Mr. Myles N. Kenyon, Mr. Wm. S. Miller, Mrs. Mucklow, Mr. W. F. Neilson, Mr. H. L. Storey, and the late Mr. John Taylor, Oldham, Mr. Alfred Smetham, F.C.S. (for Lancashire Cheese); Mr. E. G. Hotherhall, J.P., F.A.I. (for Pairs of Dairy Cows); Mr. G. W. Isherwood (for Wensleydale Lambs); two anonymous donors (one of £25. and one of £20.); the Liverpool May Parade Committee; the Royal Botanical and Horticultural Society of Manchester and Northern Counties; the Lancashire County Milk Recording Society; and numerous Breed Associations.

DONORS OF PRIZE MONEY UNDER GUARANTEES:—Mrs. E. H. Q. Henriques (Harness Ponies); and a large number of private guarantors and Breed Clubs in the Dog, Poultry, and Rabbit Sections of the Show.

Prize Competitions were organised this year for Best-Managed Herds of Dairy Cattle kept within the district visited by the Show, the prizes being generously provided by Mr. W. Harry Hartley, of Fence. Messrs. W. H. Edge and George G. Marsh were appointed as the Judges, and deserve the Society's best thanks for their valuable honorary services. Their awards were given to the following:—

CLASS "A." (HERDS COMPRISING OVER 15 IN NUMBER):—First: Arthur Holgate (Sawley & Moreton Farms, Ltd.), Park Head Farm, Whalley; Second: James Crook, Shuttleworth Hall, Hapton; Third: Charles Lambert, Ashlar House, Fence, near Burnley; Reserve: J. Stansfield, Cockden, Briercliffe; V.H.C.: James Westall, Coppy Farm, Townley.

CLASS "B." (HERDS NOT EXCEEDING 15 IN NUMBER):—First: Edward Blackburn, Cockden Farm, Briercliffe; Second: J. C. Waddington, Westwood, 482, Padiham Road, Burnley; Third: Enos Sharp, Spencer Fold, Fence; Reserve: Birtwistle & Fielding, Ltd., Belmont Farm, Great Harwood.

SPECIAL PRIZE FOR BEST-KEPT MILK RECORDED:—Messrs. Birtwistle & Fielding, Ltd. Reserve: J. C. Waddington.

The Lancashire County Council's Agricultural Committee again placed the Society under obligation by granting £25 towards the expenses of the Working Dairy and by providing cream for the Butter-making Competitions, poultry for the Trussing Competitions, and facilities in other connections. The Agricultural, Horticultural, and Nature Study exhibits, kindly arranged by the County Council, were again important and much-appreciated features of the educational side of the Show.

Divine Service was, as usual, conducted on the Show Ground on the Sunday in the Show period. The Lord Bishop of Burnley (Dr. Henn) preached the sermon, and a sum of £37 4s. 4d. collected at the entrance was divided between the Royal Victoria Hospital and the Thursby Nurses' Home.

Losses by death during the year which your Council have specially to deplore were those of Mr. R. A. Tatton, D.L. (President of the Society in 1922, and owner of the land on which the Burnley Show was held); Colonel Ince-Anderton and Mr. Percy J. Hibbert (both highly esteemed Vice-Presidents); and Mr. John Taylor, of Oldham (a representative of the Eastern Division on the Council and generous donor to the Special Prize Funds). Other supporters whose passing is regretted include Mr. Frank Lloyd (Wrexham) and Mr. Fredk. Jackson (Garstang).

Members removed from the Roll since the last Annual Meeting on account of death, resignation, or lapsing, number 123. New Members added during the year comprise 18 Vice-Presidents; 14 Life Members; and 188 Annual Members, bringing the total membership at date to 2345.

At the customary Meeting of Members during the Show a cordial invitation for next year's Exhibition was put forward on behalf of the Borough of Bolton by a deputation headed by His Worship the Mayor (Councillor Knott). This was unanimously accepted by the meeting. An excellent site has been acquired at Deane, situated nearer to Bolton than the 1920 ground, and there the Society's Works Department is already installed. Your Council recall with appreciation the great interest which the people of Bolton and district have always manifested in the Society, and have every confidence that the same enthusiasm will be displayed in connection with the coming visit. In common with all loyal citizens of the realm, your Council's earnest hope is that industrial peace and goodwill may speedily be restored to the country, and that the Show period, when it again comes round, may find a state of national prosperity in which agriculture may have its share.
